SAD LOSS OF LIFE AT THE SHOALS.

The British brig "A. Porter," Capt George Johnson, of Annapolis, Nova Scotia, left St. Martin's, West Indies, bound for Boston with a cargo of 7000 bushels of salt, on the 18th of February last. When three days out she put into St. Thomas, leaking; a survey was held, the brig pronounced seaworthy, and she proceeded on her voyage next day, Feb. 22d, having there shipped two extra men; from which time until March 26 she had a constant succession of heavy gales from all around the compass,—and was eleven days in making sixty miles, when north of Hatteras. On the 16th of March the crew had to go on short allowance of provisions, and on Sunday morning, the 26th, the last biscuit on board was eaten—and the last meal in this world, for nearly all the ship's company.

On Tuesday, the 21st, (the day of the great gale) they made Nantucket South Shoals, bearing heavily; on Saturday, the 25th, at 11 o'clock A. M., got an observation and saw the buoy on Cashe's ledge, recognized the buoy, and shaped a course for Cape Cod; at 8 o'clock, P. M., the wind freshening and hauling to the southward, hauled up two points to windward of the true course; at midnight, thinking they had run far enough, hove the vessel to under a reefed mainstaysail, with her head to the south and west. At six o'clock Sunday morning the lead was cast in twenty fathoms water, the vessel then heading westsouthwest, the wind blowing a strong gale from the southward and canting gradually to the westward; supposing the vessel, from courses steered and distances run, to be off the head of Cape Cod, wore ship and made sail, setting lower-topsail, middle-staysail and foretopmast-staysail, the brig heading east-southeast; fog thick, sea very heavy and gale strong; at about 8 o'clock saw breakers close aboard under the lee and nearly astern, and almost at the same moment saw White Island lighthouse, at the Shoals, on the lee bow, and found the brig hopelessly involved unless she could be run through the comparatively smooth water on the rocky bar which connects the highest point of White Island Ledge with the island itself,—the brig not being able to weather the island as she was heading, nor the high point of the ledge even had she been on the other tack. The helm was put up, the jib set, and the brig headed for the point where the break was lightest, about halfway between the island and the outermost point of the ledge, the order to square away the yards being given at the same time; but there not being water enough to take her over she struck heavily aft, a tremendous sea at the same instant breaking over her, tearing away her quarter, demolishing the steering gear, carrying away the boat and sweeping overboard the five men who were at the braces squaring the yards, viz.: John Lietch, steward, of Annapolis; George Watt, Burkitt Fowler and James McGarvey, of Annapolis, and Arthur Power of Australia, seamen; the same sea drove the vessel over the ledge into deep water, and threw the captain violently against the cabin door, injuring him so that he was instantly covered with blood and made almost insensible; the second mate, William Johnson, (the captain's brother,) was also badly hurt, and William Cropley, the only remaining seaman, torn from his hold on the pump-brake with a piece of the broken brake in his hands. The chief mate, Mr. Daniel Lynch, who was forward conning the brig for the deepest water over the ledge when she struck, grasped the topsail sheets when the sea came on board, and, aided by the shelter of the foremast, managed to keep his hold until the vessel was over the reef.

In a few minutes after passing over the ledge the disabled brig again struck, this time on a ledge which runs out from the southwest side of "Lunging" Island, where she stuck fast, the sea making a clean breach over her. The second sea which boarded her after striking the last time swept away the second mate, who was not afterward seen. The captain, mate and remaining seaman climbed to the high side of the vessel and got out upon the rocks, (at that point just out of water,) clinging to the braces and partially protected by the wreck from the full force of the sea; but between where they were and the high part of the island the rocks were entirely under water, which they had to pass through to reach safety, as it was evident they could not cling to the reef after the brig broke up, which she was fast doing, and the tide was also rising. A brief consultation was held as to the best method of getting on shore, the mate insisting that to take the longest distance (across the cove made by the ledge they were on and another), with the surf, was the safest course, the captain and Cropley preferring to try the shorter cut against the surf. The mate started alone, wading until taken off his feet by the sea (which happened twice) and then swimming, and each time was fortunately carried within grasping distance of a rock to which he clung and thereby escaped being carried out by the undertow. On reaching the shore he saw the other men still on the rocks alongside the wreck, clinging to the braces. He then proceeded toward the house of Mr. Thomas Leigh, in the centre of the island, and entered, finding no one there, the island being unoccupied, the captain and his companion still remaining beside the wreck; a few moments later Mr. Lynch again looked and they had disappeared—whether carried away in attempting to run the gauntlet of the surf or washed away from their foothold beside the brig he cannot tell. They were not seen afterward.

Mr. Lynch was utterly exhausted and benumbed with cold when he entered the house, and eagarly searched for materials to make a fire; wood he easily found, also a barrel of pickled herring, a cistern of good water and a bit of biscuit, which latter he eagerly devoured; but no matches. After a long search, and when about to give it up, he lifted a loose board in the floor and found two matches, doubtless dropped through a crack long ago; the first one missed, but the other struck fire and he soon had a cheerful blaze going. As he could do nothing outside he sat by the fire for some time, until roused by the entrance of Mr. Reuben Puffer, (overseer for Mr. John R. Poor at Star Island,) who with four men had faced the heavy sea between the islands to render aid if possible, the plucky party arriving at about 1 o'clock P. M. Mr. Lynch was taken to Star Island and kindly cared for by Mr. Puffer, of whom he speaks in the warmest terms of gratitude; and on Monday he came in to this city, utterly destitute of course, and reported at the custom house.

The brig went entirely to pieces in about half an hour after striking the last time; she was about 177 tons, English measurement, was built at Annapolis, at a cost of about $11,000, and launched in November, 1873; and so far as Mr. Lynch knows was uninsured. All the crew belonged in Annapolis, with two exceptions,—Wm. Cropley, a native of Boston, and Arthur Power, a native of Australia. The captain leaves a wife and four children, the steward a wife and two children; the rest of the crew were unmarried. A married sister of the captain's lives in Newburyport, Mass.

The schooner "Sarah Ann," commanded and owned by J. C. Rollins of Northport, Maine, bound East, light, was driven ashore a little to the westward of York Harbor, about two o'clock Sunday morning, during the severe storm. Vessel total loss; crew saved.

It was rumored on Monday that two vessels were seen off York harbor, on Sunday, one bottom-up and the other dismasted, and that a third craft was ashore on Duck island, at the Shoals; but the rumors have not as yet been confirmed, and we hope they will not be. Probably the report of a vessel ashore on Duck island arose from the wreck of the brig A. Porter on White island ledge.

Reform Club Notes.

The Club meeting at the Temple, Sunday evening, was attended by an immense throng, $56.95 being contributed at the door in sums of five cents each, which gives over 1100 as the number of persons who paid to enter; probably not less than 1500 people were present, in all. President John S. Treat, of the Reform Club, made an earnest and appropriate address, and evidently wearies not in the good work; he brought an up-hill fight against King Alcohol for a long time, and came near being "licked" by him more than once; and now, having got the old despot down, he proposes to sit on him and keep him there. Other members of the club spoke, and spoke earnestly and well.

The event of the evening was the presentation, by the Woman's Temperance League, of a handsome flag to the crew of the fishing schooner Velocipede, Capt. Jamieson, of this port,—the second fishing crew to sign the pledge of the Reform Club in a body. Mr. James Steele, one of the crew, responded in an impromptu speech which is pronounced by those who heard it to have been one of the best among the very many good ones the Reform movement has given rise to.

At the close of the meeting over seventy persons signed the pledge-book of the club, which now bears over a thousand and sixty names. We understand the plan is to enrol eleven hundred persons in the First Temperance Regiment, so that its actual strength will not go below a thousand even if some of its members should straggle or be captured by the enemy, and then commence enlisting for the Second Regiment. The Club is doing a noble work, and we hope will continue until almost every person in the city is an active, working member, and the hundreds of reformed men who have entered its ranks are all solidly-grounded in total abstinence.

Before the election many of the reform movement's well wishers feared election day would "get away with" the good resolutions of many members of the Club,—a fear in which we shared; but it is agreed on all hands that the last election, notwithstanding the extra political excitement, was the quietest and most orderly one held in this city for many years, and with the least drunkenness visible. Some few members did forget or ignore their pledge, but not many; and of those who did fall the larger number are on their feet again, as upright and temperate men,—as is proper, for there is no reason why a man should lie flat on his back forever, just because he has slipped up once.

A large delegation of the Reform Club attended the North church Sunday afternoon, by special invitation, to listen to an address by Rev. Carlos Martyn on "Alcohol." The church was crowded.

Jottings.

During Lent, devout Episcopal ladies wear large crosses of cut jet suspended by a chain of the same, at the right side. The degree of inclination of the wearer toward extreme ritualism may be determined by the size of the cross.

The North Church clock has been taken down to be cleaned and repaired, and will not be in running order again for two or three days.

Among the latest patents is a convenient eye-glass holder, which may be appropriately worn by either sex, consisting of a small gold safety pin to be fastened at the waist to which is attached the spring that holds the eye-glass.

One hundred and thirty-four marriage certificates were granted in Portsmouth last year.

Mr. Wm. O. LeBaron, the late mate of the wrecked "Hattie Eaton," is progressing finely, under the care of Dr. Adams of Kittery Point.

The large and convenient, furniture warerooms of Messrs. Mendum, Whidden & Co., Nos. 1, 3, 5, 7 Washington street, corner Haymarket Square, Boston, are at present the centre of attraction for those in want of useful and ornamental furniture. Throughout the entire Winter, while so many were out of employment, this firm has kept busily employed a large force of competent workmen, and as the fruit of their labor now offer a line of goods of a quality and finish surpassed by none and at prices which create surprise. This is an opportunity which has never been equalled to add to household furniture both for convenience and use. Their stock is complete in every particular, nothing lacking. An hour can be spent profitably, in looking about the establishment, and Portsmouth people will always meet with a cordial and hearty welcome. A set of draperies just furnished by this house has excited much praise, and especial attention was attracted by the prices of the following mentioned goods: Handsome parlor suits, stuff black chairs, seven pieces, $30 and upwards; walnut chamber suits, $45 and upwards; ash chamber suits, $35 and upwards; bookcases, glass doors, $20 and upwards; parlor desks, $7.50 and upwards; hall stands, $3 to $200; spring beds, $1.50; sideboards $25 and upwards; walnut extension tables, $1.10 per foot.

Mr. B. P. Shillaber, who went lately to California, writes thence thus humorously: "Quoting the 'Duke's Motto,' 'I am here!' and having a big time. As the Queen of Sheba remarked, on a former occasion, one half had not been told me, but I am every day getting hold of the other half. I never had any idea what a fellow I was. I am feted and followed as though I were our modern Alexander—Grant. The weather has been bad since I have been here, but the grass is as green as in our June, and the flowers are elegant. I have not had a gouty twinge, and my health is excellent. I have to try hard to escape or evade some of the customs here, and I must say that when sometimes I am subjected to a pressure of temptation I fall, but not very far. The journey over the Plains was an immense affair. We were not interrupted a moment, but after we had passed a certain point down came an avalanche and the train following ours was blocked for four days. Lucky for us! I admire the people here. They are so broadly hospitable that I even forget the bad weather. It is pleasant to hear the chink of hard money, though I have not much use for it. All have been kind to me, but the editors have overdone it. They made me out the biggest man on the continent, and almost the oldest—one yesterday saying that I was 77 years old. Think of that, ye bald heads!"

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.25 for each dollar of liability) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

READING FOR CHILDREN.

OPINION OF CHAS. FRANCIS ADAMS.

A TRENCHANT EDITORIAL.

A CLERGYMAN'S OPINION.

WHAT YOU CAN GET FOR 5 DOLLARS.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS

Says, in a letter to the Quincy (Mass.) Patriot, that three-fourths of the books in brisk demand at the public libraries are "vapid and sensational." He thinks that our country ought to be ashamed of the use to which it is put in the choice of reading more than they do. The Newark Advertiser, in

A TRENCHANT EDITORIAL

On this subject, says: "A worse literature than that which is spread before the children of this country it would hardly be possible for the ends of morals to conceive or his hand to execute. It is even worse than an open advocacy of vice and intemperance, for that would carry its own antidote, while what we have excites, stimulates and debases the intellect, unfits it for healthy food, fills the imagination with gaudy and distorted pictures of life, and develops the passions at an age when they should be most under control. How much of the low moral tone of society is due to these satanic issues of the press we do not know; but, as a Tribune correspondent so effectually published as at its source, as we have a right to believe that the millions of these papers, devoured by curious and eager children, must influence to a large extent the long of thought and the drift of action of those whose plastic minds come under their influence."

The writer adds: "It may be somewhat unnecessary to state that we have no reference to the above to those monthly magazines for children, which are as healthful as they are beautiful. If all editors were as able, humane and devoted as Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge (who edits ST. NICHOLAS), there would be nothing to complain of. The New York Tribune says: "In

THE AVALANCHE OF IMMORAL LITERATURE

That threatens the children, some strong, vitally wholesome, and really attractive magazine is required for them, and ST. NICHOLAS has reached a higher platform, and commands the attention of wider audiences in arts and letters, than any of its predecessors or contemporaries."

A CLERGYMAN'S OPINION.

Rev. C. S. ROBINSON, D. D., in an article in the Sunday School Times on the subject, says of ST. NICHOLAS, SCRIBNER'S ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE for GIRLS AND BOYS: "A cleaner, purer, more trustworthy periodical for children cannot be named. It is even the ideal of all that is true and good, from beginning to end."

In order to place this magazine within the reach of all, the publishers offer to send the 14 numbers (Nov., '75, to Dec., '76) for $5.00.

Or, for $5.00, they will send the twelve numbers, beginning with Nov., '75, and the two bound volumes of ST. NICHOLAS for '74 or '75, the full price of which is $7.00. Or for $6.50 they will send ST. NICHOLAS as above, and both the bound volumes, the full price of which is $11.00.

Each of the volumes is complete in itself; they are by all odds not only the best, but the handsomest gift books for children ever issued.

The volumes contain more than 1,500 octavo pages, with nearly 1,000 illustrations; they have five splendid serials, besides shorter stories, historical and biographical papers, poems, sketches, rhymes, jingles, riddles, etc.; more than equal in contents to 20 volumes of ordinary children's books of 5,000 book pages costing $30.00!!

Two specimen numbers, with Prospectus for 1876 sent, postage paid, on receipt of Twenty-five Cents.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden. Cured by Two Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt incredulous about the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two others for them. I prepared one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I was so bad that I could not sleep. I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing excruciating pain in the back and loins, so unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, and have grown worse. Finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Received and taken them, and I feel like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change. I now feel that it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammatory Rheumatism, and I sent her some pills, with a box of your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they will be a blessing to the world, and those who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. I look upon it as a blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Extraordinary Elopement.

The denouement of an extraordinary elopement case took place on board the Allan steamer Moravian on Thursday last. In the afternoon the steamer was leaving the Mersey with a full complement of passengers for Portland. Just as she got underway, a river gig was seen approaching in all haste. In the bow of the boat was seen an aged man, who gesticulated frantically to those on board the steamer to stop. The boat got alongside the steamer, and in a short time two of its occupants—a man about sixty years of age and a young man of twenty-two clambered on board the Moravian. The officers were naturally surprised at seeing the steamer boarded in this fashion, but, noticing that the old man was in trouble, they received him courteously and listened to his tale, which was to the effect that his wife—a woman of forty-eight and the mother of grown-up children—had eloped with a young man of twenty-two; that they were on board the Moravian, en route for America; and the deserted husband and the son demanded that the captain should send the runaways on shore.

While the captain was explaining that the law gave him no such power, the runaway wife happened to pass along the deck near where the group were discussing the point. She recognized her husband. A fit of repentance seized her. She at once forgot her new love and only thought of the old. Exclaiming, "Oh, John are you here?" she embraced her husband and kissed him. Her son, too, she saluted in a most affectionate way. But while these preliminaries to a reconciliation were going on, the faithless wife's companion made his appearance on the scene, and placidly asked "what it was all about." The deserted husband implored his fickle spouse to return to her home in Wednesbury. This she consented to do, but made it a sine qua non that the companion of her flight should be allowed to return with her. The husband accepted the terms thus dictated. The master of the Moravian, seeing that an arrangement had been come to, facilitated the return to the shore of the troublesome party who had for a time disturbed the decorum observed on board his steamer. When the party arrived at the stage they were jeered by a crowd who had heard of the strange elopement and the wonderful reconciliation. Wife and husband walked arm in arm lovingly along the stage, and the "lover," as if to make atonement for his wrong doing, walked meekly behind, carrying the luggage.—Liverpool Mercury, 4th inst.

Street Etiquette.

The etiquette of the streets, says Harper's Bazar, may be disposed of in a few words. The privilege of recognition is generally conceded to the lady, and when she has made her salutation the gentleman responds by lifting his hat, and not merely touching the rim of it, unless, he desires to be flunky. If only one of two gentlemen in company be known and saluted by a lady both should bow. The converse of this, however, is not obligatory. Two ladies in company are not both called upon to bow to a gentleman who is known only to one.

A lady should rarely stop for, or be stopped in the street by a gentleman. The gentleman desirous of accosting a lady he may meet should turn and join her in walking; and the lady on the other hand, if the wish for the interview originates with her, should content herself with its expression by a gesture, without a full stop in the thronged street.

A gentleman walking with a young lady, unless she is related to him closely now or prospectively, does not offer his arm unless some sudden emergency may arise which would seem to indicate that its support or protection is required. The left arm is ordinarily given, with the obvious reason that the gentleman's right may be free for the defence he proffers. The sandwiching of a gentleman between two ladies has always an awkward look, and seems to be opposed to all fitness of things, by placing the man in his snug position apparently under the care of his female companions.

A gentleman may always leave another gentleman with whom he may be in company to join a lady, and the act justifies itself; but he ought not to quit his male companion for another of his own sex without giving at the moment, or soon after, a plausible excuse for it.

Although every gentleman should avoid officiousness of service to strange ladies—for example, handing them into a carriage, or offering them the side of the walk to which they are not entitled—he should be ready to give them a helping hand in the case of an emergency, to pick up whatever they may let fall, whether a pocket-handkerchief or a toddling child, and finish the service with a polite bow.

—"How is it, Mrs. Murray," said one lady to another, recently, as they had a comforting cup of tea together with half-a-dozen ruined reputations on buttered toast, "how is it, Mrs. Murray, that you always have such nice milk? If the cow herself told me that she gave it, it couldn't be better." "Mrs. Lomax, ma'am," replied the experienced matron, "I never keep the same milkman more than a month. He wants to secure customers, and so there is more cow in his milk than usual at first. Whenever his milk is such as not to enlist the best efforts of my cat, I change."

The Storm.

The storm of Saturday night and Sunday, which was so destructive on land, was also very severe at sea, and the marine disasters are numerous. In addition to those we have already reported we give the following:

The wreck of the schooner Harriet Newell, laden with coal, from Elizabeth, N. J., for Bath, was one of the saddest disasters of the late storm. The captain put in and anchored off Bluff Island Saturday night, but the violence of the gale was such that the schooner snapped her cables and went on the rocks at two o'clock Sunday morning, becoming a total wreck. The crew immediately set about saving their lives, and the first mate, John Doane of Brewer, Me., took a rope and swam ashore in a heavy sea, and succeeded in establishing a life-line, over which his comrades began to pass. This they accomplished with much difficulty, owing to the violence of the surf. The last person who passed over before it came to the captain's turn was a colored steward; and Captain Kent, fearing for his wife's safety, and unwilling to trust her to so perilous a trip, hesitated until it was too late. The sea came beating over the wreck and it soon became untenable. The captain's wife was washed overboard, and Captain Kent started to save her. They both disappeared, and when they came to the surface he was locked in her arms and was almost powerless. The next time they appeared the body of the lady was stiff in death, and the captain immediately struck out to save himself. He caught a piece of floating timber and on this succeeded in reaching a still larger one, on which he floated. But the tide being on the ebb, he drifted out to sea and was soon lost to view in the fog. There is no hope of his having escaped death, as he was benumbed with cold and almost completely exhausted. The survivors of the wreck were without food or a change of clothing, but they contrived to strike a match, having dried a few by great exertions, and a fire was started from some sprigs picked up on the island. Here the castaways stayed until Monday morning, when they were discovered by means of the fire and smoke, and rescued in a famishing condition, their only food being bird's eggs and some herbs. Another account says the men landed at daybreak and wished to rig a basket and haul Mrs. Kent ashore, but as the vessel lay easily on the rocks, the captain preferred to stick to her. When the tide rose the vessel pounded to pieces and the captain and his wife were lost. The Harriet Newell was 128 tons register, and owned in Boston. The survivors report that a brig, name unknown, was in company with them when they went ashore, and that they afterward found wreck stuff, and supposed she was wrecked.

Schooner E. E. Stimpson from New York, for Portland, with coal, was totally wrecked on Saturday night at Cape Porpoise, Me. Crew saved. The E. E. Stimpson was 123 tons register, built at Portland in 1868, and owned there.

Schooner Joseph O., of Gloucester, Mass., had a man named John O'Brien washed overboard and drowned on Sunday, while on Georges. Schooner Flash, of same port, lost her mate, Herbert Gorman, drowned on the passage from Newfoundland.

News and Notes.

The crew of schooner David Talbot, of Camden, Me., with the captain's wife and child, were taken off the schooner while sinking on the 20th. Fears had been entertained that the vessel had gone down with all on board.

Steamship Great Western has been totally lost near Fire Island Light. Loss on ship $175,000; on cargo $130,000. Insured in England. No lives lost.

The steamship Baltic had an exceedingly narrow escape from a collision with an immense iceberg in a dense fog on the banks of Newfoundland, last week.

The Cocheco Print Works at Dover will shut down April 1st for thirty days.

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Peterboro Railroad, held at Nashua Monday, the Directors were authorized to issue bonds to provide for their floating debt.

There are more white republicans in North Carolina, than in the entire South outside that State, combined. The people of that State are thoroughly sick of democratic misrule, and are anxious for the 7th of November to arrive, when they will see to it that the Old North State marches abreast with the sister States of the North to the music of the republican party.

The famous stallion Hambletonian died at Chester, N. Y., Sunday night, aged about 28 years.

Thomas Power, first officer of the American ship Marcia Greenleaf, has been tried in Liverpool for shooting two of the crew at sea on the 19th of January. He was acquitted, the shooting being declared justifiable.

Gov. Cheney and ex-Govs. Smyth, Straw and Stearns, of New Hampshire, with their families, left for a six weeks' trip to California, on Monday, having chartered the directors' car built for the Northern Pacific road, and now owned by the Old Colony road.

The following details of the loss of the emigrant ship Strathmore, from London for New Zealand, have been received. The Strathmore struck the rocks among the Crozet group of islands in the South Pacific on the 1st of July, at half-past 4 o'clock in the morning, and was wrecked immediately. Forty-four persons were drowned. The survivors saved nothing whatever, and subsisted themselves upon the rocks, for six months, upon sea birds and their eggs. When they were rescued, they were much emaciated and nearly naked. Five died from exposure and want. The captain of the American whaler Young Phœnix of New Bedford, rescued them, supplied them with clothing and treated them with great kindness.

You can't imagine the wild delight with which the news of the glorious triumph in New Hampshire was received by the republicans of New York. If there is any one thing that the New York republican dreads, as a business man, and aside from any political feeling, it is the return of the democracy to power, for it means to him the old Tweed rule, which is another name for ruin. The sentiment of the republicans of the city was well expressed by a prominent business man at the Union League club. "The election and the victory," said he, "is not an endorsement of Belknap and the thieves—it is a verdict that the republican party is not responsible for the acts of a few corrupt men." And speaking of this election, it is singular how it tears into the independents. The Tribune has awakened to the fact that the republican party is the only one that ever did any investigation in its own ranks, and the only one that ever punished its own thieves. It really seemed to feel good over the republican triumph in the Granite State, and reads more as it used to before Horace Greeley went insane than it has for years. It would not be singular if the Tribune should go back into the republican fold, and be a power in the party once more.—Cor. Merrimack Jour.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 133.

By Uncle Joseph.

In the last paper under this heading an account was given of a Provincial Congress held at Exeter in April, 1775. It closed in May. A new one was chosen. Whiton says it was at the request of the Committee of Correspondence, and that one hundred and two towns were represented. A list of them and the delegates is at hand. As in some cases, two or more towns were united in choosing a delegate; the number of places represented was ninety-six, and the number of delegates one hundred and thirty-three. It was the largest deliberative body that, up to that time, had assembled in the Province. Some called by Gov. John Wentworth had not been fair representations, as some old towns had not been called upon for members. Portsmouth had five, Greenland and Exeter three each; North Hampton also had three. Hampton, Stratham, Rye, Chester and Epping had two each. The same men, afterward famous, as Meshech Weare of Hampton Falls, Josiah Bartlett of Kingston, Joseph Cilley of Nottingham, Matthew Thornton of Londonderry, John Dudley of Raymond and others were members. A number of the best ministers in the Province were delegates, as Revs. Josiah Stearns of Epping, Timothy Upham of Deerfield, Payne Wingate of Hampton Falls, Abiel Foster of Canterbury, Elijah Fletcher of Hopkinton and John Page of Hawke, now Danville.

The Provincial Congress met in Exeter May 17, 1775, the record says, in the afternoon. The following is the first record after the place of meeting and date:

"The members being called over and seated, proceeded as follows, viz.:

Voted, That the Hon'ble Matthew Thornton, Esq., be President.

Voted, That Ebenezer Thompson, Esq., be Secretary.

At the desire of the Convention, the Revd Mr. Stearns made a Prayer."

No attempt will be made to give any full account of the doings of this body. It menced, as we have said, May 17, and it dissolved November 15. But it was not in session all the time, as there were adjournments sometimes for a number of weeks. In all it was in session one hundred and twenty-six days. And it appears as it went on, some towns not represented at first, chose delegates, so as Dr. Bouton says, one hundred and thirteen towns were represented by one hundred and fifty-one delegates. During this Provincial Congress, the battle of Bunker Hill was fought. The royal Governor, John Wentworth, had not left, but his power was gone. The terrible war was imminent. The men of this Congress were equal to the occasion. They fully committed themselves to their country's cause. Rev. Josiah Stearns of Epping was an active member. The late Rev. Dr. French of North Hampton related of him, that returning from the Convention, he called his children around him and said,, "If the cause shall prevail, it will be a great blessing to the country, but if it should fail, your poor old father's head will soon be a button for a halter."

May 12, the second day, "Voted that a Post office shall be established at Portsmouth." May 19, Voted that the Selectmen of the towns that have soldiers under Col. Stark procure firearms for those destitute and forward them. May 20, Voted that it is necessary to raise two thousand effective men for the service and that the towns furnish their own men with good blankets. May 23, Voted that there be a post office in Exeter. Same date, Col. Nicholas Gilman was chosen Treasurer of the Colony, and voted that £3000 be levied and paid into the Treasury.

At this Congress a Committee of Safety was chosen, which had great executive power while the war lasted. May 31, it was agreed that the 2000 men be divided into three regiments of ten companies each. Subsequently Colonels were appointed, muster masters, rules for the regulation of the Army; a vast amount of correspondence with distinguished men and the Massachusetts Congress attended to. Capt. John Langdon of Portsmouth was already a delegate in the Continental Congress at Philadelphia, and Josiah Bartlett, Esq., of Kingston also Governor later, was chosen to join him. It was voted August 25, that the pay of the members be five shillings per day. If, as we suppose, this was lawful money, it would be about $1.25. Two pence per mile each way was voted for travel, if the adjournment was longer than from Saturday till Monday.

We have stated that was a large body for that early time. But we have evidence that but very few of the delegates attended regularly. No one was in attendance all of the 126 days. But very few, if any, halt; several less than ten days. The pay was for actual attendance.

You've got your cue now, dear reader. When you see a lady friend assume an unlovely color, you should pull her stockings right off, and light out for a stomach pump. —Danbury News.

—A few days ago an elegantly dressed lady got into a Madison-avenue car, and although the day was cool, she could not wear her gloves, on account of her many diamond rings. A balky horse having twice stopped the car, the lady went to the door, and looking at the team for a few moments, said to the driver: "That 'ere off horse ain't use to be druv on that 'ere side." And that was just the trouble, in spite of the diamonds.

Unlimited Remedial Resources.

People sometimes suppose that Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines represent the entire extent of his resources for curing disease. This is an error. Experience proved that while the Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription, Pleasant Purgative Pellets, Compound Extract of Smart-Weed, and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, would, if faithfully used, cure a large variety of chronic complaints, there would be here and there a case which, from its severity, or from its complication with other disorders, would resist their action. These exceptional cases required a thorough examination into their symptoms, to ascertain the exact nature and extent of the diseases under which the patient was laboring, and the use of specific remedies to meet and overcome the same. This led to the establishment of the World's Dispensary, at Buffalo, N. Y, with its Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons, each of whom is skilled in the treatment of chronic disorders in general and these belonging to his own special department in particular. To one is assigned diseases of the throat and lungs; to another, diseases of the kidneys and urogenital organs; to another, diseases of the digestive system; to another, diseases of the nervous system; and to another, diseases of the eye and ear. This the highest degree of perfection in medicine and surgery is attained. The establishment of this institution enables the Doctor to meet a long-felt want in the treatment of the more severe chronic affections. By a careful consideration of the symptoms as given in writing, he successfully treats thousands of cases at their homes. Others visit the Dispensary in person. The amplest resources for the treatment of lingering affections are thus placed at the disposal of every patient, and those on whom the proprietary medicines do not have the desired effect can procure a more thorough and efficient course by a personal application to the proprietor of the World's Dispensary.

Extra Liability to Malarial Infection.

Persons whose blood is thin, digestion weak and liver sluggish, are extra liable to the attacks of malarial disease. The most trifling exposure may, under such conditions, infect a system which, if healthy, would resist the miasmatic taint. The only way to secure immunity from malaria in localities where it is prevalent, is to tone and regulate the system by improving weakened digestion, enriching the blood, and giving a wholesome impetus to biliary secretion. These results are accomplished by nothing so effectively as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which long experience has proved to be the most reliable safeguard against fever and ague and kindred disorders, as well as the best remedy for them. The Bitters are, moreover, an excellent invigorant of the organs of urination, and an active depurent, eliminating from the blood those acrid impurities which originate rheumatic ailments.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. F. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. F. S.

Ancient Documents.

Samuel Adams, Esq., has shown us a collection of old deeds and wills, some written on parchment and others on paper, which are in a remarkable state of preservation, the writing being very plain and distinct. Among them are the wills of the Adams homestead in Kittery which was held in the family for two centuries. The oldest of the papers was written in 1664, and one of the most interesting is the following deed which reads:

"Know all men per These presnts; That I Thomas Wise of Gorgeana, alias Yorke, In ye Province of Maine, In New England, for diverse considerations me hereunto moving, Have bargained, sould, assingnd & sett ouer unto Isaack Gutwridge, now of Smuttinose Island, one of ye Ilos Shoals, and in particular, in consideration of ye full Sume of Fiuetoon pounds In money, and Fish, already in hand receiued a Certaine Tract of Land, on ground Lying on ye South side of this riuor of Gorgeana, bounded from ye Coue, lying opposite to ye house Formerly known by the Name of Richard Ormsbys House; and ye aforesaid Coue being Called by ye name of little Coue up to yt point of Land Called Eddy point & so Into the Country, South South-west, untill Twelue acros of Land, or ground, be Fulfilled, or Compleated, There is a Stripe of marsh, be it more or less, within ad bounds. Knights of Honor.

Deputy Supreme Dictator J. H. Wright of Massachusetts instituted a lodge of the above-named order here on Monday night. The lodge is named "Sagamore," and the following are the officers installed:

Past Dictator, M. T. Betton; Dictator, Jos. H. Gardner; Vice Dictator, E. G. Peirce, Jr.; Assistant Dictator, H. W. Briant; Chaplain, Peter Page; Guide, George H. Tripp; Reporter, George A. Perkins; Financial Reporter, W. O. Sides; Trustees, E. G. Peirce, Jr., Jos. H. Gardner and H. W. Briant.

The objects of the order are:

1st. To unite fraternally all acceptable men of every profession, business or occupation.

2d. To give all moral and material aid in its power to the members of the order, by holding moral instructive and scientific lectures, by encouraging each other in business and by assisting each other to obtain employment.

3d. To establish a Benefit Fund from which a sum not exceeding $2,000 shall be paid at the death of each member to his family, or to be disposed of as he may direct.

4th. To establish a fund for the relief of sick and distressed members.

5th. To ameliorate the conditiou of humanity in every possible manner.

South Millpond.

Eds. Chronicle: It does not require a very vivid imagination to think "As the days begin to lengthen, that stench begins to strengthen," for after passing through the past few summers, we only contemplate the coming of warm weather with a sickening dread, and long for a competency that we might migrate to some land less odoriferous. The persistency with which our city government ignores the South Millpond nuisance is astonishing; one would imagine they rather enjoyed it. Why not dob it "Aldermen's Delight?" for if they had not really determined to enjoy it at least for one more season, it seems as if they would have acted during the cold weather, when laboring men were eager for work, and when stirring the foul sediment would have been much less liable to engender diseases.

Most certainly the public have asked, as emphatically as our city officials could possibly desire, that they do something, anything which will overcome this terrible evil. The people are not so penurious that they are not willing to pay reasonable bills for such needed work; it is not the people, but the public servants who are derelict in this matter; consequently if the city government is not capable of acting, let them call for counsel. It is not beneath the dignity of lawyers, doctors or army officers to call for assistance; even the Portsmouth Artillery Company do not ignore advisory boards; why should our Board of Aldermen, even if it is double its former size? As the former board did nothing, we certainly expected much from the present one, but we now begin to appreciate that large bodies move slowly—and not very surely.

REVILO.

Jottings.

Auction sale of the well-known and valuable "Emery Farm," now owned by Mr. John M. Davis, at half-past 12 o'clock this day; also, at same time and place, a lot of farm implements. See advertisement.

The famous Hyers Sisters, (Anna, Emma and May,) with Messrs. Wallace King, tenor, John W. Lucas, baritone, and Sam Lucas, the great colored comedian, late of the Georgia Minstrels, will appear at the Temple on Friday evening in a new musical drama written expressly for them, entitled "Out of the wilderness," and replete with plantation songs and jubilee melodies. See advertisement.

W. W. Henderson's auction of dry and fancy goods is still progressing, and attracts crowds every forenoon, afternoon and evening. The goods have got to be sold, no matter what price is offered, as Mr. Henderson is determined to leave town to engage in business in Connecticut.

Schooner Mary S. Hontvet was successfully launched from the yard of Mr. William F. Fernald on Tuesday.

Howard & Ashcroft's New York Combination is advertised to appear at the Temple on Tuesday evening, April 4th, with a company of twenty-two artists. A good evening's amusement may be looked for. See advertisement.

The ladies of the Methodist society will hold a Maple Syrup Festival, at the chapel on Daniel street, this (Wednesday) evening. Admission, including syrup and supper, 25 cents. There will be music by some of the best musicians in the city, and an extra good time is anticipated. A hearty welcome to all.

Mr. Chas. H. Hayes has leased the Elwyn farm, formerly conducted by Mr. A. K. P. Warren.

Schooner John Wentworth, which arrived from Baltimore on Tuesday with coal to C. E. Walker & Co., sprung her formast while working off a lee shore in the gale of the 21st.

On Monday morning, at Hanover, Mr. A. H. Kinerson, in behalf of the Senior Class of Dartmouth College, presented their classmate Wm. H. Gardiner of this city, with copies of Byron, Scott, and Shakespeare's works, and a copy of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. The value of these presents amounted to $20, and they were given to him as a token of the regard in which he is held by his classmates, for the faithfulness and honesty with which he has discharged his duties as Treasurer of the class of '76, which position he has held for nearly three years.

It is somewhat remarkable that in the two disastrous wrecks (of the brigs "Hattie Eaton" and "A. Porter,") which have recently occurred near this harbor, the chief mates of the vessels should have been the only men saved, and that in each instance the mate was forward when his vessel struck,—the bow being considered the most dangerous part of a vessel to be in when she is run ashore head on, on account of the liability of being crushed by falling spars when the vessels strikes.

Brig Helen, Capt. Brown, sailed from Vineyard Haven March 14th and arrived in Boston on the 24th, after a passage of ten days. Capt. Brown states that he was not driven out to sea, but has been in Boston bay a greater part of the time. When the gale of Tuesday, the 21st, came on, he would gladly have gone to sea, but he could not get there, and was obliged to lie off and on and keep clear of the shore as best he could. Had the gale lasted much longer the captain thinks his vessel would have shared the same fate as the brig Hattie Eaton, as the Helen was but a short distance from Gerrish's Island when the gale abated. Possibly this may have been the vessel seen from the shore at about the time the Hattie Eaton was wrecked, though the report said that vessel was a schooner.

—We hear of a Washington lady who appeared in company in a calico dress the other evening. She supposed everybody would shed tears over her goodness and economy; but instead everybody looked grieved and said, "Good gracious! what's your husband been doing?"

—When a man comes home and tries to bolt his door with a sweet potato, pokes the fire with the spout of a coffee-pot, attempts to wind up the clock with his boot-jack, tries to cut kindling wood for the morning fire with a paper knife, takes a cold potate in hand to light him to bed, and prefers sleeping with his hat and boots on, you may reasonably infer that he has been making the acquaintance of some very friendly people.

—The Paris Charivari give the following as a "true story:" Twenty years ago, three young men were walking together on the Boulevard. "Shall we go to breakfast?" said one. "With all my heart," replied the second. "But," chimed in the third, "where are the funds? which of us has a purse?" "I!" exclaimed the others both at once, "but it is empty." "Christi! and I am hungry as a lawyer's clerk. What's to be done?" "I have an idea," said one; "come with me." The three entered a music shop and asked the proprietor whether he would buy a song. "A song? Whose is it?" "Ours." Let me see it." "I will sing it to you," said the shortest of the three. He sat down to the piano and sang the piece offered for sale. "Well," said the publisher, "it is not bad, I will give you 25 francs for it." "What, words and music and all?" "Oh, certainly, the times are hard." "It is a very little—never mind—shell out—it will be enough to pay for our breakfast?" The publisher paid the 25 francs, and the three friends went to breakfast together. Why this story? the reader will ask. Oh, nothing in the world but this—the song was "L'Andelouse!" The publisher made 100,000 francs by his bargain. The author of the words was Alfred de Musset; the author of the music was Meupeu; and the singer Duprez.

PULMOCINE

Daily Chronicle.

—In Jersey City recently, a witness was sworn upon a book entitled, "Tales and Novels," and gave his evidence before the mistake was discovered. Several witnesses had to be sworn and repeat their testimony.

—Old President Day, of Yale College, used to tell of a neighbor into whose mind it was impossible to get a glimmer of logic or mental philosophy. On one occasion President Day thought he'd got the obtuse fellow to see the truth of the metaphysical proposition that "man cannot do anything against his will;" but all at once, he burst out with: "Oh, yes he can; a neighbor of mine went to prison against his will only the day before yesterday."

—They were sitting together on the banks of the Chattahoochee, like two ebony imagines, he staring vacuity out of countenance, and she resting her raven crimps on his heaving shoulder. "Miles away from hyar," she fondly murmured, "where de buffomolo rips and ta'rs and frows dirt at the settin' sun, dar's whar we'll go, Gawge." Gawge's lips moved not, neither did he utter any word, but the whites of his eyes repeated, "Dar's whar we'll go."—St. Louis Times.

—Miss Clara Morris, in a letter to a friend in Washington, gives this lively reminiscence of two well-known actors: "They were boys then; one tall, blonde, and lazy, the other short, dark, and active. It was Sunday night; every one had gone to the Quaker meeting house a few doors above. They were alone, without cards, or checkers, or books, but Satan came to the rescue. A certain proposal was drawled by the long chap, and eagerly accepted by the short one. They then put on their hats and coats, armed themselves with a broom, a pail of water, and a dipper, and went forth into the still, bitter cold of the night, and worked diligently. They swept a broad path over the sloping sidewalk, quite free from snow; over this they poured a dipper of water, then waited. In a few minutes it had frozen; then another dipper of water, and another wait, until the path was glass-like in its icy smoothness. A whisk of the broom sent a light covering of snow over it; the work was done, and the godless laborers, gathering up their tools, scrouged themselves down on the doorstep and conversed pleasantly. Presently the doors of the meeting-house opened, and two lines of Friends—one made up of males, the other of females—came out. These lines, coming down the steps separately, met and mingled in a crowd on the pavement for a few moments, then broke into twos and threes, and came gravely down the sidewalk. Suddenly the stillness of the night was broken by a whack! whack! and two snorts that were as one. A female friend flew to the rescue—whack! The whole congregation, filled with wonder, came ambling down to the scene of disaster—whack! whack! whack! groans and snorts; 'thees' and 'thous' filled the air, and, with cheeks stained with tears of laughter, they sat on the step and 'took it in,' those sons of Belial, since so well known to the world as Joseph Jefferson and John Ellsler."

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and safety of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

STATE MUTUAL

Life Assurance Co.,

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 030 150 . 05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 29.
Total premiums paid in 29 years,
less dividends,	$326.91
Average cost per year,	11.26
Cost for 1876,	5.18

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Fever and Ague, Chills, Arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package came back and came for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had tried them and by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that I could scarcely walk across the room, much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and concluded to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I fet benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can't say that I feel any worse for them. Testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have been terribly afflicted with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable to walk across the room. For two years I was a cripple from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist, and thought I would write to you what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well now, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are amazed at the change, and they all think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your pills. I tried them myself, and like them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and trustworthy practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sedative and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMONCIE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE contributes to its pages a variety and fullness and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the access of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will regard with more bitterness than ever those serving under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of any party, nor hesitate to make it approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the interests concerned from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard money triumph won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to put the hands off of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In every case it set forth the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so sustained in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that the honest men and independent voters have adopted some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years produced back practices up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end by the methods which have proved so successful in popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal vituperation; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success of many new ones. THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES are the best published anywhere. Purchased our most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, the best of which will be SIXTEEN NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for clearness. They are the envy of rivals. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE,

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY OF

is unsurpassed in any department, and unequaled in the fineness of its material and the beauty of its typography. The handsomest, and one of the best and most entertaining of the magazines.

The New Volume, commencing with the January issue, will be replete with most attractive features. No advantage will be neglected which either talent or capital can command to render each issue an entertaining and instructive compendium of

POPULAR READING.

The contributions now on hand, or specially engaged, embrace an unusually attractive list of Tales, Short Stories, Narratives, Descriptive Sketches, Papers on Science and Art, Poems, Popular Essays, Literary Criticisms, etc., etc.

By Talented and Well-Known Writers.

In fact, all possible means are being taken to supply the public, through this periodical, a popular organ and yet refined type of LITERARY ENJOYMENT.

One of the attractive features of the new year will be a series of illustrated articles entitled

THE CENTURY,

Its Fruits and Its Festival,

which will present a summary of the progress of civilization, and advancement in the arts and sciences since the Revolution, together with a complete history and description of the CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION, fully illustrated.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: One Copy, one year, $2.50; Four Copies, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; Ten Copies, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

The Lay of the Cow.

Switch-engine Louisa, "B., C., R. & M.,"
Was slowing up Front street about 5 P. M.,
When the stoker looked out of the window to say,
"There's a cow going across the t-r-a-c-kay."

Pensively halted the cow on the track,
Buns on her pendant tail, bran on her back;
Dreaming of summer, she seemed not to see
The approach of the switch e-n-g-i-n-e.

Once more the stoker spoke: "There she is now!"
"Bully," the engineer quoth, "for the cow!"
And, reversing his engine, he cried, "Shoo! oh, shoo!"
Said the stoker, "Oh, shoot the see-oh-double-you."

Shrilly the whistle shrieked its alarm,
And the stoker threw firewood and coals in a swarm;
But the cow never heeded nor thought that her star
Was setting at four miles an h-o-u-r.

The switch engine struck her about amidships,
And her summer dreams met with a total eclipse;
It mangled her carcase most shocking to see,
And threw her down Front s-t-r-double c-tea.

Sadly the engineer drew in his head,
And "pulled her wide open" as onward he sped;
But the stoker smiled gayly, "Old fellow," said he,
"There's some cheap porter-house s-t-a-k-e."

"That isn't the way to spell porter-house steak, but the right way wouldn't rhyme.

—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

The "Patient" Camel and his Impatient Driver.

A Cairo correspondent of the London Daily News narrates the following: I lately witnessed in an inconceivably frowzy street, of a narrowness which rendered the presence of a camel in it at all the most puzzling pleasantry imaginable—for the way was one in which any European cat endowed with the least instinct of self-preservation would certainly object to be swung in, for obvious reasons—one of these contests between a ship of the desert and that apparently stranded vessel's guide, philosopher and friend. The latter had heaped up an armful or so of green meat more than met the former's views, on an already respectable collection of vegetable substance, which magnified the naturally excrescent aspect of the camel's back into the seeming of an animate stack. Crouching, he had pulled himself close together to "see out" the inconveniences resulting from his determination not to carry away that extra armful or two of greens, and barring an occasional wag of his whole skin—I cannot describe the phenomenon otherwise—and a cynical writhe of his spongy nose, he might, for all movement on his part, have been chiselled out of stone.

Around this impregnable stoic was capering, in a sort of distracted hornpipe, his Arab owner or lessee, in a yellow rage, each successive paroxysm of which expressed itself in a frenzy of double shuffles. He was also hoisting up parcel after parcel of curses from the remoter depths of his diaphragm with a productiveness in that direction which would have done honor to a skilled disciple of Signor Lamperti's gruesome "method," and punctuating each malediction with a furious thwack on the camel's hard, hard hide, and manifestly putting into every thump the whole of whatever heart may beat in dusky bosom. Meanwhile the sentient drum upon which the infuriate Ishmaelite thus unmercifully beat his devil's tattoo made no sign, till he had received about sixty or seventy blows, except the above-mentioned, scornful nose-wrinkling, with which he, as it were, checked off and took tally of the wrongs inflicted upon him. Suddenly his eye, which had followed the Arab steadily through all his insensate gyrations, twinkled. He thought he had his chance. The Arab's legs were an inch or two nearer to his victim's body than they had hitherto been, when out lashed the long neck, and "clash!" went the formidable jaws! He just missed his tormentor's tibia, in virtue of an enormous skip which the Arab executed simultaneously with the camel's effort; but it was a great joy to observe with what intensified wrath and perfect oneness of purpose he "went for" the most vulnerable point of his persecutor's person. Many more great thumps avenged his abortive snap; but he took no more notice of them than if they had been so many flappings of a butterfly's wing.

Presently the Arab, fairly tired out, and having presumably exhausted the abusive resources of his native tongue, sat down and spat freely round him for a minute or two, after which he took off the three or four pounds over-weight, whereupon the camel rose with the utmost promptitude, and stepped off in that gingerly manner which is so ludicrously out of keeping with the figure and stature of such creatures, steering his way down a street which almost accurately fitted him, as easily as if it had been a broad boulevard. He had had his own way, and he apparently bore no malice.

—In the English Parliament, recently, Mr. Gathrone Hardy, being questioned as to the over-crowding of soldiers in certain British forts, and the number of men and women in the same room, gravely stated that the quantity of cubic air allotted to each person was in accordance with the laws of modern science. The utter inappropriateness of the answer is almost as amusing as was the simplicity of the Princess Borghese when, having stood to Canova as what the schools of art would term an "undraped model," and being asked by a lady how she had felt, she replied that she had not been at all cold, as there was a fire in the room. It also suggests Buffon's naive answer when reproached by a lady friend for having dissected the corpse of his sister-in-law, "Mon Dieu, madam! the woman was dead."

Grafton	2933	1718
Coos	1614	401
Total	28,840	10,726

Majority in the affirmative 18,114.

The cities voted overwhelmingly in favor of the convention:

	Yes	No
Manchester	3802	33
Portsmouth	2346	32
Concord	2045	105
Dover	1550	27
Nashua	1459	71
Keene	849	134
Total	12,051	402

Majority in affirmative 11,649.

Majority outside the cities 6465.

Nine towns sending three or more Representatives to the Legislature voted as follows:

	Yes	No
Exeter	82	172
Rochester	259	13
Somersworth	558	11
Franklin	550	45
Milford	254	60
Claremont	440	41
Newport	214	39
Lebanon	537	6
Littleton	170	114
Total	3064	501

Majority in the affirmative 2563. Exeter is the only one of these towns which voted in the negative.

The towns and cities voted as follows:

	For	Against
Rockingham	11	27
Strafford	8	4
Belknap	10
Carroll	8	8
Merrimack	14	12
Hillsborough	13	11
Cheshire	13	9
Sullivan	5	8
Grafton	15	16
Coos	12	6

The cities all voted for the convention, leaving the towns 108 in favor of and 101 against the proposition.

Of eighteen towns not casting 100 votes each for Governor, but four show a majority in favor of a convention, the four being Hart's Location, Dummer, Errol and Shelburne. The total vote in the affirmative in these eighteen towns is 190; in the negative, 472.

Sixty-one other towns, casting less than 200 votes each for Governor, have voted in the negative by 484 majority—yeas 2286, nays 2770. Of these 61 towns, 40 oppose a convention.

The smaller the towns, the larger are the relative majorities against a convention, it being evident that the smaller towns will lose representatives in a reconstruction of the popular branch of the legislature.

News and Notes.

Gen. Aaron F. Stevens has been chosen City Solicitor of Nashua, and Frank A. Barney Chief Engineer.

Gen. Schenck has made his statement before the committee on foreign relations. He says he lost $60,000 on the Emma mine, but acknowledges that he went into the mine as a guaranteed stockholder.

At the annual meeting of the Direct Cable Company, in London, on March 28th, the policy of the directors in maintaining an independent organization was sustained.

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Fish and Game League will be holden in Manchester on Tuesday, April 4th. It is understood that matters of special importance relative to transgression of statute law, forbidding fishing after certain season, will be considered.

The new city council of Manchester, has elected Jonathan Smith, Solicitor; Warren Harvey, Superintendent of Streets, and Fred Allen, Superintendent of the City Farm and House of Correction. No removals from office were made, the election being to fill the vacancies caused by the expiring terms of service.

German financiers are about organizing a huge financial institution, in the shape of a bank, with $10,000,000 or more capital. The object is to deal in the $2,000,000,000 of Government bonds in this country and Europe, and to virtually control the markets of the United States, Great Britain and Germany for those securities.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore American says that the best posted political observers concede that Mr. Blaine is sure of 301 votes on the first ballot at Cincinnati after States have given complimentary votes to local candidates.

Winslow, the forger, is said to be rapidly falling in health. There is a hitch in the extradition proceedings, and it is uncertain when he will appear in Boston to "make it hot" for some of his "traducers" in that city, as he promises to do when he does arrive.

It is asserted that the Spanish Government has offered the position of Governor-General of Cuba to Don Carlos, and should he accept they will reenlist his disbanded army and send it to Cuba to conquer peace. This will perpetuate slavery there and checkmate Mr. Fish's plan of intervention.

The Claremont Eagle says that a cat belonging to Nathan Wilson of Langdon, got upon his bed and waked him by scratching. Thrown off, it immediately returned and renewed its demonstrations, until Mr. Wilson got up and found the house on fire about the fireplace. The warning was just in time to save the house and the family.

The ten Dartmouth students indicted for disturbing J. B. Parker's book auction at Hanover and injuring his property, have refused to pay him the $500 he demanded for settlement, and will stand trial at Haverhill. Parker, since the failure to settle, has demanded $800, which, it is reported, the town of Hanover has paid to avoid the annoyance of a suit.

Daniel Sullivan, the Nashua schoolboy who was stabbed in the head on the 20th of March by Arthur Willoughby, a schoolmate, in a quarrel over a game of marbles, died on Monday the 27th. Willoughby has been arrested. The latter is an orphan and not very bright, but has never been considered vicious; the other boys have been accustomed to baze him a good deal, and he was not the aggressor in the fatal quarrel with Sullivan. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $1200, which was furnished.

Barque Eliza White, from Matanzas for Boston, on March 21st saw an unknown schooner with colors union down, and another schooner laying by; on the 22d saw a schooner with mainmast and bowsprit gone and sails dragging in the water, and a barkentine laying by; on the 23d furnished water to schooner J. W. Boone, of Belfast, Me., which vessel had had her decks swept by a sea; and on the 24th passed the wreck of a schooner with no one on board.

The Congressional naval investigating sub-committee has got through with affairs at the Boston yard, and returned to Washington. "Startling developments" are promised when the committee makes a report.

The Washington correspondents report the discovery of numerous frauds and illegal irregularities on the part of the Secretary of the Navy, by the various investigating committees. The proofs will be made public in due time, so it is said. The proper time for exposing a corrupt official would be the moment he is found out.

To the Editor of the Philadelphia Press.

SIR: Permit me to call the attention of your readers to the singular combination which can be made with the syllables, composing the names of Abraham Lincoln, President, and Hannibal Hamlin, Vice President of the United States. If you take the whole of the first line with the last syllable in the second line, or if you take ABRA, in the first line, and combine it with the whole of the second line, you will have the full name of the President; if you combine the last syllable of each line, or the last two syllables of the second line, you have his surname. If you combine the last two syllables of the first line, or the first two syllables of the second line, or the second syllable from the end of the first with the second syllable from the end of the last line, you have the surname of the Vice President, viz., "Hamlin."

Take the first letters commencing each of the above lines, viz., H. and A; add them to the last letters of each of the lines, N and N; to these add the second letter (I) in Lincoln with the second letter (B) in Abraham; still further add to these the first letter (A) in Abraham, and the first letter (L) in Lincoln, and you have the Christian name of the Vice President, viz.: HANNIBAL. Then take the two syllables ABRA, in the first line, and combine them with the first syllable in the second line, and you have ABRAHAM, the Christian name of the President. J. McC.

Dead Beats.

It does not seem to be generally understood that an editor's time and the space in his paper are the means by which he obtains a livelihood, and when you beg any portion of either of them you are asking for something that has a specific value as much as fuel, clothing, or provisions. These remarks are called out by the fact that we have been charged with being partial in our reports of entertainments held in this place during the past year. Circus agents, after having stipulated for a certain space in the advertising columns, consider themselves fortunate, if, for a generous handful of admission tickets they secure an editorial notice; railroad officials with a view to securing similar favors freely tender the editor the courtesies of their roads; Patent medicine men are glad to obtain space in the "local" columns at double advertising rates; but when our citizens get up an entertainment, the committee of arrangements sometimes urge us to write a rousing puff, describing in rose colored terms the manifold attractions to be presented, and to lay particular stress upon the fact that it is the duty of everybody to attend, for which service they offer no compensation, not even saying "Thank you." If any suppose that we are going to give space in our paper, pay admission fees, purchase tickets in raffling schemes, buy suppers at unreasonable hours, etc., and then retire to our sanctum and write a glowing account of the affair, which is of little interest to any but those who have made money out of it, they are mistaken. We dislike deadheads, but we are not in any sense a deadhead when we accept a ticket for which we have in reality paid triple price, and if the service solicited is not considered worth the price of a ticket, it is decidedly "cheeky" to ask it. We are always pleased to report all occasions of general interest when invited to do so by parties interested, and we regret that we cannot personally accept the cordial invitations that daily come to our desk, but during the amusement season a pressure of work confines us closely to our office, and we are compelled to lay them aside with simply a note in our editorial columns.—Peterboro' Transcript.

The Longest Speech on Record

Is believed to have been that by Mr. DeCosmos, in the legislature of British Columbia, when a measure was pending whose passage would take from a great many settlers their lands. DeCosmos was in a hopeless minority. The job had been held back till the eve of the close of the session; unless legislation was taken before noon of a given day, the act of confiscation would fall. The day before the expiration of the limitation DeCosmos got the floor about 10 A. M., and began a little speech against the bill. Its friends cared little, for they supposed that by 1 or 2 o'clock he would be through, and the bill could be put on its passage. One o'clock came, and DeCosmos was speaking still—hadn't more than entered on his subject. Two o'clock—he was saying "In the second place." Three o'clock—he produced a fearful bundle of evidence, and insisted on reading it. The majority began to have a suspicion of the truth—he was going to speak till next noon and kill the bill. For awhile they made merry over it, but, as it came on to be dusk, they began to get alarmed. They tried interruptions, but soon abandoned them, because each one afforded him a chance to digress and gain time. They tried to shout him down, but that gave him a breathing space, and, finally, they settled down to watch the combat between strength of will and weakness of body. They gave him no mercy. No adjournment for dinner; no chance to do more than wet his lips with water; no wandering from his subject; no sitting down. Twilight darkened; the gas was lit; members slipped out to dinner in relays, and returned to sleep in squads, but DeCosmos went on. The speaker, to whom he was addressing himself, was alternately dozing, snoring, and trying to look wide awake. Day dawned, and the majority slipped out in squads to wash and breakfast, and the speaker still held on. It can't be said it was a very logical, eloquent, or sustained speech. There were digressions in it, repetitions also. But still the speaker kept on, and, at last, noon came to a baffled majority, livid with rage and impotence, and to a single man who was triumphant, though his voice had sunk to a husky whisper, his eyes were almost shut, and were bleared and bloodshot, his legs tottered under him, and his baked lips were cracked and smeared with blood. DeCosmos had spoken twenty-six hours and saved the settlers their lands!

—The space allowed to Georgia in the Centennial building is to be declared forfeited, that State having taken no steps looking to representation. Alabama will probably fare in a similar manner.

—The color of a soldier's uniform is shown to be not so much a matter of taste as of vital importance. Experience proves that men are hit in battle according to the color of their dress. Red is the most fatal; the least fatal, Austrian gray. The proportions are: Red, twelve; rifle green, seven; brown, six; Austrian bluish gray, five.

Two Important Discoveries: The discovery of America by Columbus, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; the one opening up to mankind a new continent, the other a fountain of health, which is indispensable to the full enjoyment of life and its blessings. In response to the above sentiment come the unsolicited attestations of tens of thousands of grateful patients, who have been relieved of chronic ailments through its instrumentality. Those voices are limited to no one locality, but from every city village, and hamlet, in our broad domain, as well as from other climes, and in the strange utterances of foreign tongues, like the confused murmur of many waters, come unfeigned and hearty commendations. It is, in combination with the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the great depurator of the age. Under its benign action eruptions disappear, excessive waste is checked, the nerves are strengthened, and health, long banished from the system, resumes her reign, and re-establishes her roseate throne upon the cheek. All who have thoroughly tested the virtues in the disease for which it is recommended unite in pronouncing it the great Medical Discovery of the age.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS—as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, say, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Jottings.

Any one in want of a very neat and well-gotten-up Family Record, for framing, can see specimens of such at Buzzell & Son's store on Pleasant street.

Another grand rally of the Temperance Reform Club will take place at the Temple this evening. Rev. James DeNormandie will address the assembled multitude, and speeches will be made by President Treat and other members of the Club. As relates to the proposed testimonial to the Woman's Temperance League by the crew of the temperance fishing vessels, we know nothing about it or when it will take place, if at all. Everybody is invited to the meeting to-night. Seats free—no admission fee at the door.

The annual town meeting in Eliot was held March 27, and the following officers elected: moderator, Alexander Junkins; selectmen assessors and overseers of the poor, Moses Goodwin, Charles H. Clark, Charles A. Shapleigh; treasurer, William J. Paul; collector, John F. Raitt; supt. sch. com., Horace Parker; constable, James M. Raitt; town agent, Morris Goodwin; auditor, Elisha G. Ferguson; police officers, John L. Jenks, Joseph P. Kennard, Daniel P. Spinney. All democrats but two.

Kittery evidently means reform in earnest; the third Reform Club was organized there on Friday night, March 24th, and the following officers chosen: President, C. E. Varney; Vice Presidents, E. E. Pettigrew, J. H. Lambert, G. J. Harrall; Secretary, W. E. Fernald; Stewards, G. K. Gibbs, H. L. Manson; Sergeant-at Arms, H. Lambert; Treasurer, W. L. Fernald.

Too Easily Duped.

We are really surprised that some of our democratic newspaper brethren are so easily duped. We had thought them generally level-headed and pretty clear in their perceptions. But they have been fooled in one or two cases lately, sure. Last week our brother of the Lebanon News found a horrible thing, or somebody found it and gave it to him, and he hastened to give it to the public, prefaced with a very sharp and pungent editorial which he knows how to write. That editorial concluded as follows:

"And now comes a second installment of proof of republican rascality and bribery. We publish the following letter—the original of which was accidentally found on the street at East Canaan—addressed to C. O. Barney, the editor of Canaan Reporter, and signed by Daniel Hall, the Chairman of the Republican State Committee. It speaks for itself and reads precisely as follows, including the printed letter heading of the republican headquarters at Concord."

And here is the letter referred to:

Office of the Republican State Committee, Statesman Building, Concord, N. H., March 11, 1876.

DANIEL HALL, Chairman.
B. F. PRESCOTT, Secretary.
JOHN KIMBALL, Treasurer.

C. O. Barney, Esq., East Canaan:

DEAR SIR—You must carry Canaan at all hazards. If the $1500 I have already sent you is not enough to carry the town, I rely upon you to carry it at all events; and if it costs $5000, you shall be made whole. Don't fail. Yours truly, DANIEL HALL.

This letter has since been published as genuine in about every democratic paper in the State and in a good many out of the State. It is not necessary here for us to say anything of the alleged corrupt proclivities of Daniel Hall. No doubt he, as Chairman of the Republican State Committee, would do whatsoever he considered proper and necessary to secure the success of his party. Perhaps he might resort to means which men in other circumstances would consider of at least doubtful propriety. But we never believed him, nor ever heard anybody accuse him of being, a fool. It is a little strange to us that any newspaper man in the world should for a moment suppose that Dan Hall wrote that letter to Barney of East Canaan or to anybody else. And now we have a mail despatch from a good democrat in Concord stating it as a fact that a certain republican of Canaan went to Concord a few days before the election, procured one of the letter heads of the republican State committee, wrote the letter himself and dropped it purposely in a certain place in East Canaan where a democrat would be sure to find it. It was found precisely as intended, and had all the effect intended. The purpose was to convey the idea that, as the republicans of Canaan were to spend any sum necessary to carry the town, with authority to draw for it upon the State committee, it would therefore be of no use for the democrats to try, and they would give it up at the very start. It appears to have had the intended effect, substantially, for the republicans had 72 clear majority in that town, which was a gain of 72 since last year, when the vote on Governor was a tie. It was a shrewd republican trick, but the sum stated in the letter was so absurdly large for such a town, we wonder that the democrats did not see through it instantly.

Now we have to say that it don't pay to be fooled in this sort of style. And we have no doubt from the information we have, that we have stated the history of this transaction perfectly correct. How many more games of this kind were played in the State, we have no means of knowing.—Foster's Democrat.

State of New Hampshire.

A Proclamation by the Governor for a Day of Fasting, Humiliation and Prayer.

The tender mercy and loving kindness which was vouchsafed to our fathers one hundred years ago, an acknowledgement of which induced them in some special manner, to unitedly make confession of all past transgressions and seek "Divine Guidance" for the future, is a usage so closely connected with our national prosperity, that we, who are in the full enjoyment of the innumerable blessings which have been bequeathed unto us, should recognize the infinite goodness of him who has so mercifully ministered to our wants.

Mindful of this ancient custom, I do, by advice and with the consent of the Council, hereby appoint Thursday, the 13th day of April next, as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer; and I earnestly recommend its religious observance throughout the State.

Let us, in public and private, fervently pray that we may be encircled in the arms of our Heavenly Father, and be directed into paths that will "lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil;" that we may fully realize that the obligation continually rests upon us to acknowledge our dependence upon the Creator, and to ask of him forgiveness for our manifold sins, and divine help in the present and in the future; that he will bless and preserve our free governments with their republican institutions, to the end that the closing hours of the first century of our national existence may in some degree seem a fitting answer to the prayers of the fathers.

L. S. Given at the Council Chamber the second day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and of the independence of the United States the one hundredth.

P. C CHENEY.

By His Excellency the Governor, with advice of Council:

B. F. PRESCOTT, Secretary of State.

Throwing Cold Water.

Some people are always throwing cold water on everything.

One of them will effectually extinguish the most sanguine man in the world.

They go about on purpose to dampen everybody's enjoyment. Their chief happiness consists in making somebody else anxious and foreboding. They are birds of evil omen, always expecting something dreadful is coming. They look for the cholera next year. The small pox is on the increase. Everybody, almost, is liable to paralysis. They like to read aloud the statistics of death and disease. They like to attend funerals. They frequent cemeteries. They are fond of talking over signs of death and ill luck.

The crops are sure to fail this year, they invariably say. The grasshoppers will be unusually plentiful. The locusts are coming this way. Potatoes will rot, and the wheat will be smutty.

Epizootic will rage; colds will flourish, and colds generally end in the consumption, they say they have observed.

The banks are all going to break, and Government will repudiate its debts. Bonds will be worth less six months hence.

The man who likes to throw cold water will stop you in the streets to inquire after your health, and he will tell you that you look just as his friend Simpson did, and Simpson died of apolexy when he was just about your age. Sick only three hours, and left an inconsolable wife and eight small children.

He says you look bilious, and remarks that his mother had just such a complexion a few days before she was taken down with typhoid fever, and suggests to you the propriety of taking Jenkins' Anti-Bilious Pills, which his brother has for sale.

If you contemplate going on an excursion into the country, he is sure it is going to rain—he never knew clouds like those in the South to fail of bringing wet weather.

If you are going to ride, he will tell you the roads are in a frightful condition, and the mud up to your ankles. If you are going anywhere on the cars, he will look lugubrious, and inform you that the culverts on the particular route you are to travel by are extremely unsafe, and that the rolling stock is all old, and liable to break at any moment.

If you have any particular friends, and happen to speak in their favor, he will roll up his eyes in pious distress, and sigh, and say that if you only knew what he knows; and then he sighs again and says despairingly,

"Well, we are all poor creatures!"

And when you insist on being told what he knows, he sighs louder and more dismally than before, and says it is against his principles to say anything to injure anybody, or to make them feel unhappy.

—Two fellows tried to chloroform a donation party in Moravia, Michigan, by scattering the drug profusely on the floor. Several women were made insensible, and that probably amused the wags more than did the ten days they subsequently spent in prison.

PULMOCINE

Daily Chronicle.

An Old Maid's Opinion.

If it doesn't make me laugh, and I can't help it, to hear married women pity old maids, never thinking for one moment how an old maid might pity the married.

Oh, no!

Poor dear soul, she hasn't any husband!

Poor dear, she hasn't any children!

It's so very, very sad.

Of course it is, poetically speaking; but don't you ever pity a woman for not marrying until you are quite sure what sort of a man she hasn't married.

I've known a broken engagement or two that really were subjects of congratulation.

There isn't any other time when a woman feels so like feeling of her shoulder blades to see whether the wings have sprouted, as when she has slipped the wrong man's ring off her finger, and feels that she'll never bear the brunt of his hateful temper, or put up with his neglect, or grew old before her time because of his unfaithfulness—when she stands free again and ready for the right man to come along.

I suppose a woman never feels quite certain that the right man won't come in at her life.

However, we're talking of old maids, and the people who pity them.

It is all very well to get poetical over married life, and set single women down as miserable creatures; but like most theories, the "thing won't wash."

If you get an adoring husband, ready to cherish and protect you while life lasts, you're certainly a happy woman; but how many do? One out of fifty, or a hundred, perhaps.

It's a lottery with few lucky numbers, and even an old maid doesn't bitterly envy a woman with a mean, or a quarrelsome, or neglectful husband—a woman who is left alone with all her cares, a woman who is a slave, not a wife—nor even always all that falls to the lot of the best loved wife on earth.

There is peace and rest in life when one is one's own mistress, at all events; when I hear worn out, worried matrons pitying single women, I often feel like laughing, it is so funny.

—A lady who suspected that her husband was in the habit of kissing Katy, the maid resolved to detect him in the act. After watching for days, she heard him come in one evening, and quietly pass through into the kitchen. Now Katy was out that evening, and the kitchen was dark. Burning with jealousy, the wife took some matches in her hand, and, hastily placing her shawl over her head, as Katy sometimes did, entered the kitchen by the back door, and was almost immediately seized and embraced in the most ardent manner. Tearing herself from his embrace, she struck a match, and stood face to face with—the hired man. Her husband says his wife never treated him so well since the first month they were married as she has for the past few days.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and are a guarantee for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest order of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 030 150.05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 10223.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1867; AGE, 29.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 5, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE—Dear Sir—For twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time could not do work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and concluded to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to again say "Send for a package for me." I have sold many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I should commit suicide. I have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would go without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable to bend my back without the aid of some article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Comprehensive. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent for one April 20, by a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. I can sleep well now, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your Pills. I can recommend them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be benefited by them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Improved at the Age of 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 44 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has ever been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY STREET, BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with diligence and despatch. To determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching Patents. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessary for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, with the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great skill and ability can but greatly serve to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its place.

Is the ultimatum of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the large trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not a secret nostrum, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting the claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will place whenever those principles are victorious under the old banner, and in the old place, the reward of candidates or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its judgment, and it hopes to be so in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its judgment, and it hopes to be so in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its judgment, and it hopes to be so

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest principles, and of honest men, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have time within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a course that higher place, and may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will continue to denounce systematic and utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks of successes provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of their favor, and will use its best efforts to merit it. The Tribune is unanimously attractive and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh and vigorous, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its full corps includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

THIS Bank pays five per cent. per annum, free of all tax. A greater rate is prohibited by law. Two dividends are made in the year,—in June and December; and an extra dividend of the surplus earnings every two years. The first extra will be in June, 1874.

Deposits go on interest on the FIRST day of every MONTH, and deposits made during the FIRST THREE days of each MONTH will draw interest from the FIRST day of that MONTH.

Dividends not withdrawn will be added to the principal, and draw interest from the time when declared.

Money is received on deposit payable on checks at sight.

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club. TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the month numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Juvenile Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

RUNNING A NEWSPAPER.

The newspaper men of Boston were recently given a reception by the Young Men's Christian Association, and such a good time was had, judging from the Boston Globe's account, that we are sorry we are not running a newspaper in Boston, or that the members of the Y. M. C. A. are not the same the world over. Among the speeches made was one by Curtis Guild, of the Commercial Bulletin, which we cannot refrain from publishing. It is as follows:

I know that any of my fellow-journalists who may be present this evening, especially newspaper men of years of practical experience, will appreciate the nervousness which even a tried soldier of more than a quarter of a century's experience in the service must feel in being called upon to tell, in the presence of his comrades in arms, what he knows about newspapers.

Newspaper proprietors are generally instructed respecting the management of the newspaper business, and editors respecting the conduct of journalism, by those who have no experience whatever in either; in fact it is generally understood among the editorial profession, that men may be found who would be at a loss how to drive a locomotive engine, who would confess their ignorance of the Hindoo language, or shrink from the attempt to square the circle or tunnel Dover Straits—this is possible; but how rare it is to find the individual who cannot tell you how to manage and edit a metropolitan newspaper. And my experienced fellow members of the press who may be here present will agree, if I were presumptuous enough to endeavor to instruct them, or give, as should be given, the result of twenty-seven year's experience in daily and weekly newspaper life, it would be as absurd as the proposition of the individual who announced his ability to teach French in one lesson.

REQUISITES FOR A NEWSPAPER MANAGER.

But, I am told, this is a business reception, and we are to speak as we would in conversation with our fellows, and not perhaps as teachers or lecturers. I presume every man who has achieved success in any particular line of business by his own unaided exertions, is apt, to a certain extent, to consider that that particular business requires the exercise of a degree of skillful management, tact, care and attention not called for in any other. It is a pardonable vanity engendered by his successful exercise of those characteristics in the calling that he has chosen; but the desired end is obtained by the application of the same general rules, the same qualities of character and business talent in almost any line of business the individual may choose. What, then, some one may inquire, are the requisites for the newspaper business? An answer to this suggests itself to my mind in a reply in somewhat powerful terms, I will admit, that I made to a pale, hollow-chested young man of twenty-two or three who once waited upon me with an inquiry of a similar nature. He had a few thousand dollars and had just graduated from college and wanted to join with somebody "to start a paper!" Start a paper. This is thought by almost every one outside the business one of the easiest and pleasantest things in the world to do—and so it is if you have plenty of money to start with; but it is not the starting, but the keeping of it going at a profit that calls for brains. I recall now the reply, probably prompted by a day's severe and exhausting work, when after listening as patiently as possible to the young man's crude notions respecting a business in which he had had no experience, he begged I would tell him in as few words as possible the qualifications necessary to prosecute the business successfully. He was somewhat startled by the assertion that they were as follows:

A brain as flexible and as elastic as steel,
A memory as tenacious as iron,
A temper even as that of a saint,
A digestion equal to that of an ostrich,
And the endurance of adamant.

NEWSPAPERS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

And, indeed, when I cast a retrospective glance over the last quarter of a century in the history of newspapers, even in Boston, and find how many workers for the press have perished in the harness, I am inclined to believe in the necessity of those characteristics, and more than ever at the present time in this age of telegrams, sharp competition and rigorous exaction.

After a brief retrospect, Mr. Guild continued: I have referred to the rigorous exactions demanded of newspapers of the present time, which those who are smitten with newspaper infatuation, so to speak, that is, the desire to rush into the business, are too apt to overlook. The manager of a new enterprise in newspapers who leans entirely on a political party or clique, or who expects personal friends or a popular name, or depends on "the ideas of enthusiastic would-be editors," as one of the fraternity calls them, for success, will find he leans upon a broken reed. The public is now so well journaled in all our great cities, that it demands a full quid pro quo for its money, and in order to give it, to now compete for any reasonable degree of success, the newspaper manager must needs possess in some degree the qualifications stated to the young college graduate as requisites, besides possessing so thorough a talent for and knowledge of the business as to enable him to crush out or drive to the wall one at least already established competitor. The business seems to me to be one of the most exacting in existence; it is never built up and completed; the newspaper never reaches a point where its projector or proprietor may sit down and let it in any degree run itself; in fact the newspaper must never fall behind the times, but always be a little in advance; it must lead, not follow. The late James Gordon Bennett, in an interesting interview I once had with him on the subject of journalism when I was quite a young man, illustrated this point by saying: "If you are determined to go into the business be in advance of the first rank—print in your paper to-day what the public are going to talk about to-morrow, and not what they were talking about yesterday."

A LABOR NEVER ENDING.

He who thinks when the newspaper is fairly established that the labor is done, makes a most egregious mistake. The strain upon cleverness, tact, ingenuity, vigor and enterprise never ceases for an instant; nay, the more successful and prominent a journal becomes the more is expected of it, and the less liable its readers to excuse any shortcomings of its managers. Novelty, originality and freshness are called for fully as much to-day in the journal of years' standing as in any new competitor, and must constantly be presented if its proprietor desires to see it continue to flourish and not dwindle and decay. Mr. Guild alluded to a class of journals the influence of which is destructive to moral principle, exhibiting as they do pictures of half-mud figures, representations of murders, burglaries, robberies, and all the hideous details of crime. It is a pity that there is not some effectual way of reaching these reeking abominations, which educate young men to be criminals, by the strong hand of the law, but the only method to combat them now appears to be with publications that are morally good and equally attractive.

THE MANAGING MAN.

"As I have not time for the history of journalism, neither can I enlarge upon that subject so often discussed, the true mission of the press, and say but little of its modern method of management, except that in old times it was the editor who managed the paper, and upon whom its success mainly depended, but now it is the managing man or business proprietor. Fortunate it is if both may be to any degree combined in the same individual, but in most cases the "man at the wheel," he who watches the breeze of success, avoids the shoals of disaster and rocks of destruction, who keeps the craft always before the wind and makes everything draw, as the sailors say, is the business manager—the newspaper man of to-day—and we are often inclined to think that such men must be born and cannot be made for their vocation. To young men in this business I would say that aptitude, industry, good habits and application make their mark in this as well as in other occupations. The history of successful men in it who have gained wealth, position or reputation by their own unaided, personal effort, is the same record of early oil, self-sacrifice, mortifications, iron industry, and determined endeavor that has been told over and over again by business men in every line of trade. You have to labor and to wait, for there is no royal road to success in this calling, and we must bear in mind that everything really worth having costs labor and effort to obtain.

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1876.

Cheer Up.

Dictators are liable to be weak in more than one direction. They imagine that the essence of wisdom lies chiefly within themselves. They are fond of listening to their own voices. They are in danger of forgetting that there are others who presumably know as much as they about matters and things of public import; and when aroused from their feelings of self-importance they exchange assurance for deprecation, and become the vexed croakers in existence.

The Nashua Telegraph seems to have the entire weight of the republican party of New Hampshire on its shoulders. Its sweetest cider will turn to vinegar unless it is consulted and the policy it endeavors to convince people as the most correct, is pursued. As it has no ambition to gratify other than the frequent publication of unasked for and unneeded advice, it takes its place among the guide-posts for the political wayfarer. But in its self-confidence it says: "Thou shalt have no other guide-post but me."

Modest and unsophisticated republicans look on with awe, and imagine that such an attitude must be the result of wondrous powers of second sight, while others are indignant that nothing but suspicion gilds the clouds that float on the atmosphere which engulfs Nashua in its gloomy embrace. "To err is human; to forgive divine;" to suspect wrong of neighbors and associates continually, though unconsciously, is weakness itself; and to forget them fo inward revelations of self-complacency is a mistake, no matter how naturally treacherous the memory.

The republican party has just achieved one of its most magnificent victories, and every one of its members rejoices with exceeding great joy over the deliverance it brings. When its brightest achievements are being applauded by its brethren all over the land, there should be no man or paper so heartless as to brood like a night owl over its future conduct, ever ready to harbor suspicion, and as earnest to creak forth lamentations in embryo. Cheer up, Telegraph; be as other great and potent influences. Let no difference of opinion, or failure to appreciate your especial A Oneness, cast you forever in the shadow. "Rest, spirit, rest!"

News and Notes.

The Ohio republicans in State convention put forward Gov. Hayes for a Presidential candidate. Ex-Gov. Noyes heads the delegation to the Cincinnati convention. It is understood that Gen. B. H. Bristow, is his second choice.

Worcester's water supply, the Leicester reservoir, gave way about one o'clock on the evening of March 29th. No lives were lost.

Mrs. Charles Dube, of Malden, Ontario, gave birth to twins last Friday. The same woman gave birth to triplets about a year ago, and obtained the Queen's bounty of three guineas. She has borne twins four times, triplets once, and given birth to four other children besides. A rapid increase of population!—St. John Globe.

Mr. Schumaker, democratic Representative from New York, had $300,000 of Pacific Mail corruption funds in his pocket when he voted for the impeachment of Belknap. Mr. Schumaker still keeps his seat, and no democrat raises an objection.

In Epping there are 54 widows, 18 widowers and 21 old maids.

The late Reverdy Johnson owned one thousand acres of land in Anne Arundel County, Md.; one thousand acres in Allegheny County; and a large tract in Baltimore County, worth half a million dollars.

Howard Glidden, aged sixteen years, son of Warren Glidden of Plymouth, was caught in the shafting of A. W. Avery's steam mill and instantly killed, March 29th.

The Republic Magazine for April maintains its previous high reputation. Thoroughly republican in tone, the Republic deals plainly with the political issues of the day and the pretensions of the democratic party. During the Presidential canvass no republican should be without this valuable monthly. It is a complete text-book, and affords the material needed by every speaker and writer in the land. Subscription price only $2. Send money to Republic Publishing Company, Washington, D. C.

A brig of 300 tons, name not given, was burned 80 miles outside the capes of Virginia on the 21st. Crew taken off by some unknown vessel.

In this season of suspicion and investigation no one can hope to escape scrutiny. The story about Bristow was not a whit more improbable than the story about Pendleton. So far as character is concerned, Mr. Pendleton, until the railway charges were made, stood as high as Mr. Bristow. But when the scrutiny came Pendleton fell, while Mr. Bristow came out not only stainless, but with renewed lustre.—New York Herald.

A republican caucus was held in Keene on the evening of the 28th, to choose a candidate to be recommended as postmaster. Asa Smith, freight agent in Keene of the Cheshire Railroad, was chosen.

Two masked highwaymen stopped the stage-coach from San Marcos to Austin, Texas, March 27, robbed the passengers and rifled the mail.

The Payne currency bill (that is what the result of the many weeks of caucusing by the rebel brigadiers in Congress was called) was decisively rejected in the House. Probably no further attempt to solve the financial problem will be made at the present session of Congress.

The Direction of the Bureau Veritas has just published the list of marine disasters reported in the month of January, 1876, concerning all flags. The list gives the following statistics: Sailing vessels reported lost, 96, viz., 27 English, 14 American, 13 French, 6 German, 5 Norwegian, 4 Austrian, 2 Danish, 2 Spanish, 2 Greek, 2 Italian, 2 Dutch, 2 Russian, 1 Portugese, 13 of which the nationality is unknown. In this number are included 19 sailing vessels reported as missing. Steamers reported lost, 9, viz., 2 English, 2 Spanish, 1 German, 1 American, 1 Danish, 1 Italian, 1 Sweden.

This is the kind of a chap the editor of the Biddeford Times is: "A couple of impertinent, saucy, insolent, contemptible, ignorant, pert and insulting animals,—animals who wear hoopskirts, to the disgrace of the rest of the female world,—last evening met one of our most highly esteemed citizens on Main street, and in the broad gaslight, where he could not have been mistaken for some one else, did spit a huge gob square into his face. We don't believe in knocking over anybody, females especially, but we think if we had been in the gentleman's place that the atmosphere within a radius of fifty feet, would have been filled with fragments of bustles, waterfalls, crinolines, and other articles which enter into the composition of a female, while a couple of dilapidated creatures would be picking themselves up from some mud puddle."

THE SING-SONG OF MALY COE.

[Charles G. Leland in Lippincott's for April.]

In the city of Whampo'
Live Joss-pidgin man (1) name Coe:
Mister Coe he missionary, (2)
Catchee one cow-chilo, (4) Maly.

Father man he leadee (5) book,
Maly talkee with the cook;
Good olo (6) father talkee Joss (7)
But China woman talkee bosh.

Bym'by Maly gettee so
She only Pidgin-English know, (8)
And father man he solly (9) see
She thinkee lesson (10) like Chi'nee.

One day some flin (11) flom (12) Boston come
And askee, "Mister Coe at home?"
He servant go to opee door,
But Maly lun (13) chop chop (14) before.

An' slaunger (15) say when in he come,
"Is Mister Coe, my dear, at home?"
And Maly answer velly true,
"My thinkee this time no can do." (16)

He olo father, still as mouse,
Chin-chin Joss topsidey house; (17)
Allo tim he make Joss-pidgin, (18)
What you Fan-kwai (19) callee 'ligion.

He gentleman much stare galow (20)
To hearee girley talkee so;
And say, "Dear child may I inquire
Which form of faith you most admire?"

And Maly answer he request:
"My like Chinee Joss-pidgin best;
My love Kwan-wan (21) with chilo neat,
And Joss-stick (22) smellee velly sweet.

Afong, our olo cook down stairs,
Make tonchee Maly Chinee prayers;
Say, if my chin chin Fo (23)—oh my!—
Nex' time my born, my bortee boy! (24)
An' then my gettee nicey sew
A little dacket—towers too—
An' lun about with allo boys;
In bu'ful boots thatmakee noise."

Tear come in he gentleum eyes,
An' then he anger 'gin to rise;
He wailo (25) scoldee Mister Coe
For 'glecting little Maly so.

An' Mister Coe feel velly sore,
So go and scoldy comprador;
An' comprador, with hollor shook,
Lun downy stairs and beatee cook.

And worsey allo-allo pain,
Maly go Boston home 'gain;
No flee-clackers any more,
Nor talk with cook and comprador.

MORAL PIDGIN.

If Boston girley be let go,
She sartin sure to b'lieve in Fo,
And the next piece of her plan
Is to lun loud and act like man.
So, little chilos, mind you look,
And never talkee with the cook;
Too make so-fashion, first you know
You catchee sclape (26) like Maly Coe.

A Toast.

Two Important Discoveries: The discovery of America by Columbus, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; the one opening up to mankind a new continent, the other a fountain of health, which is indispensable to the full enjoyment of life and its blessings. In response to the above sentiment come the unsolicited attestations of tens of thousands of grateful patients, who have been relieved of chronic ailments through its instrumentality. Those voices are limited to no one locality, but from every city village, and hamlet, in our broad domain, as well as from other climes, and in the strange utterances of foreign tongues, like the confused murmur of many waters, come unfeigned and hearty commendations. It is, in combination with the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the great deputator of the age. Under its benign action eruptions disappear, excessive waste is checked, the nerves are strengthened, and health, long banished from the system, resumes her reign, and re-establishes her throne upon the cheek. All who have thoroughly tested the virtues in the disease for which it is recommended unite in pronouncing it the great Medical Discovery of the age.

☞ That yellow tinge of the complexion is a sure indication of bile in the blood. It is effectually removed by using GILBERT'S EXCELSIOR LIVER LOZENGES.

Tested by Time.—For Throat Diseases, Colds, and Coughs, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" have proved their efficacy by a test of many years.

The soothing, healing effects of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam are plainly experienced with the first dose. Its work appears little less than magic, yet it acts on well-known principles, and because compounded in just the right manner to cure.

Stand not upon the Order of your Going,

But go at once and buy a bottle of the fragrant SOZODONT. You will never regret it. It not only beautifies and preserves the teeth, and arrests decay, but leaves the mouth cool, and the breath as fragrant as a rose.

Spalding's Glue, cheap, convenient, useful.

Important to persons visiting New York or the Centennial. The Grand Union Hotel, New York, opposite the Grand Central Depot, has over 250 elegantly furnished rooms. Elevator, steam and all improvements. European plan. Carriage hire is saved, as baggage is taken to and from the depot free. Guests can live better for less money at the Grand Union than at any other first-class hotel. Stages and cars pass the Hotel constantly to all parts of the city, and to the Philadelphia depot.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $15,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was thirty years accumulating $50,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $50,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the decided wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Collision on the Concord R. R.

A washout occurred in a culvert on the Concord Railroad about a mile above Martin's Ferry, Wednesday afternoon, March 29th, about four o'clock. The afternoon train down was taken over without the engine. The evening express passenger train up was pushed over without the engine and taken up by the engine which had set off from the down train. The work of repairing the washout was begun at once. A way freight had stopped to wait till it was repaired sufficiently to pass over. It stood on the up track below the depot and about half a mile below the washout. In the rear of this train and close to the last car stood the engine W. A. Tower, which took up the 5:30 up passenger train, which latter had been pushed over the obstruction. The up passenger train due at Concord left Manchester on time with instructions to proceed to Martin's Ferry, and there await orders. A man was sent back from the engine "Tower," to signal the up passenger train. The engineer of the latter whistled for brakes and reversed the engine. But a collision occurred. The engineer and fireman of the "Tower" jumped, and were not injured. The engineer of the "Pembroke," Edward Sawtelle, jumped, and escaped injury; his son Willie, firemen, was thrown back among the wood in the tender, which telescoped its entire length with the baggage car, and had his right leg broken in two places, and was otherwise badly injured. Assistant Superintendent J. W. Hildreth of this city, and Assistant Road Master William Burbank were both upon the engine Pembroke; the former had several teeth broken and received several bad cuts and bruises. The latter had his right shoulder dislocated and is otherwise seriously injured. He was caught under the head break of the tender, which had to be broken before he could be extricated. Both engines were badly smashed. In the passenger train were seven cars but only the baggage car next the engine was smashed. The freight cars, six or nine in number, were more or less stove up.

Rascally Business.

The Direct Cable was again broken, on Monday afternoon, March 27, though the fact was not made known to the public until Thursday. There is little doubt that the repeated breaks in this cable (which was as carefully constructed and laid as any other) have been made purposely and maliciously, to damage the company and possibly force them to sell out at a loss to the old monopoly; but the public will be much better pleased should the villainly result in the perpetrators finding themselves in the penitentiary.

The scientific experts appointed by the Direct Cable Company to investigate the circumstances under which the cable was before out, have made an elaborate report which argues that the cutting must have been done by design. They find that it was done by some implement; that it could not have occurred by accident; that "a sailing vessel of eighty tons could, if handled for the purpose of doing so, break the cable without lifting it to the surface, and that with a steam vessel so handled the operation would be still more easy." These things having been settled, it now remains for the Direct Company to get on the track of the perpetrators of the crime. It is evident that this can certainly be done, when it is considered that quite a number of men who knew how to grapple for the cable, and to raise it, must have been engaged in the work. The offer of a large reward would be very sure to bring out some one of these men, or otherwise furnish a clue which would lead to the apprehension of the culprits and the discovery of the motive that prompted them. Such a peculiar crime ought not to escape punishment.

Jottings.

The public will hardly need to be reminded of the unusual entertainment offered them on Saturday evening at the Temple. Independent of the praiseworthy object of the entertainment (which is to help the poor) the pleasure of seeing our gifted townswoman make her debut as a lecturer is very attractive; and we are assured by those who should know, that the lecture is full of good points and is very instructive and entertaining.

The famed Hyers sisters (with others) give one of their popular and thoroughly enjoyable entertainments at the Temple this (Friday) evening. See advertisement.

Mr. Daniel Lynch, late chief officer of the brig A Porter, wrecked at the Shoals, on Thursday received by telegraph instructions from the owners of the vessel, in Annapolis, Nova Scotia, to sell whatever was saved from the wreck. The running rigging and anchors and chains are about all that is left of, the ill-fated brig. The cargo of salt was on account of Mr. George E. Downes, of Boston, and was uninsured, as was also the vessel. Mr. Lynch has contracted with a Portsmouth man to bring in the material saved from the wreck, for thirty dollars; possibly the lighterman may make something worth his while on his contract—hope he will—but we wouldn't like to earn thirty dollars that way.

Mr. John M. Davis' farm was sold at auction, Wednesday, in lots, to different individuals, as follows: Mr. Frank G. Sherburne bought two lots for $1825; Mr. Thomas Warburton one for $1865; Mr. Stephen Marden one for $610; Mr. Allen Greenough one for $820.

A correspondent says: A visit to New York is incomplete without seeing the new and superb Rossmore Hotel. This magnificent and palatial house is one of the finest and most complete hotel in the world. It is a model structure combining all improvements in architectural skill, and is perfect in its internal arragements. The grand parlors and spacious dining rooms are sixteen feet high, beautifully frescoed and gorgeously furnished. It has elevator, steam, patent chandeliers, electric bells, and every conceivable improvement. The rates for day board and luxurious rooms and suites are even lower than at some other first-class hotels possessing only a part of the Rossmore's excellent advantages and conveniences. The Rossmore is conducted by Chas. E. Leland, of the Delavan, at Albany, and owner of Clarendon, at Saratega. It is situated on Broadway and 42d Street, three blocks west of Grand Central Depot. A free omnibus conveys passengers from this depot to the hotel. The Elevated Railroad passes near by, thus making Wall Street and all parts of the city of quick and easy access.

Mr. John Burns, whose wife died Thursday morning, was further afflicted by having his son, a lad of about nine years, break his leg the same afternoon by getting it caught in the spokes of a wheel while trying to jump into a wagon.

—"Now, Spriggins, my dear," said Mrs. Spriggins at the theatre during the first intermission, "you needn't go out to get any coffee, for I have got a half-pound in my pocket."

—A monster moose was on exhibition, at the market, at Ottawa, Saturday, when the Dominion policeman came along and seized it on the ground that it was illegal to have that kind of game in possession at this season of the year.

—One friend to another, who has just returned from a trip abroad: "Did you enjoy your European tour?" "Very much indeed." "Did you call on any of the big ones?" "Yes; I called on two queens one evening." "Called on two queens? Was it a pleasant affair?" "No, not very, for after I called I found the other chap had three kings."

—There is little mercy about the administration of justice in Prince Edward's island. A man convicted of assault was sentenced to a year's imprisonment and one hour in the pillory; another for robbery, to two years' imprisonment, two days in the pillory, and two whippings of thirty lashes each; and three men were sentenced to death for burglary.

—A gushing and enthusiastic writer says Polish ladies have a certain "haunting loveliness" about them. The only time when a man really appreciates what "haunting loveliness" means is when he sneaks in by the back way at one A. M., and finds his wife waiting for him with a rolling-pin at the head of the kitchen stairway.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

—In reply to letters of inquiry sent to them by the editor of the Congregationalist asking for their exact form of invitation to the communion table, fifty Congregational pastors reply that they invite members of evangelical churches, ninety invite all church members, thirty-six invite all Christians, and fifteen give invitations that cannot be classed with either of these three.

—A Fort Madison man went into his cow stable recently, and, by mistake, mixed her a mash in a box full of saw-dust instead of bran. The cow, merely supposing the hard times had come and they were all going to economize, meekly ate her supper, and that man never discovered his mistake until the next morning, when he milked that cow, and she let down half-a-gallon of turpentine, a quart of shoe-pegs, and a bundle of laths.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—General Kilpatrick, in his review of Sheman's campaign tells the following story: "Shortly after our army had entered Savannah, a number of clergymen called upon General Sherman and among other questions, inquired if they could hold divine service as usual in the churches. "Certainly," said the General. "Why not?" "But," said a dignified, saintly looking individual, "some of us are Episcopalians." "Well, that is a good religion. No objection to your religion; none whatever," answered Sherman. "But, sir," said the clergymen, "we are in the habit of praying for the President and Congress." "That's right; pray for them; no objection on that score." "Yes, sir—we pray for—President Davis and the Confederate Congress." "Oh!" said Sherman, "you want to pray for Jeff Davis, do you?" "Yes, sir!" emphatically replied the clergymen. "All right," said Sherman, his brows lowering, "pray for him, pray for the devil—pray for both of them—the one needs it as much as the other. Is that all, gentlemen?"

Tired of Pulling Down.

He was sitting at the rear end of the beer saloon, says the Atlanta Constitution, looking savagely at a neglected oyster can in the back yard.

"Have a beer, Jakey?" he was asked.

"Con'd com fool mit me! I vas intenden on nine own peezness, ain'd id, now?" he snapped back.

"Wy, what's up now?"

Jakey jumped up and glared around in search of a beer mug or bung-st rter, but happily neither were handy. Then he walked up to his interrogator:

"I vas altvays bin a frendt mit you und I wote von yor fadder dot he bo's ein alderman's von de city, but of you say dot ting mit me some more—vell, you yust better got do dot, now!"

He shook his head threateningly and his face looked like a furnace hole with the door down.

"Wy, Jakey, you are crazy; I did not say—"

"Yah! I vas grazzy, vas I? You don't say someting, ah? but I know rat you vants to say mit me! FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.22 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 930 150 . 05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 28.
Total premiums paid in 29 years, $326.50
less dividends, 146.00
Average cost per year, 11.62
Cost for 1876, 5.16

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1875, from the sale of the Genuine Article their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon sent for more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took to my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one entire package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for six packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truthfully say they are worth tenfold for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't live much longer, and could not eat anything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials you say they were worth $1.00 for one package; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, and spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I should suffer the rest of my days. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and on April 20 I sent for one dozen Packages of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as easily as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. I say there was no delusion about it; I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reidendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved Inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great skill and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its place.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

Relieve Your Lungs.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurious and enervating climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

Such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance as the strongest ground for its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal interests or prejudices.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will relolve whenever those principles are victorious under the old banner, to lay down its arms in favor of measures or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to reform the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, and a return to honesty and economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Indiana and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining the position it had taken, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and honest principles, without being too much controlled by party names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that concessions and independence have been thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wranglings; will waste no time in the futile effort to silence its attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe this paper is a welcome visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the support which has been so generously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by its honest watching duces and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh and reliable news, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the country, and quite a dozen its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 12 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments—stories, &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

absolutely without a rival. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are distinguished for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

A Snake on Irish Soil.

Lawrence Kelly is a worthy son of the Emerald Isle, as well as an old Pacific Coast pioneer, and plenty of people in Gold Hill know him and are his friends. When Christopher James went on his matrimonial trip to Europe, last season, Kelly sent by him for a handful or so of genuine Irish soil. When he returned in the Fall, Christopher brought him a cigar box full of real Irish soil, taken from Cork. Once more did Kelly behold the land of his nativity, the soil of the "ould sod," and when he pulled off his boots and stood barefooted upon it, or sprinkled some of it in his bed and slept on it, the scenes and remembrances of his boyhood days came floating o'er him, as it were, and he fancied that he could almost smell the sweet breezes wafted across the lakes of Killarney and the green bogs of Kildare, and hear the warbling of the little birds among the groves of Limerick and Tipperary. He treasured that soil like so much gold dust and felt rich in the possession of it.

One day an idea struck him. Remembering the well-known popular saying that since the days of good St. Patrick a snake cannot live on Irish soil, he resolved to demonstrate that point in a very practical manner. He subsidized a Piute boy to procure him a snake, giving him $5. That little "Injin" had a bothersome job, for this is not a good country for snakes; but he succeeded, and in the course of a day or two brought in a large "bull" snake, as big round as a pick-handle, with a head like a potato. Then he went and bought a big necked demijohn for $2.50, and put his box of soil into it. Then he dumped in the snake and watched to see him die. But that snake didn't do so. On the contrary, he seemed rather to enjoy it, and rolled about loosely in it, like a kitten in a bed of catnip. He had the covering stripped off the demijohn so that he could watch the progress of that snake's dissolution, and whenever he found him asleep, he said: "There he goes; the soil is getting the best of the rascal." But with a shake of the jug up would spring the snake livelier than ever.

Six weeks passed on, and there was that aggravating snake looking serenely happy and content. In fact, Kelly began to imagine that the bright-eyed scoundrel was getting fat. What if he should have been eating that soil all this time! "The devil! Shall a dirty snake be allowed to luxuriously gorge himself on such precious food as that?" says Kelly. So he dumped the demijohn over on its side, and out crawled the snake. "Ah ha! me boy," shouted Kelly, dancing around like a Modoc Indian, "it's there are you," and he spatted that snake across the jaws with a long handled shovel laying him out neatly. "If Irish soil can't kill you an Irishman can."

And now Kelly don't believe that Irish soil will kill snakes any more than he thinks that Irish whisky would kill an Englishman. He has his much-prized soil spread out in hollow dishes, and carefully he sprinkles it daily, in order to see what may possibly start up and grow spontaneously from it. Something is just now sprouting up, green and pretty. Kelly feels sure it's the shamrock. What if it should be snakeroot?—Gold Hill (Nev.) News.

To Clean Furniture.

Take a soft sponge, wet with clean cold water, and wash over the article. Then take a soft chamois skin, and wipe it clean. Dry the skin as well as you can by wringing it in the hands, and wipe the water off the furniture, being careful to wipe only one way. Never use a dry chamois on varnish work. If the varnish is defaced and shows white marks, take linseed oil and turpentine, in equal parts; shake them well in a vial, and apply a very small quantity on a soft rag until the color is restored; then with a clean soft rag wipe the mixture off. In deeply carved work, the dust cannot be removed with a sponge. Use a stiff-haired paint brush, instead of a sponge.—Industrial Monthly.

Old Lovers and Youthful Brides.

"Snowflakes and apple blossoms," as emblematical of the marriage of Senator Christiancy and his pretty young wife, is a common phrase in Washington now; and many parallel cases are quoted. Senator Ogiesby of Illinois has a beautiful wife, probably not half his age; Senator Hamlin's wife is also young and lovely; Hon. Horatio King is about twice the age of his bride of a year; and Dr. Culver has a beautiful young wife, not half his age. Mrs. Christiancy is very lovely, with a complexion like a sea-shell, dark eyes and golden hair; she is petite in figure, and has a very pleasant winning smile. The worthy senator can boast neither youth nor a fine looking old age, being anything but handsome. So much for the romance of beautiful girls. Home Journal.

Apropos of Senator Christiancy, you will remember that he very recently married a countess (money counter), as the punsters said, in the Treasury Department. Well, our austere alabaster society, composed of a nucleus of Cabinet ladies and others whose lineage can be traced to obscurity or chaos by memory and without the aid of a book, were in long and doubtful deliberation as to whether they would recognize her in their charmed circle. The ugly and moralesque feature of the deliberation was the urgent demand of the fallen Mrs. Belknap for an edict of exclusion against the audacious little parvenu. But the young wife of the rugged old Michigander has been called upon by Mrs. Fish and the other Cabinet ladies, and now she, since her social exaltation, has cut her former acquaintances.—Utica Observer.

SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 1876.

The Worcester Flood.

The Leicester reservoir, which furnished the main water supply of Worcester, Mass., sprung a leak Wednesday night at about one o'clock, near the gate house, and the alarm was at once spread down the valley which would be swept by the flood should the embankment yield. The people hurriedly left their homes and in many instances camped on the hill-sides for the rest of the night; in the morning, the flood not coming down, some of the bolder ones proceeded to rescue what they could of their property, and some few had even determined to occupy their houses again Thursday night, and probably would have done so had the buildings not been carried away before night arrived.

The city authorities of Worcester were early on hand to try to stop the leak, which increased very gradually, but steadily, and by daylight had become a large stream. Thousands of sight-seers lined the course the flood would take if the dam broke, and every safe point from which the dam could be seen. Efforts to stay the disaster were continued all the forenoon of Thursday and at times with seemingly much success. A large force of workmen were busily employed carting gravel, bales of hay, tree tops, in fact everything which they could find, and dumping them in on the inner side of the dam near the great leak. This filling, however, was of such a nature and necessarily so loosely done, that at most it could only be expected to serve as a temporary barrier, and stem the waters until an entrance could be made into the lower gate-house, the gate opened and the reservoir drawn off. At noon there was but little water falling out of the lower gate-house, and the surface of the water in the reservoir was considerably below the top of the rollway. Some time before this it was determined to cut a channel through another portion of the reservoir, but the work proved useless. Meantime the water in the reservoir was falling at the rate of about an inch an hour—a rate altogether too slow to do any good. Steadily the fearfully strong current of water rushing through the embankment was doing its work of destruction, and when for a time its force seemed deadened and cheering despatches were sent to Worcester to the effect that the difficulty was being overcome, the result proved that all had been mistaken, and that the imprisoned waters were but gathering energy for a more determined onslaught on the barriers placed before them.

Hour by hour the crumbling banks and the tell-tale muddy color of the escaping stream told that the work of demolition was actively going on, but the cement wall within the embankment served as guard, and thus the working waters were in a measure kept at bay. It was not until about 5 o'clock that the nearness of the impending disaster became apparent to the officials in charge, and then one common rush for places of safety was made and all efforts to avert a break were abandoned. The break took place at 5.30 o'clock, and almost immediately after a surging flood burst upon the gate-house below the dam. The break was not of great extent, but the embankment on the inner side began to tumble into the seething waters, and then it became manifest that nothing could be done to stop the long-threatened flood. For a considerable time the stone work in the centre of the dam and on either side of the rushing stream remained firmly in position, and the waters shot between as through a short flume; and once past the stony barrier, they exerted their tearing, wearing force right and left, and great masses of the heavy bank were swept away, minute by minute. For half an hour this driving mass of water swept with a roar through the narrow pass, and dashed against the gate-house, directly in its path, with a fury which was almost sublime. Still the massive structure stood unmoved, while the spray was thrown far above its roof and the angry waves rolled half way up its exposed front and billowed in impotent fury around its sides. The water in the reservoir had now fallen about four feet, but its force was rather increased than diminished, and a few minutes later a tremulous motion was noticed in the gate-house, and then, with a melting, sinking motion, about one-half the structure disappeared beneath the waves, while its roof danced bottom up on the whirling sea below. Shortly after this the walls in the embankment gave way for a short distance in either direction, and the escaping stream was more than double in volume in a few minutes. The breach thenceforward steadily yet slowly widened, until a span of perhaps a hundred feet would have been required to cross it. By 7 o'clock the flow of water had sensibly diminished, and an hour later, although its volume was still considerable, the rush and roar had to a great extent disappeared.

When first leaving the reservoir the water was confined to a narrow tree-grown gorge, and through this natural channel it rushed with the sound of a tornado, splitting and tearing the lighter growth of timber, and uprooting even the giants of the wood when at its greatest height. After half a mile Cherry Valley was reached, and here the first real damage was done. Here the alarm was first sounded Wednesday night, and one would have thought that its inhabitants would have taken every precaution to save property as well as life. Strangely enough they did not, however. Had the rush of water been more sudden many lives must have been lost, but as fully half an hour elapsed from the time the final alarm was given until the flood was at its height an opportunity was afforded for getting to a place of safety. Mr. George W. Olney's barn was the first building encountered; it gave way with a crash and floated in a nearly upright position on the muddy waters. While the fragments of the barn were still floating in sight the lower part of Mr. Olney's house was crushed in, and the whole structure was twisted on its foundation and almost completely ruined, inflicting a loss of $10,000 or more upon this gentleman. A short distance below this point Smith's pond, a very pretentious sheet of water, is situated, and by 6 o'clock a great mass of water was flowing over its lower end. The effect of this unusual pressure was to quickly undermine the woollen mill belonging to Mr. James Smith, and about half of the structure dropped into the waters with a crash. The dam still held, and if it could only pass through the ordeal in safety much damage would be spared to those below. Mr. Olney's barn soon came sweeping along, however, and the thousands who breathlessly watched the scene expected to see the dam go when this mass of timber struck it, but so great was the depth of water above the embankment that the barn, although half submerged, passed over it without a jar and plunged almost out of sight in the seething caldron below. This ended the barn's career, however, for only splintered fragments arose from that fearful dive. Mr. Smith's mill was not being run at present, but it was to start up within a few days, and when in operation it gave employment to between seventy-five and one hundred hands. It is damaged to the extent of about $20,000. The stream made a slight bend here, and just on the opposite concavity was situated a woollen mill belonging to W. Bottomly and employing about twenty-five hands. This building was fairly ground to fragments, and the damage here is not far from $5000. The next mill to be encountered was a massive structure of brick belonging to Messrs Ashworth & Jones, which was damaged to the extent of about $15,000.

At Jamesville, nearly two miles from the reservoir, the next serious damage was inflicted, and this time it was the track of the Boston & Albany Railroad that suffered. The flood passed over a small dam on the road above the Jamesville depot. Spectators who were standing near the depot say that the water was thirty feet high when it approached the track. With one tremendous crash, the railroad embankment gave way, opening a gap 400 or 500 feet long and 20 feet deep. The coal sheds were carried away, but the passenger and freight depots were left standing. Just before the water struck the railroad embankment at Jamesville, a section of the stream forced its way on to the line of the road, and, passing on both sides of the depot, rushed ten feet high down the track, carrying devastation before it. The grade being quite steep at this point a new impetus was given the water, and in its course it lifted the rails and ties bodily from the road-bed and turned them topsy-turvy. For more than a mile it rushed headlong, and at last, just before reaching the bridge at Curtis pond, it bored a hole down into the road-bed and made a gap about eighty feet long and forty-five or fifty feet deep. The water then found its way into Curtis pond. The devastation at this point will be as costly as any along the entire route. The two long and deep gaps will require much time and great expense to repair.

The flood reached Leesville about two hours after the dam broke, and struck the satinet mill owned by Albert Curtis with terrific force; it gave way and crumbled into ruins. Three hours after the dam broke away, the effect was felt in New Worcester. The course of the stream through the other villages is nine miles, showing that the water advanced at the rate of three miles per hour. The first mile, however, was made in just three minutes. The first indication of trouble at Curtis Pond was the rise of the water which soon cut a hole through the dam. The Boston & Albany Railroad embankment served as a dam and Webster square was rapidly converted into a reservoir. In a few minutes one end of a large brick shop gave way, falling into the stream. By this time the gap in the Curtis Pond dam had increased to twenty feet, and soon after the Arcade building tipped over and was left standing on an end. In about an hour the bridge on the Boston & Albany Railroad gave way, and a section of the embankment seventy feet long and twenty feet deep with it. An outlet was made and further danger at New Worcester was averted. After the second break in the Boston & Albany Railroad, the mill of the Wick's Manufacturing Co., at South Worcester, was destroyed. The water then spread out over a series of meadows, and in the south part of the city there was a general inundation. No further damage occurred.

The reservoir was built in 1863 and rebuilt in 1870-71, and held 700,000,000 gallons of water. When the Mill River disaster occurred a prominent civil engineer was employed by the city of Worcester to report on this dam, and reported that he considered it safe, but pointed out the place where the leak occurred as the weakest part of the structure. Worcester has two other reservoirs, one of them having no connection with the bursted one and the other depending entirely upon it; both these are now full, and will furnish the city with water for about a week.

No lives were lost, so far as yet known.

News and Notes.

The second official report is published at Bremen of the results of the investigation into the dynamite explosion at Bremerhaven some months ago. The synopsis telegraphed fully confirms in outline the name, antecedents and connections of the villain, Thomas, published some time ago in American papers, to the following effect: That his real name was Alexander Keith, Jr.; that he was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia; that he was a staunch friend of the South during the civil war; that he harbored and aided blockade runners and became one himself, and that he absconded from Halifax in 1864 with $250,000 entrusted with him by Confederates to buy provisions for the Southern army. Keith subsequently lived in New York as Alexander King Thompson, but his connections there are unknown. In 1865 he appeared at Highland in possession of $80,000. He married there Miss Cecily Paris.

Miles, the Barre (Vt.) bank robber, has been sentenced to 14 years imprisonment.

Articles of impeachment were presented in the House against Ex-Secretary of War Belknap on Thursday.

Alluding to the sentence of Piper, the New York Commercial Advertiser ventures modestly to inquire, "What's ever been done with that little fiend, Jesse Pomeroy?" The question has occurred to other people of an inquiring turn of mind.

Charles G. Hutchinson, 21 years old, committed suicide with a revolver at Milford on the 30th of March. Ill health was the cause.

Deacon John Mitchell, of Haverhill, Mass., hanged himself March 20th. Insane.

They see this thing clearly over the water. Says the Dundee Advertiser, observing the reduction by the Senate of the salary of the President, from $50,000 to $25,000: "This is surely economy run mad. The President is looked upon to keep up the dignity of the nation, and it is beneath the dignity of a great nation to grudge his stipend. This plan of starving the public service—as recent events go to show—does not always turn out to be the best economy."

Schooner Hyperion, Handran, on a recent run from Georges Bank to Gloucester, Mass., struck a floating wreck, apparently a coaster, thirty miles southeast of Agamenticus. The wreck was on her broadside, badly broken up, her house broken in two places, and cane-seat chairs were seen floating therein. Her first name, "Ann," was all that could be discerned.

The Dover Democrat suggests that "if the republicans do not nominate Bristow at Cincinnati, there is more than an even chance that the democrats will do it at St. Louis." This reminds us of a little story about Bristow. Two democratic Congressmen called upon him one day, and suggested if he would consent to grind a little axe for them that they would reciprocate the favor. "No bargains, gentlemen. I am a republican and you are democrats. If there is anything in the line of my duty that I can do for you, please call round. Good day." The two democratic Congressmen shouldered their little axe and retired with a flea in their ear.—Nashua Telegraph.

The Nashua Telegraph occupies the right ground when it says of the delegates to the National republican convention: They should be uncommitted when elected, unless there is an entire unanimity of public sentiment, and they should keep their minds open, measure the aspirants, and finally give their votes to the man that they honestly believe to be best fitted for the position and most likely to make the best use of it for the honor and advancement of the country and of the republican party. In the meantime a discussion of candidates, of their records, their qualifications and their characteristics, if honorably conducted, is entirely in order on the part of the press and the people.

—A foot of water settled in a cellar in Thomas street last Friday, and in the evening when the man of the house went down in the dark after a pan of apples, without his boots on, he said things which we would not print for $17.—Rome Sentinel.

Miasma Rendered Powerless.
The most certain way to render powerless the miasmatic vapors which produce chills and fever and other malarious disorders, is to fortify the system against them with that matchless preventive of periodic fevers, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The remedial operation of the Bitters is no less certain than their preventive effects, and they may be relied upon to overcome cases of fever and ague which resist quinine and the mineral remedies of the pharmacopœia. Dyspepsia, constipation, bilious complaints, rheumatic ailments, and general debility, likewise, rapidly yield to their regulative and tonic influence. They are an incalculable blessing to the weak and nervous of both sexes, an excellent family medicine, and the best safeguard which the traveler or emigrant can take to an unhealthy climate.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $25,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $50,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I can add have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, say, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth.

A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

E. G. PIERCE, Jr., P. M.

The Eastern Railroad.

The hearing before a committee of the Massachusetts legislature closed on Thursday. Mr. Seth J. Thomas addressed the committee as the counsel for the road, and reviewed in detail the evidence which had been given before the committee relative to the company's losses, the contract between the Eastern and Boston & Maine and Portland, Saco & Portsmouth roads, the Lynn depot land purchase, the Maine Central stock purchase, the purchase of the Charlestown lands and other matters. He then spoke of the actors in these various matters. He criticised severely the actions of Messrs. Lothrop and Hooper, and said he knew of no one Director who is not blamable. In regard to the remedies and prospects, he said:

It seems to me plain that all the payments of money made for or on account of the Maine Central stock were illegal; that the Eastern Railroad Company has not adopted, nor in any way sanctioned, such payments, and that an action or actions may be maintained against each and all the Directors who participated in such payments. Such actions, I am proud to say, are not common in this Commonwealth; but there are abundant authorities for such in England, and some precedents in this State. It seems to me, also, that suits may be maintained against Sanborn, Willcomb, and others, for the recovery of the money they received, and against those who directed the payments, not to speak of the wanton destruction of property or culpable neglects. Whether any suit is expedient, or it is better, under the circumstances, to treat the Maine Central stock as property of the Eastern, it can be lawfully so treated, I express no opinion. It is obvious that the only effectual and permanent remedy for such abuses is to elect such persons Directors as are capable and honest, and will attend to the trust confided to them. Seeing that the Eastern Railroad has survived for so many years through such bad management, meeting all its engagements until midwinter, when business was greatly depressed, and then stopped, owing partly, at least, to a personal disagreement between the Directors, it is not unreasonable to expect that, under wise and prudent management, when the Spring opens and business revives, it will get on. Mr. Lawrence, who has considered the matter, states as his opinion that property belonging to the Company to the amount of $2,000,000 could be sold in a short time, and that the business of the road would not be impeded by such sale. He thinks the earnings for the year will probably reach $2,500,000, and the net earnings may be $800,000. Others concur in that opinion. Parker estimates the Wolfboro stock as worthless, the Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway as of little value, but the bonds of the latter now held by the company, amounting to $486,000, he regards as worth par. The evidence tends to show that something more than half a million of dollars might be realized from the sales of land and buildings not needed at East Boston. There is no reason to believe the debt exceeds $15,000,000.

In regard to the pending bill he said: While I would prefer to see it amended so to give the stockholders a little further extension of time, and the rate of interest a little reduced, and a few other features of the bill changed, I hope bankruptcy will be avoided, and prefer if the bill cannot be amended that it should pass as it is.

A Suggestion.

The strange similarity in the circumstances attending, or rather, preceding the two disastrous wrecks which occurred in this vicinity in the two recent great gales, leads to a suggestion it would be well to consider and follow. In each case the master of the vessel supposed himself, from actual observation and good departure taken the day before the wreck, to be near Cape Cod, and shaped his course for that point; and taking all due precautions at last found himself nearly ninety miles from his supposed position. There must be a cause for this, and a very grave one, which scientific nautical men are at a loss to account for. We have conversed with a large number of seamen, and searched the coast charts for some definite reason, but find it impossible to account with any degree of satisfaction for such a discrepancy between the actual and supposed positions of the two vessels. The only adequate explanation that occurs to us is that the current must have set in a northerly and easterly direction during the gales, with much greater rapidity than has ever been officially brought to the notice of navigators.

Take the statements of the survivors of the two wrecks, in each case happening to be the chief mate of the vessel. One of the captains (the master of the "Hattie Eaton") got a good observation the day before the gale; early on the day of the gale was (by calculation) off the head of Cape Cod; ran his vessel to the northeast and then north, and when he considered himself far enough to the northward altered his course to the northwest to run into Boston bay; after running on that course awhile sighted land, (which must have been some part of the Shoals, probably Duck island,) but not recognizing the land kept on for another hour and was then wrecked some eighty or ninety miles from where he supposed himself to be.

The master of the "A. Porter" sighted the buoy on Cashe's ledge at 11 o'clock of the day before the wreck of his vessel, and got an observation; shaped his course for Cape Cod, and after a few hours' run hauled up two points to the westward of the true course; having run far enough, hove to for six hours; then sounded, got bottom at a depth corresponding to soundings off Cape Cod, made sail and stood east-southeast, supposing he was standing off the land with any amount of sea-room ahead and to leeward; and two hours later (and only twenty-one hours after taking a departure from the buoy) was wrecked on the Shoals, seventy or eighty miles from where his reckoning made him out to be. Had the gale which blew during the previous night kept up at its full strength, so that no more sail could have been put on the brig when she was headed to the south and east at six o'clock Sunday morning, (two hours before she struck,) she would have dropped to leeward of the Shoals in the fog without receiving any intimation of danger and would probably have been piled up somewhere between Whalesback and York harbor before noon.

Another brig, the "Helen," came very near being wrecked on Gerrish's island on the same day as the "Hattie Eaton," the captain reporting that if the gale had continued a few hours longer such would have been the case, as he found himself not far from the scene of that disaster when the gale broke. Whether he also found himself far to leeward of his supposed position we cannot say, but it is certain the other vessels' captains did; and from this we judge that both the "Hattie Eaton" and "A. Porter" were carried to the north and east by currents of which they could have known nothing, at the rate of at least three or four miles an hour, for many hours before they struck the rocks.

In view of these facts and the terrible loss of life, a friend suggests that it would be well for the government to adopt some means to determine the rapidity and course of currents on this immediate coast, and that it could be done at a moderate expense by a large buoy moored say ten miles south and east of the Shoals, with a smaller buoy fastened to the large one by a chain and swivel, with a compass attachment to indicate the direction and some kind of a patent-log arrangement to measure the velocity of the current. Such a contrivance he thinks could be easily made and adjusted, so as to give the speed and direction of the currents, (whether steady or varying with gales or from other causes,) with sufficient approximation to exactness to answer all practical purposes, and at a nominal cost compared with the expense of doing the work with a vessel. The instruments would of course have to be self-registering, and might be so arranged that weekly inspections would be sufficient. At all events something should be done to determine whether there are off this coast regular currents, or irregular currents induced by gales of wind, of sufficient strength to put vessels so far out of their reckoning in a few hours as the lately-wrecked brigs were when they struck.

Jottings.

Howard & Ashcroft's big bills were blown from the bill-boards by the last gale, but the show will be given all the same next Tuesday evening, April 4th. Twenty-two artists are advertised to appear, among them Howard and Ashcroft, DeMont Brothers, the LeRoys, Tony Washburn and others,—in jigs, songs, farce and burlesque, etc. See advertisement.

The entertainment this (Saturday) evening at the Temple, will be an interesting event, and, it is hoped, a substantial benefit to the poor of our city. The ladies, who here make "positively their first appearance before any audience," will be cheered in their kind efforts by the hearty appreciation of their hearers. We anticipate a musical treat from the singers, and the enjoyment of the evening will be delightfully seasoned with the consciousness of contributing a mite to a good object. Everybody can go, for the price of the tickets was made with a view to filling all the seats. Master Willis E. Nowell will give violin solos,—another great attraction.

The House Committee on Naval Affairs, acting upon the recommendations of the sub-committees have decided that Mr. Griffiths, constructor of the Enterprise at the Kittery Yard, owes the Government $15,000 under his contract, and that Donald McKay, constructor of the Essex and the Adams, owes $22,000. The Committee also recommend that further payments to these contractors be suspended until the Government can secure a settlement that will not be detrimental to it. These sums the Committee claim to be on account of excessive and improper allowances granted these contractors. The Committee had before it the original contracts with these constructors and the record of the allowances that have been made. It is understood that the Committee will make still further recommendations respecting the contract and allowances for the construction of the Enterprise.

—A new ballot box has been invented by a citizen of Great Barrington, Mass. A thumb spring opens a slit in the top of the box for the depositing of the ballot, and on the front are two dials, one registering every ballot and the other every hundredth ballot. The ends are of plate-glass, so that the inquisitive citizen can watch the accumulation of votes.

—At Middletown, N. Y., there is a great ox which will be sent to the centennial exhibition. He was five years old on the 28th of May last, and weighs 5,000 pounds. He measures 25 feet from tip of tail to tip of nose, and is 22 hands high. His sire and dam were both imported from England, and were representatives of a celebrated English breed. He is not fat, and if in high flesh he would weigh, it is estimated 6,000 pounds. The owner of the animal has been offered $5,000 for a quarter interest in him.

A Toast.

Two Important Discoveries: The discovery of America by Columbus, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; the one opening up to mankind a new continent, the other a fountain of health, which is indispensable to the full enjoyment of life and its blessings. In response to the above sentiment come the unsolicited attestations of tens of thousands of grateful patients, who have been relieved of chronic ailments through its instrumentality. Those voices are limited to no one locality, but from every city village, and hamlet, in our broad domain, as well as from other climes, and in the strange utterances of foreign tongues, like the confused murmur of many waters, come unfeigned and hearty commendations. It is, in combination with the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the great depurator of the age. Under its benign action eruptions disappear, excessive waste is checked, the nerves are strengthened, and health, long banished from the system, resumes her reign, and re-establishes her roseate throne upon the cheek. All who have thoroughly tested the virtues in the disease for which it is recommended unite in pronouncing it the great Medical Discovery of the age.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 930 150 . 05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 28.
Total premiums paid in 20 years,	$396.99
less dividends,	11.62
Average cost per year,	18.08
Cost for 1875,	5.18

The undersigned, having been appointed as Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package they have spread so rapidly, that almost every one who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden. Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much and paid for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. At that time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I commenced by taking first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have induced two others for them. I purchased one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLASTRIDGE, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I was troubled with piles so bad that I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; that was worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pains in the back and hips, rendering me unable to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did me no good. I at last concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. I commenced taking them and felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends have noticed the change in me and say I look as if it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels and Constipation, and wished to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to all those who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.50: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I attribute my health to the blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better after this it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roxbury, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessary for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of securing their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. PULMONICE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMONICE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which promise to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; and the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or rally upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. Reform in the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to make a great forward move, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke an energetic discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE will continue to spend more money on embellishments than any other newspaper, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion and through the American conflict, and it will rejoice wherever those principles are put into practice under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of any party organization; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In its news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in political its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and is necessarily arraying itself against the Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so likely right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties have denounced and abused some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put power into their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the earnest and hearty support accorded in the past. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal warfare; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor to their families, THE TRIBUNE's policies a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1872 and 1873 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It was then that it became for the closest watchfulness and the most intelligent care to preserve the fresh est intelligence, the most complete reports, the most trustworthy and vigorous editorial work, and the most honest and able views of all its contributors, in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its contributors are numbered many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of the Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 13 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write original stories for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for elegance. They will be issued earlier than usual. Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

The Country Gentleman
POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10; and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club. TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

A dangerous Counterfeit.

Assistant Chief Benson, of the United States Secret Service, recently made some most astonishing discoveries of the perfection to which the art of counterfeiting has been brought, and at the same time succeeded in bagging several of the most dangerous "crooked money men" in the country, if not some of the most dangerous in the world. Several weeks ago one of the agents of the Secret Service succeeded in buying a $1,000 5-20 gold-bearing bond which he had reason to believe, from the character of the possessor, must be a counterfeit. Although even the closest inspection by experts failed to establish the fact that it was not genuine, Chief Washburne, of the Secret Service, believing from knowledge gained of its possession that the paper was spurious, determined to probe the matter to the bottom, and this, with the assistance of Mr. Benson, he has been enabled to do. The bond was purchased of a man named Wintermute, who afterward admitted that he had paid $600 for the secret of producing fac similes. By unintermitting exertions Benson finally succeeded in finding the art was invented and being practiced by one George G. Winans, who had two offices, one at No. 226 South Third Street, and the other at No. 222 Lackawanna Avenue, Scranton. A detective was immediately despatched to Scranton, another was sent to Portland, Penn., where Wintermute was sojourning, and a pull was made simultaneously at the three headquarters. In order to facilitate matters, warrants were obtained for the arrest of the crooked Philadelphians, and late in the afternoon Benson paid a most unexpected visit to the Third Street office, and unceremoniously "collared" Randolf Winans, a brother of Geo., and a man named Charles Allen. The rooms were searched, and several strange-looking plates, a number of impressions of the "lattice-work" of bonds, a battery, and other evidences were secured. Among the articles obtained were half a dozen reproductions of engravings so perfect in every particular that had it not been for a difference in the paper no expert could have separated the copies from the originals. Randolf Winans protested his innocence of all charges in regard to counterfeiting, and said that though his art was a secret, he had only used it in the reproduction of engravings. The process, he said, consisted of first making a peculiar composition, which is for a few moments of the consistency of paste. On this the engraving to be reproduced is immediately placed, when an exact impression is made. The plate quickly hardens. It is then electrotyped and ready for printing any number of facsimiles of the original. Winans admitted that bonds could be so perfectly reproduced that the copies would defy the scrutiny of an expert, but this, he added had not to his knowledge been done. He further stated that greenbacks could not be copied, as they, unlike the bonds, are subjected to such severe hydraulic pressure after being printed that not even the coarser lines would leave an impression. The prisoner, however, failed to account for the presence of electrotypes of the "lattice work" on United States bonds, and it is needless to say his protestations of innocence were accepted cum grano salis. Both he and Allen were locked up to await further developments. About an hour later Mr. Benson received despatches from Scranton and Portland advising him of the arrest of Geo. Winans and Wintermute, the detective at the first-named place adding that he had secured a $500 counterfeit bond, several composition plates, a battery, a number of impressions and other evidence. This is regarded as by far the most important "haul" yet made, for the process is such a dangerous imitation that a few months' delay would have been sufficient to have flooded not only this country, but the whole civilized world with spurious paper, so perfectly reproduced from the originals that detection would have been almost impossible. It should also be remembered that, had not one of the United States detectives found the $1,000 bond in possession of a dealer in counterfeits, the existence of such a dangerous art would not have been for a moment suspected.—Philadelphia Press.

Starting Corn.

You can do it on a small scale, for early sweet corn for the table, by planting it in inverted sods and putting it under glass till it is safe to transplant. Cut the sods into squares, so as not to disturb the roots in transplanting. Any one can easily start thirty or forty hills in this way with only a trifling cost and have this luxury on the table by the first of July or thereabouts.

On a larger scale for field culture you can protect corn from the grub or from the depredations of birds, by giving the seed a coating of tar and rolling it in plaster or ashes. We have tried this method on a considerable scale with perfect success. You can soak the seed over night in clear water and then immerse in tar water on the morning of planting, rolling in ashes for the sake of easy handling; or you can simply immerse the seed dry in tar, and roll in lime. The tar, of course, is to be heated so as to render it liquid. This preparation may retard the germ a little, but it is a sure protection against grubs and insects. We do not know that there is any other essential benefit.—Ploughman.

Daily Chronicle.

MONDAY, APRIL 3, 1876.

The Next U. S. Senator.

The Journal has a well-timed article on this subject, and has a kind mention of Hon. E. H. Rollins, saying:

We incline to the belief that Hon. Edward H. Rollins is the choice of the republicans in this as in very many other sections of the State, and were the legislature to meet to-day, we have no doubt that Mr. Rollins would in the ordinary course of business be nominated and elected Senator.

Mr. Rollins comes of a good stock, that has given to the State many faithful and competent men. He is a man of practical ideas, of personal integrity, well skilled in political knowledge, of large acquaintance with public men, and in habits and character a fit man for the position. He has oratorial powers sufficient to maintain upon the floor of the Senate his views upon all questions of public policy, and has had Congressional experience that would serve him in the new position.

In the positions he has filled, Mr. Rollins has never disappointed the republican party. Whether as chairman of the State committee and adviser of the conduct of the campaign in some of the most desperately fought contests in New Hampshire, as Speaker of the House of Representatives, or as member of Congress from the second district, he has been always equal to the emergency, showing himself capable of great results and never making a mistake. For six years Mr. Rollins ably represented his district in Congress. During one term our district was represented by Mr. Marcy and during another, Gen. Marston, our Representative, was absent from Washington much of the time with his command. Many a man in the First District remembers the kind offices, and unremitting attention of Mr. Rollins to the people of this district, during these terms. The immense amount of correspondence always promptly attended to, that was added to Mr. Rollin's Congressional labors, will be recollected by those having friends in the army and business with the general government in these days.

But it was not our purpose when we began this article to eulogize Mr. Rollins, but to indicate what to us seem to be the reasons why he should be elected Senator. Mr. Rollins is too well known by every active man in the republican party in New Hampshire to need any description of his qualifications.

We think he comes nearer to possessing the attributes required in a candidate at this time, than any man in the State, that can come before the Senatorial caucus with any prospect of being selected as a candidate. We believe it to be for the interest of New Hampshire to have a man of the stamina of Mr. Rollins, in the Senate; a positive man, whose principles never have nor ever will give forth an uncertain sound; and while there may be others whem the party would be glad to honor with an election, there will not be found, when the selection is made in June, a more fit and satisfactory candidate for Senatorial honors than Edward H. Rollins.

News and Notes.

The republicans have two members of the board of selectmen in Wilton. The democrats in their caucus nominated an Irishman for third selectman, but when they came to vote about sixty of them cut his name and some of them voted for the republican nominee. The result was one republican and one democrat were elected on the first ballot, and on the next the Irishman got even by turning in his forces and electing the republican nominee by a large majority.

The Charlotte, N. C., Observer is soured by the New Hampshire election. It says: "Yet, while we expected nothing patriotic from the radical Yankee, whose very name is the synonym of all that is pusillanimous and sordid in nature, nevertheless we cannot but feel somewhat dejected at the course of the New Hampshire election on last Tuesday. The people who did the voting are at least human creatures."

It does not appear that in the matter or the naval balances with Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. in London at the time of the panic, Secretary Robeson did anything other or more than a prudent business man would have done under the same circumstances. The government has lost nothing by his leniency, while it would have lost at once and heavily if he had insisted on throwing his financial agents into bankruptcy. The error was not in the treatment of the failing bankers, but in the transfer of the business of the government from the Barings to a new and untried house.

A correspondence of the Providence Journal is anxious to have the Rhode Island legislature abolish the gallows and substitute for it death by electricity. The argument for the change is that death by that means would be more impressive, because instantaneous, and that it would be free from suffering for the criminal.

The pecuniary loss by the Worcester flood is set at about $500,000, in addition to the loss on the dam, which cost $110,000. Three persons, a man and two boys, are missing and it is feared they were drowned.

Mr. James M. Campbell, for twenty-five years editor of the Manchester Union, retired on Friday, March 31st. The paper will be conducted by Mr. James L. Campbell, A. A. Hanscom and George A. Hanscom.

Fifty thousand dollars were recovered from the wreck of the steamship Schiller on Friday.

By a boiler explosion in Providence, R. I., on Friday, two men were killed and several others injured; loss $20,000.

Professor David Pearce Penhallow, of the new Agricultural College at Sappore, Japan, received the principal part of his early education from Miss H. H. Shapleigh at Kittery Point,—next from Miss C. Isabella Ham of this city, and his preparation for college finally by private lessons from Mr. J. W. P. Carter.

In Sinclair's Plantation, commonly known as Bethlehem, twenty-five votes were declared for Cheney and two hundred and twenty-five for Marcy. But now thirty-five men of that town step forward and make affidavit that they voted for Cheney, while five more stand ready to do the same thing. This illustrates to perfection John G. Sinclair's method of running a political campaign. We would like to have this model manager tell us what he knows about those missing republican votes, numbering over a third of the number cast. The disappearance was perhaps due to the deafness of the Moderator, whose name is John G. Sinclair. —Lake Village Times.

The trouble about Winslow's extradition is said to be as follows: In 1870 the English Parliament passed an act authorizing treaties to be made with other governments in regard to the extradition of criminals, but requiring a proviso to be inserted in all such treaties that the criminal shall not be tried for any other offence than that for which he is given up. There is no such provision is the treaty of 1842, under which Winslow's extradition is asked. The British government has made the request that before he is surrendered the President secure the passage of a law by Congress, providing that Winslow shall not be tried for any crime but that for which he committed. Our government has rejected this proposition, assuming that it can take no notice of any act of the British Parlament outside the treaty of 1842, reasoning that if the British Parliament can set aside one treaty it can another. The affair may lead to a disagreeable embroglio.

There are now eighty-two Granges of the Patrons of Husbandry in New Hampshire, several new Granges having been recently established in Strafford county, at Rochester, Strafford, Strafford Corner, Barrington and other places. In Maine also the new Order is gaining famously—and at North Berwick the Grange numbers two hundred members, and their co-operative store is doing a large business. Measures are likewise being taken to transplant the Order to the old countries—and Granges are being organized in England.

On the 29th of March a party of Delaware oyster-fishermen took possession of fishing-grounds claimed by Maryland; a party of Marylanders invited the intrusive foreigners to leave; they wouldn't go; then the two parties clubbed in and got up a scrimmage, in which Spencer rifles were freely used and several persons were seriously wounded.

"Who dat darken de hole?" remarked the colored party exploring the bottom of a bear's nest. His comrade, who was desperately holding back Bruin, shouted: "If the tail guv way you find wot dark de hole," which parable illustrates what shots off the light at Washington just now. Republicans are calling for the exposure of every guilty man, but the democrats are beginning to discover that if their tail-hold slips not a few of their own political brethren will be damaged. The last investment revealed half a dozen democratic rascals and the whole democratic party conniving at Belknap's escape in order to screen the half dozen.—Brooklyn Union.

If there is one thing that appears to please an old-line democrat more than any other, it is to be called a Jackson democrat. That seems to be the acme of perfection. They seem to consider that synonymous with everything honest and straightforward. It is, however, a little singular that the first development of breach of official trust in this country occurred under Jackson's administration, when Jesse Hoyt and Samuel Swartwout were the favorites of the party. Both of these men in turn were collectors of the port of Philadelphia. Secretary Woodbury allowed Swartwout to remain in office even after a defalcation of $646,754 was known. Mr. Wise, of Virginia, publicly charged Woodbury with keeping in office another defaulter named Harris, of Columbus, Miss., who "owed" the department $160,000, and was allowed to hold his position! Joshua Phillips, the assistant cashier at the custom house under Swartwout, defaulted to the amount of $600,000! The government defrauded out of about one and a quarter million dollars at one custom house during one administration alone! During Hoyt's collectorship the public cartage was given to one George Shourt, and in three years a cartage bill had been paid amounting to $40,638! Another of the remarkable frauds of the past was during the administration of Van Buren. This was the embezzlement of the entire Smithson bequest of $500,000. It was loaned to an Arkansas speculator of political power, and thus the munificent donation of the benevolent Englishman was lost.—Biddeford Journal.

Connecticut election to-day.

Of the four fishing vessels blown ashore at Swampscot, Mass., in the late gale, the "Flight" was sold for $500; the "Alberta Storey" was got off without much trouble and towed to East Boston for repairs; The "Minnehaha" has been screwed up upon blocks and is high and dry on the beach, waiting for the first fair weather to be launched and taken to Cape Ann for repairs; the "Clara Forrester" went to pieces in the next storm and became a total wreck.

Some idea of the extent and persistency of the inquisition into the department of the navy may be gained from the fact that at least three hundred witnesses have been examined by the naval committee of the house, their testimony already covering about 8000 manuscript pages. The greater part of these witnesses, by far, have been summoned with the expectation that they would in some way entrap the Secretary of the Navy, and bring his head to the block. They have not done so yet, although the inquisition has been prosecuted with zeal unparalleled and altogether venemous. There is, under the circumstances, a very natural reaction in favor of the Secretary, even among those who do not much admire his administration of the department. —Boston Advertiser.

—"Probably one of the most trying times in a man's life," says one who has experienced it, "is when he introduces his second wife, seventeen years old, to his daughter who is past twenty."

A Toast.

Two Important Discoveries: The discovery of America by Columbus, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; the one opening up to mankind a new continent, the other a fountain of health, which is indispensable to the full enjoyment of life and its blessings. In response to the above sentiment come the unsolicited attestations of tens of thousands of grateful patients, who have been relieved of chronic ailments through its instrumentality. Those voices are limited to no one locality, but from every city village, and hamlet, in our broad domain, as well as from other climes, and in the strange utterances of foreign tongues, like the confused murmur of many waters, have been unsolicited and hearty commendations. It is, in combination with the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the great depurator of the age. Under its benign action eruptions disappear, excessive waste is checked, the nerves are strengthened, and health, long banished from the system, resumes her reign, and re-establishes her roseate throne upon the cheek. All who have thoroughly tested the virtues in the disease for which it is recommended unite in pronouncing it the great Medical Discovery of the age.

The soothing, healing effects of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam are plainly experienced with the first dose. Its work appears little less than magic, yet it acts on well-known principles, and because compounded in just the right manner to cure.

Miasma Rendered Powerless.

The most certain way to render powerless the miasmatic vapors which produce chills and fever and other malarious disorders, is to fortify the system against them with that matchless preventive of periodic fevers, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The remedial operation of the Bitters is no less certain than their preventive effects, and they may be relied upon to overcome cases of fever and ague which resist quinine and the mineral remedies of the pharmacopœia. Dyspepsia, constipation, bilious complaints, rheumatic ailments, and general debility, likewise, rapidly yield to their regulative and tonic influence. They are an incalculable blessing to the weak and nervous of both sexes, an excellent family medicine, and the best safeguard which the traveler or emigrant can take to an unhealthy climate.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $23,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $30,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $30,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

E. G. PIERCE, JR., P. M.

All Fools' Day.

We have but little interest in or admiration for the antiquated silliness of "making April fools." On Saturday morning, as we were wending our way to the CHRONICLE office, deeply absorbed in a mental discussion as to what we had best do with "a poetical fragment" of about two columns of manuscript—whether we should respectfully decline it on the ground that some people might regard it as a political poem, or should write copy on the back of it and notify the author that it had been unhappily lost—when a small boy disturbed us by calling out "Hi! Mister, did you lose this letter?" We instantly wheeled about, our blood running cold as we thought we might have dropped that poetry, and saw the small boy scratching the end of his nose with his thumb while he attempted to catch mosquitoes with the extended fingers of the same hand. His cap had no visor, his hair was carefully combed in at least five hundred different directions, and his shirt did not show at his neck though there was a liberal display of it somewhere else; but we could see no letter except "the letter in the post-office" for the small boy, who chuckled out, "Say, Mister, this 'ere's the fust of April!"

Arrived at the office we were assailed with earnest enquiries, "Haven't you any copy?" "from several eager compositors. After spending ten minutes in anxious search for some choice "miscellaneous" which we wrote with the scissors the day before and hid away in the big dictionary, and making several philosophical remarks when we didn't find it, we raked up a half-dozen items and served them out, receiving, instead of thanks, the assurance, "Oh! we didn't want copy—got plenty—only wanted to know if you had some!" And those compositors still live, and without any broken bones,—a phenomenon which will cease to excite wonder when we explain that they are not of that section of the human race which wears plug hats and ulsters.

An acquaintance of ours had a silly trick tried upon him, as follows: in company with a friend he went into a saloon and requested to be furnished with a warm* mild drink, suitable to the weather, supposing, of course, they would get ginger-beer or something of that sort. The man behind the counter put a piece of lemon and some sugar in each of two tumblers, smashed the lemon and sugar together with a stick which had apparently been used for a similar purpose before, added a quantity of hot water and stirred all up together; and then, when he thought he was not observed, poured about three fingers of whiskey into each tumbler and sat the decoctions before his patrons, probably thinking they would drink it off without knowing what it was, and would then be frightened out of their wits, fancying themselves poisoned. But one of the two proposed victims recognized the whiskey by its smell, (he having once taken some for sickness, when a child,) told his companion what it was, and the two tumblers were turned bottom up so quickly as to make the mixer's hair stand on end. He couldn't fool these chaps that way.

Another acquaintance while on his way to get shaved at about 4 o'clock, went twenty yards out of his way to kick an old plug hat clear across the street. He did kick it, too, but it didn't go clear across the street nor did he go to the barbers' shop; he came to pay us a visit, wearing one boot and one big slipper, and fully shares in our contempt for the nonsensical custom of "making April fools." We trust the amended constitution of New Hampshire will contain a clause making the month of April commence on the 2d day, hereafter.

Benefitting the Poor.

The Saturday evening entertainment at the Temple for the benefit of the poor was attended by a large audience, nearly every reserved seat being disposed of. The programme was varied, a goodly array of local talent volunteering to make the evening one of amusement and mental profit. There was singing by a quartet of gentlemen, and by the Unitarian choir, violin solos by Willis E. Nowell, reading by Miss Susie P. Spalding, and a lecture by Mrs. J. Horace Jenness on "Hygiene." Miss Aggie Plummer and Mr. E. A. Tilton accompanied the musical exercises on the piano, and there was a frequent change of table covers by a corps of small boys eager to do something for the good cause. The musical portion of the entertainment was very pleasing, and when Rev. Mr. DeNormandie introduced Miss Spalding, the audience became eager listeners. The young lady recited "Joan of Arc at the Shrine" with admirably modulation of voice and finished elocution, and afterward gave a reading: "Before and After the Excursion," in which her abilities were yet more fully exhibited. Mrs. Jenness delivered a very lively homily on the necessity of better ventilation and food, interspersing wholesome truth, with just enough good-natured raillery and witty asides to keep her hearers in the best of humor. She made copious extracts from the works of Dio Lewis, W. W. Hall and others, and was well fortified at all points in the positions she assumed. We hope that the audience did not wholly forget the advice she gave, and the example she set in personifying a healthy appearing lady following her own teaching.—The poor fund will net quite a little sum from the receipts of the occasion.

Jottings.

There are forty cases of typhoid pneumonia in Newington.

"Stabbed in the house of its friends,"—the appropriation of $100 for the observance of Memorial Day, a "patriotic" republican editor and a "loil" ship chandler voting last evening at the meeting of the city councils against the same, thereby defeating the bill. We understand that regardless of this reverse the surviving and aggrieved "boys in blue" are, with the Grand Army, determined to observe the day here as usual.—Times, March, 31.

The concert by the Hyers sisters and others at the Temple on Friday evening was an excellent entertainment, though it drew but a small audience. The lady singers have won deserved fame by their performances since they first appeared as candidates for public favor, and fully sustained their reputation on this occasion; while the quartette singing was all music, and Mr. Sam. Lucas showed that his claim to the title of "the greatest colored comedian in the world" is far from being baseless. The entertainment deserved a crowded house.

From the annual report of the town of Kittery we learn the liabilities of the town are $21,880.67 and the available means $18,649.59, leaving the liabilities $3,231.08 above the assests. The receipts into the treasury during the municipal year just closed were $35,261.09, which includes $10,000 paid by the trustees of the Public Library. The amount in the treasury the 14th of March was $1499.77. The pauper expenses amounted to $1379.80; highway $1519.83; schools $6456.06; all other expenses $4468.67; making the total expense for the year $13,823.35. The town is divided into school districts, with an average of 112 scholars to each district. The school committee, two of the three members of which are ladies, speak favorably of the Free High school, and regret there is any opposition manifested toward it. They also urge the union of the school districts.

Messrs. Charles E. Myers, Wm. A. Loyne, and others, heretofore published—in all ten gentlemen and ten ladies,—have associated themselves together as trustees for the proposed Old Ladies' Home, with a limit of twenty thousand dollars capital; and Hon. Wm. Simes has been elected treasurer for the same. Mr. Myers and others having purchased a large and desirable lot on South and Broad streets, which was selected by Mr. Loyne for the site of the Home, and having presented it to the board of trustees for this purpose—it would seem that any talk of a change of location, must be mere idle diversion. The lot chosen and presented is worth at least $1000; is every way eligible and advantageous for the Home; and is too good a financial and material "foundation" to be lost to the cause.

Between two and three o'clock Saturday morning the dwelling house belonging to Mrs. Mary P. Hodgon, situated at Newington, on the road to Dover Point, was entirely destroyed by fire, together with the barn, carriage house and shed, and their contents. Loss about $4000; insured $1500 in German American, and $1000 in Germania companies, at de Rochemont's agency. The buildings were new, and the fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary. The neighbors rallied in generous numbers and worked with a will, but could save only little. The light of the fire was seen a long distance.

"How They Did It."

"We hope our Laconia friends will send out a few missionaries to tell us how they did it."—Manchester Union.

Now, Bro. Campbell, we can't resist your appeal for information. It would be wicked to saddle your friends in Laconia with the expense of establishing missions throughout the State, for they are feeling a little poor in purse just now; and besides, we don't take full stock in the theory of a democracy so childlike, innocent, and verdantly unsophisticated in the dark ways of politics as you would have us believe. But be that as it may, out of the pure generosity of our heart we will give the coveted recipe, honestly and correctly, just as they used it in Laconia.

First you must have money! That is the foundation of the superstructure. It needn't interfere with the howl about republican corruption and bribery, because that is a good hold to let yourself down with if you get beat, but you must raise a good corruption fund—say $5,000 for a town of that size.

Then you must use it judiciously. Make out a list of republicans who are presumed to "have their price," and go for them. If you can buy one or two who will keep right along as active republican workers, and so post you on the points of the republican canvass, it will help amazingly. Go for the republicans who are struggling with poverty. If you can find one who owes a bill to some democratic grocer, let the grocer manage him. Give him to understand that if he votes your ticket his bill will be cancelled and he will have a handsome present besides, but if he votes the republican ticket he will be pushed to the wall. Prices will vary, but you must be prepared to pay as high as $110 for a vote for Moderator alone. This, however, is an exceptional price, and we would not encourage such extravagant use of democratic funds.

If the manufacturing establishments of the place are in democratic hands, they can be made to work wonders. You must throw all delicacy to the the wind, and give your republican employes distinctly to understand that you will have no work for anybody who votes the radical ticket. This is a beautiful and effective way of making votes in these hard times, and of preserving our sacred rights as freemen.

And you must not neglect to see that all the "gin-mills" are interested on the side of honest government. They are a power for the right, and can do a great many things that you or I, Bro. Campbell, wouldn't like to take in hand. A portion of the campaign fund can be judiciously expended in bar checks, "good for ten cents in goods" at these establishments, which should be freely distributed where they will do the most good.

Perhaps, two or three weeks before election, you can get hold of some republican with a weakness for the bottle, and keep him filled with rum and consequently under democratic influence. But he must be carefully guarded, continually fuddled, and no attention must be paid to the entreaties of his sorrowing wife. For, as the poet says: "Men must work, and women must weep." Sacrifices must be made to secure an honest government, but the sacrifice need net be the rumseller's. He can have the handling of the trifle promised his protege for his vote; and, for instance, if his charge has been promised $30, when he gets him through the mill he can deduct $28.50 for the "treats" during the time he has been under his care.

Then again, how easy it is, when you control the machinery, to get some republican drunk and drugged and run him up to Ossipee or some other out-of-the-way place just before election. If he happens to belong to the Temperance Reform Club, so much greater the credit for those who entice him to his fall. If this mine is faithfully worked by men to whom such labors are congenial, it can be made to count several votes against the party of corruption and dishonesty.

These, Bro. Campbell, are a few of the leading points showing "how to do it." Of course there are many details which we have not time to go into. But if the hints we have given are faithfully acted upon, we see no reason why they should not be as successful in one place as in another. At any rate they are worth trying, and if they do not always succeed, why, you have only to set a back fire by shouting "fraud and bribery," and deprecate the horrible means employed by the republicans to carry elections.—Lake Village Times.

PULMOCINE

Daily Chronicle.

Don't Be Fooled.

One of the most nefarious schemes connected with the coming Centennial Exhibition has just been brought to light. Letters have been sent from Philadelphia to young girls in inland towns and villages, signed by "Hayes, Arlington & Bro., Agents for the Executive Committee," stating that they wish to engage "comely and respectable young ladies" to take charge of flower and news stands, act as cashiers in refreshments, sell pictures, books, etc. Wages of from $8 to $15 are offered, besides expenses paid and "a chance to see the grand Exhibition every day." The girls are advised not to consult their parents, as they might object to even so advantageous a scheme; but are requested to come to Philadelphia at once, when their work will be assigned them, and wages paid in advance for four weeks. The letters are lithographed and have been sent out in great numbers. The object of the scheme is apparent to any woman of ordinary sense and experience; but unfortunately, giddy girls in the country, anxious for adventure and a glimpse of the world, have not enough of experience to keep them from being entrapped by this shallow device unto ruin. Our country exchanges therefore would do well to warn their readers against "Hayes, Arlington & Bro." promptly, as the would-be clerks and saleswomen are requested to repair to Philadelphia by the 13 of April.—N. Y. Tribune.

—A local wit of Lafayette, Ark., undertook to fool Dr. Westbrook of that place into the belief that a plug of tobacco that he pointed at the doctor's head was a pistol. He succeeded admirably, and was shot dead before he could explain that it was all a joke.

—The London Spectator says that a Yorkshire squire, Squire Hawkey, who lived at Hatfield, near Doncaster, left his whole fortune to his groom on condition that he (the testator) should be buried in hunting costume, with whip and spurs, with his pony and his dog, which were shot for the occasion—the pony ready saddled and bridled—in his own ground, amongst the graves of the slaughtered oxen which had fallen sick of rinderpest. If the groom did not strictly fulfil the conditions, the fortune was to go to the Roman Catholics; but the groom did fulfil them and the Roman Catholic priest consecrated the ground in which the grave was made before burying the squire. Clearly those eccentric provisions were not meant to provide against any possible neglect of the pony and dog in the future, for that would not account for the burial of the bridle and saddle and whip and spurs, or of a fox which was also buried with the squire. It looks very like the remains of an old, wild superstition, that what goes with you into the grave passes on with you into the immortal state—a strange survival of genuine heathenism.

New Hampshire

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($429 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the disastrous fires with better credit.

Ladies and Gentlemen accepted on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing a favorable result:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 29.

Total premiums paid in 29 years,	$336.91
less dividends,	11.62
Average cost per year,	11.62
Cost for 1875,	5.15

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1875, but from the fact that they did such their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and the sale has continually been came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by the wonderful cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life became almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged and had almost lost all hope, when I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and before one package had gone I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I produced one package of pills for a friend, and he received his self cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send two packages for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. I spent much money, but nothing did good. I have taken only two pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. L. LEONARD.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered severely with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable to move for days, and could pick up any article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer as long as I lived. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Boston Herald, and thought the medicine cost so much I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, feel well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your pills. I insist on her having a box, for I would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indicated to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockdale, who are using it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal opinions rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unanimable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the humid and trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the choice of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, unbiased by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will strive to make those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the deeds or professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of either. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the spirited hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which is busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and honest principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that the Democrats themselves have forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It would hardly be blinded that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success arouses from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor to their families, THE TRIBUNE collects a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness to keep the world expectantly waiting for the fresh and intelligence, the most complete reports, the most impartial discussion of events, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

"The very best ladies magazine published."—Seneca Falls (N. Y.) Courier.

☞ CHEAPEST AND BEST! ☜

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 12 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pieces of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments, Stories, &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed in them, and originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

TERMS (Always in Advance) $2.00 A YEAR.

2 Copies for $3.50. Copies for $4.50.	With a copy of the premium mezzotint (Lizzie), "Christmas Morning," a five dollar engraving, to the person getting up the Club.
4 Copies for $6.50. 7 Copies for 11.00.	With an extra copy of the Magazine for 1876, as a premium, to the person getting up the Club.
5 Copies for $8.50. 6 Copies for 12.50. 12 Copies for 18.00.	With both an extra copy of the Magazine for 1876, and the premium mezzotint, a five dollar engraving, to the person getting up the Club.

"THE BEST, CHEAPEST, AND MOST SUCCESSFUL FAMILY PAPER IN THE UNION."

Harper's Weekly.

ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press.

Harper's Weekly is the ablest and most powerful illustrated periodical published in this country. Its editorials are scholarly and convincing, and carry much weight. Its illustrations of current events are full and fresh, and are prepared by our best designers. With a circulation of 150,000, the Weekly is read by at least half a million persons, and its influence as an organ of opinion is simply tremendous. The Weekly maintains a positive position, and expresses decided views on political and social problems.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Its articles are models of high-toned discussion, and its pictorial illustrations are often corroborative arguments of no small force.—N. Y. Examiner and Chronicle.

Its papers upon existent questions and its inimitable cartoons help to mould the sentiments of the country.—Pittsburgh Commercial.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN commences an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

—Philadelphia has more daily papers than all other cities combined. We have dreaded for a year to make this announcement, but as it has got so that a new daily makes its appearance here with every mail, the fact can no longer be suppressed.—Danbury News.

—There was a very little boy wading up to his knees, almost in slush on Summit street, Friday afternoon, when a passing gentleman said to him: "Why ain't you to school, young man?" "Cos I've got the hoopin' cough!" he explained.—Danbury News.

—There is said to be a bogus Dr. Mary Walker around. She can't deceive any one, however. No other woman in this world can hitch up a pair of pantaloons in that graceful, careless way which is secondnature to the doctor.—Detroit Free Press.

—Spartan virtue still exists, and the principle of modesty is not a thing of the past. If you don't believe this, just see what a Penn Yan damsel, who is a witness in the Crozier murder, trial, says "I am nearly twenty-one years old. I never stood near a married man, because I think it is against the rules of impropriety!"—Rochester Chronicle.

—At the funeral of an aged lady in Freetown, Mass., recently, there were present ninety-four grandchildren, and one hundred and forty-two great-grandchildren, making a total of two hundred and thirty-six descendants. The deceased was the mother of twelve children, each of whom had large families. One bore nineteen children, another thirteen, and still another twelve. The descendants of this woman, including children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, numbered four hundred.

—Stewart L. Woodford made a good point when, in speaking of the currency question he said: "Don't think we can get out of trouble by a non-exportable currency. There was such a currency in this land once, when our forefathers landed and found the Indian tribes using wampum. It was non-exportable; and the old traders made more just like it and inflated and bought all the Indians had to sell, and the result was the Yanks had all the property and the Indians all the wampum."

—There are three powerful disinfectants; carbolic acid, but its smell is objectionable, chlorine and permanganate of potash; these last two are quite expensive. The most common and available disinfectant and deodorizer is copperas, crude copperas, sold by druggists at a few cents a pound, under the name of sulphate of iron; one pound to two gallons of water, to be used as often as necessary to render all odors imperceptible. The only perfect disinfectant, however, is habitual cleanliness and thorough ventilation; next to that is a dry heat of two hundred and fifty degrees.

—A correspondent of a western newspaper, who has for years been conducting experiments with corn, has arrived at a very valuable result. So far from the replanting of corn being of little value, as is the common impression, he says, it is of so much consequence that he replants whether it is needed or not—or rather, he plants two or three weeks after the crop is planted a hill every fifteen rows each way. He says: "If the weather becomes dry during the filling time, the silk and tassels both become dry and dead. In this condition, if it should become seasonable, the silk revives and renews its growth, but the tassels do not recover. Then for want of pollen, the new silk is unable to fill the office for which it was resigned. The pollen from the replanted corn is then ready to supply the silk, and the filling is completed." He says that nearly all the abortive ears, so common in corn crops, are caused by the want of pollen, and he has known ears to double their size in this second filling.

—An exchange gives these hints for persons who have very little garden room: Take barrels and bore holes around the middle, and one hole large enough to admit the nose of your watering pot. Fill the barrels with stones as high as the rows of holes, and the rest of the space with good, rich, fine earth to the top. In this plant cucumbers, melons, squashes, tomatoes, etc. One barrel will be enough to each kind. Be sure to have one flat stone lean over the large hole, (where you will pour in the water until it runs out of the holes you have made,) which will prevent the earth from filling this large hole up. Arrange the barrels around your yard and plant your seeds. Keep the barrels filled with water up to the holes, and you will have all the requisites for rapid, healthy growth—air, heat and moisture. You can raise all the vegetables you need in the greatest perfection, and they will last until late in the autumn, as they can easily be covered on frosty nights. Cucumbers and tomatoes may hang over the barrels, if you cut them off when they reach the bottom. Melons may be tied to the wall or fence. The stones perform an important service in holding up the earth and absorbing the heat during the day and giving it out at night, keeping the water at an even temperature. You will be astonished at the result if you have never tried it.

Naval Laws and Regulations.

Some time ago Chief Engineer Latch, of the U. S. S. Colorado, was put under arrest by the commanding officer, and released by order of the Secretary of the Navy, who then issued "General order No. 205," which we published with a brief introduction. A naval officer signing himself "Discipline" wrote an answer which we published, intending to reply to it immediately; but we became somewhat interested in political matters—it was before election—and have not been able to find time to attend to it until now.

It is unfortunate that the compromise act of the 3d of March, 1871, failed to give to staff officers of the Navy, the status held by their confreres of the Army, and so left the question of rank and privilege open to a variety of interpretations. Ever since the passage of that law, the Secretary of the Navy has been attempting to bolster up its weakness by a series of orders, which has made confusion worse confounded, and bids fair to destroy naval discipline. If it be right and proper for staff officers to hold rank at all, that rank should unquestionably be the same as that of the line, (as in the Army) distinguished of course by professional titles, apropos to the duties of the staff. The trouble in the Navy is, that there are two kinds of rank, one actual, the other relative, i. e., assimilated, the very indefiniteness of which is at the bottom of all the difficulties in the service. Ten years ago this whole question could have been promptly settled by a law giving positive rank to all officers, and prohibiting the use of line titles by the staff. On board ship, as in a regiment, there can be but one commanding officer. The executive or aid, (who is equivalent to the adjutant in the army,) has of course "precedence over all staff officers attached to the ship of whatever rank or corps," in order that he may "station the officers and crew, parade them for inspection, and receive all reports that he may transmit them as a whole to the commanding officer." But this precedence confers no additional rank, nor authority ab initio, in such matters; neither does this precedence give the executive the right to receive reports from his superiors in rank, in the staff or line. A senior line officer never reports to his junior, unless the latter be actually in command, by order of the Department or of a common superior. Rank and command are separate and distinct entities; ergo, if there be any virtue whatever in rank, it would be a strange anomaly to require a senior in the staff, any more than a senior in the line to report to a junior officer. If it were absolutely necessary for the executive to receive the report of a department whose chief happened to be senior to him in rank, such report could be made equally well by a junior officer of that department; so there need be no lack of discipline on this score. The authority of an executive to give an order has never been questioned by seniors in the staff, except when said order was known to have originated with the executive. On this point the law is explicit: "All orders of such aid or executive shall be regarded as proceeding from the commanding officer, and the aid or executive shall have no independent authority." (Act 3d March, 1871.) An order received even through the Captain's orderly, or other direct channel is equally binding with one received through the executive, and no officer would be silly enough to question it without good and sufficient reason. Had the executive been next in rank to the commanding officer, (as the law requires when practicable,) there would have been no difficulty with the Chief Engineer of the Colorado,—but as such was not the case, the law expressly provides, that "staff officers senior to the line officers so detailed (executive or aid) shall have the right to communicate directly with the commanding officer." (Act 3d March, 1871.) Upon this law was based the refusal of Engineer Latch to salute first his inferior in rank, and to report his division at quarters to his junior officer. Captain Braine placed Mr. Latch under arrest for disobedience of regulations, paragraphs 351 and 357, and he was released by the Secretary of the Navy under the spirit and letter of the law of 3d March, 1871. Latch was right as to the law, wrong as to regulations; Braine was right as to regulations and wrong as to the law. This conflict between law and regulations must necessarily result, when the latter is made to accord with the peculiar views of any branch of the service which arrogates to itself the right to regulate and manage every one's business, besides its own. The order "205" grants to the executive simply the rights and privileges of an army adjutant; he remains as before the aid of the commanding officer, in organizing the ship's company; and his authority over his juniors in the staff and line, and in all matters of parade, inspection and police remains intact. Through his own folly and arrogance, he had been deprived of the privilege of granting permission to visit the shore and of receiving reports from heads of departments and divisions unless in the absence or illness of his commanding officer. Let us hope that the suicidal attempts of the past have proved that harmony and unity are only to be found in a just appreciation of the fact, that subordination and discipline, founded upon rank, must be the same in the staff as in the line of the Navy.

The Congressional Race.

The probable change of the time of election of Representatives to Congress from March to November brings prominently into the canvass the question of who the nominees shall be, and we notice that "F. F.," the Concord correspondent of the Boston Journal, ushers into honorable mention several republicans whom he names as liable to be candidates. The means of information afforded "F. F." must be exceedingly limited, or he must have let personal desire sadly interfere with his usual good judgment, to lead him to suggest the possibility of any change in their nominee on the part of the republicans of the first district. There is not the slightest doubt that Hon. CHARLES S. WHITEHOUSE, who made such a gallant run a year ago, and came very near success notwithstanding the frauds in Portsmouth, the expenditure of $65,000 for his defeat, and the ill-timed and since-regretted desertion of a few score of voters, will again be the nominee with great unanimity; and his election over any democratic candidate that can be put in nomination is assured, the republican plurality in the district as shown at the recent election being about 1400. Looking over the political battle field of 1875, the nomination of Mr. Whitehouse seems to have been especially fortuitous, as it saved the lower House of the legislature and put a candidate in the field fresh from the people, untrammeled by obligations, and not bound by promises. The republicans, few in number, who withheld their votes from him, are so ashamed of their course that they are today among Mr. WHITEHOUSE'S friends and well-wishers, and only await the approach of another election to do their utmost in repairing the mistake of but thirteen months ago. The gentlemen named as aspirants for the nomination by "F. F." do not consider themselves as candidates in opposition to Mr. WHITEHOUSE, and will heartily aid in his election to Congress.

Tragedy in Maine.

On Saturday morning, Isaac L. Page, a farmer, at a place known as Searle's Mills, in the town of Chelsea, Me., on the road from the Togus Military Asylum, murdered his wife and cut his own throat. The bloody tragedy caused the most intense excitement in the vicinity. The family were poor, and their humble dwelling but meanly furnished. Mrs. Page was busy at her work surrounded by her children, when without giving any warning, Page drew a small revolver, a seven-shooter, and fired at his wife. She screamed "Murder," and started to run out of the house. Page followed, firing the fatal shot after his victim had got out of the door, and she fell dead at the foot of the stone step. One of the children ran to a neighbor's house and gave the alarm, when two men hurried to the scene of the tragedy. Page greeted them with an oath and went out around the barn and into the road to the west of the house, and walked out on the road toward Hallowell some hundred rods, and cut his throat with a large dirk knife, an ugly looking weapon with a horn handle, with guard and double edge blade three inches long. He inflicted a ghastly wound across the left side of his neck, severing several branch arteries. He also attempted to stab himself in his breast, but inflicted no serious injury other than in his neck. In the meantime the neighbors had been pouring in, and the murdered woman had been carried into the house. The pistol used was a very small seven-cartridge revolver. Six shots were evidently fired by the murderer, one taking effect in his wife's arm, one in the casing over the stairway door, and one fatally in the woman's neck. It is thought that Page will survive his wounds. His wife was about 25 years of age. Her maiden name was Brown. She was married to Page eleven years ago, and has since resided in the house where she was murdered. She leaves five children, aged respectively 10, 8, 6 and 3 years, and an infant three weeks old. The murderer is about 35 years of age. His mother is living, and he has two brothers and four sisters. The motive which prompted the fiendish act is ascribed to insanity and to jealousy. Miss Horn, who nursed the wife, and who has long known the family, calls him insane. She says he was always kind and never abused his wife or children; and that he was too indulgent to his children for their good. For a week past he has talked in a strange and confused manner, and seemed to think a mob was after him to kill him. He was also under considerable religious excitement.

—A pretty little Ohio schoolmarm tried to whip one of her pupils, a boy of fifteen, recently, but when she commenced operations he coolly threw his arms around her neck and gave her a hearty kiss. She went straight back to her desk, and her face was "just as red."

—A boy was asked which was the greatest evil, hurting another's feelings or his finger. "The feelings," he said. "Right, my child," said the gratified priest; "and why is it worse to hurt the feelings?" "Because you can't tie a rag round them," exclaimed the child.

A Toast.

Two Important Discoveries: The discovery of America by Columbus, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; the one opening up to mankind a new continent, the other a fountain of health, which is indispensable to the full enjoyment of life and its blessings. In response to the above sentiment come the unsolicited attestations of tens of thousands of grateful patients, who have been relieved of chronic ailments through its instrumentality. Those voices are limited to no one locality, but from every city village, and hamlet, in our broad domain, as well as from other climes, and in the strange utterances of foreign tongues, like the confused murmur of many waters, come unfeigned and hearty commendations. It is, in combination with the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the great depurator of the age. Under its benign action eruptions disappear, excessive waste is checked, the nerves are strengthened, and health, long banished from the system, resumes her reign, and re-establishes her roseate throne upon the cheek. All who have thoroughly tested the virtues in the disease for which it is recommended unite in pronouncing it the great Medical Discovery of the age.

Miasma Rendered Powerless.

The most certain way to render powerless the miasmatic vapors which produce chills and fever and other malarious disorders, is to fortify the system against them with that matchless preventive of periodic fevers, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The remedial operation of the Bitters is no less certain than their preventive effects, and they may be relied upon to overcome cases of fever and ague which resist quinine and the mineral remedies of the pharmacopœia. Dyspepsia, constipation, bilious complaints, rheumatic ailments, and general debility, likewise, rapidly yield to their regulative and tonic influence. They are an incalculable blessing to the weak and nervous of both sexes, an excellent family medicine, and the best safeguard which the traveler or emigrant can take to an unhealthy climate.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $50,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $50,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

A Cow Trap.

Mr. George W. Ayers of this city, last season pastured a yearling heifer in Greenland, but when the Fall came she could not be caught to bring home. So the farmer set his shepherd dog to catch her, but he only succeeded in driving her from the pasture, and she has wandered about the woods and pastures between Greenland and Stratham all Winter, subsisting mainly upon browsing trees. Her owner has sought her often and long, in company with others; but though frequently upon her tracks, not a hide or hair of the errant beast could he catch sight of until last week. For several weeks she has been known to be in the vicinity of a farm in Stratham, and has been fed in the woods; but though coming near the farm several times with the cattle, she could not be toled into yard or building; and she was only captured at last by the farmer building a shed or trap over the spot where he was accustomed to leave her hay in the woods, with a door to drop by her moving its support as she fed—when he climbed to the top and dropped a rope down over her horns. She is quite thin in flesh, but surprisingly tame and gentle considering her escapade.

The Direct Cable.

The reports sent to the press a few days since in regard to the breaking of the direct cable were erroneous in several particulars. The tests "locate" the interruption just inside of twenty miles from the office at Rye Beach, instead of sixty, as reported in the papers. The accident was learned soon after it happened, but by request of the superintendent it was not mentioned, the electricians hoping, rather than believing, probably, that the interruption would only be temporary, and not interfere with the transmission of messages for any great length of time. The interruption of the electric current was instantaneous and complete, and occurred while a message was being received from Torbay. The suddenness of the break would indicate either a complete fracture, or a "stranding" of the cable enough to seriously affect its insulation. Of course the exact nature of the damage cannot be ascertained until the Faraday grapples up the cable and makes the necessary repairs. The ship has been at Halifax for several weeks, and her appearance is soon expected by the members of the cable staff.

Concerning the cause of the break nothing can yet be learned. Occurring immediately after the severe storm of Sunday morning, and the loss of the brig A. Porter on Lunging Island, it was thought possible that ill-fated vessel might have dragged her anchors across the cable just outside the Isles of Shoals. Acting upon this supposition, Superintendent Fraser and several other members of the staff chartered a yacht and went to the Shoals on Friday afternoon and interviewed Daniel Lynch, the first mate and the only survivor of the brig's crew, from whom it was learned that the vessel did not use her anchor at all in that vicinity. The party then proceeded to White Island and questioned the light keepers in regard to any suspicious movements of vessels in the vicinity of where the break occurred, but no satisfactory information could be obtained. Whether correct or not, the frequent ruptures of the Direct Cable are attributed to malice; and the arrival of the Faraday is looked for with intense interest as an examination of the wires will enable the electricians to determine whether the break was malicious or accidental.

As showing their complete isolation from the outside world, the cable party report that the light-keepers at White Island had not learned any particulars of the wreck of the brig where all hands were lost, save one, almost within their reach. The light-keepers also report that during the terrible gale of the 21st ult. the sea was so violent as to break the heavy glass windows in the lighthouse tower, 70 feet above high-water mark.

Jottings.

And now there is only one case of pneumonia in Newington.

Schooner General Grant will be sold by auction at noon to day at Railway wharf.

Several "won't be quiet" young men have enlisted in a trip to the banks on a fishing excursion, getting from $50 to $70 for their services. "Better rub than rust."

The event so long looked for in military circles is upon us. The commission, composed of Colonels Dillon, Clough and Patten, to settle the difficulties of the Portsmouth Artillery Company, will assemble this evening. Their decision will be final.

Three young men from Dover drove rapidly about the streets of this city on Sunday, and it is reported that one of them fell off steam near Dover Point on their return, while drunk, and broke his neck, dying instantly.

Howard & Ashcroft's Troupe, advertised to appear at the Temple this evening, have been in the field long enough to understand catering to the public taste. The company is composed of young men, ardent lovers of their profession, who will no doubt be as zealous in their efforts to please their audience as they have been to secure a good house. Don't forget them.

Congress having failed to pass a deficiency appropriation bill, including appropriations for fuel and lights, the Secretary of the Treasury has notified collectors of customs to shut off heat and gas. It is rumored that the post-office will be lighted with candles to-night.

Meeting of Board of Trade this evening at 7:30.

Collector Howard has notified Light House Inspector Picking, at Portland, that the Boon island ledge buoy was carried away in the recent gale. The light house at Boon island was badly shaken and the keepers feared it would be thrown down by the heavy seas.

The fishermen report large schools of fish between Whale's Back lighthouse and the Shoals. Several parties are trying their luck by trawling in dory's.

News and Notes.

From revelations coming to light it appears that Winslow, the clerical scamp of Boston, is the scapegoat of other people. After he ran away, many of those who endorsed his notes declared the signatures forgeries in order to escape payment. One of the notes negotiated by Winslow, which the promissor declared to be fraudulent when Winslow first went away, has since been paid. Many so-called respectable merchants of Boston are hoping that Winslow will not be surrendered to our authorities. If he comes back he promises to let out some damaging secrets.

The law provides that the legislature shall elect a United States Senator on the second Tuesday after it organizes. It meets June 7th, and the second Tuesday thereafter will be June 20th. There seems little if any doubt that Hon. E. H. ROLLINS will succeed Senator CRAGIN.

The store of Hirsch Brothers, at Somerville, Tenn., was broken open by fifteen disguised men, who, after beating the proprietors, tied ropes around their necks and dragged them through the street for some time, charging them that should they remain there another night they would be killed. When the brothers returned to the store they found they had been robbed of $1900. The citizens of Somerville have organized a committee to protect the Hirsches.

The Maryland Gazette of Annapolis hoists the name of James G. Blaine for President, and seems to mean business.

Morton has not been made happy by reports that Blaine, through a Massachusetts born politician named Chandler, is sure of the Virginia delegation to Cincinnati, as he has regarded the Southern States as mortgaged to him.

The town of Peterboro, at a town meeting, Friday, refused to aid the extension of the Manchester and Keene Railroad from Greenland to Peterboro, seven miles; and also ordered notice to the Monadnock Railroad Company that the town would no longer be responsible for the balance of the gratuity voted conditionally six years ago.

The attempt to break Secretary Robeson down is the subject of a good deal of comment. A member of the Senate committee on naval affairs says there is no longer any doubt but that a regular conspiracy existed to force Robeson out of the Cabinet and to disgrace him in the eyes of the country.

Petitions have been sent to President Grant asking for the pardon of Charles Gillis, who was convicted at the May term of the United States Circuit Court, in 1874, of stealing from the mails when he was postmaster at Hillsboro. Gillis was sentenced to two years' confinement in the State Prison at Concord, and the pardon is asked on the ground of feeble health and of dependent family and parents. He has nearly served out his time of sentence.

Mr. Blaine's friends are advised that fully two-thirds of the delegates chosen by the Pennsylvania republicans are in favor of Blaine after Hartranft is withdrawn. This will give Blaine the solid vote of the delegation, as a majority rules.

A Boston woman lately received $3000 for falling into a coal hole which was left open on a street sidewalk, and yet the Woman's Journal says that there are but few occupations left open for the weaker sex.

Wheat is four feet high in Texas.

Frank P. Blair, Jr., who was always in the public service, leaves an estate of $500.

J. B. Adams, editor of the Buffalo, N. Y., Leader, was assaulted early Sunday morning by a gang of roughs, who attempted unsuccessfully to "pi" the form which he was taking to the printing office. There have been four arrested; the others will be caught.

The husband of a Lake Village woman expressed doubt about his going to the polls to vote on election day, when she coolly requested him to exchange clothing with her and she would go and vote for him. That settled the question, and he went to the polls "like a man."

The attempt in the Iowa legislature to restore the death penalty finally failed by one vote.

The President's illness was, in its manifestations, quite serious. He has been subject to sick headaches, and this time was attacked by what the physicians call "neuralgia of the brain," which we suppose to be an acute aggravation of headache. It is not a pleasant symptom. Perhaps the President would find it to his advantage to burn less tobacco under his nose.

Information received by the State Department justifies the conclusion that the British Government has fully decided not to surrender Winslow, the forger. The British authorities are very guarded in their answers to the demand for his surrender and do not make a positive refusal, but say that they do not see how they can under the Parliamentary act of 1870 surrender Winslow unless the United States gives guarantee that he is not to be tried for any other than that set forth in the extradition papers. Under the British laws the criminal will be held for the period of sixty days, from the 21st of March, and can then demand to be released under a writ of habeas corpus. If Winslow is released, the extradition treaty between the two nations will undoubtedly be terminated.

Governor Ames, of Mississippi, has tendered his resignation, the impeachment proceedings being previously dismissed upon notification that such action would be followed by a resignation. The situation was a strange one. To Governor Ames, however innocent of the offenses with which he stood charged, there was the certainty of conviction by a partisan Senate, and, moreover, the certainty of his being powerless, in any event, to carry on the Government of the State, baffled as he was by a bitterly hostile legislature. On the other hand, the promptness of the impeachment Court in dismissing all proceedings, shows clearly that their object was not to punish any breach of the law, but to get rid of a Governor of opposing political sentiment. It is better, we fancy, for the republican party, that the resignation should be made. Governor Ames has done his work as ably as the extremely embarrassing circumstances would permit. His situation was, however, one of responsibility without power, and so long as the democrats have the latter, it is quite as well that they should take the former also. It is one of the cases where the English system, which obliges the Administration to resign upon the election of a hostile legislature, has its advantages. In this instance, though, we have to aggravate us the knowledge that the hostile legislature was elected through gigantic frauds and desperate terrorism.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the solid element of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liabilities,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

Life Assurance Co.,

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1,930,150.05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the Best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 29.

Total premiums paid in 29 years,	$336.92
less dividends,	11.62
Average cost per year,	11.62
Cost for 1875,	11.62

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

DR. QUAIN'S

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the great demand for their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been troubled with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For five or six years I have grown worse and worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, who reports himself cured. Enclosed find one dollar for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can say they are worth ten dollars for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to me, "Send for a package." I feel as I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't live. I had tried so much that I had most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything I want to, and my stomach one seat they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.30 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for hours to move from my chair, and almost crazed from the pain. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I should suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Cosmopolitan. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, free from pain, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your Pills. I intend still to keep them by me, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than at 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Troubles, and I feel like a new woman. My blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reademide, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No agency in the country possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are herewith obviated.

TESTIMONIALS.

"Regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMONIC CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMONIC CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

— USE —

Buchman's Pulmonic Cordial.

The Pulmonic Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, unaliened by party ties or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will resist with vigor those principles and practices under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of partisan or sectarian intolerance. It must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it will endeavor to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country can trust; to reform the abuses, hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the best interests of all, and more particularly the laboring class, and as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money victories won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was fearlessly driving the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lessening the cost of government. In 1876 the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win general support, and not yet greater approval.

One great of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been to alienate thousands who would fain be at liberty to join in some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within the last five years gradually forced party tactics up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the method which has thus proved approved, it is popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal abuse; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor to their families, THE TRIBUNE claims a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed during the years 1874 and 1875 in the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh est intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE,

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY OF

is unsurpassed in any department, and unequaled in the Superiority of its Illustrations, and the beauty of its typography. The handsomest, and one of the best and most entertaining of all Monthlies.

The New Volume, commencing with the January issue, will be replete with most attractive features. No advantage will be neglected which either talent or capital can command to render each issue an entertaining and instructive compend um of

POPULAR READING.

The contributions now on hand, or specially engaged, embrace an unusually attractive list of Tales, Short Stories, Narratives, Descriptive Sketches, Papers on Science and Art, Poems, Popular Essays, Literary Criticisms, Critiques, etc., etc.,

By Talented and Well-Known Writers.

In fact, all possible means are being taken to supply the public, through this periodical, with a purer and yet refined type of LITERARY ENJOYMENT.

One of the attractive features of the new year will be a series of Papers under the title entitled

THE CENTURY,

Its Fruits and Its Festival,

which will present a summary of the progress of civilization, and advancement in the arts and sciences since the Revolution, together with a complete history and description of the CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION, fully illustrated.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devots a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

THE SEARS WILL CASE.

The will of Joshua Sears is in court in a matter of equity. Joshua Sears, it will be remembered, was one of the richest men of Boston in his day, and when he died he left his vast property to an only child, a boy, then an infant. Last January the boy, Joshua Montgomery Sears, attained his majority, and then it was that he learned for the first time (through the newspapers) that he was heir to a very large property. The estate in question is now valued at about $6,000,000. The case in equity is against the Trustees of the property, and the plaintiff asks for a proper construction of the terms of the will, which, in its most vital points, is somewhat obscure, on account of the lack of punctuation points and the interposition of capital letters. Joshua Sears was an ignorant, but sharp, New England business man, and the will is in his handwriting. He was careless in the use of capital letters and punctuation points, when he used any. Young Sears now comes into court, and asks that the residue of the estate above the amount of the special bequests made in the will shall be delivered to him as sole heir-at-law, he having attained his majority. This residue amounts, it is understood, to over $4,000,000, which sum is sufficient to make the plaintiff the richest young man in the United States. The earlier clauses of the will make certain bequests which are not in controversy, but the bequests made to the brothers of the intestate, by the final clause, are contingent upon the death of the son before he reached the age of 21. Of course Joshua naturally concluded that his son would not marry before reaching his majority, and if he died during the minority he would die without issue. Naturally, therefore, he provided in that contingency of death that the estate should go to the nearest of his kin bearing his name. The defendants contend that the residue is to go to the collateral relatives of the deceased. This residue is equal to five-sixths of the entire estate, yet it is put in trust, and under the obscure construction of the will it cannot be disturbed. It should not have been put in trust at all but willed to the sole heir, young Sears, who, if he shall marry (and it is understood that he is affianced to a daughter of one of the trustees) and have children, those children, under the construction of the will proposed, will not have a dollar of their grandfather's estate, but must go to their second cousins to beg for crumbs from a table groaning under the abundance which came to it from their grandfather's estate. The clause of the will which provides for the education and support of the son, reads as though it was to be in force during his natural life, instead of to the date of the boy's majority. In short, by the terms of the will, as held by the Trustees, $4,000,000 is held in trust for a life-time, in order to provide for an annuity of $10,000 for the use of the son, there being no express provision for the payment of the income of the residue and remainder.

Xantippe.

It seems that the memory of this woman, like that of her renowned husband, is likely to be kept alive to the end of time. She is said to have possessed a very irritable temper, and her name has become a synonym of "vixen," or "scold." It is more than possible, however, that the judgment passed upon her by mankind has been too severe. A more charitable disposition would undoubtedly have discovered in her, many good qualities, and have attributed her failings more to physical infirmities than to moral obliquity. The party most intimately acquainted with her, and therefore best able to form a correct opinion, gives her credit for many domestic virtues. It is now well known that many of the diseases to which women are subject, have a direct tendency to render them irritable, peevish, cross, morose, unreasonable, so that they chafe and fret over all these little ills and annoyances that a person in health would bear with composure. It is fair to infer that most of the tantrums of Xantippe were due to these causes alone; and could Socrates, as he returned from the Senate, the Gymnasium, or the Atheneum, have stopped at Keith & Mortarty's Drug Store and carried home a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, now and then, no doubt he might have evaded many a "curtain lecture," allayed many a "domestic broil," made it much pleasanter for the children, and more enjoyable for himself, and rescued his wife's name from the unenviable, world-wide, and eternal notoriety it has attained. Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all these derangements causing backache, dragging-down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

Thousands of testimonials to the efficacy and value of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam can be produced from leading citizens of the State. Sold by all druggists.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat, requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Diseases. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief.

The Word "Sozodont,"
Which is fast becoming a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontos. "Sozo" translated, means to preserve, and "Odontos" the teeth—"Sozodont," a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. For beautifying and preserving the teeth, hardening and invigorating the gums, and correcting all impurities of the breath, it is without a peer in the world.

Spalding's Glue will mend everything.

Daily Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 5, 1876.

Elections.

At the election in Connecticut on Monday, Governor Ingersoll was re-elected by 2500 to majority. The legislature is democratic in both branches. Waite, republican, is elected to Congress over David A. Wells, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Starkweather. Hartford gave Ingersoll 676 plurality and 489 majority. New Haven gave Ingersoll 1029 plurality, but the majority against him in the city is 818. Rev. Dr. Bacon is one of the defeated republican candidates for the State Senate.

In the municipal elections in Michigan on the same day, the republicans maintained their ascendency. The democrats carried Pontiac, Owasco, Saginaw City and Ionia. The republican ticket was elected in Flint, Hastings, Lansing, Ledington, Alpena, Plymouth, Mason, Jonesville, St. Clair and Allegan.

In Cleveland, Ohio, the republicans carried their city ticket by large majorities, electing 14 of the 18 councilmen. Tremont shows a republican gain of 200. Cincinnati elected the democratic city ticket by small majorities. The greenback party carried Youngstown by 300 majority.

At Calais, Me., the republicans triumphed by 200 majority, carrying every ward.

A Resurrectionary Movement.

A Washington dispatch of March 26, to the New York Herald, says:

Within the past week the Southern democrats have discussed very freely a proposition to urge the nomination at St. Louis of Judge David Davis, and the strength of the movement in favor of Judge Davis has greatly surprised Southern men themselves. To understand this matter it ought to be remembered that with the reconstruction of the Southern States, and the restoration of the franchise to its voting population, the whig element, which fused with the democracy just before the war, and remained identified with it in opposition to the republican party during the reconstruction, is disposed to break up this alliance of expediency and re-enter the political field in its old shape.

This whig revival is making wonderful progress throughout the South, and as a party movement is a parallel with the Chamberlain movement among the Southern republicans, and has already suggested the question whether the republican bolters and the whigs may not unite to form the expected third party. Now, Judge David Davis was an old line whig, and although a republican now, is thought to enjoy the society of his present associates no more than do the Southern whigs the alliance with the democrats. As the candidate of the St. Louis convention, he would, in the estimation of the Southern whigs, draw off from the republicans the old whig vote of the North, and get the united vote of the South, rendering his election a certainty. Whatever may be the event of this discussion there is no disguising the progress of the whig movement, which may yet take up and carry out the enterprise tried by the liberals at Cincinnati.

A Mexican "War."

A dispatch from Brownsville, Texas, says that on Monday morning at five o'clock Gen. Porfirio Diaz presented himself, with his army of about 1000, to attack Matamoras. Gen. De la Baners, in command of the garrison, sent out 300 men under Toledo to attack the enemy. This force "pronounced" when out of the city and went back in the ranks of Diaz. The National Guard, 1000 strong, in the city, and the artillery, refused to fire a single shot when ordered by De la Baners, and the revolutionists kept advancing. On this all the Government troops turned over except the Ninth Cavalry, which held firm. After some fighting Gen. de la Baners, seeing he was betrayed on the battle-field, left the city with a squad of the Ninth Cavalry for Brownsville. At Sentinel Station on the river opposite Brownsville the guard fired at the party, thinking they were enemies. The General crossed over finally. The United States gunboat Rio Bravo is in front of Matamoras to protect American and foreign citizens. Gen. Diaz is in Matamoras and was received with great rejoicing. Fighting is going on at Fort San Fernando and Caser Watus, fortifications in the suburbs of Matamoras, by a remnant of Government troops under Cols. Ceristo and Parrott, who refuse to surrender. Artillery is roaring and the contest is uncertain. Hundreds of families from Matamoras have been pouring into Brownsville a week past in anticipation of a battle, and the greatest excitement prevails on both sides of the river.

The officers and troops who crossed into Texas have been arrested and disarmed by Gen. Potter and taken to Fort Brown under orders of the Secretary of War.

Gen. Toledo has taken service with Gen. Diaz. The wounded number about twenty-four. The losses on the Government side are not known. Gen. Flores is on the march from Monterey to Matamoras. Le Baits expects him in five or six days. Gen. Diaz has issued a proclamation requesting the citizens to remain at home and attend to their business. He promises them security and the right guaranteed by the Constitution of 1857.

News and Notes.

The fact that Taft is a Unitarian gives ground to the hope that he will not leave the punishment of the War Department thieves to be inflicted in another world.—Chicago Tribune.

We fancy that the signs point to Blaine as the coming candidate, and with him, and all else in right shape, this State can be carried for the republican party.—Pittsburg (Pa.) Gazette.

The Brooklyn Eagle says of General John A. Dix: "A man who at eighty can turn his hand to the translation of a Latin poem, or who can turn out of bed at four o'clock in the morning to go duck shooting—holding his own with the boys, too—is a good deal of a man any way you may take him."

The impression is increasing rapidly that Blaine is the coming man. It is generally conceded that Bristow has more popular strength, but he has not his hand upon the "machinery," and Blaine has.—N. Y. Tribune.

By common consent, James G. Blaine is regarded by republican editors, politicians and representatives in this State, as the most formidable candidate against the field. Hence all the talk against Blaine is inspired by a fear he will be nominated. This opposition is manifested in political clubs—at Albany, in newspaper offices and elsewhere—not by a direct assault upon Mr. Blaine or his record, but by a covert attack upon the idea that any New England man can carry New York.—N. Y. Letter to Chic. Trib.

The house and barn of Daniel Pike at East Mountain, Newport, were burned Saturday night. Insured for $1900. A horse in the stable kicked a kerosene lantern, which set fire to the buildings. The furniture was saved.

Mr. William O. Clough, local reporter of the Nashua Telegraph, has been elected City Marshal of that city.

The Concord Patriot says: We should judge the tide of public sentiment in the republican ranks is setting strongly in favor of Hon. E. H. ROLLINS, for United States Senator from New Hampshire.

Rhode Island election to-day.

In the U. S. Senate, Monday, Mr. Wright called up the motion entered several days ago to reconsider the vote by which the bill reducing the salary of the President from $50,000 to $25,000 per annum was passed, and the Senate, by yeas 24 and nays 31, refused to reconsider the vote.

The impeachment managers are Messrs. Knott, of Kentucky; Lord, of New York; Lynde, of Wisconsin; McMahon, of Ohio; Jenks, of Pennsylvania; Wheeler, of New York; and Hoar, of Massachusetts.

United States Treasurer New is of opinion that under the operations of the specie resumption act the National Bank currency will be contracted $100,000,000 by January 1, 1877. Comptroller Knox estimates the amount of contraction at $60,000,000. Yet the inflationists voted for this bill under the impression that it was an anti-contraction measure.

In the democratic caucuses at Syracuse, N. Y., for delegates to the district conventions, the anti-Tilden men carried seven of the eight wards.

The Newburyport city council has voted $148,500 for expenditures for the current year; an increase of $11,500 over last year. The rate of taxation will exceed $20. The city debt will be reduced $30,000.

Governor Cheney of New Hampshire, passing through Cincinnati on his way to California, is Halsted's authority for stating that "New England is not coming to the Cincinnati Convention with a first, last, and all the time favorite son."

Referring to the excess of 993 votes that Hiram R. Roberts received last year for Governor over those cast for Daniel Marcy three weeks ago, the New Orleans Republican says: "The 993 gentlemen who shook Marcy are probably ex-Union soldiers who remembered the old man's anti-war speeches when Southern democrats attempted to destroy the Union." This is not the sole reason. Last year the money spent to elect Frank Jones to Congress swelled Roberts' vote largely. This year, Mr. Jones wasn't very eager to bring up the vote of Mr. Marcy to that of his own a year ago. He takes pride only in his own success.

We are for Gen. Sherman, first and all over, and earnestly hope he shall be nominated. We are for him because we like him best, because he is as good a man for it as there is in the nation, and because he couldn't be defeated.—Des Moines Register.

Our first choice is James G. Blaine of Maine, whom we regard as the ablest and strongest candidate before the American people. Our choice for the Vice Presidency is the present Secretary of the Treasury, Gen. B. H. Bristow of Kentucky. Like Mr. Blaine, he is young, energetic, loyal and incorruptible, just the sort of man to awaken the enthusiasm of Young America.—Gold Hill (Nev.) News.

It would be well for those papers that are crying bribery and corruption, and shouting themselves hoarse over "republican frauds," to bear in mind, that if the people in the First Congressional District had been left to themselves in March, 1875, Frank Jones would not now be in Congress; that if the poll in Manchester had been purged of illegal votes—the votes of bummers, repeaters, and vagabonds—Samuel N. Bell would now be in his office at Manchester instead of the Capitol at Washington. Of these two facts there is no doubt in the minds of candid men of both parties.—Wolfeboro' News.

The New York Commercial Advertiser intimates that the "Lesson of New Hampshire" has lessened the democratic party.

The leading men of both parties in Henniker are signing an agreement which is to remain in force for six years, to the effect that candidates for representatives and town officers are to be taken equally from each party. This is done on account of the disgust felt by honorable men of both parties in relation to the custom of bribery which has become alarmingly prevalent, in the efforts of interested persons to carry the town for their respective parties. If the plan shall have the effect to abolish the prevailing custom, it will be worthy the support of all honorable men to whatever party they belong.

A Toast.

Two Important Discoveries: The discovery of America by Columbus, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; the one opening up to mankind a new continent, the other a fountain of health, which is indispensable to the full enjoyment of life and its blessings. In response to the above sentiment come the unsolicited attestations of tens of thousands of grateful patients, who have been relieved of chronic ailments through its instrumentality. Those voices are limited to no one locality, but from every city village, and hamlet, in our broad domain, as well as from other climes, and in the strange utterances of foreign tongues, like the confused murmur of many waters, come unfeigned and hearty commendations. It is, in combination with the Pleasant Purgative Pellets, the great depurator of the age. Under its benign action eruptions disappear, excessive waste is checked, the nerves are strengthened, and health, long banished from the system, resumes her reign, and re-establishes her roseate throne upon the cheek. All who have thoroughly tested the virtues in the disease for which it is recommended unite in pronouncing it the great Medical Discovery of the age.

Miasma Rendered Powerless.

The most certain way to render powerless the miasmatic vapors which produce chills and fever and other malarious disorders, is to fortify the system against them with that matchless preventive of periodic fevers, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The remedial operation of the Bitters is no less certain than their preventive effects, and they may be relied upon to overcome cases of fever and ague which resist quinine and the mineral remedies of the pharmacopœia. Dyspepsia, constipation, bilious complaints, rheumatic ailments, and general debility, likewise, rapidly yield to their regulative and tonic influence. They are an incalculable blessing to the weak and nervous of both sexes, an excellent family medicine, and the best safeguard which the traveler or emigrant can take to an unhealthy climate.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9542 policies, insuring nearly $23,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $50,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 10 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, say, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

White Island.

The line gale made things quite lively for the light-keepers at White Island. The wooden sheathing of the old tower (now used for the storage of oil) was stripped off from the sea face and western side, and the planks and shingles scattered about the dwelling and woodshed, and even hundreds of feet further away from the tower. A door (in the same tower) of plank, with two small panes of heavy plate glass in it, was burst from its fastenings by the sea, and was either washed by the waves or blown by the wind some two hundred feet and deposited near the boat-house, the plate glass of the small windows being scattered in bits on the oil-room floor. When we say that these panes of glass were but a foot long and five inches wide, and nearly half an inch thick, some idea of the force required to burst them in may be formed. The sea poured through the open doorway in such volumes as to fill the basements of both towers to the height of the threholds, and then rushed down the covered way and filled the lower end with water to the depth of three or four feet. One of the heavy timber braces of the covered way was wrenched from its fastening at the lower end, and sined around sidewise, and a crate which had been stowed away beneath the walk for safe keeping was jammed in between the timbers so firmly that it had to be broken to pieces to get it out; and a flight of steps (sheltered behind the old tower) built of heavy flat stones but not cemented, was washed down hill a number of feet. The water also knocked a hole through under the edge of the roof of the old tower and got into the upper story, which is used as a kind of clutter-hole; and while the light-keepers were hard at work bailing water out of the basement a sea climbed over the wall into the clutter-hole and threw pieces of wood and bits of stone, blocks and ropes, lengths of old stove pipe and other rubbish down on their heads, which caused them to get out of that rather quickly. The top of the old tower is some sixty feet perpendicularly above high water mark, so it must have been a pretty heavy sea that struck under the eaves with force enough to lift the roof; but a still heavier one was that which burst in an outside window of four heavy panes of glass in the new tower, breaking every pane and throwing open the inner window, though the opening is fully seventy feet above high water mark. The new brick tower—and a mighty poor structure it is, as mean as it is mean-looking—from which the light is exhibited, groaned and trembled in a manner most amusing to the keeper on watch, and the water clattered so heavily against the dwelling that the keeper who had the watch below could not sleep. Even at low tide the sea broke clear over the island and ran in good-sized streams down each side of the boat-house, the old, rotten platform in front of which was partially washed away. Several wheelbarrow loads of earth, a large proportion of the arable land of the island—were washed into the ocean and lost. It was the heaviest sea which has beaten on the island for years, and a few more like it would scoop all the old rattletrap buildings on the place. The lighthouse department has asked Congress for $6000 to build a new dwelling there, which is much needed, the present one being very old and much too small for the proper accommodation of the keepers; in addition to which a new boat-slip, coal-house and other outbuildings are greatly needed, and the covered-way and oil-room require extensive repairs to make them safe for another winter. But we suppose Congress—or at least one branch of it—is too busy "investigating" to see if some political capital cannot be raked together to forward another detachment of rebel brigadiers to Washington, to find time to attend to such trifles as the absolute needs of the light-house department; so the old tumbled-down shanties on White Island will probably stand as much longer as the winds will allow, a positive disgrace to the government.

Jottings.

The capital for the Old Ladies' Home is limited to $20,000.

A term of the Circuit Court commenced at Exeter on Tuesday, Judge Rand presiding. The term will probably not exceed three weeks in length, the last two of which will be devoted to criminal cases and the first to equity matters. The trial of Magoon, now in Portsmouth jail, under an indictment for poisoning his wife at Raymond in this county, will be postponed on account of the inability of procuring two justices qualified to preside at the trial. As the constitution of the State entitles every man accused of a crime, to a trial "promptly and without delay," it is probable that he will be tried at a special term, holden for that purpose.

The officers and members of St. Mary's Benevolent Association are making arrangements for a Grand Easter ball and promenade concert to take place on Monday evening, 17th instant. From their reputation in this direction we infer that it will be an affair well managed and arranged.

Betton & Co. will sell at auction this noon, house No. 86 Islington street.

The Howard & Ashcroft company postponed their entertainment until this evening on account of the storm. Give them a good house.

The surviving soldiers and sailors are making arrangements to hold a meeting here, to take initial measures toward a proper observance of Memorial Day.

The gale of Tuesday split a large tree in front of the National House, and threw part of it across the sidewalk.

The "Bangor Extension Ladder" for safety in case of fire had a very successful trial on J. C. Carr's block, Monday evening, about 1000 persons witnessing the performance. Gen. Joseph S. Smith is the proprietor. The ladder is intended for firemen, carpenters, masons and painters. It can be made very strong and used at any length, from twenty-five to eighty feet, an extension moving freely up or down in obedience to a crank at the foot of the main ladder; the ladders are made fast and safe whenever the crank ceases to turn. The upper ladder is held in position by a chain and two hooks clasping the rounds, the hooks being self-acting.

The veteran teacher of the "poetry of motion," Mr. Samuel Lamprey, announces another new school for juveniles, commencing Saturday afternoon of next week. As one may as well not be born new-a-days as to be ignorant of the graceful art of dancing, and as Mr. Lamprey has no superior east of Boston as a teacher, his class will undoubtedly be large and select.

The Presidential Candidate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 3.

From reading your article on Blaine and Bristow, as Presidential candidates, I am led to offer a few suggestions through your columns:

The dissatisfaction with the administration of the republican party, and the feeling among the people that corruption had been gradually gathering around it, and that unsafe men were too potent in their influence, led to a sweeping defeat in 1874, which gave promise of a democratic triumph in 1876. Nothing could have prevented this but the action of the successful party in the organization of the House of Representatives, and its signal incapacity for the positive legislation demanded by the country, coupled with the evidence of vigor in the Treasury Department, and capacity there to grapple with dishonesty outside and extravagance inside. Mullett, who had become too great a power for other Secretaries to crush in his vast expenditures, went down before Bristow. Internal Revenue and Custom House officials began to feel a guiding rein as they had not done before, while extravagant practices which had grown up with the sanction of custom were abolished, one after another. Cabinet officers were heard growling through their organs about Bristow's cheap desire for reputation as a reformer, but somehow they went out and he went on. Whiskey rings and thieves did the same. Our own State was quivering with anxiety just previous to the election, lest under all these adverse influences aided by powerful Senatorial efforts against Bristow, he should be so annoyed as to leave the Cabinet. We all felt that if he went out the State would be lost, he had become so exclusively the representative of what New Hampshire republicans desired to accomplish. Is it surprising then, under such circumstances that he has become the strongest candidate for New Hampshire that the republican party could present—overcoming as he has fully all prejudices growing out of locality?

In the coming election, to an unusual degree, the candidate must furnish in himself the platform. Honest administration is the demand of the hour. If the republican candidate represents in himself that idea, he will be supported by greenback and hard money men, free trade and tariff men and every other class of thinkers. Bristow is the best representative of that idea now before the people, and besides he would receive the support of those known as independent voters, who have proved themselves no mean force in several of the States on recent occasions.

No candidate who has been named for the Presidency has so radical and strong a record in favor of the constitutional amendments and reconstruction acts, won at the sacrifice of social and political position at the time, as Bristow. None of them have a better army record to offer, and none of them have had such experience and universal success in matters of administration.

The election of any good republican candidate is now reasonably assured, but not altogether certain. It is not the part of wisdom or good policy to allow locality to have weight against the strongest candidate. Our first duty is to ascertain the man who would be most certain of an election, and then if he had the best administrative ability to nominate and elect him. For one I have no doubt that man is Benjamin H. Bristow, of Kentucky. E.

Now that every one is commencing to arrange for a trip to Philadelphia to attend the Centennial Exhibition, it becomes an important matter to be provided with the articles necessary for the journey. Among the most important is a railway guide. Official Time-Tables, the pocket edition of the well-known Travelers' Official Guide, for April, is before us. With its clearly-printed pages, neat sectional and handsomely colored general map, its carefully-compiled information respecting the population, hotels, etc., of all principal places, and above all, for Centennial travelers, the fine lithographic map of Philadelphia, showing the Exhibition building and the lines of street cars in the city, it contains all the information that could be desired. Published monthly by the National Railway Publication Company, Philadelphia, at the very low price of twenty-five cents.

Prof. Collins of Whitefield has received several tempting offers for his water burning discovery, one of them an ex-editor of the Scientific American, who proposed a liberal partnership; but the Professor purposes playing it alone and taking the chances. He will give a public exhibition of his "aqualight," as he calls it, before long, when several prominent scientists are expected to take a hand in the experiments. The Professor claims that a quart of water treated with five cents' worth of chemicals can be made to produce more light than a quart of kerosene, and a barrel of water with one dollar's worth of chemicals produces more heat than a cord of rock maple wood, and the beauty of it is that it is entirely safe and produces no smoke or unpleasant odor. The Professor says he has warmed and lighted his laboratory for ten days with a jet of water no larger than a cambric needle, and had a good deal of water to spare, and he says he will contract to warm and light any house in Whitefield at a large discount on the present cost, although he has not yet perfected his invention.—Lancaster Gazette.

—The following "estray" notice was sent to one of the Denver Sheriff's officers: "Rund avay—1 red and vite caf. His tu behint leg vas plack, he vas a she caf. Enipotti vot bring him pack pais 5 tollar.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are household words, and a voucher for the stability and integrity of the corporate body. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer portion of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($429 for each dollar of liability) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the last year even better than this.

Life Assurance Co.,

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

ASSETS $1,930,150.05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its economical and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1867; AGE, 28.

Total premiums paid in 29 years,	$398.91
less dividends,	111.62
Average cost per year,	12.82

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the spring of the year 1873, and from the first sale of them their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and the Pills bore testimony to the cause posing in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was Almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 2, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged when I took up your pills, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I do expect to enjoy health. One package has done more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $5 for six packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and have only taken half of them according to orders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done me and doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I should have to give up business, but I feel now as good as anything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials you have printed they were called "pills of gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give ill before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also with Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article without great pain. I have had several physicians and a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded that I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Con*gregationalist*. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent to you one package of Condition Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well, can eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will last. My sister suffered from the same complaint of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if I could buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indebted to my friend, who introduced you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Improved after a Cure of Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have so Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 54 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, for one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, Reissues, and for the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of pulling their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs, by the climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance as entitling its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hopes or antipathies.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the accurant of cancuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, whether it be pleasant or unpleasant; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whose the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, honest administration, and economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens; and a comprehensive tariff, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping the leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people ready to support, and hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest principles, and of combining that without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst abuses of which they concurred system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have time within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a higher standard of morality, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will continue to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wranglings; will waste no time replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will devote itself to the interests of its readers.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the support so generously and so joyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 or positions assigned, long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at at previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh est intelligence, the most comprehensive and the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department of its staff. Its staff is the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

The New Rules for Base Ball.

The changes in the playing rules of the national game for this year are as follows:

The rule bearing upon the running of bases on foul balls has been changed so as to admit of players returning to bases without being put out. For instance, last season, if a player had made a good hit and earned his base, and ran on the batsman's hitting a ball foul, but close to the line of the bases, all that it was necessary to do to put him out was to field the ball to the pitcher, and let him pass it to the base to which the base-runner had to return. This season, the base-runner is allowed, in such cases, to return to the base without being put out.

In regard to running a base on a fly-ball caught, last season the base-runner, while he could leave his base the moment a fair fly was caught, could not leave it in the case of a foul fly-catch until the pitcher had held the ball. This season he can run a base on a foul fly-catch the same as on a fair fly-catch.

The rule applicable to drawn games has been changed so that now a nine can draw a game the same in an uncompleted innings play as they can win it.

The rule for calling balls requires that every second ball unfairly delivered be called instead of every third, and this must be done in the order of its delivery. The batsman is required to strike at the first and second fair balls sent in, but the third he can let pass him—the umpire warning him that he will call the fourth.

—An old farmer once said, with more truth than elegance; "There are two talks in this world to one do."

—Idleness is the dead sea that swallows up all virtues, and is the self-made sepulchre of a living man.

—"Miss Mary Sheridan, eldest daughter of Lieutenant-General Phil. Sheridan, gave a lunch party yesterday afternoon," announced a Chicago society paper. The hostess is five weeks old.

—A Dutchman had put up in his store a sign as nearly like his neighbor's as he could remember, and it read: "If you see what you want don't ask for it," and the first customer waited until the proprietor's back was turned and helped himself.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

FARMERS
should purchase
The Halladay Wind-Mill!
It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.
It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.
It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.
It is the cheapest wind mill.
The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mills up on its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?
IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.
IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, stands at the head of every, beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.
Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World. Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and new novel Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the Industrial Arts, form a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.
The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and home will save many times the cost of subscription.
Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room, in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.
A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all Newsdealers.
PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.
Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentees. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Decisions of Hon. J. D. Cox, U. S. Supreme Court, relative to patents, Rejected Cases, Hints on Infringements of mechanical movements, Price 25 cents.
Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch Office, Corner F & 7th Streets, Washington, D. C.

THURSDAY, APRIL 6, 1876.

AH-HA!! AND LITTLE RHODY TOO!!

Another Republican Victory.

THE HOME OF BURNSIDE ALWAYS TRUE.

In Rhode Island, yesterday, the republicans had everything their own way, beating the prohibitionists and democratic State tickets, and carrying the legislature.

Democracy and the Schools.

The Lansing (Mich) Republican thus sketches two representative States, a democratic and a republican State, as revealed by census statistics.

In 1870, Texas had 818,899 inhabitants, of whom 189,423 above ten years of age could not read. This is 23 in every 100. New Hampshire, with a population of 318,300 had only 7,618 above ten years of age who could not read, or less than 2 1-2 in every 100. Texas, therefore, had almost ten times as many ignoramuses to be readily manufactured into democrats as New Hampshire had.

In 1870 there were 65,205 children attending school in Texas, or nearly 8 in every 100 of the whole population. New Hampshire had 65,824 children attending school, or 20 2-3 in every 100 of the whole population. Thus there were more than 2 1-2 times as many youth getting an education in New Hampshire as in Texas, and a proportionately larger amount of educated material to make republicans out of.

The total circulation of the newspapers of Texas in 1870 was 55,250, or one subscriber to every 14 3-4 inhabitants. The total number of subscribers to newspapers in New Hampshire was 178,919, or one subscriber to every 1 3-4 inhabitants. Thus the chance of making republicans by newspaper reading has been more than eight times as great in New Hampshire as in Texas.

The total number of sittings in church in Texas in 1870 was 199,100, or one to every 4 1-8 inhabitants. In New Hampshire it was 210,090, or one to every 1 1-2 inhabitant. Thus the chance of making republicans through religious influences was nearly three times as great in New Hampshire as in Texas.

The philosopher was strictly correct who said that 'education is the bane of democracy.'"

News and Notes.

An unknown vessel is ashore at Salisbury Point.

At the Circuit Court in Haverhill, Joshua Hanscom, of Compton, indicted for arson, retracted the plea of not guilty, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to ten years in State Prison. George B. Forge, of Lebanon, for aggravated assault, convicted April 3d, was centenced to three months in jail, and to pay a fine of $100 and costs. The action of the State vs. students of Dartmouth College was continued to the May term at Plymouth. George C. Smith pleaded guilty to the charge of cruelty to animals, and was discharged on his own recognizance.

The steamer Agrigenti, from the Pirœus for Italian ports, collided with the English steamer Hylton Castle off Cape Males, on the south coast of Moreo. The Agrigenti immediately sunk, and of sixty-four persons on board, nine of the crew and twenty passengers were drowned.

Patrick Perkins, a laborer at Columbus, Ohio, shot and killed his son, aged 17 years. The boy had been associating with an objectionable boy, and the father, who had been drinking, forced his boy to get upon his knees and pray, and promise never to associate with the boy again. While upon his knees, with his head bowed, the father seized a heavily-loaded shot gun and discharged its contents into the boy's side, killing him instantly.

The U. S. Senate has rejected the nomination of Chas. H. Dana, Jr., as Minister to England, by a vote of 17 to 31.

The President has nominated Col. James E. Larkin to be Postmaster at Concord.

During the gale on the 21st ult., the bell and boat house connected with the lighthouse at Egg Rock were swept away. The bell tower was displaced and badly shattered.

The Secretary of the Treasury has issued a circular to keepers and crews of life-saving stations, urging the importance of always wearing when using the boats the cork life belts furnished for them.

Thomas Tracy, near Corlinville, Ill., shot his wife, killed his daughter, six years old, with the butt end of a gun, and cut his own throat with a butcher knife.

At Booneville, Mo., a barge was sunk by collision with a bridge, and six men were drowned.

Elder Batchelder, an Adventist of Ashland, has become insane and is now confined to his bed.

The Shaker Mills at Enfield have started up on full time.

Seventy-four hard drinkers have sworn off at Ashland. J. K. Osgood was the cause of it.

One hundred and sixteen persons signed the pledge at Goffstown, in one night.

This is the way a Newton correspondent advertises the marriageable young men of that place: Young ladies, attention! There are residing among us seven marriageable young men who have never been addicted to profanity or the use of tobacco or strong drink in any form.

Official advices show that the so-called revolution is simply an armed nullification of the laws of Mexico for the preservation of order on the frontier which President Lerdo has unsuccessfully attempted to carry out.

The steamer Castalia, which sailed from Leghorn, March 25, took forty tons additional Italian exhibits for the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. Chevalier Podovani, President of the Italian Commission at the Exhibition, sailed from Glasgow for New York in the steamer Victoria, March 25.

An insane daughter of Guilford Young, of Vinalhaven, Me., strayed from home Friday, the 24th ult., and was not found till the next Monday night. She was in the woods during that fearful storm.

The Genie Manufacturing Co. are running a force now of one hundred operatives, and despite the general depression of business adhere strictly to their scale of good prices and full time.

A paper has been circulated and signed by more than thirty of the first citizens of the town of Milford in which it is predicated that "great injustice has been done one of our townsmen by insinuations and accusations of being the probable murderer of Deputy Sheriff Wallingford, and thereby bringing distress and disgrace upon himself and family; all this as we think without sufficient proof or just cause, and therefore ask the public to suspend all judgment and to believe the man innocent until they have greater evidence of his guilt."

George W. Davis, a well-known farmer of Greenland, has purchased thirty acres of choice lands in Palatka, Florida, and will cultivate the same as an orange grove.

The Washington correspondent of the Salem Gazette writes thus regarding the investigation committees: There are now over thirty investigations being made, and before each of the committees witnesses have to be summoned. Each witness brought here must be paid his fees, which are four dollars per day while here, and ten cents per mile coming and returning. Some of these witnesses come from Oregon and California, most of them from the extreme Western States or the territories. It is safe to say that the average mileage of all the witnesses will be about 2000 miles, making $200 for mileage, and that the average attendance will be twenty-five days, or $100 for attendance; a total of $300 to each witness. From the number now here and the reports of the number summoned, it is not at all extravagant to expect that one thousand witnesses have been and will be summoned. This would make the witnesses cost the nice little sum of $300,000. So far they have unearthed one steal of $20,000. But this is not all the cost of investigation. There have been several junketing parties of Congressmen, with their clerks, stenographers and friends, who have been running about over the country to Norfolk, Kittery and Portsmouth. These trips cost money. Then the committees all have to keep stenographers. They cost money. Then the evidence taken has to be printed, and what has already been taken will make a library, and cost not less than three or four hundred thousand dollars to print. One million of dollars will not more than pay the expenses of the investigations now ordered.

Mrs. Betsey Straw, the oldest inhabitant of Warner, if not the oldest person in New Hampshire, died Monday, the 3d, of lung fever, after a short illness, aged 101 years 5 months 22 days, having been born October 10, 1774, at Salisbury, Mass., to which place her grandfather, John Hoyt, emigrated from England in 1631.

Oliver B. Jenks, M. D., who died recently at Edgewood Hall, Madison county, Va., was born in Newport, Feb. 5, 1820. He received an academic education at Meriden, after which he went South and graduated at the Philadelphia Medical College. He had resided many years at Edgewood Hall and was a skilful physician and a prominent citizen. He was a brother of Messrs. Geo. E. and Edward A. Jenks, of Concord.

A long interview between Judge Turney of the supreme court of this State and Mr. Paddock, the husband of Maggie Mitchell, satisfied each that they were desperate enemies in the late war. Judge Turney was one of the most desperately wounded soldiers of the confederate army. From Mr. Paddock's narration of his services in the federal army, Judge Turney is satisfied that Mr. Paddock is the man, or belonged to the command, that shot him through and through, the ball entering at the mouth, knocking out several teeth, carrying away a portion of the tongue, and passing out through the back of the neck. Their meeting last night, accompanied with explanations which each gave of their battle fronts and the details of regimental action, satisfied the Judge of the correctness of his opinion as to the immediate position of their respective commands. The heartiness of their meeting after these mutual explanations was far beyond anything we can express.—Nashville (Tenn.) American.

—A Chinaman walked into the County Clerk's office at Eureka recently, and inquired "How muchee one mally-licee?" "Five dollars," replied the clerk. This exorbitant charge for a marriage license struck the Chinaman "all in a heap," and he turned away in disgust. But as he reached the door a bright idea seemed to strike him, and he came back and whispered: "How muchee one month?" It was explained that the statute would not permit the issuance of such a document for a shorter period than "allee time," and the door closed upon him and his disappointment.

Xantippe.

It seems that the memory of this woman, like that of her renowned husband, is likely to be kept alive to the end of time. She is said to have possessed a very irritable temper, and her name has become a synonym of "vixen," or "scold." It is more than possible, however, that the judgment passed upon her by mankind has been too severe. A more charitable disposition would undoubtedly have discovered in her, many good qualities, and have attributed her failings more to physical infirmities than to moral obliquity. The party most intimately acquainted with her, and therefore best able to form a correct opinion, gives her credit for many domestic virtues. It is now well known that many of the diseases to which women are subject, have a direct tendency to render them irritable, peevish, cross, uncouth, unreasonable, so that they chafe and fret over all these little ills and annoyances that a person in health would bear with composure. It is fair to infer that most of the tantrums of Xantippe were due to these causes alone; and could Socrates, as he returned from the Senate, the Gymnasium, or the Atheneum, have stopped at Pestle & Mortar's Drug Store and carried home a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, now and then, no doubt he might have evaded many a "curtain lecture," allayed many a "domestic broil," made it much pleasanter for the children, and more enjoyable for himself, and rescued his wife's name from the unenviable, world-wide, and eternal notoriety it has attained. Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all these derangements causing backache, dragging-down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

Thousands of testimonials to the efficacy and value of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam can be produced from leading citizens of the State. Sold by all druggists.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat, requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Disease. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief.

The Word "Sozodont,"
Which is fast becoming a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontos. "Sozo" translated, means to preserve, and "Odontos" the teeth—"Sozodont," a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. For beautifying and preserving the teeth, hardening and invigorating the gums, and correcting all impurities of the breath, it is without a peer in the world.

Spalding's Glue will mend everything.

Depressing Maladies.
Dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, as well as disorders of the nervous system and the organs of urination, re-act by sympathy upon the brain, frequently causing a degree of mental depression not remotely akin to insanity. The surest way to banish the "blues" thus produced is to use that unfailing antidote to bodily irregularity and gloominess of mind, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A course of the great corrective tonic promptly removes the maladies above specified, as well as many others, and restores the cheerfulness which is such a characteristic attendant of good health. It likewise imparts a vigor to the constitution which is its surest safeguard against disease, and the best guarantee of a long life. The aged and infirm, as well as the sick and convalescent, derive inexpressible comfort and ben fit from its use.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

The Poor.

All who attended the lecture at the Temple Saturday evening, for the benefit of the poor, speak in the highest terms of the good management and the praiseworthy way in which the entertainment was given. No words of mine would add any new lustre to the universal plaudit—Well Done. Surely Heaven's blessing will abide with those who so pleasantly entertained the select audience on that occasion. I desire to say that Mrs. Jenness, Miss Spaulding and Mrs. Davis requested me to take charge of the proceeds after the expenses were paid, one hundred and sixteen dollars, which I accepted and shall endeavor to use to the best of my ability in cases of real need, and shall be ready to report the same to those interested.

WM. A. LOYNE.

Jottings.

Mr. John Ellison, a carpenter sixty years of age, residing on North Road, ate a hearty dinner on Wednesday, the 5th, and went out to shovel snow. He had just lifted the shovel to begin when he fell dead of heart disease.

The snow storm of Tuesday night was the most severe for many years, and those who dared face it were in danger of suffocation. There is every probability of great floods.

Sagamore Steam Fire Engine Company, No. 2, has elected the following officers Foreman, Thornton Betton; First Assistant, Frank E. Osgood; Clerk, Herman Manson; Steward, Daniel N. Cox.

Kearsarge S. F. E. Company, No. 3, has elected officers for the ensuing year, as follows; Foreman, Willard J. Sampson; Assistant, William S. Hazel; Second Assistant, Charles N. Merrill; Clerk, Fred P. Folsom; Treasurer, William S. Hazel; Steward, Charles N. Twombly; Pipeman, Richard D. Smart, Jr.

Rev. William A. Rand has finished his canvass for the payment of the debt on his church buildings, at South Seabrook, securing all but eighty dollars of the required one thousand within five miles of his church. Mr. Rand has received the amount in two hundred and thirty-six different sums, making two hundred and fifty calls in his canvass.

The report of the accident by which some unknown young man from Dover was thrown from his team on Sunday, the 2d, was a canard.

Newichewannock Tribe, No. 4, Improved Order of Red Men, will assemble in Council at their Wigwam on the 6th sleep, Plant moon, G. S. D. 385, at the seventh run, thirtieth breath. A full attendance is desired, as business of importance will be discussed around the Council fire. Per order of the Sachem.

There will be another grand rally of the Reform Club this evening, at the Temple. The exercises will be quite varied. There will be singing and speaking. Capt. Jamieson and his "teetotal" crew of the schooner Velocipede will occupy seats upon the platform, and during the evening will present to the Woman's League an elegant testimonial. The ladies of the League are invited to take seats on the stage. This promises to be one of the most interesting meetings of the season. Five cents will be collected at the door. The Club now numbers 1175 members.

The Woman's Temperance League have presented to the Reform Club sixty volumes of the publications of the National Temperance Society's Publication House of New York.

Schooner Gen. Grant of Hampton (seventy tons, old measurement.) was sold at auction by Deputy U. S. Marshal Morse, under a decree of sale from the United States District Court upon libel for seamen's wages. Capt. William G. Matthews, of Wells, was the purchaser, for $1500.

One day about the middle of last week, a young man named Charles Bean, who had been at work at the shoe business in Raymond for some months, obtained money of a Mrs. Young, and with it purchased bad liquor. The insane are often the most violent toward their best friends. Those maddened by inebriation are so. Bean went to the house of Mr. Young, whose wife was alone, and commenced to smash things. A chair was broken to pieces, one part of which, striking Mrs. Young, gave her a bad wound. Afterward he struck her once or more, knocking her down. Some neighbors went in, and he threatened he would kill them. He was taken into custody and was brought before J. S. James, Esq. After hearing the evidence, the Justice required him to give bonds in the sum of $200 for appearance at court. Failing to procure bonds he was taken by Sheriff Smith to Portsmouth jail. J.

Political.

The democratic majority in Connecticut is 3600. Last year it was 6500. Republican gain 2900.

The returns from the primary elections in the counties in Maryland indicate that that State will be unanimous for Blaine at Cincinnati.

In Cincinnati, for members of the Board of Public Works, the democrats elected three and the republicans two. The republicans will have a majority in the City Council and School Board. The democrats retain a majority in the Board of Aldermen, and probably will have a small majority on joint ballot.

At Evansville, Ind., the city election passed off quietly. The republicans elect five Councilmen and the democrats one. The new Council will be a tie, with a democratic Mayor, who holds over. The republicans elect the Treasurer and Clerk, and the democrats the Marshal and Surveyor. The democrats last year elected five Councilmen, Clerk, Marshal and Surveyor.

Returns from fifty-four towns and cities in Ohio show that the republicans have a majority in twenty-two, and the democrats in nineteen of them. The rest were equally divided.

At Cleveland, the general republican ticket was elected by 2500 majority. The Council will stand 22 republicans to 14 democrats. The reserve towns generally show republican gains.

At Toledo, the republicans elected the Street Commissioner by about 900 majority.

Col. Daniel Hall writes to the editor of the Lebanon Press Press, as follows concerning the famous sell which the democrats have been advertising as an evidence of republican corruption:

"The gullibility of your democratic brethren is laughable to the last degree. The letter to C. O. Barney was, in common parlance, 'a sell' upon the democracy of Canaan. I never sent a dollar to C. O. Barney, nor paid him a dollar, directly or indirectly, since the world began; and not a word of the letter, or the signature, is in my handwriting."

The Commercial Advertiser of New York city is a little confounded about Massachusetts politics: "From the Lowell district comes a tocsin sounding loud above the clatter of looms and the whirr of spindles. Aha! 'tis Ben Butler on the Congressional war path, with paint and feathers in profusion, and 'down with Thompson (with a'p)' engraved on his tomahawk. Ladies and children will please keep at a safe distance while the exhibition is in progress."

The prescience that led Mr. Blaine to grapple with the spirit of "State sovereignty" and enmity to the reconstructed Union, which cropped out the very first day of the present session of Congress through Fernando Wood, has since been gratefully recognized by the loyal masses of the nation; and it now is pretty generally conceded that the country is largely indebted to his vigilance, courage, and tireless energy, for its continued exemption from the blighting effects of the rebel spirit of retaliation; because whenever, through over-confidence in numerical strength, they have attempted an abrogation of any enactment or regulation rendered necessary by treason to the government, or other aggressive move, that gentleman's strategic and tactical skill as leader of the minority has always reversed the character of the resulting struggle, turning it into a disastrous rout of the ex-Confederates and their allies.—Salem Gazette.

Two estimates of the complexion of the Ohio republican delegation come from opposite sources in Cincinnati, and are singularly in accord with each other. The Commercial, "after a good deal of close figuring," announces this result: Bristow, 24; Blaine 12; Morton, 8. The Gazette, basing its estimate on "pretty good authority," make this assertion: Bristow, 26; Blaine, 11; Morton, 7. Both parties seem to agree in the belief that Hayes cannot hold the delegation after the first ballot. The estimates at the other end of the State increase Blaine's strength, and reduce Bristow's.

District Attorney Dyer of St. Louis, in a recent interview, said that while he thought Mr. Blaine had the best chances for the Presidential nomination, his preferences were for Mr. Bristow, because of "his rugged, unflinching honesty, his contempt of sycophants and time-servers, and his great knowledge of men."

There is a quiet, formidable movement on foot to spring the name of Hon. William A. Wheeler of New York as a compromise candidate, if it appears after several ballots, no other candidate is likly to receive the nomination. You will perceive there are several "ifs" in this programme, but the cards have been shuffled with a view to the contingency of uniting the New York delegation and putting forward some good speaker to nominate Mr. Wheeler as the unanimous choice of this State. His friends hope to carry him through on the hip-high hurrah basis, by which the democracy were swindled into the nomination of Horatio Seymour in 1868. He has several very warm personal adherents in the delegation, who will on the first and second ballots stand by Roscoe Conkling, so as to bring over his friends to the support of Wheeler at the critical moment.—N. Y. Cor.

Two of the selectmen of Andover who were elected and sworn on the 14th, have resigned, and a new election has been called to fill their places.

Some of the democrats of Atkinson claim that the town meeting on the 14th was illegal, and have called a new one to elect a new set of town officers.

The row which has broken out in the democratic camp will be fiercer unless the compromise which Mr. Randall is now trying to effect shall succeed. It is also a fact that the democratic leaders are much discouraged at the prospect in November, and do not expect to win unless something decidedly to their advantage in the exposure line turns up between now and then.

Job Abbott, a native of Boscawen, but now a resident of Laconia, has voted a whig or republican ticket for 61 years, and his party was never beaten before this year in the towns where he has voted. He has been married 61 years. He is sawing up his five cords of wood this spring.

The New York Herald says that "although Mr. Blaine is over-sanguine, he is perceptibly and steadily gaining, which is more than can be said of any of his numerous rivals."

Washington letter writers have a habit of lamenting the incompleteness of the Washington Monument. That national horror should be polished with a case of dynamite. —Cincinnati Commercial.

The Chicago Staats-Zeitung, which has opposed the republican party for two years, has published an article strongly recommending Minister E. B. Washburne for the Presidency. The Germans do not forget his services during the siège of Paris.

The Washington Republican in a double-leaded article sets forth the danger of Mr. Bristow's becoming the democratic candidate for the Presidency. Suppose your uncle should prove to be your aunt?—Boston Journal.

The Danbury News man thinks Pendleton's chances for the Presidency are not ruined, but it would be better, perhaps, that he should wait until after dark to run.

Over 200 women and girls, many of them widows or daughters of Union soldiers, have been thrown out of work by the refusal of the democratic House to vote an appropriation for printing the bank notes which the banks so urgently demand, and are being fed on common food by the charitable offerings of republican clerks.

LOSS $50,000.

A MAN AND WOMAN Burned to Death!

A fire broke out in Bradstreet D. Hill's large four-story wooden block on High street, Great Falls, shortly after midnight of Tuesday, while a fierce snow storm was raging. Had it not been for the snow on the houses, half the village would have been destroyed. The snow was so deep the engines could not reach the fire, but the hydrants did good work. In addition to Hill's block, Watson's grocery, a two-story building, the post-office block, Samuel James' brick store, and a dwelling house belonging to Thomas Marston were destroyed. James' block would have been saved, had not the wall of his large building fallen on it and crushed it to the earth. None of the stock in his store was removed, it being regarded as safe a minute before the wall fell. All the mail matter in the post-office was saved.

Mr. Bradstreet D. Hill and his sister, Mrs. Cozzens, recently of Boston, occupied sleeping rooms in the third story of his block. Mr. Hill has been confined with illness a long time. He was seen to raise a window, cry for help and then fall out of sight. Their remains have not been recovered.

Income from premiums and interest	20,400,958 66
Receipts for interest over death claims and endowments due and not due, or paid in advance in 1875	283,914 88

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $25,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS, as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets $429,661.21

Paid-up Capital 250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the high ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the season more firm with better credit.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 930 150.05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 29.

Total premiums paid in 29 years,	$292.91
less dividends,	111.62
Average cost per year,	$4.06
Cost for 1875,	3.15

The undersigned, having been appointed as Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time the demand came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden, Relieved by a Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse and worse, and I had to go so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay most of the time for weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I first obtained of you one first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I am enjoying good health, and feel as if I could do a good day's work. I have recommended them to several others, and have never heard a word but what they were benefited by them. Some of them have done as much as I have, and some more. I feel as if I could do a good day's work. I have recommended them to several others, and have never heard a word but what they were benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I was troubled with a bad cough when I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I took one pill, and two pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the past twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing me much pain in the back and hips. I was unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have tried everything, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see a testimonial of your Pills in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent for one last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop and pick up things. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels and Constipation, and I shall try to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them for ten times their cost if I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. I attribute it with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reelendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters relating to the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse." CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in form to secure them early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. This is conclusive proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, and be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its fame.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent! There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued support of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain its place and fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion and during the slavery conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of machines or cliques, and it will expose what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, making apologies for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to get at the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in political life its object is to do what honest men, whom the country knows and can trust, to secure honest money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as will lighten the burden of all, private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to lead the hosts of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In every case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its aims and objects in the next storm of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much embittered by the defeats, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its successful course provokes from our rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From these and kindred aims it will make a welcome visitor in their families. THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past, and which it has won in 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by its close and watchful care and the most lavish expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

☞ CHEAPEST AND BEST! ☜

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 models of colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and a good many wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to offer more original novelettes, complete stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be elaborately colored. Also Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

LORD CLYMER.

Lord Clymer he was a noble lord,
A noble of high degree;
And when he was home he paid for his board,
On his manor in Berks counties—tee—tee.
On estates in Berks counties.

One morning he rose with a Terrible Frown
And a brow so wrathful to see,
And said he was going to Washingtown
To uncover some Belknapses—ee—ee,
To unearth some scuddduggerees.

He traveled all night and he traveled full fast,
But never a wearied was he,
And when at the city he stayed him at last,
He called him his committee—tee—tee.
The war department committee.

He collared Sir Belknap, the warrior so bold,
"You're the man I wanted to see;"
But he let go his "holts," straightway he was told
That his witness had jumped the cities—tee—tee,
And was in British territore.

He asked for more time and he asked for more help;
For help sorely perplexed was he;
While a member, high Robbins, with pitiful yelp,
Cried, "I'm smashed by your old committee—tee—tee;
I'm exposed on my own committee."

And wailing was heard in the committee room.
When a noble from Kentuck-i-ee
Was swept high and dry by this very new broom,
This investigating committee—tee—tee,
That showed up Mr. Pendleton's fee.

But the snarl it grew more complicated by far,
And when next the august committee
Looked up to observe who they had at the bar,
Mr. Clymer he groaned, "It is me—me—me," Ungrammatically groaned "It is me."

—"You have never been to Europe, Mrs. Grant?" asked M'lle Titiens of the President's wife. "No, not yet," was the reply. "But Mr. Grant will soon be at leisure, and then no doubt we shall go."

—The other evening, a young lady abruptly turned the corner and very rudely ran against a boy who was small and ragged and freckled. Stopping as soon as she could, she turned to him and said: "I beg your pardon. Indeed, I am very sorry." The small, ragged and freckled boy looked up in blank amazement for an instant; then, taking off about three-fourths of a cap, he bowed very low, smiled until his face became lost in the smile, and answered, "You can hev my parding, and welcome, miss; and yer may run agin me and knock me clean down, an' I won't say a word." After the young lady passed on, he turned to a comrade and said, half apologetically, "I never had any one ask my parding, and it kind o' took me off my feet."—Indianapolis Herald.

REASONS WHY FARMERS
should purchase
The Halladay Wind-Mill!
It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.
It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.
It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.
It is the cheapest wind mill.
The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our money in the mail. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and will ever solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1876.

CAGED AT LAST.

A Montpelier despatch announced Friday evening the sentence of George E. Miles to the State prison for fourteen years. The robber, whose real name is George White, was a native of New Hampshire, and the first suspicious circumstance connected with his life occurred there, in the burning of a store which he owned and superintended, after it had been heavily stocked on credit and heavily insured.

He then went to New York, where he turned his attention to the intricacies of combination locks, under the tuition of expert thieves, whom he long since rivalled in his ability to overcome the ingenuity of locksmiths. The only legitimate business which he is known to have had in recent years, was the management of a livery stable in New York, which he owned and carried on profitably.

His first bank robbery, so far as known, was in 1864, when he and Mark Shinburne, one of the most accomplished cracksmen in the world, broke into and robbed the savings bank at Walpole, N. H. Both were caught, and while waiting trial, broke jail at Concord and escaped. Miles got out first and afterward came back in female clothing and having assisted in the escape of Shinburne, drove him off in a wagon, and both succeeded in making their escape.

The next thing recorded of him was the robbery of the Bowdoinham bank, in 1867, in which enterprise he was the leader. The booty in this case was $60,000. "Rory" Sims, Edward Maguire, alias "Fairy" Maguire, and "Harry" Bartlett were arrested for the robbery, and are each serving out a fifteen years' sentence at Thomaston. Miles was in New York city at the time of their capture, but was kept out of the way of the Eastern detectives by influential allies, and by a liberal expenditure of money.

At the time of the Bowdoinham robbery Miles was known as George White. Since that time he has on various occasions assumed the name of George Bliss, George Myers, George Hicks, George King, George Williams and other aliases, George E. Miles being the latest. The practice of bank robbers of calling each other by numbers, as practiced in the Bowdoinham case, is said to have originated with him, and it is also alleged that the wearing of masks on predatory occasions was invented and put into vogue by him.

In May, 1869, an office in the basement under the Ocean bank in New York was hired, and the words "Insurance Office, Newcomb & O'Neill," were painted over the door. From that office Miles and Shinburne and one or two assistants worked for a month, tunnelling their way to the bank above. Between Saturday night, June 27, and the following Monday morning, the bank was robbed of $500,000 in bank notes, greenbacks and securities. The robbers broke and opened three massive iron doors, supposed at the time by the bank directors to be fire and burglar proof, to reach the inner vault in which the safes were. The first door was fastened with a combination lock that turned five separate bolts. This was opened with a false key. When the robbers got to the second door they found the key to it suspended from a hook in the wall, and they used it to unlock the door. They attacked the third door with coppered hammers and cold chisels, and made a hole large enough to admit an instrument for a purchase to the jackscrews. With this implement the door was sprung sufficiently to loosen the bolts, after which it flew open. The burglars first tried to blow open the big safes that were in the vault, but they failed in this, and then went to work with jimmies, coppered mallets, thread screws and other tools. They tore the doors all to pieces with these implements. They found more money than they could carry off. Thirty thousand dollars were left on the floor, where they had scattered it. In the office that had been rented by them was discovered a large lot of disguises and a small armory of weapons. No arrests were made for the robbery, for the reason, according to popular rumor, that the robbery was planned by people who screened the culprits.

The Ocean bank robbery was shortly followed by a raid on a wealthy bank in Maryland. Miles and Shinburne were the principals in it, and they got off with $200,000. Some of the unnegotiable securities were recovered in the office of a prominent politician and lawyer, and others were seized in the saloon kept by Sharkey, the murderer, at 202 Broadway, in 1871. Miles and Shinburne were frequenters of the saloon, and the former was, it is said, a partner of Sharkey's. It is alleged that Capt. John S. Young, chief of the detectives, got $17,000 from the bank for the restoration of the securities.

Miles next returned to his native State, and was the principal in the Wolfeboro bank robbery, for which one of his confederates, named Campbell, is now serving a sentence of ten years; Miles escaped as usual.

He also projected the robbery of the New York Bank of Commerce several years ago. In this case one of his confederates was dressed in the uniform of a patrolman, which is said to have been borrowed at police headquarters.

The most audacious scheme ever known was attempted in Philadelphia about four years ago by Miles and his pal, Shinburne. It was ascertained by them, in some manner unknown, that a deposit of $1,000,000 was to be made in one of the most prominent banks in that metropolis, and it was supposed by them that this deposit had already been made on a certain Saturday. On Sunday morning, in broad daylight, in sight of people wending their way to church, Shinburne and Miles drove up to the door by a pair of splendid horses, and driven by a liveried coachman. They were also attended by a servant in livery. They went boldly to the door of the bank, and, by the use of false keys, opened it in the most nonchalant and business-like air and walked in. With their knowledge of locks they opened the bank vaults at once and made a hasty and thorough search, but the object of their visit, the coveted prize, was not there, the deposit, from some reason, having been delayed. The vault was closed as before, and the precious pair departed without exciting suspicion. But they did not give up their idea of capturing the "cool million." They immediately interviewed the night watchman, "stalked" him heavily, and bided their time. He entered heartily into their plans, but before the fruit was ripe for picking, "weakened," and "gave the job away" to the bank officers and the police. When the deposit had been made, Shinburne, Miles and two others came to rob the bank, and by the aid of the watchman the two assistants were captured, but Miles and Shinburne, with their usual luck and shrewdness, escaped.

In 1872, Miles was in the gang which broke into and robbed the National Bank in Hungerford, N. Y. He was captured, tried, convicted and sentenced, but subsequently was pardoned through the influence of United States Chief of Detectives Whiteley, Attorney General Williams of Washington and Assistant District Attorney Dick Harrington of Washington, on their representation that he was possessed of important evidence for the National Government, which he would give if released.

Just after this he was employed in the celebrated Washington safe burglary. On the night of the safe burglary, Walter Brown, a sneak thief, was employed to carry the papers and other valuables to Alexander's house, and was arrested with them in his possession just as he arrived at the door. Miles left Washington the same night, and was seen by Chief of Police Richards of that city passing under a gas light a short time after the robbery was committed. Mr. Richards did not know him at the time, but months afterward in Ludlow street jail, New York, he recognized him as the man whom he saw on the street in Washington.

Subsequently Miles was in the Wishart, Penn., forgery case. This was an enterprise of a new character for Miles. He and another man hired an office in New York, and for quite a while succeeded in passing upon moneyed institutions, mostly insurance companies, forged Pennsylvania bonds, by which large amounts of money were raised, and the pair were not detected until long after, chiefly for the reason that the bonds forged were of standard character, and not such as were frequently and minutely examined by the officials. Finally an indictment was found against Miles in Pennsylvania, charging him with forgery, and a requisition had already been issued from the Governor of that State, for his arrest, when Detective E. D. Wiggin arrested him for the Barre Bank robbery.

The chief of the Barre gang was Joseph Kingsland, who went to Barre before the robbery was committed, laid out the work and perfected the details of the plan. He was arrested in New York by detectives Wiggin and James R. Wood, August 26th. But he was a fugitive from Sing Sing, where he owed eight and a half years of a sentence for another bank robbery, and rather than go to Vermont he surrendered himself to the New York authorities and went back to Sing Sing to serve out his sentence.

Miles' defence was conducted with great ability, but the attempt to set up an alibi broke down, and his war against society ends, after a contest of twelve years, in the defeat which money and a quick wit might postpone, but could not avert.

News and Notes.

The U. S. Senate organized as a court of impeachment on the 5th, for the trial of Belknap. The court adjourned to April 17th.

The Manchester city government has removed five members from the police force and reinstalled three lately removed by the democrats, and elected two new ones. No other removals were made except the city messenger.

They now speak of Pendleton as the gentleman who was "killed in a disastrous accident on the Kentucky Central Railroad, at Belknap Marsh, through the carelessness of the engineer, Heister Clymer."

The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Fish and Game League was held at Manchester on the 4th. The officers elected for the ensuing year are President, John B. Clarke; Secretary, William W. Colburn; Treasurer, Frederick Smyth; Vice-Presidents, Marcellus Eldridge, Portsmouth, Rockingham County; Luther C. Crickett, Strafford, Strafford County; G. Y. Pickering, Laconia, Belknap County; William C. Fox, Wolfeboro, Carroll County; Eldridge F. Perkins, Wilton, Hillsboro County; John M. Hill, Concord, Merrimack County; William Jarvis, Claremont, Sullivan County; Burns W. Pattee, Enfield, Grafton County; Nathan R. Perkins, Jefferson, Coos County; John Clement, Troy, Cheshire County.

—The pretty treasury girl whom Senator Christiancy, of Michigan, lately married is thus described: She is not yet out of her teens, is petite but not slightly built, being as dimpled and plump as a baby. Her hair is auburn, and worn in a simple braid hanging down her back, adding to her youthful appearance. She was dressed in a plain brown silk gown, cut very high in the neck, and with long sleeves. She is exceedingly fair, and the throat and chin were nestled in the soft folds of the rich, creamy lace now so much worn. A fall of the same kind of lace partially concealed the short, fat hands, upon which there were two plain gold rings. The modest dress did not conceal the outline of a well-rounded arm and was how long it would be before she would appear in society in the scanty costume which here prevails to the envy of women and the admiration of men. For the old man's darling has a beautiful figure and face, and her complexion is perfect. It is pure and fresh in contrast with dark eyes and hair. Such clear, brown eyes I have not seen in many a day, and they have an appealing expression which one cannot resist. A dimple in the left cheek and another in the chin complete the charm of the face. The mouth is only pretty when closed. It will be fairer to view when care shall have given length to the upper lip. This is cruel to say, but in the nature of cause and effect there is many a heartache for her. In conversation she is agreeable, and her manners are quite self-possessed.

—A young blood of San Francisco, much given to quizzing people, went into a restaurant the other day, and with a great flourish took a seat at one of the tables. A waiter approached "What have you got to eat?" asked the customer. "Oh, got almost everything." You have, eh?" "Yes, sir." "Almost everything; will you give me a plate of that?" he said, looking earnestly at the waiter. The waiter returned his gaze, and, catching the fellow's idea of quizzing him, he yelled to the cook, at the farther end of the room: "One plate of hash!"

Xantippe.

It seems that the memory of this woman, like that of her renowned husband, is likely to be kept alive to the end of time. She is said to have possessed a very irritable temper, and her name has become a synonym of "vixen," or "scold." It is more than possible, however, that the judgment passed upon her by mankind has been too severe. A more charitable disposition would undoubtedly have discovered in her, many good qualities, and have attributed her failings more to physical infirmities than to moral obliquity. The party most intimately acquainted with her, and therefore best able to form a correct opinion, gives her credit for many domestic virtues. It is now well known that many of the distrubances to which women are subject, have a direct tendency to render them irritable, peevish, cross, morose, unreasonable, so that they chafe and fret over all these little ills and annoyances that a person in health would bear with composure. It is fair to infer that most of the tantrums of Xantippe were due to these causes alone; and could Socrates, as he returned from the Senate, the Gymnasium, or the Atheneum, have stopped at Pestle & Mortar's Drug Store and carried home a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, now and then, no doubt he might have evaded many a "curtain lecture," allayed many a "domestic broil," made it much pleasanter for the children, and more enjoyable for himself, and rescued his wife's name from the unenviable, world-wide, and eternal notoriety it has attained. Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all these derangements causing backache, dragging-down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

Thousands of testimonials to the efficacy and value of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam can be produced from leading citizens of the State. Sold by all druggists.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat, requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Diseases. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief.

The Word "Sozodont,"

Which is fast becoming a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontes. "Sozo" translated, means to preserve, and "Odontes" the teeth—"Sozodont," a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. For beautifying and preserving the teeth, hardening and invigorating the gums, and correcting all impurities of the breath, it is without a peer in the world.

Spalding's Glue will mend everything.

Depressing Maladies.

Dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, as well as disorders of the nervous system and the organs of urination, re-act by sympathy upon the brain, frequently causing a degree of mental depression not remotely akin to insanity. The surest way to banish the "blues" thus produced is to use that unfailing antidote to bodily irregularity and gloominess of mind, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A course of the great corrective tonic promptly removes the maladies above specified, as well as many others, and restores the cheerfulness which is such a characteristic attendant of good health. It likewise imparts a vigor to the constitution which is its surest safeguard against disease, and the best guarantee of a long life. The aged and infirm, as well as the sick and convalescent, derive inexpressible comfort and benefit from its use.

PULMOCINE.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Jottings.

The military commission for the settlement of difficulties between Capt. Marvin, Lieut. Urch and the other members of the Portsmouth Artillery Co. finished their labors in a day, returning to Manchester to agree on a report. We trust the settlement will be final, one way or the other.

At the quarterly meeting of the Greenland Temperance Reform Club, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Edwin W. Foster, President; E. R. Edmonds, Nath'l M. Goodwin, Vice President; A. M. Clough, Secretary; Nath'l Chapman, Chaplain; Richard Watson, Treasurer.

We learn that the lecture of Mrs. J. Horace Jenness upon Hygiene was so well received and admired that quite a number have expressed the wish that it might be repeated. And we would add that such lectures as that of the lady referred to would be extremely profitable to the public if reduced to practice, which may be easily done by all.

We understand that an officer of the regular army has been in this city for a day or two, having instructions from the Adjutant General's office at Washington, D. C., approved by the Secretary of War, to investigate and report as to the military stores recently destroyed here by order of an officer of the Portsmouth Artillery Co.

The entertainment at the Temple by the Howard and Ashcroft Troupe, was a success as regards the merits of the performance. Messrs. Howard and Ashcroft showed a versatility of talent in their several characters, which being unalloyed by any stage struck mannerism was quite refreshing. In song and dance, in their delineation of the eccentricities of Irishman and negro, as in "Irish Whiskey," "Life in Old Kentuck," &c., they won hearty applause. The performance on the horizontal bar by the DeMont Brothers and "Little Lou" was a pleasing feature. Tony Washburn in his feats of contortion and Tommy James, artistic jig dancer were well up in their specialties. The company should be greeted with a good house on their next appearance.

Political.

The Senate committee to inquire into the recent election in Mississippi will consist of Messrs. Boutwell, Oglesby, Bayard and McDonald.

There are 266 towns and wards in the State, and of these 191, or three-fourths, made gains for the republicans, while only 60 made democratic gains. In 25 of the strong democratic towns there was a republican gain of nearly 8 per cent., and in 25 of the strongest republican towns the gain was more than 8 per cent. In the close towns, where, if any where, money was spent, the gain is very slight. It was the silent vote which told this year.

The Providence Journal has the returns from all the towns in Rhode Island except two small ones. Lippitt, rep., has 8212; Howard, pro., 6227; Beach, dem., 3472. Lippitt will lack about 1400 of election by the people: Addeman, rep., was elected Secretary of State by 11,000 majority. The vote stood: Addeman, rep., 14,653; Pierce dem., 3681. The other candidates on the republican State ticket run about even with the Governor, and will be elected by the General Assembly, which will comprise in the Senate 27 republicans and 9 democrats, and in the House 63 republicans and 9 democrats. The vote of Providence is: Lippitt, 3465; Howard, 2263; Beach, 790.

Our New Hampshire correspondent has been told by a man who himself heard the words, that in a recent conversation relative to the late election, Hon. Warren F. Daniell, of Franklin, stated: "I had no idea that Captain Marcy's war record was so dreadfully bad. Why, sir, while he was doing and saying what he did about the war, that very year I paid $1500 for the relief of soldiers from my own town, and I have always blamed myself for not voting for Lincoln when he was nominated the second time." Those are the sentiments of a democrat who was "dropped" as candidate for governor and the "Bourbon" Capt. Marcy nominated in his stead. Against the personal and private character of Capt. Marcy not a word was spoken during the canvass, nor can there be.—Traveller.

J. W. Forney, editor of the Philadelphia Press says: "It deserves to be said of Blaine that he is not a coy candidate for President. It is an honorable aspiration, and he indulges it like a man; and if he gets the nomination he will arouse young America from Canada to California, and put a rapture in the strife that will once more make the public heart throb with joy under a great intellectual leadership."

The Chicago Post and Mail says: "Blaine is the winning card in Wisconsin, so far as can be discerned by the naked eye. In fact he is, without doubt, the most popular Eastern candidate in the West;" and adds; "This is a poor year for time-servers, humbugs, and men whose political ability is confined to whipping the devil round the stump. People want to know, personally, believe, for the platform business has played out."

The Troy Whig, says: "About two-thirds of the republican voters in this State greatly prefer Blaine to Conkling as a Presidential candidate."

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat does the greater part of its political work in a daily series of pungent paragraphs, like this: "By a vote of 26 to 20, the Senate passed an act fixing the salary of Hon. James G. Blaine, from the 4th of March, 1877, at $25,000 per annum."

The Wabash (Minn.) Herald says: "How 'Blaine of Maine' will ring out during the centennial canvass if he is selected to lead the party on to victory. He can do it. He is a born leader, and is bound to bring in the republican party winner in spite of any and all opposition. Make way for Blaine."

The Lancaster (Penn.) Express says: "Mr. Blaine, the Pennsylvania editor and representative from the Pine Tree State, leads in the Presidential race for the Centenial year. Thus far he has developed more strength than any other single candidate. The republican party would have no cause to regret the choice of him as their standard-bearer; and being a native of Pennsylvania, his nomination would add greatly to the strength of the ticket in this State."

The Martinsburg, (W. Va.,) Independent says: "As an independent and not a neutral journal, we are bound to say that thus far Mr. Blaine has developed more brain power, more knowledge of the needs of this country, more aptness in providing remedies, more nerve in dealing with difficulties, and more popularity with the working men of the country, than any other man aspiring to lead the republicans. He is evidently a safe man, and if he is nominated will give great strength to his ticket."

Says the Lincoln (Nebraska) Journal: "As the sickle of time wrestles along among the Presidential candidates, it very much looks as though Jimmy Blaine, all the way from Maine, will be the survivor of the harvest, and the nominee by acclamation of the Cincinnati Convention."

Returns from every town in Connecticut, necticut, nearly all official, make the total vote of the State 98,645, of which Ingersoll, dem., has 51,145; Robinson, rep., 43,621; Smith, tem., 1905, and Atwater, greenbacks, 1974. The Senate stands 18 democrats to 3 republicans, and the House 160 democrats to 84 republicans and 2 independents. The democratic majority on joint ballot is 89. Last year it was 42.

The Helena Herald says: "The choice of the republicans of Montana is almost unanimously in favor of ex-Speaker Blaine as the republican Presidential nominee, and their voice, if it can be heard, will swell into a great, glad shout for his candidature."

This is a fit occasion for the introduction of the name of Charles Francis Adams as a candidate for the Presidency. He hasn't been in hogs, or in mules, or in water-works or in the A. & G. W. Railroad, and hasn't collected a claim, and he hasn't peddled, and objects to peddling still as he did in his famous letter. Mr. Bowles?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Georgia Lake Disappears.

A lake in Lowndes County, says the Valdarta, Ga., Times, has been emptied of its waters by subterranean passages during the last six months. What is the matter? The Times has several times alluded to the fact that Lowndes County had within its borders numbers of lakes, from 10 to 500 (and several beyond 1000) acres in size, and can it be that these lakes are all connected with a grand underground water course? It seems so. In September last one dried up, or run off, and left bushels upon bushels of fish in holes of water about upon the bottom of the lake. In January, another, about five miles from this, did the same thing, and now Grassy pond, a lake covering about 500 acres, just between the two above mentioned, has left its millions of fishes out of water. About three weeks ago it was reported that the waters of this lake were sinking below low-water mark, and every day or two we would hear that it was still going down. Last Friday a report spread all over the county like wildfire that Grassy Pond was low enough to rake the fish out with nets, and by sundown over 100 people had collected at the place. Some had dip-nets, some cast-nets, and there was one seine in the party. The first haul with the seine caught enough trout, jack, bream and speckle perch to make a mess for every one present. During that night all the water disappeared, and there were millions of fish left dead upon dry land. Next day the planters hitched up their wagons and hauled load after load and scattered them in their fields for manure and thousands were left at the mercy of buzzards, hogs and other creatures of prey. Such quantities of fish and such destruction has never been known in the history of Lowndes county. No one ever dreamed that there were half that quantity of fish in Grassy Pond, though it was celebrated for fine fishing grounds in the Spring of the year. The other two lakes above mentioned did not run thus completely dry, and the fish that were not caught were saved by the water returning in a few days from its hidden retreat in the bosom of the earth. We learn that Grassy Pond is filling up again, but it is too late to save the finny tribe. These statements are not at all exaggerated and can be testified to by several hundred people living in this county, though it is marvellous to all.

—He only is advancing in life whose heart is getting softer, whose blood warmer, whose brain quicker, whose spirit is entering into living peace.—Ruskin.

—A very clever woman has said, "I do not wish anybody to do anything naughty, but if they do, I want to know all —"What is pleasanter," asks a Louisiana paper, "than getting up early these warm March mornings and going out to pick a rose in your front garden." Well, we can think of nothing pleasanter unless it is going to Pictou.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

—A little boy, when picking the drumstick of a chicken, swallowed one of the tendons which are so numerous in the legs of a fowl, and was very nearly choked. The tendon was, however, extracted with great difficulty from the little fellow's throat, when he exclaimed, "Oh, mamma, it wasn't the chickabiddy's fault; it was because cook forgot to take off its garters!"

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only incurred, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the same—from fires with better credit.

Life Assurance Co.

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 930 150.05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 29.

Total premiums paid in 29 years, less dividends.	$376.91
Average cost per year,	11.62

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1875, and from the whole of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Eight Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been troubled with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past has been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About Christmas I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hope of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I feel as well as I ever did. My appetite has done my more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint, Bad for Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered from dyspepsia, with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing great pain in my back and hips, rendering me unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal of money without receiving any benefit, finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought it was worth my while to try what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had finished the first box I was a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend to give them, she would not be without them if money would buy them. I think the result speaks for itself. Enclosed find $1 for which please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reading, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.60 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lurking climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.
"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to see a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued support of all its old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by personal sensitivities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice wherever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of any party organization which cannot approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of either. In politics it will continue to seek and print the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; it politics its purpose will be to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as will permit reduced from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumph of the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and is earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it is found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so steady right in its policy during course through all the storms of 1876 as to win general approval and command yet greater approval.

Our record of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties have sometimes forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they profess. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods with which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for the readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the journal entitled to use the Greeley name, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period of its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness of public events, by its exhaustive and impartial presentation of intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its contributors are prominent members many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine
POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietors to spend more money on original literary stories, &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of New Stories, there will be TWO CONTINGENT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for elegance. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

The Country Gentleman
POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and so the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

—A frog, a crab, and a limpsy eel
Agreed to run a race.
The frog leaped so far he lost his way,
And tumbled on his face.
The crab went well, but quite forgot
To go ahead as he went,
And so crawled backward every step—
On winning the race intent.
And the limpsy eel, he curled and curled,
And waved to left and right,
Till the crab came backing the other way,
And the frog jumped past them quite.
But when last I looked, the limpsy eel
Was curling himself apace,
The frog had tangled his two hind-legs,
And the crab had won the race.

Twenty Years Ago.
Castoria is the result of an old physician's twenty years' experiments endeavoring to produce for his own practice an effective, mild and pleasant physic, free from the objections connected with castor oil or drastic pills. Old Dr. Samuel Pitcher, of Barnstable, Mass., has succeeded in preparing "castor oil" in such a manner as to render it perfectly palatable and still preserve unimpaired its laxative properties. The doctor has prescribed this honeyed cathartic in his practice with wonderful success for years past, particularly among children, under the name of "Castoria," and the demand has so increased from the people and even physicians, that arrangements have been made to introduce it generally to the public.

REASONS WHY
FARMERS
should purchase
The Halladay Wind-Mill!
It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.
It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use is extensive.
It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.
It is the cheapest wind mill.
The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?
IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.
IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.
Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the callings of life, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.
The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.
Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.
A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.
PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.
Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patentees are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of 1870, U. S. Patents, 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price $2 cents.

SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1876.

A Fruitless Quest.

The discreditable system of investigation adopted by the democratic party during this year was never more aptly illustrated than in the recent case of the Kittery Navy Yard. A sub-committee without notice to any of the parties interested makes a hurried visit to the yard, examines witnesses behind closed doors and returns to Washington, one at least of its members sending back mysterious dispatches full of vague suggestions of wickedness discovered and unearthed. But when the facts do come out, they are found to be of as little importance to the government as the manner of getting at them was grossly unfair to the persons whose pecuniary interests are concerned. It appears that one G. W. Griffith contracted to build the sloop of war Enterprise. On account of change of plans, delays and extra work he claimed $15,000, which, it is said, was allowed him. It is said that this ought not to have been allowed. Whether it ought or not, one thing is certain—people will not decide such a matter on the statement of a sub-committee of three which sat with closed doors and did not dare to give the contractor a chance to answer the charge. The democrats may think they can make partisan capital by such performances as this, but they are badly mistaken. The average democrat may be a fool but the average citizen is not. These vague and ex parte accusation may temporarily beguile some of the weaker ones, but they don't permanently help the democrats. The few weak republicans who are deluded into wavering by this sort of thing—like those who followed the motley banner of Andrew Johnson—are sure to come back, for one dose of democracy goes a great way as a preventive of more.

The barren result of this much heralded inquisition is very gratifying as a testimonial to the general good management of the Navy Yard and the general good conduct of the numerous officials connected therewith. It is certain that if any delinquency, however small, had existed, it would have been made much of in justification of the fierce accusations and portentous prophecies which preceded the investigation.

It is but just to add that one member of the committee—a democrat too—frankly admitted after the examination that they had failed to find anything wrong.—Portland Press.

News and Notes.

The Grand Jury, in the Circuit Court for Merrimack county, reported indictments as follows: Andrew J. Sherburne, of Pittsfield, five indictments for selling liquor; Charles Sinclair, for stealing, in Loudon; Edgar Wheeler, of Concord, two indictments for aggravated assault upon females; plead guilty and was sentenced to jail and to pay a $50 fine; Eugene Casey, of Concord, for breaking, entering and stealing; plead guilty and was admitted to bail on his own recognizance; Vincent Gahagen, of Concord, selling mortgaged property; Daniel J. Murphy, of Concord, three indictments for selling liquor; C. J. Connor, of Concord, for setting fire to a building; town of Bow, for defective highway; Patrick Connors, of Concord, for aggravated assault. Five indictments were found against Rev. Sereno Howe, of New London, for aggravated assault on boys; the assaults were of an indecent and disgusting character. He is an Orthodox minister, and some years ago was in trouble in a town in Massachusetts for criminal practices of a kindred nature. He went to New London some three or four years ago, and recently, when his crimes were discovered, fled and has not been apprehended.

The winter sojourners in Florida are rapidly thinning out, and we are told that one party were to camp in the pine woods, twenty miles from Enterprise, nine weeks. They had three bird dogs, two setters and a pointer, and four deer hounds. They killed and brought into camp 57 deer, 9 wild turkeys, 314 quail and snipe, and 87 wild duck, and caught all the trout they could use. They had the following bill of fare to select from: Venison in all styles, snipe, quail, duck, wild turkey, squirrels, and half a dozen varieties of fish. They had four horses, upon which they rode in hunting. Their habitations were wall tents, 12 by 18, and houses made of palmetto thatching. The weather was uniformly pleasant and warm, and they always went shooting in their shirt-sleeves. Enterprise is considered the headquarters for sportsmen, even those who locate along the Indian river. Fishing parties located there at the hotel never fail of filling their baskets with large, fine bass and trout. The largest range from six to nine pounds, but nearly double this weight is found upon the Indian river. The great trophies of some are the teeth of alligators—those obtaining the longest, the winners. The manner of obtaining them is, after killing, to cut off and bury the alligator's head, until by decay the teeth loosen, when they are easily extracted. The largest alligators in Florida are from eleven to fourteen feet in length.

Political.

A prominent republican editor writes from Missouri: "You may safely count the Missouri delegation for Mr. Blaine."

The fact that while the Connecticut democrats fell off one-half from their last year's majority on the State ticket, they gained decidedly in both Houses of the legislature, is a pretty conclusive proof that Senator English put his money where it would do the most good. The facts could scarcely afford clearer evidence that he devoted himself specially to buying up votes for members of the legislature with a view to securing the Senatorial election for the full term, which is known to be his present chief political aspiration.—Springfield Union.

The Keokuk Gate City, an able newspaper in Southern Iowa, closes a long article on the Presidential canvass with this paragraph: "Now after eight years of a non-politician administration won't the majority of the country say: Blaine—a politician of to-day passing unscorched in his integrity through the fires of to-day, thoroughly conversant with public affairs, knowing public men, tried and sound in his political principles and record—that is the kind of a man we want! Now this isn't intended for a Blaine article, but when we see the courageous, quick sighted and splendid work he is doing in Congress we have enough admiration for it and the man to want to see the grounds very impartially canvassed before the republican party decides that it will set him aside this year for anybody."

"There's only one thing," says the Rochester Democrat, "that prevents a shocking exposure in Bristow's case—the gentleman isn't guilty."

The Marysville (Cal.) Appeal, one of the ablest and most zealous of the independent organs for the last three years, has come out explicitly in favor of the republican cause in the approaching presidential campaign. The San Francisco Alta says that it is generally understood that those independents in San Francisco who were formerly members of the republican party will nearly all return to their old associations, ready to do their best against the rule of the democracy, with its attendant evils.

The Philadelphia Bulletin thinks it must make it lonesome in the rest of New Hampshire to have 387 men in the legislature.

A Hartford correspondent of the New York Times says that Connecticut will go heartily for Bristow at Cincinnati.

New Hampshire is talking about presenting the name of Senator CRAGIN at Cincinnati for nomination as Vice-President.

The inflationists have discovered what defeated Mr. David A. Wells and reduced the democratic majority in Connecticut—it was hard-money principles in both cases.—N. Y. Tribune.

Presidential predictions are made up of "buts" and "ifs." The following is among the latest: "Between Messrs. Blaine and Morton, with other candidates out of the way, Mr. Blaine would almost surely win. He is able, experienced, adroit. It would be his ambition to give the country a splendid administration, and he could do it. Probably some of the people who are working for him would be disappointed when the offices came to be handed round, and their disappointment would not injure the public service. On the whole, it seems not doubtful that if either of the active candidates get the nomination, it will be Mr. Blaine. If Messrs Blaine, Morton and Conkling should destroy each other's chances, which is now regarded as quite possible, to say the least, the nomination would fall upon Mr. Wheeler, if an Eastern man should be taken. But, a Western man would probably be chosen, rather than any one from the East, and Mr. Bristow would be nominated, unless the politicians could unite votes enough to defeat him, in which case Gov. Hayes would be a long way in advance for the nomination. It can hardly be doubted that to-day Mr. Bristow is the choice of the people; but the politicians are hunting him down, and some of the basest are at work upon the manufacture of matters intended to tarnish his fair name. They will not succeed."

The Hartford Post says the result of the Connecticut election will "intensify the stupidity of the democracy."

The independent papers declare that Connecticut offsets New Hampshire. They had previously explained that the New Hampshire result had no special significance.—Boston Journal.

The Cincinnati Commercial having asked "wouldn't it be a crime for an Ohio delegate to say Bully for Blaine," the Cleveland Leader, responded in this significant manner: "We feel to say that it would not. The 'undertow' of public sentiment in this part of the State is strongly and unmistakably for Blaine. The soldiers like him for his amnesty speech. The business men like him because he is a man of affairs, who knows something about business himself, and has thoroughly sound and reliable ideas on the duty of parties and the Government toward industrial and commercial interests. The New England blood of the Western Reserve warms toward Mr. Blaine because he is alert, clearheaded, ready in all emergencies, experienced in public affairs, and honest above the whisper of reproach. We state this simply as an obvious fact. The political significance of it may be more or less. Northern Ohio will undoubtedly be true to Hayes as long as he has a reasonable chance; after that, if such a time comes, there will be a break in the direction of Blaine."

Ex-Congressman E. H. ROLLINS is coming to the front as a candidate for the United States Senatorship in New Hampshire. If he fully makes up his mind to have the seat, his rivals might as well get out of the field at the start. He is a political manager who generally carries his point.—New York Tribune.

The Cincinnati Times says: "However high Bristow's is worth as a Cabinet officer, there are reasons which render it absolutely out of the question for him to receive the republican nomination for the Presidency." Give us the reasons, Times. No other paper has the news.

—The recent shower of flesh in Bath county, Ky., has provoked quite a religious revival among the colored population there. They seat themselves about in little groups, with their faces turned upward, as if the heavens were full of mutton chops, and sing:

"Kum set yere, hungray niggah,
Kum set yere on the group',
De Lawd he am a gwine
To throw de vittals down."

—The latest in the form of a salutation is "Well, if I don't see you agin, hello."

Xantippe.

It seems that the memory of this woman, like that of her renowned husband, is likely to be kept alive to the end of time. She is said to have possessed a very irritable temper, and her name has become a synonym of "vixen," or "scold." It is more than possible, however, that the judgment passed upon her by mankind has been too severe. A more charitable disposition would undoubtedly have discovered in her many good qualities, and have attributed her failings more to physical infirmities than to moral obliquity. The party most intimately acquainted with her, and therefore best able to form a correct opinion, gives her credit for many domestic virtues. It is now well known that many of the diseases to which women are subject, have a direct tendency to render them irritable, peevish, cross, morose, unreasonable, so that they chafe and fret over all these little ills and annoyances that a person in health would bear with composure. It is fair to infer that most of the tantrums of Xantippe were due to these causes alone; and could Socrates, as he returned from the Senate, the Gymnasium, or the Atheneum, have stopped at Pestle & Mortar's Drug Store and carried home a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, now and then, no doubt he might have evaded many a "curtain lecture," allayed many a "domestic broil," made it much pleasanter for the children, and more enjoyable for himself, and rescued his wife's name from the unenviable, world-wide, and eternal notoriety it has attained. Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all these derangements causing backache, dragging-down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

Thousands of testimonials to the efficacy and value of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam can be produced from leading citizens of the State. Sold by all druggists.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat, requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Diseases. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief.

The Word "Sozodont,"
Which is fast becoming a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontes. "Sozo" translated, means to preserve, and "Odontes" the teeth—"Sozodont," a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. For beautifying and preserving the teeth, hardening and invigorating the gums, and correcting all impurities of the breath, it is without a peer in the world.

Spalding's Glue will mend everything.

Depressing Maladies.
Dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, as well as disorders of the nervous system and the organs of urination, act by sympathy upon the brain, frequently causing a degree of mental depression not remotely akin to insanity. The surest way to banish the "blues" thus produced is to use that unfailing antidote to bodily irregularity and gloominess of mind, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A course of the great corrective tonic promptly removes the maladies above specified, as well as many others, and restores the cheerfulness which is such a characteristic attendant of good health. It likewise imparts a vigor to the constitution which is its surest safeguard against disease, and the best guarantee of a long life. The aged and infirm, as well as the sick and convalescent, derive inexpressible comfort and endeit from its use.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR SORE THROAT, PULMOCINE CORDIAL is for sale at the UNION STORE, Market Street. Price 50 cents per bottle.

☞ That yellow tinge of the complexion is a sure indication of bile in the blood. It is effectually removed by using GILBERT'S EXCELSIOR LIVER LOZENGES.

Important to persons visiting New York or the Centennial. The Grand Union Hotel, New York, opposite the Grand Central Depot, has over 350 elegantly furnished rooms. TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make acquaintance for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Elwyn Park.

The late Hon. John Elwyn was, all through his long life, a lover of children and young people; and cherished, and often expressed, a desire to provide or promote a public park or mall for his native city. In furtherance of this object, he gave, in 1867, about five acres of beautiful and valuable land laying between the South Mill pond and South street, to Messrs. A. L. Jones, H. M. Clark, A. M. Hoyt, F. W. Miller, and T. L. Tredick, and their successors forever as trustees for a public park or mall. To gratify a general public interest in the matter, we are permitted to print below a copy of the deed of conveyance of said land, which it will be seen is clear and complete for the purpose:

Know all men by these presents, that I, John Elwyn, of Portsmouth, in the County of Rockingham and State of New Hampshire, in consideration of the need of Public Grounds in Portsmouth, do hereby lease and let to Albert L. Jones, Henry M. Clark, Alfred M. Hoyt, Frank W. Miller and T. Salter Tredick, a certain tract of Land situated in said Portsmouth, and bounded as follows; namely:

Beginning on South Street at a stone fence which separates a pasture from a field called the "Middle Field," and running Northerly by said fence, following the general direction thereof, but on a straight line to the South Mill Pond. On the Eastern side of this field, with a perpendicular width of two hundred feet, running from the Mill Pond which is the Northern boundary of this field, Southerly on a line parallel to the first-named line, holding a width of two hundred feet to South Street; thence running Southwesterly on South street a distance sufficient to give a perpendicular width of two hundred feet, to the bound first mentioned; the same containing about Five Acres more or less.

To have and to hold to them and their successor forever, but in trust nevertheless, for the following uses and purposes:

First, To lay out, improve and put in order the said land as a Mall, in such way and at such times as their judgment shall decide, and the means at their disposal will allow.

Secondly, To keep it open for the use of the public under such rules and regulations as said Trustees may judge most expedient for the preservation of the property and for the maintenance of good order therein.

Thirdly, To make such by-laws and rules for their own government and to elect and appoint such and so many officers as they may deem necessary or expedient.

And we, the said Albert L. Jones, Henry M. Clark, Alfred M. Hoyt, Frank W. Miller and T. Salter Tredick, do hereby accept said trust, and do covenant to and with the said John Elwyn, that we will cause the said grounds to be put in proper order for the use of the public, as soon as can properly be done with the means which may be put at our disposal therefor.

That we will prohibit the erection of any building thereon, excepting such as may be necessary for the economical putting and keeping in order said grounds or may beautify and adorn said Mall, and render it more useful for the purposes for which it is leased. That we will make such rules and regulations as may be deemed by us expedient for the beneficial use thereof. And we the said Trustees agree that we will pay all taxes and burdens on the said premises, whether on the part of the City of Portsmouth, the State of New Hampshire or the United States, and all taxes and burdens of every sort.

And it is hereby agreed and covenanted by and between the said Trustees and the said John Elwyn, that if the said Trustees and their successors shall neglect to perform and execute the covenants and agreements herein before contained, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, then this lease or deed shall be null and void, and the said John Elwyn and his heirs may enter into and re-possess the said premises, in the same manner, and as fully as if this lease or deed had never been given.

JOHN ELWYN,
A. L. JONES,
HENRY M. CLARK,
FRANK W. MILLER,
ALFRED M. HOYT,
T. SALTER TREDICK.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of J. Hamilton Shapley and W. H. Rollins.

State of New Hampshire, Rockingham ss, June 15, A. D. 1867.

Then personally John Elwyn, Albert L. Jones, Henry M. Clark, Frank W. Miller and Alfred M. Hoyt, and on the seventeenth day of said June personally appeared T. Salter Tredick and each acknowledged the foregoing deed by him signed to be his free act and deed. Before me,

WILLIAM H. ROLLINS,
Justice of the Peace.

In accordance with this gift, and with a view to avail and utilize the same, the above named trustees, or park commissioners, soon after procured a plan of the pond, with the proposed park or "grounds," and a marginal road around the pond, to be drawn by Mr. Hoyt, and a paper for subscriptions was prepared, as follows:

The Hon. John Elwyn, having given in trust to a Board of Trustees, a lot of land on the South side of the South Mill Pond, as a nucleus for a Mall and Common, it is proposed by the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth to purchase the South Pond, and the land adjoining the same, to the amount of about forty acres, for the purpose of laying out and beautifying a Common that shall be at once a source of health and an ornament to the good old City of Portsmouth, and such a one as will be a pleasure and a pride to her numerous Sons, at home and abroad.

The Board of Trustees, being desirous of commencing at once on the work of laying out the grounds, will call upon all who are able and willing to help them in securing a fund for prosecuting the work.

ALBERT L. JONES,
HENRY M. CLARK,
ALFRED M. HOYT,
FRANK W. MILLER,
T. SALTER TREDICK,
Trustees.

This was circulated only among a few prominent and interested citizens, who agreed to contribute about six thousand dollars for the object, and the project was well received and favored by nearly everybody. The death of both Messrs. A. L. and Wm. P. Jones and the subsequent illness of Mr. Hoyt, however, tended, among other things, to interrupt proceedings in this direction—and they have never been resumed. We understand, however, that a new movement is proposed, in which we feel sure every citizen, and many former citizens resident elsewhere, will feel an active interest, and desire to co-operate as far as practicable.

The design of the trustees included a light and ornamental footbridge across the South Pond, from the Court House to the Park and a carriage road around the pond, from Pleasant street to Johnson's Court, at the old ropewalk on South street, with passages out also at the Court House, at Rogers street, on Richard Avenue, and elsewhere if desired. Of course this would include the proper conditions of the pond, and the abatement of anything undesirable there; and it was thought that most of the expense would be borne by private subscription. A light bridge for foot travel only, would be a great convenience to business and pleasure travel, and would add a very attractive feature to the beautiful landscape of that vicinity.

The suggestion of the name of Elwyn Park, under the circumstances, would appear very fitting and appropriate.

In this connection, we are desired to state that the large plan of the park, pond, etc., drawn by Mr. Hoyt, as above, was lost or mislaid several years ago; and any information concerning the same will be thankfully received at the store of Mr. H. M. Clark or by either of the other trustees.

Jottings.

The Girard Fire Insurance Co., of Philadelphia, of which A. F. Howard, Esq., is agent for this vicinity, have issued a neat pamphlet of some thirty pages entitled: "Guide to the International Exposition." It is neatly printed and contains much information.

Messrs. Geo. E. Hanson and William C. Ham have been drawn as petit jurors, and Mr. Oliver M. Knight as grand juror.

Hon. Thomas L. Tullock of Washington, D. C., is in town.

Steamer Perkiomen, Capt. Peirce, with 12,00 tons of coal consigned to C. E. Walker & Co. arrived Friday morning and reported that all along the coast from Highland Light to over abreast of Thatcher's Island passed wrecked stuff, cabin furniture, mattrasses, etc.

Last Sunday, twenty-three persons were admitted as members of the North Church, on profession of faith. To-morrow, Rev. Carlos Martyn preaches in the forenoon on "Loyalty to the Church;" and in the afternoon, on "Loaves and Fishes."

There isn't a member of the Portsmouth Artillery Company who has not a definitely formed idea that he is right in taking one position or another in the ridiculous squabbles which have disgraced it and deprived it of all future benefit or usefulness. The interest of both parties in the controversy is so great that it is surprising that the sun should rise and set without being appealed to to "wait just a minute" and become the recipient of rumors and tales, of plots and counterplots that would bring happiness to the heart of an Italian. The purpose for which the company was formed seems to have been completely abandoned, and a demoralizing struggle for the control of its organization involves the whole company in its jangling confusion. We trust that the commission of investigation will recommend disbandment.

The meeting of the Temperance Reform Club, at the Temple Sunday evening, will be addressed by Mr. John E. Roberts; and everybody will want to hear his testimony in favor of temperance. The usual fee of five cents will be collected at the door.

Mr. Frank Johnson displays in the window of his store on Congress street a photograph of the crew of schooner Velocipede.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

New Hampshire

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

CONDITION PILLS!!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but before the sale of their package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package from original agent for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 2, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally made my last will, as I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking the package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and his reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and have taken them, and they are wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I could not live much or long. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials the word pills should read $1.00 for one in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism. I believe that the Liver and Kidneys, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have tried everything, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent for a package of Dr. Quain's Package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as others. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, Constipation, and Piles, and has to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money could buy them; I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your Vegetable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockingham, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

GEO. R. ROWELL & CO., 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of fifty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for the Patent Office, and reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Invention, and legal opinions rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in form to secure for them early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
WM. HOWE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such remarkable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and very reasonable charges.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent its spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Lincoln's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it will be its duty to lay the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce, industry, the industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its alternative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of 1856 and 1860 and the champions all through the American conflict, and it will explain how and why those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it will not be an servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the work of the party, regardless of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing or neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country may safely trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy filling the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the Treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining the Tribune's view of the case, and it clearly right in its political courses through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties did themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with political fairness. It will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in trying to be interesting; and, if its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

THE TRIBUNE is and will continue a welcome visitor in their families. THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so consciously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1872 and 1873 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this place by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh est intelligence, the most comprehensive narratives, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the country, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

CHEAPEST AND BEST!

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☞

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 12 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments (stories, &c.), than any other, and he gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, beautiful Work Patterns, receipts, in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

TERMS (Always in Advance): $2.00 A YEAR.

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

He Introduced His Bill.

The other day Oglesby was late in getting to the Senate, and the time for the introduction of new measures was past. Oglesby rose in his seat, and said:

Mr. President, I would like to ask leave to introduce a bill.

The President—The Chair would inform the gentleman from Illinois that the morning hour has expired—unfinished business is in order.

Oglesby—But, Mr. President, suppose no one has any objections to my introducing this bill, what then?

The President—The gentleman from Illinois asks leave to introduce a bill. Is there objection?

Several Voices—I object! I object!

The President—The Chair hears objection—unfinished business is in order.

Oglesby—But let me say something about this, won't you? I—

The President—Debate is not in order.

Oglesby—I don't want to debate it. It is such a little bill, there ought not to be any objection. I might have had it in by this time.

The President—Does the Chair hear objection to the introduction of a bill?

Oglesby—Gentlemen, it is such a little bill.

The President—The Chair hears no objection; the gentleman from Illinois will proceed.

Oglesby—By the kind consideration of this august body, for which I am exceedingly grateful, I beg to introduce a very small bill.

Little passages like these always put the Senate in good humor, and they are frequent with Oglesby. As I remarked a moment ago, it was always a wonder to me whether Oglesby's wit was intentional or not, for it seems as if he said these things sometimes "unbeknown" to himself. You remember the story of the old woman who had been addicted to drinking and had been ordered to stop by the doctor. A friend one day was passing some whisky at a little gathering, and invited her to take some.

"No," said she, "I can't. The doctor furbad it."

"But he won't know it."

"That's so, but I won't break me word."

The host was turning away, when the old lady suggested:

"Whist, there! I'll ax fur a glass o' wather, an' yees kin put in a little whisky unbeknownst to me." — Washingtnn Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Cultivation of the White Ash.

Ash is coming into extensive use for expensive furniture and for the interior finish of houses, while immense numbers of the young saplings are annually consumed in the coopers' trade. Its value for firewood according to Bull, is 77, the standard hickory being 100, while only four other American woods are its superior in heat-giving qualities.

In view of its many uses for purposes for which no other wood can supply its place, it is not astonishing that the value of ash lumber has largely increased of late years. The present price in the Boston market of the best New England ash is eighty-five dollars the one thousand feet.

To develop its best qualities, the white ash should be planted in a cool, deep, moist but well-drained soil, where it will make a rapid growth. That the plantation may be as early profitable as possible, the young trees should be inserted in rows three feet apart, the plants being two feet apart in the rows. This would give 7,260 plants to the acre, which should be gradually thinned until 108 trees are left standing, twenty feet apart each way. The first thinning, which might be made at the end of ten years, would give four thousand hoop-poles, which at present price would be worth four hundred dollars.

The remaining thinnings, made at different periods up to twenty-five or thirty years, would produce some three thousand trees more, worth at least three times as much as the first thinning. Such cuttings would pay all the expenses of planting, the care of the plantation and the interest on the capital invested, and would leave the land covered with trees capable of being turned into money at a moment's notice, or whose value would increase for a hundred years, making no mean inheritance for the descendants of a Massachusetts farmer. Planting the white ash as a shade and roadside tree is especially recommended, and for that purpose it ranks, among our native trees, next to the sugar-maple.—Ploughman.

—A little girl braids the hair of one who sits in front of her, instead of studying, when the teacher remarks, "Home is the place for arranging the hair, not here. What would you think of my braiding my hair in school?" Presently Susan's hand is raised, and the teacher, supposing she wishes to ask some question about the lesson, nods, when she hears the following: "Mary says your hair is false, and that you wouldn't dare to do it here."

—Anxious mamma of three "four-season" daughters (speaking, she thinks, to her husband)—"James, dear, I think she has caught him. He must be proposing." James ("with the tray)—"I don't think he am, ma'am; he's just sat me to bring him a sangwitch."

—Good taste is the flower of good sense.

News and Notes.

Cambridge won the University race on the Thames, Saturday, by three lengths, in twenty minutes and nine seconds.

Gen. Butler's wife died at the Massachusetts General Hospital on Saturday, of cancer.

Somebody dropped some quicksilver on the sidewalk on Main street, to-day, and an Indian tried to pick it up. First he made a grab with his thumb and forefinger, and was astonished when he found he couldn't pick it up. He was determined to have that quicksilver, anyhow, so he unwound a handkerchief from his hat, and spreading it on the ground got a chip and scraped the quicksilver into it. A look of triumph shot from his eagle eye as he gathered up the four corners of the handkerchief, but it was replaced by one of horror and disgust when the metal ran through the fabric like water through a sieve. Looking at the metal as it lay on the ground, in a puzzled sort of way for a moment, he launched a vicious kick at it, and uttering the ejaculation used by a keno player when some other fellow makes keno, he turned on his heel and left the quicksilver for some other untutored son of the forest to experiment with.—Reese River (Cal.) Reveille.

The Cincinnati Commercial thinks New Hampshire's first vote will be divided between Blaine and Bristow, with a swift disposition on the part of the Blaine men to go over to Bristow.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune tells a little story told of Mr. Blaine, which is characteristic enough to be true. Judge Black, meeting the ex-Speaker one day, asked him if he felt apprehensive that Morton would defeat him at Cincinnati. "Morton will have a fair strength in the Convention," replied Blaine, "but it will not present a single sure electoral vote. You see it would never do to nominate such a candidate. I'm not at all afraid of him." "Are you afraid of Bristow?" "No; Bristow has a good deal of strength among the people but it is not organized. I don't see how he can possibly get a majority in the Convention." "Well, are you afraid of Conkling?" asked Judge Black, going on with his catechism. "He cannot carry his own State in the Convention or at the election, and his candidacy is an absurdity. No, I'm not afraid of him." "Is there anybody you are afraid of?" "Yes, there is," replied the ex-Speaker, with a serious air. "Well, who is it?" "The Great Unknown."

A co-operative company, some two hundred strong, is being organized in New York for a journey to the Black Hills about the middle of April. The cost to each member is estimated at $200. The party will carry a saw-mill with them. The latest reliable reports from the Hills show that one dollar a day is a high figure to realize from the "diggings," and that miners on their journey thither are swindled in innumerable ways.

The indictment against Senator Conover of Florida for the embezzlement of $40,000 has been withdrawn, and all proceedings against him, therefore, have been stepped. The indictment was based upon statements which were subsequently proved to be erroneous. The witnesses against the Senator voluntarily testify that, through a misapprehension of the facts, they did great injustice to him.

It is a little singular and very significant that whenever a republican paper demands that the republican candidate for President shall be a man "whose name is a watchword of reform," that paper is at once set down as in favor of Bristow.

It is reported that Hon. William E. Chandler will not be candidate for United States Senator, but will support the Hon. E. A. Rollins for that position.

The charges recently made against ex-Indian Commissioner E. P. Smith are refuted by Miss Cook, a young lady who acted as his clerk while he was agent for the Chippewas. She denies that he bought scrip of the Indians to speculate in supplies, and declares that he simply sold some scrip in their behalf at full price, paying them the money in every case and receiving no commissions from either buyer or seller. She characterizes the other charges as also false.

The Boston Advertiser says there is much difference of opinion in Massachusetts about candidates for the Presidency. Mr. Blaine and Mr. Bristow both have ardent and zealous friends, while there are other republicans of good judgment and influence who think Mr. Washburne or Gen. Sherman preferable to either.

The Manchester Mirror thinks that in New Hampshire, a convention held to-day would, we are sure, select more Bristow than Blaine delegates, though many who support Bristow would prefer Blaine if they believed he was as strong a candidate.

It is said the late Secretary of War is very indignant at the testimony of Gen. Custer, and affirms if he had the opportunity he could abundantly prove the incorrectness of many of Custer's stories by the testimony of numerous officers of the army, of the highest veracity. Custer testified like one spurred by a grievance.

When the notification that the President has signed the bill providing for the payment of those Alabama claims which have been awarded reaches the treasury, as it will at once, Acting Secretary Conant will issue an invitation to the claimants to present their awards for payment twenty days after date.

Capt. William Carr, of Concord, died on the 3d inst., at the age 76 years. Capt. Carr was at one time foreman of the Concord Railroad wood shop, and on the breaking out of the Rebellion he enlisted in the First New Hampshire Regiment of Volunteers, and served as drum major through three months' service; and subsequently held the same position in the Sixth New Hampshire Regiment of Volunteers for a short time, when he was transferred to Washington and had charge of the government repair shop for two years.

Last spring, the democrats carried Cleveland by 2,011 majority. This spring the republicans carry it by a majority of 2,833.

The editor of the Concord Monitor, who has just made a visit to Washington, says: "Blaine and Bristow are the two most prominent candidates at the capital, with Conkling and Hayes in the second place. Bristow has many champions, and appears to lead." The editor's general conclusion is: "Looking over the field dispassionately, and estimating all the probabilities, we regard the chances of Mr. Blaine's nomination at Cincinnati as better at this writing than those of any other aspirant."

A Washington correspondent says of the democratic House: "They first cut a button off the coats of the boys at West Point and gave them one piece of hardtack less. This was economy. Then they reduced the salaries of the poor clerks and declared they must work longer. That was retrenchment and reform. Then they investigated. That was politics." He says that these investigations are carried on at a cost of about $300 per witness, and the neglect of all other business.

We presume a majority of the delegates will go into the Cincinnati Convention as friends of Morton, Conkling and Blaine, with the certainty that neither of these candidates will be able to command a majority. There will be found on the spot a powerful current for Bristow, and after the first ballot all the loose votes will flow to him, because he is the man who, if nominated, will surely be elected, and even the republican ringsters would prefer him to a democrat. —Cincinnati Com.

Officials at the War Department say there is documentary evidence to show that Gen. Custer has testified falsely in many particulars before Clymer's committee. These documents will be submitted to the committee.

The safe burglary committee has examined Col. Whitely, formerly Chief of the secret service division of the Treasury. Whitely testified that he put up the job and executed it under orders from General Babcock.

The report telegraphed from Washington, by a number of correspondents, that Gen. Bristow has determined to withdraw from the Cabinet is pronounced false by the Secretary himself.

There is considerable opposition to the silver coin bill in the Senate, and will be opposed by several Senators who favor an early resumption of specie payment. The measure will give rise to much discussion.

A majority in the Hartford Board of aldermen was lost to the republicans, by throwing republican votes into wrong boxes.

The democratic editors of Indiana have met, compared notes, and agreed that Congressman Holman is the man they are all willing to support for Governor.

—A few months since a lady who is very well known in the French fashionable world happened to see in the streets of London a monkey begging pence from the public in the prettiest manner for the benefit of his master, an organ grinder. The marquise took a fancy to it, bought it, dressed it in the grandest of raiment, and made it a pet. The lady recently had in Paris a fashionable reception, and of course her pet was the wonder of the room. In the course of the evening a young lady sat down at the piano, and accompanying herself, sang with exquisite taste a little drawing-room song. As soon as the lady had finished, the monkey, who though now partially civilized had not forgotten his former duties, seeing something near him that reminded him of his old occupation, seized it and transferred it into a temporary hat and commenced a collection. The vocalist laughed, the marquise looked vexed; but to the amusement of everybody, the animal went the rounds and collected a large sum. His task ended he jumped upon the knee of the singer, amid shouts of laughter, and deposited the contents of his hat in the lady's lap. The collection was, of course, devoted to a charitable fund.

—"You see, some people has good luck, and some people has bad bad luck. Now, I remember once I was walking along the street with Tom Jellicks, and he went down one side of it, and I went down on the other. We hadn't got more'n half way down when he found a pocket-book with $216 in it, and I stepped on a woman's dress and got acquainted with my present wife. It was always so," he said with a sigh; "that Tom Jellicks was the luckiest man in the world, and I never had no luck."

—A little girl braids the hair of one who sits in front of her, instead of studying, when the teacher remarks: "Home is the place for arranging the hair, not here. What would you think of my braiding my hair in school?" Presently Susan's hand is raised, and the teacher, supposing she wishes to ask some question about the lesson, nods, when she hears the following: "Mary says your hair is false, and that you wouldn't dare to do it here."

—An eminent Scottish divine happened to meet at the house of a lawyer, whom he considered too sharp a practitioner, two of his parishioners. The lawyer jocularly and ungraciously put the question: "Doctor, these are members of your flock; may I ask do you look upon them as white or black sheep? "I don't know," answered the divine dryly, "whether they are black or white sheep, but I know if they are long here they are pretty sure to be fleeced."

—A little three-year old girl, in repeating her prayer to her mother every night, insists on praying to be made a "dood Epislopalian Wepublitan."

—A hasty spirit brought bitter woe upon a Montreal widow. Her intended husband offered her his hand as they were about to take their places for the marriage ceremony, saying, "May I lead you?" A sharp glitter came into the woman's eyes as she answered, "Yes, for the last time." "Good-bye," said the man, as he walked out of the front door.

Xantippe.

It seems that the memory of this woman, like that of her renowned husband, is likely to be kept alive to the end of time. She is said to have possessed a very irritable temper, and her name has become a synonym of "vixen," or "scold." It is more than possible, however, that the judgment passed upon her by mankind has been too severe. A more charitable disposition would undoubtedly have discovered in her, many good qualities, and have attributed her failings more to physical infirmities than to moral obliquity. The party most intimately acquainted with her, and therefore best able to form a correct opinion, gives her credit for many domestic virtues. It is now well known that many of the diseases to which women are subject, have a direct tendency to render them irritable, peevish, cross, morose, unreasonable, so that they chafe and fret over all these little ills and annoyances that a person in health would bear with composure. It is fair to infer that most of the tantrums of Xantippe were due to these causes alone; and could Socrates, as he returned from the Senate, the Gymnasium, or the Athenæum, have stopped at Pestle & Mortar's Drug Store and carried home a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, now and then, no doubt he might have avoided many a "curtain lecture," allayed many a "domestic broil," made it much pleasanter for the children, and more enjoyable for himself, and rescued his wife's name from the unenviable, world-wide, and eternal notoriety it has attained. Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all these derangements causing backache, dragging-down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

Thousands of testimonials to the efficacy and value of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam can be produced from leading citizens of the State. Sold by all druggists.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat, requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Diseases. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief.

The Word "Sozodont," Which is fast becoming a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontes. "Sozo" translated, means to preserve, and "Odontes" the teeth—"Sozodont," a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. For beautifying and preserving the teeth, hardening and invigorating the gums, and correcting all impurities of the breath, it is without a peer in the world.

Spalding's Glue will mend everything.

Depressing Maladies.

Dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, as well as disorders of the nervous system and the organs of urination, re-act by sympathy upon the brain, frequently causing a degree of mental depression not remotely akin to insanity. The surest way to banish the "blues" thus produced is to use that unfailing antidote to bodily irregularity and gloominess of mind, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A course of the great corrective tonic promptly removes the maladies above specified, as well as many others, and restores the cheerfulness which is such a characteristic attendant of good health. It likewise imparts a vigor to the constitution which is its surest safeguard against disease, and the best guarantee of a long life. The aged and infirm, as well as the sick and convalescent, derive inexpressible comfort and one fit from its use.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Jottings.

Lieut. Urch of the Artillery Co. having asked the War Department if the cartridges stored in the powder house in this city belonged to the United States, Sergeant Adolph Franz of Fort Constitution was detailed to look it up, and ascertained that the general government has no claim on the property.

At the annual meeting of the Mercantile Library Association, held Friday evening, the Treasurer, Howard N. Dunyon, read his report, which showed the institution to be in an excellent financial condition, the receipts being considerably in excess of last year. The report of the librarian, William C. Robinson, was submitted, from which we learn that the library now numbers sixteen hundred standard volumes. The election of officers was deferred until Friday evening the 21st.

Auctioneer Wendell sold on Saturday one thirty-second of schooner Clara E. Simpson to Samuel S. Frye for $670, and one thirty-second of schooner T. J. Trafton to John Walker for $215.

Under the direction of Samuel Taylor, one of the Vice Presidents of the reform club, a temperance meeting was held on Friday evening at the Creek school-house, which was densely crowded. Addresses were made made by several members of the club, and during the session twenty-five names were added to the pledge.

Mr. Edwin J. Hobbs, of Hampton, for two years past Assistant Lightkeeper at Boon Island, and recently appointed Keeper of White Island Light vice Israel P. Miller, resigned, entered upon the duties of his new position early in March.

Mr. James F. Jenness on Saturday bought the long-unoccupied lot of land corner of Fleet and Hanover streets, adjoining his residence, for $1500. We are informed that his purpose is to enclose it with a neat fence and use it as a garden for the present, which will be a great improvement for the neighborhood, as the lot has been the last resting place of ashes, empty barrels, tin cans, old boots and dead cats, for years.

A sixteen-hundred pound anchor from the wrecked brig "A. Porter" was floated off Lunging island, at the Sheals, by the sea during the gale of the 4th, and has not since been seen. It had been lashed to some spars above high-water mark, preparatory to being floated in, and was reached by the huge waves and carried off. The shattered wreck of the brig was driven up on the rocks a considerable distance from where the previous storms left her.

A Concord telegram to the Boston Globe says: The Military Commission appointed by Governor Cheney to investigate "all differences existing in the Portsmouth Artillery Company," will, it is understood, report that Captain Thomas E. O. Marvin's charges against Lieut. Urch are not sustained, and will recommend that Captain Marvin be permitted to resign. The difficulty existing in Section A, First Light Battery of Dover, will probably be referred to the same commission for investigation.

Referring to our statement regarding the Congressional nomination in this district, the Manchester Mirror says: We are glad to believe the CHRONICLE knows what it is talking about. Mr. Whitehouse's defeat last year was a burning disgrace to the few republicans who sold out to his opponent, and the sooner they wipe it out by sending him to Congress the better.

Death of D. D. Home.

The death of Daniel Dunglass Home, terminates the career of the most famous Spiritualist and medium of modern times. The New York World affects to doubt his departure from this life, as if only the half of what has been told of Mr. Home is true, to suppose him dead merely because he happened to leave his corpse would be as absurd as to suppose so because he happened to leave his great-coat or his umbrella behind him. He was born in Scotland, and came to this country when a mere child. He made his first conspicuous success in Springfield and in Boston between the years 1851 and 1853. In New York he was hailed as a prophet by numbers of highly-educated persons, but finally in 1855 he went to Europe. In London he was warmly welcomed by several coteries of the aristocracy, and he made a very strong impression upon the mind of Queen Victoria herself. The Duchess of Sutherland was one of his most open proselytes and believers. In Paris he was made for a time "the rage" by the undisguised interest which the Emperor Napoleon took in him and in his alleged miracles. He was frequently summoned to the Tuileries, and he gradually acquired a very considerable influence with the Emperor. He married a Russian lady of noble birth in 1856. She died in 1862, and Mr. Home married a Russian Princess. He was a particular favorite at the Court of the Czar, and claimed in private to have converted the Czar to Spiritualism. The many strange tales of spiritual phenomena contain nothing to rival the demonstrations of Mr. Home. Besides the ordinary phenomena of rapping, table-tipping, writing and playing upon musical instruments, they include in his case visions seen by the medium, appearances of hands, arms and spirit forms, seen by other persons, "levitation" or the preternatural uplifting of the medium, elongation and shortening of his body by several inches, and his handling of fire and heated objects without hurt. It has been again and again affirmed of Mr. Home by witnesses of unimpeached character, that they have seen him plunge his hands with impunity into a blazing fire and take up the glowing embers like so many strawberries, seat himself upon heavy mahogany dining-tables and rise with them several feet into the air, and after floating horizontally head foremost out of the window at a height of many yards from the ground, sail tranquilly around a castle tower and come in again unharmed at the other side. One incident of his life was the affair with Mrs. Jane Lyon in London, in 1866. This lady conveyed to him by gift and bequest the bulk of her property. Subsequently she sued for its recovery and was successful. The charge was undue influence by means of spiritualist manifestations. The story of his strangely checkered career is well told in his autobiographical work, "Incidents of My Life." But whatever Mr. Home's vagaries, he certainly had remarkable gifts as a medium, and will go down in history as the most noted exponent of Modern Spiritualism. He was but 43 years of age at the time of his decease.

—Young authors give their brains much exercise and little food.—Joubert.

—Truth is too simple for us; we do not like those who unmask our illusions.—Emerson.

—O banish the tears of children! Continual rains upon the blossoms are hurtful.—Richter.

—The extreme height of misery is a small boy with a new pair of boots and no mud puddle.

—The utmost that severity can do is to make men hypocrites; it can never make them converts.

—When a young man cannot live on his own salary, the usual way is for him to live on the salary of some one else.

—There is nothing more frightful than for a teacher to know only what his scholars are intended to know.—Goethe.

—A physician boasted at dinner that he cured his own hams, when one of his guests remarked, "Doctor, I'd sooner be your ham than your patient."

—Schoolmistress—"Johnny, I'm ashamed of you! When I was your age I could read as well as I can now." "Aw, but you'd a different teacher to what we've got."

—An inebriated Irishman, on being kindly questioned in a very narrow lane across which he was reeling, as to the length of the road he had travelled, replied: "Faith! it's not so much the length of it as the breadth of it that tired me."

—"And canst thou always love me thus, Alfred?" she murmured, "even when age has crept upon me and left his traces here?" There was a pause on his part, but it was only momentary, when he replied, in a tone of deep remonstrance, "Can a duck swim?"

—Some people seem to be extremely sensitive. At one of the churches Sunday the minister read the prayer for a person in deep affliction, and a man who had just been married got up and went out. He said he didn't want public sympathy obtruded on him that way.—Norwich Bulletin.

—Mrs. Logreller, whose husband is a delegate to a political convention, grins derisively at reading that the delegates have been instructed. "Heap o' good it'll do to instruct old Logreller!" she says; "I've been instructin' the pig-headed fool for years, and he can't buy a yard of calico with any sense yet."

—Ole Bull was once seeing the sights at Donnybrook Fair, when he was attracted by the sound of a very loud violin in a tent. He entered and said: "My good friend do you play by note?" "The duce a note, sur." "Do you play by ear, then?" "Niver an ear, yer honor." "How do you play." "Be mane strinth, be jabbers!"

DIED.

HODGDON. In Newington, March 23, Mrs. Emma V. Hodgdon, wife of Charles A. Hodgdon, aged 21 years and 8 months.

CARTER. In Kingston, March 29, Mr. Morrill Carter, aged 65 years.

FRENCH. In Kingston, April 4, Mrs. Mary E. French, widow of the late Moses P. French, aged 77 years.

PILLOW. In this city, April 7th, Mrs. Caroline B. Pillow, widow of the late Joseph D. Pillow.

In the departure of this lady we are called on to resign one highly distinguished for all Christian excellencies. As a wife, mother and friend, she was ever tender, faithful and devoted. The natural beauties of her character, sanctified and heightened by an unfinching faith in God's particular and tender Fatherhood, kept her sweet, and unperplexed. Standing always ready to help those who needed her charity, she leaves many to regard her memory with grateful affection. More like a spirit than a woman in her fragile delicacy, she but lately trod this earthly shore, lovely and sympathetic toward all with whom she came in contact. But a breath from Heaven has wafted her to that higher life she is so well qualified to enjoy, and to the dear ones who having preceded her, once more greet the wife and mother.

REASONS WHY FARMERS should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill!

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,600,000. The old Equitable society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

SOUTH BERWICK, ME., Nov. 26, 1875.

MR. DENNIS SHEA, Sir: The Water Cement Pipe you laid for us over three years ago has proved perfectly satisfactory to us in every respect, and although a part of it froze up last winter, we can't see any injury done. The Pipe was laid by you in a thorough manner, and we believe it to be the Best Water Pipe known, and if we lay more pipe shall surely lay the same, and you are to do the job if alive and well. New Hampshire FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and has rapidly possessed the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as a household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.38 for each dollar of liability) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every meritorious claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

STATE MUTUAL

Life Assurance Co.,

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 930 150 . 05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the oldest Life Companies doing business in the State. Its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 29.

Total premiums paid in 29 years, less dividends,	$336 91
Average cost per year,	11.62
Cost for 1875,	3.16

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, respectfully invites the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. TROP, W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hope of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLANTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have not dared to eat for fear they would gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.30 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing several pains in the back and kidneys, unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal of money, but received little benefit, and concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought it sounded good, so I got what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken half of them I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends all noticed the change in my appearance. I will not list. My sister had suffered from Inflammation of the bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Ten years ago Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co. established their advertising agency in New York City. Five years ago they absorbed the business conducted by Mr. John Hooper, who was the first to go into this kind of enterprise. Now they have the satisfaction of controlling the most extensive and complete advertising connection which has never been secured, and one which would be hardly possible in any other country but this. They have succeeded in working down a complex business into so thoroughly a systematic method that no change in the newspaper system of America can escape notice, while the widest information upon all topics interesting to advertisers is placed readily at the disposal of the public.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal opinions rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse during my term of office."
Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unanimity is evidence of great talent and ability on his part. I take my to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is one new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted.—BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE——

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate next July a hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which promise to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term, will be under control of the democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next two years will determine the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fail to pieces or enter upon a new career of success. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the economic condition of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the Static schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE will strikingly appeals to the interest and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, unobscured by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice wherever its principles have been adopted under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of political superiors; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and principles of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to secure the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country can trust, and to secure hard money. Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as shall free from compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the spiritual hard-money battle, it was by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will remember all its duties to readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so long and generously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 it has positively assented to remember such critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than it at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh est intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its chief articles the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and a great deal of reading.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to employ more first-class illustrators, etc., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for elegance. Every one is carefully colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

☞ To all the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

The Country Gentleman
POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Fearnaught.

The following account of the great race of the stallion Fearnaught at Buffalo, in 1868, is from the pen of Dan Mace, the great reinsman who drove the horse on that occasion,—and is copied from Wilkes' Spirit of the Times:

"Fearnaught was a chestnut stallion, by Young Morrill, foaled 1859. He stood 15 1-2 hands, and was a good looking horse. He died some time since, the property of Col. Russell, of Boston, who kept him for a stock horse. He came into my hands in 1868, and at that time was the property of Messrs. Wright and Norcross, of Boston. As he had done very little on the turf during the short time he had been on it previous to my having him, and they were particularly anxious to have him get a fast record, owing to his being a stallion, they gave him to me to give him the grand preparation, as they thought it was only necessary for him to be in good fettle to show himself a very fast horse. Mr. Wright was carried away with him, and used to dream of victories to be won on the turf with him, if he could be put in proper shape, and be got to trot s eadily.

When I first took him, he was very wild when on the track, for he had a great deal of grit and ambition. In the stable he was of a mild and gentle disposition. I did not speed him at first; I gave him physic to put him in fix for work. I used to give him after that about six quarts of grain per day. I thought I would tame him a little, and not feed him high. After working him awhile, I increased it to nine quarts. I did not mash him nor feed him corn, but grassed him a good deal. I alwas shod him plainly, about one pound two ounces forward and a tenounce shoe behind. I drove him with a plain snaffle bit. I began at him very gradually, and did not like him much at first; he was very unsteady, but as I kept on day after day working him he improved. He did not like horses around him on the track, he was always anxious to get away from them in one stride. If you took hold of him to pull him back, it made him mad; he had to be used very easy on the bit. As soon as he got one or two lengths ahead of a horse he seemed satisfied, and would trot steadily.

I tried everything I could think of to make him go by the side of another horse. I stuffed his ears, but that wouldn't do; as soon as he saw a horse he was just as anxious as ever. I then took a piece of leather, and attached it to his blinders so he could not see ahead or sideways, but that would not do, he was afraid to trot; he would step high, and go first one side and then the other. I then put a hood with ears on him, and a thick veil over his eyes so he could just see a little; I also stuffed his ears at the same time. He went better that way. I made up my mind that to keep a hood on would make too much heat around his head, so I tried him several other ways, but he acted better that way. Then I got an idea that I would have a pair of goggles made for him, and I took a piece of light cloth and made a hood out of it, and had a pair of oblong goggles made that he could look through. He went pretty well that way, but I though I could improve this, so I had a pair made, circular in shape, with a window of glass like a cimeter, then he could only see straight ahead. That gave him more light. I worked him with this contrivance, and he acted well.

After several weeks' work, I gave him a trial in 2:30, and repeated him in 2:29. He could trot the last quarter in 35s. He got used to the goggles, and I got more and more accustomed to him. I kept repeating him and he went better and better. Then I told Mr. Wright to enter him at Narragansett Park, Providence. He did so, but when the entries were published, and he found the black stallion Darkness one of them, he did not want to trot Fearnaught with the chance of being beaten by another stallion, for Darkness at this time had just come from Kentucky, and was a "dark one of who stories of great speed had been reported. I advised Mr. Wright to start Fearnaught. We had quite a discussion about it, and finally it was agreed to start him in the race. I told Mr. Wright I could beat 2:30 to a wagon. I did not say how much I could beat it, but I had timed him in 2:25 3-4 not long before. The race was to wagons for a purse of $1,000, and was to be trotted July 14, 1868.

On that day Fearnaught was in good fix, and he started against the black stallion Darkness and Old Put. My horse was very wild in first heat, and broke often, but did not gain in any break he made, as I was careful to avoid that, for then they would have made a row about it; as it was, they did find some fault, and growled at the judges about his breaking, but I told them I would satisfy them that when he broke and acted so he was not going fast. The first heat I won in 2:31 1-2, and I sent him for the next heat, in which he made but two breaks, and trotted in under the wire a winner in 2:28, which satisfied all parties that he was faster when he stuck to a trot than when he broke so often. The third heat he won very easily in 2:30 1-2 which showed him to be quite a stallion, and made his owners and all interested very well satisfied.

He was at that time entered for the $10,000 purse at Buffalo, and on July 29th, fifteen days after he trotted at Narragansett Park, I came out on the track at the former place with him in his blinkers before an immense assemblage of people, to trot for it. Twenty-four hours before he had got lame forward, and just when and how we did not know. We soaked him all the previous day, and changed his shoes, but all to no purpose; he was so lame he could not lay down; there was a slight enlargement on the inside muscle of one of his fore legs, and we put hot blankets to it, and fomented it all day. We did not think we could start him, but on the way from his stable to the track I bathed it frequently with ether. After he was hooked to his sulky, I jogged him, intending to show him to the judges and draw him; but when he saw the crowd, and felt the excitement of the thing, he seemed to go better, and we finally concluded to start him. Had it not been for his lameness we should have won a good deal of money on him, but, after he showed lame, we hedged out almost all we had bet. We had for competitors, George Palmer, Col. Maynard, American Girl, J. J. Bradley, Myron Perry, Victor Hugo, and Mollie.

In the first heat, the start was much delayed by Col. Maynard, who acted badly, but we finally got off, with George Palmer in the lead, American Girl second; at the quarter I was fourth, at the half, in 1:10 1-2, American Girl led. I then moved up to her on the turn, and sent the stallion so fast that I led her before we came into the stretch. Hiram Howe, who drove American Girl, was several lengths ahead just before, and was looking round. I sang out to him to draw his whip, as I was coming with a trotter. I came along, and beat her under the wire about two lengths, in 2:23 1-4. Before we started for the second heat, the stallion was the favorite against the field. Perry had the best of the start, but American Girl went to the front, taking the pole. Fearnaught broke here, and she led to the quarter a length ahead of Perry; she also led at the half in 1:13 1-2. Then George Palmer and Fearnaught closed on her, and coming away from all the others, we had a sharp brush for the heat, but Palmer beat me in by half a length; time, 2:28.

In the third heat, Palmer took the lead, I was back sixth or seventh at the quarter. I then called on the stallion, and passed two or three on the backstretch. On the turn I sent Fearnaught up to a high rate of speed. At the head of the stretch I closed on Palmer and we had it hot, but I had the best of it, and won the heat, in 2:24 3-4, by half a length; the stallion had trotted the last half-mile very fast, indeed. Palmer got away first for the fourth heat, my horse being on a break when the word was given. He soon caught, however, and led at the turn. He also was in front at the half-mile pole in 1:12. I was never headed, and got the heat in 2:26 1-4. Thus the first great $10,000 purse was won.

Extradition.

Washington dispatches say the Secretary of State has telegraphed Col. Hoffman, Charge d'Affairs ad interim, at London, that the United States Government, after due consideration, has decided in the case of Winslow, that it will insist upon its demand for his extradition under the Ashburton treaty of 1842, without regard to the act of Parliament of 1870. It is possible that this action of our Government may lead to a nullification of the treaty, and it is the nullification of the treaty that Great Britain desires in order that a new treaty may be formed on the basis of the act of Parliament of 1870. But what guaranty will there be, if an act of the British Parliament is sufficient to set aside the provisions of one treaty, made thirty years before, that another British Parliament thirty years hence may not see fit to set aside any new treaty which may be made, without deigning to consult with the other high contracting power? Better no treaty at all, if the principle is to be admitted that a mere resolution of one party is enough to upset all or any of its provisions.

Belknap and Clymer.

The Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal says the belief is rapidly gaining ground there that the democrats will fail utterly to make a case against Gen. Belknap. The examination of several statements made by Marsh developed the fact he has repeatedly contradicted himself, and upon material points has told four different stories. The counsel have not asked for delay, and will, not if the needed witnesses can be secured in time. He will himself appear in the Senate at the trial. A fact not hitherto known has come out, and will be established at the trial, namely: That he had no hint that impeachment was contemplated by Clymer's committee, and that the first suggestion of resignation came from Clymer himself, and was made to Judge Blair, Gen. Belknap's counsel, when he was trying to arrange for the suppression of that part of Marsh's story which involved the ladies of the Secretary's family. While this proposition of the counsel was rejected, the night before the impeachment was reported, the suggestion of Clymer that Gen. Belknap should resign was carried out by him, he not having been informed up to the moment of resigning that impeachment was contemplated. This step was taken by him for two reasons, one being to save the President from embarrassment, and the other and chief reason being a desire to assume the entire responsibility so as to shield his family until the excitement had passed and the transaction had been fully explained.

News and Notes.

George W. Jones, of Brandon, Vt., was arrested and lodged in jail at Rutland, Vt., Saturday, on a charge of killing an illegitimate child of his unmarried daughter, a girl of fifteen.

W. N. Jilz, of St. Louis, who had seduced a Miss Maria Shave, was on Saturday shot dead by her brother Samuel, who was fatally wounded by Jilz in the fight.

Mr. Elmer of the Franklin Journal has sold his interest to two gentlemen from Manchester who are to conduct the paper as a neutral local journal.

The evidence of David Webster of Concord, concerning General Meigs, making a very serious charge against that officer, has proved to be baseless. Webster is thought to be insane. His conduct in the committee-room was very strange.

A. T. Stewart died Monday afternoon.

Whiteley, ex-chief of the Secret Service of the Treasury Department, has given evidence before one of the House investigating committees which will effectually finish Gen. Babcock unless disproved. Babcock testified on Saturday, but did not succeed in clearing himself from Whiteley's charge of having "put up" the notorious safe-burglary job. Nettleship, Whiteley's right-hand man, and others, testify strongly against Babcock. Monday's report was that the President would appear before the committee on Tuesday, to testify.

Mrs. Mary J. Gannett, wife of Rev. Dr. George Gannett, of Boston, committed suicide by jumping from a bridge into the river, at about noon, Saturday. Temporary insanity, induced by illness, was the cause of the act.

On Friday afternoon David J. Van Meter, city editor of the Rock Island (Ill.) Argus, had a fight in a saloon with John Stanback, about whom Van Meter had written an offensive article. Stanback was knocked down and cut by Van Meter in the temple with a pocket knife. He died, Saturday night, from the effects of the stabbing, when it was found that the point of the knife had been broken off in the left temporal bone. Van Meter was arrested on the charge of murder.

Political.

It is reported that Hon. William E. CHANDLER will not be candidate for United States Senator, but will support the Hon. E. H. ROLLINS for that position.

The republicans of Delaware will meet in convention to choose delegates to Cincinnati on the 8th of May. It is believed they will prefer Mr. Conkling.

Thirty-five separate investigating committees are mousing and probing after garbage solely for political capital, to the utter neglect of needed legislation. And they are now beginning to appreciate that they have been on the track of a lot of mares-nests. The loudly-heralded investigation is an ignominious fizzle; Poker-playing Schenck holds a better hand than they expected to see; the time allowed for that terrible bolt to strike in the White House has passed, and the President is not yet impeached. Strange, isn't it?—Lake Village Times.

The Concord Patriot sensibly concludes that "there is such a thing as running the investigation business into the ground, and it may do the party more harm than good, that investigates too much," and also "would venture to urge our democratic Congressmen to pay a little more attention to the legislative business and not spend quite so much time in hunting up mule contracts." The democracy would evidently be glad to sell their elephant for a reasonable sum.

Nothing worse could happen for the democratic Congress than to have the investigations "fizzle out," as they are in some danger of doing, comparatively speaking. Much political effect was expected from them, but it has been so far discounted as to leave the account overdrawn. The announcements and promises produced all the effect, and if they are not justified there will be a reaction which will cause a sort of disgust. The committees seem to weary of their work, or are not finding all that was promised. If the session passes and legislation has been neglected or badly done for the sake of investigations that come to nothing, the people will have no reason for great satisfaction with the democratic House. It is a good thing that matters have been stirred up at Washington, and it would be still better if all the investigations were to be thorough and honest, and should show clear and definite results one way or another, but there is little prospect of it at present.—Globe.

The Richmond Dispatch thinks it is pretty plain that Blaine has the whiphand for the Presidential nomination in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

In his notes to Wheaton's "International Law" Mr. Dana opposed the right of secession and the whole line of argument advanced by the secessionists to sanction their war upon the Union. The avowal of this doctrine, if we are well informed, cost him the votes of consistent and conscientious Southern men like Gordon, Cockrell, Ransom and other distinguished Confederate officers. Those Senators having taken up arms and risked their lives in defence of the ideas which Mr. Dana opposed, it was only natural that they should not wish him to go to England as their representative; but such considerations could hardly enter into the minds of democrats who were Union men. As it now stands the only intelligent reason for the opposition of the democratic Senators to Mr. Dana's confirmation is that he opposed secession and all the doctrines involved in secession. If any other reason exists let us know it. This is a dreadful record to make at the outset of a canvass for the Presidency.—N. Y. Herald.

—"Are you a Christian?" asked one of Mr. Moody's assistants at an inquiry meeting, of a hard-looking customer who had taken a front seat. "No," he answered, sadly, "I'm a plumber." It was a hopeless case.

—They say at a centennial ball in 'Frisco a gentleman presented an apple to a lady who was in a very undress uniform, with the remark: "As I see, madam, you came as Eve, permit me to complete your costume."

Xantippe.

It seems that the memory of this woman, like that of her renowned husband, is likely to be kept alive to the end of time. She is said to have possessed a very irritable temper, and her name has become a synonym of "vixen," or "scold." It is more than possible, however, that the judgment passed upon her by mankind has been too severe. A more charitable disposition would undoubtedly have discovered in her, many good qualities, and have attributed her failings more to physical infirmities than to moral obliquity. The party most intimately acquainted with her, and therefore best able to form a correct opinion, gives her credit for many domestic virtues. It is now well known that many of the diseases to which women are subject, have a direct tendency to render them irritable, peevish, cross, morose, unreasonable, so that they chafe and fret over all these little ills and annoyances that a person in health would bear with composure. It is fair to infer that most of the tantrums of Xantippe were due to these causes alone; and could Socrates, as he returned from the Senate, the Gymnasium, or the Atheneum, have stopped at Pestle & Mortar's Drug Store and carried home a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, now and then, no doubt he might have evaded many a "curtain lecture," allayed many a "domestic broil," made it much pleasanter for the children, and more enjoyable for himself, and rescued his wife's name from the unenviable, world-wide, and eternal notoriety it has attained. Thousands of women bless the day on which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was first made known to them. A single bottle often gives delicate and suffering women more relief than months of treatment from their family physician. In all these derangements causing backache, dragging-down sensations, nervous and general debility, it is a sovereign remedy. Its soothing and healing properties render it of the utmost value to ladies suffering from internal fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, and its strengthening effects tend to correct displacements of internal parts, the result of weakness of natural supports. It is sold by all druggists.

Thousands of testimonials to the efficacy and value of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam can be produced from leading citizens of the State. Sold by all druggists.

A Cough, Cold, or Sore Throat, requires immediate attention, as neglect oftentimes results in some incurable Lung Diseases. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" will almost invariably give relief.

The Word "Sozodont,"
Which is fast becoming a household word, is derived from the Greek, and composed of two words, Sozo and Odontos. "Sozo" translated, means to preserve, and "Odontos" the teeth—"Sozodont," a preserver of the teeth. And it is true to its name. For beautifying and preserving the teeth, hardening and invigorating the gums, and correcting all impurities of the breath, it is without a peer in the world.

Spalding's Glue will mend everything.

Depressing Maladies.
Dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, as well as disorders of the nervous system and the organs of urination, re-act by sympathy upon the brain, frequently causing a degree of mental depression not remotely akin to insanity. The surest way to banish the "blues" thus produced is to use that unfailing antidote to bodily irregularity and gloominess of mind, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A course of the great corrective tonic promptly removes the maladies above specified, as well as many others, and restores the cheerfulness which is such a characteristic attendant of good health. It likewise imparts a vigor to the constitution which is its surest safeguard against disease, and the best guarantee of a long life. The aged and infirm, as well as the sick and convalescent, derive inexpressible comfort and one fit from its use.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to each of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

The annual meeting of the Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association was held at their hall on Friday evening last; the election of officers being postponed for two weeks, to an adjourned meeting.

The treasurer, Mr. H. N. Dunyon, reported the amount of funds on hand, $354.46; receipts last year, $289.23, expenses 229.99; due from members, annual assessments, $168.75; which it is desired shall be paid immediately.

The librarian, Mr. Wm. C. Robinson, reported the number of volumes in the library about 1600. Purchased last year, about twenty volumes,—and no donations either of money or books, during the year, except from the spelling match. About two hundred volumes of old books, which had long been laid aside from the shelves, were by vote given to Mr. Loyne, for the use of the poor, at the Mission, the almshouses, &c.

The Mercantile Library Association was organized in 1852, and its history and experience do not go to show that a public library is a necessity or would be much benefit here. It would doubtless be fully as beneficial, as it is certainly more practicable, to sustain and encourage this old Association, with its valuable and useful library.

The fees for admission to the Association is only $1.00, and ladies as well as gentlemen can become members. The annual assessment is $2.50, with two books at a time from the library, changed weekly.

TRUSTEE.

More Reservoirs.

Messrs. Editors: Instead of our City Fathers directing enquiries to be made in view of building more and costly reservoirs, would it not be well to ascertain if fire plugs inserted into the acqueduct logs would not be vastly more useful, reliable and cheaper? The Acqueduct Co. claims that it has a great superabundance of water; it surely enjoys a great monopoly and the city is entitled to some return for having its streets so often ripped up; but, it would seem, as if money could be found for all purposes excepting that vital one upon which the health and prosperity of the citizens depends. PUBLIC GOOD.

Jottings.

Board of Trade meeting this evening.

The meeting of the Reform Club at the Temple, Sunday evening, was attended by fully fifteen hundred persons, over thirteen hundred tickets being sold and a large number given away. The club has been organized but thirteen weeks, yet the pledge books bear 1271 names.

Mr. Walter Weeks has been chosen librarian and Messrs. J. M. Salter and Andrew P. Preston, assistant librarians of the South Parish library.

The yearly increase of publications appropriate to the Holy Seasons of the Christian Year, is a pleasant indication of the increase of the observance of those seasons. Under the title "Now is Christ Risen," a volume of "poems for Easter-tide" (which is close at hand) is issued by Henry Hoyt, Cornhill, Boston. It is a compilation of more than ordinary taste and excellence. The compiler has drawn from many sources, ancient and modern; and dedicates her efforts "to all to whom the death of friends has made the hope of Resurrection precious"—words which of themselves would bring the book home to numberless hearts. The volume is happily prefaced by the Bishops of Massachusetts.

The small-pox cases at Rye are all convalescent, and the danger of the further spread of the malady is past. The obstructions in the highway have been removed, and the infected houses properly cleansed.

Capt. Johnson of the lighthouse steamer Iris, arrived at Portland, Me., on Friday, from a cruise, and reported a wreck at York. He left York Friday morning, where he heard that some time Wednesday the wreck of a vessel was washed ashore some three miles southwest from that place. It was a spruce bottom and hard wood top, indicating an Eastern built vessel. There was nothing to the wreck to identify it.

There never was a time when a man who pays cash down found traders more ready to give him his money's worth for his money than they are now.

Lieutenant Charles S. Cotton is detached from this navy yard and placed on waiting orders.

At the meeting of Dearborn S. F. E. Company, No. 1, holden on the evening of 3d inst., the following officers were elected: Foreman, J. Frank Shannon; First Assistant, John S. Banks; Second Assistant, William E. Pender; Clerk, Robert H. Hall; Pipesman, George F. Pender; Steward, William P. Stover.

Unnecessarily Frightened.

Some person blessed with a vivid imagination thought he saw the Temple gallery move on Sunday evening while the hall was packed with a very large audience in attendance at the temperance meeting. He communicated his suspicions to the president of the club, Mr. John S. Treat, and to others who quickly persuaded themselves that they saw the gallery settle. Mr. Treat quietly sent notice to the people in the gallery to prevent a panic, and the audience there assembled soon began leaving. On Monday, complaint having been made to Mayor Goodrich, he requested Mr. John W. Stavers to have a board of survey on the building. Mr. Stavers secured the services of two master builders, Messrs. Thomas and Luther E. Martin, who made a careful survey and reported that the building showed no signs of having settled, and that the interior was so well braced that it would be next to impossible for any of the walls to fall out into the street. A careful inspection of the gallery showed that not a joint had started, and the paint was not cracked in a single place. The person who discovered the "movement" in the gallery may have been attacked with vertigo, and feeling dizzy thought it the building and not himself which was shaky. It was very easy to transmit his panic to neighbors ever ready for a sensation.

Alexander T. Stewart, the famous New York merchant, died of inflammation of the bowels, on Monday. He was seventy-three years old.

—"I'll put a head on you," said one little New York gamin to another. "Just try it," was the answer, "and see how quick your mother's pet monkey will turn into a cherub."

—They have a disagreeable way in Canon City, Colorado, when a man takes a broken chair to the cabinet-shop saying: "Hit you with a chair, did she?" This is very trying to the average citizen.

—A train was carrying a clergyman and five or six youths, who kept scoffing at religion and telling disagreeable stories. The good man endured it all, simply remarking as he got out: "We shall meet again, my children." "Why shall we meet again?" said the leader of the band. "Because I am a prison chaplain," was the reply.

—A polite sheriff came near being outdone by a person it was in the line of his duty to hang. "Sir," said the man, as the sheriff was carefully adjusting the rope, "really your attentions deserve my thanks. In fact I do not know of one I should rather have hang me." "Really," said the sheriff, "you are pleased to be complimentary. I do not know of another individual it would give me so much pleasure to hang."

—Gongs and cymbals have, up to within a few years past, been imported from China and Turkey, but for several years past there has been an establishment in Boston (the only one in the country) where these sonorous instruments are produced. The method of mixing the alloy is said to be a secret. From 300 to 400 gongs and 500 pairs cymbals per year are produced by the Boston manufactory, the price depending upon the size—cymbals of twelve and fourteen inches diameter ranging from $24 to $36, and gongs selling at 50 cents per inch of diameter.

REASONS WHY FARMERS should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill!

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55-000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are as familiar as household words, and a guarantee for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid-up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only insured, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.22 for every dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Nausea, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done more for me than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package and gave it to a friend, and he reported himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received one package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can say I am free from one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months at a time to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer on as I did before. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Cosmopolitanist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent for one box of Pills and two packages of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well and have not had a touch of Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has been cured of a long-standing complaint of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money could buy them, and I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Reissues, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over "Fifty" applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability, as his part finds me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is now discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

PULMOCINE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In this critical and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued support of its friends and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion and founder, and which it believes, that it will relieve whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of any party or faction or sect, and it knows what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, without a apologies for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in editorial comment it makes the good cause men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as shall lighten the burdens of from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it hopes and believes that it will, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumph won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be as steady right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as in our equal success, and consequent yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves obliged to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be hoped that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to expose the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' benefit.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by British critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most vigorous and enterprising exercise of fresh and intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department of its field. Its staff has not accomplished men in the profession, and among its multiple contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unrivalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also Household and other receipts; in short, everything for Ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE,

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY OF

POPULAR LITERATURE AND SCIENCE,

is unsurpassed in any department, and unequaled in the finness of its material and in the beauty of its typography. The handsomest, and one of the best and most entertaining of the monthlies.

The new Volume, commencing with the January issue, will be replete with most attractive features.

No advantage will be neglected which either talent or capital can command to render each issue an entertaining and instructive compendium of

POPULAR READING.

The contributions now on hand, or specially engaged, will be an unusually attractive list of Tales, Short Stories, Narratives, Descriptive Sketches, Papers on Science and Art, Poems, Popular Essays, Literary Criticisms, etc., etc., By Talented and Well-Known Writers.

In fact, all possible means are being taken to supply the public, through this periodical, with a popular and yet refined type of LITERARY ENJOYMENT.

One of the attractive features of the new year will be a series of illustrated articles entitled

THE CENTURY,

Its Fruits and Its Festival,

which will present a summary of the progress of civilization, and advancement in the arts and sciences since the Revolution, together with a complete history and description of the CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION, fully illustrated.

FOR SALE BY ALL PERIODICAL DEALERS.

The Country Gentleman
POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the first Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Marrying an Editor.

Yes, I'm Mrs. Peter Snow, an editor's wife. I well remember the day when Mr. Snow asked me to become his wife. I confess I liked Mr. Snow, and thinking it would be a very fine thing to be the wife of an editor, I said yes as pretty as I knew how, and I became Mrs. Snow. I have seen ten years of married life, and find my husband to be an amiable, good-natured man. He always spends his evenings at home, and is in that respect a model man; but he always brings a pile of exchanges, which is only limited by the length of his arm, and reads, while I patch the knees and elbows of his pantaloons and coat. After we have had a Quaker meeting of an hour's length, I break the stillness by asking:

"Mr. Snow, did you order that coal I spoke to you about?"

"What did you say, my dear?" he asked, after a few minutes silence.

"Did you order that coal I spoke to you about?"

"Indeed, my dear, I am sorry, but I forgot all about it. It shall come to-morrow."

Another hour's silence, which is relieved by the baby's crying, and rather liking a noise of that sort, I made no effort to quiet him.

"My dear," says Mr. Snow, after he had cried a minute or so, "you had better give the baby some catnip tea to quiet him; he troubles me."

The baby is still; another hour passes without a breath of noise. Becoming tired, I take a lamp and retire for the night, leaving Mr. Snow so engaged with his papers that he does not see me leave the room. Toward midnight he comes to bed, and just as he has fallen to sleep the baby takes a notion to cry again. I rise as quietly as possible, and try to still him. While I am walking the room with a small Snow in my arms, our next—a boy of three years—begins to scream at the top of his lungs. There is no other course but to call Mr. Snow, so I say:

"Mr. Snow! Mr. Snow!"

The third time he starts up, and cries: "What, Tom! more copy?"

As though I was Tom, that little imp, running about the office. I reply tartly:

"No, I don't want any more copy—I have had enough of that to last me my life-time—I want you to see what Tommy is crying about."

Mr. Snow makes a desperate attempt to arouse himself; as Tommy stops to take a breath, he falls to sleep again, leaving me to pace the room in much vexation as I can comfortably contain. The next morning at breakfast, when I give Mr. Snow an account of the last night's troubles, he says:

"Indeed, my dear, I am very sorry the children trouble you."

This is always the way. If I complain, it is, "indeed, I am very sorry." But should the very same thing occur the subsequent night, directly before his eyes, very likely he would not see or know anything about it, unless it happened to interrupt his train of ideas. Then he would propose catnip tea; but before I can get it into the infant's stomach, he will be far away into the realms of thought, leaving me not a little vexed at his stupidity. He knows the nature of every paper published in England or the United States, but he cannot, for the life of him, tell the names of his children. He knows precisely the years of every American journal, but does not know the age of his own baby. He knows how every contributor looks, but I do not believe he can tell whether my eyes are black or blue. They say Mr. Snow is getting rich. All I know is, he gives me money to clothe our boys, and that too, without a complaint of poverty. I hope the world is right in opinion, and when I am satisfied it is, I shall advise him to resign his editorial honors and spend a few months in becoming acquainted with his wife and children. The little ones will feel flattered in making the acquaintance of so literary a man.

—Do the young people ever think that they will be old; that they will soon feel that the grasshopper is a burden, and fear is in the way? Only a few short years ago, that aged man and feeble woman were young, strong and full of life; their loving hearts were gushing with tenderness and care for the little ones, who now stand in their places. Do not jostle that aged couple out of your pathway, but rather lift them with tender care over the rough, declining road. You may have forgotten how carefully they kept your tender feet from stumbling, and with what care they watched your advancing steps. But they have not forgotten, and the time will come when you will be forcibly reminded of it by the love you have for your own little ones. Will they hand you the same bitter cup to drink that you pour out for that aged father and stricken mother? Verily, "with what measure you mete, it shall be measured to you again." Think of the anxious days and nights your mother has watched by your sick bed; remember her loving care, her patience and long suffering with your fretfulness, and then let the blush of shame dye your brow, that you should be impatient or unkind to her, now that she is old. Old folks are such a trial! Yes, they know it and they feel it, and so will you be just such a trial to your children in the days that will surely come; ay, and you will remember, too.

—What do they want to send another Minister to England for? Haven't they got Winslow?—New Bedford Mercury.

Presidential.

The Cincinnati Times from its outlook views Presidential matters in this light:

"To those who know anything of the situation it is apparent that Senator Morton will come out of the first ballot, in the Cincinnati convention, with something in the neighborhood of 160 votes and with Blaine close behind him. On the second ballot will commence the real war. Mr. Curtis' 55 delegates will desert Conkling and join Blaine. The remaining 55 votes of New York, backed by the 58 of Pennsylvania, (113 in all,) will then desert their State candidates and go together against Blaine for—somebody. If that somebody shall be Hayes, as there is good reason to believe it will, then with his 44 votes from Ohio, and his other scattering support, the nomination of the Ohio candidate is a "fixed fact." If the New York and Pennsylvania strength goes elsewhere, it will be very likely to carry the nomination with it.

This is the situation, and none are more keen to see it than the Blaine men. We do not wish to be understood, here, as antagonizing the nomination of Mr. Blaine. While it is but natural that we should have preferences in our own direction, we are glad to confess that the ex-Speaker is a very valuable man, and, barring his trouble with New York, would make a strong candidate. What we are after now, however, is simply to indicate the elements of strife in the convention. Mr. Blaine's friends then, we repeat, are quick to recognize the danger of this combination against him. Their primary object is, of course, to increase their own strength at the expense of Morton's; but their secondary one, and hardly of less importance than the first, is to so diminish the strength of Governor Hayes as to leave him less dangerous in case New York and Pennsylvania come to his rescue. To this end Mr. Bristow's name is talked up, and that is exactly all there is in the Bristow movement in this quarter—that is the real secret of the Gazette's quasi support of his candidacy.

It is well that this matter should be understood by the republicans of Ohio at once and fully. Their chances for carrying the convention in favor of the candidate of their choice are very brilliant, and are threatened only by treachery where they had the best right to be secure from it—the treachery of a republican paper in their own State. The acceptability of Governor Hayes to New York is one of the brightest features of the contest. The New York Times, of April 3, in writing up the Presidential candidates, said:

Governor Hayes would certainly carry Ohio if nominated, and there is no reason why he should not be as strong in New York as any candidate without the State. The democracy must carry New York to get a President. Hayes would have a good impetus from victory in his State in October.

This is but one of scores of testimonials to Gov. Hayes' availability; and, in case either Blaine or Morton do not over-top the other by such force as to defy an adverse combination, the prospect for Gov. Hayes is better than that of any other candidate yet named, provided he holds together here the support that he is expected to."

Per contra, the Aurora (Ill.) Herald shrewdly says: "It would not be at all strange if the convention should unite on Washburne, of Illinois. He would do more than any other man to unite the old party; and with some such man as George W. Curtis, of New York, for Vice President, the country would be assured that the country meant reform in earnest, in addition to the great amount of talk now being done in that direction."

The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent makes up the following statements of what from present indications promises to be the result of the first ballot at Cincinnati:

For Mr. Blaine—Maine, New Hampshire, part of Massachusetts (say 18 votes out of 26,) Rhode Island, 10 votes from New York, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Louisiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, California, Oregon, Nevada and the nine Territories—in all 256 votes.

For Mr. Morton—Indiana, Missouri, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Texas, Tennessee, West Virginia, Georgia, Florida and the District of Columbia—total, 188 votes.

For Gov. Hartranft—Pennsylvania's 58 votes.

For Gov. Hayes—Ohio's 44 votes.

For Mr. Conkling—About 50 votes from New York and possibly the 18 votes of New Jersey.

For Bristow—Vermont, Connecticut, part of Massachusetts, a few votes from New York, South Carolina, if the Chamberlain party controls the convention, and the Kentucky delegation—less than 75 votes in all. This is a very small showing, but it must be borne in mind that the above estimates in the case of the other candidates are based upon the probable success of the organized efforts being made in their behalf, while Mr. Bristow's candidacy depends entirely upon the breaking down of these organizations by the force of public opinion. He is not around trying to bag delegates like Mr. Blaine or Mr. Morton, and if he succeeds it will be because the snares of those experienced fowlers will be swept away by the rising gale of the popular will. Mr. Bristow will therefore prove either a very weak candidate or an irresistible one. It seems certain that he has broken in upon Mr. Blaine's forces in New England, and if he can do the same thing in Illinois and the North West, and can get two-thirds of the Ohio delegation on the second ballot, the tide might set in his favor too powerfully to be turned. It must be admitted, however, that the prospects, as viewed from a Washington level, strongly favor Mr. Blaine.

Mr. Morton is likely to attain his maximum strength on the first ballot. There is no possibility of growth, and his nomination is an almost impossible contingency. Some of the oldest republicans in Congress declare that it would disrupt the party. A New York member, very much respected for his good judgment, said to-day that at least twenty of his fellow republicans had told him that if Morton were nominated they would refuse to support him. As for Mr. Conkling, no one here, unless it be the Senator himself and Mr. A. B. Cornell, who is now in Washington, regards his nomination as a possibility worth taking into account. Gov. Hayes is just a possibility, and a rather remote one at that. If Mr. Blaine should fail to get a majority of the delegates, if the Bristow movement should come to nothing, and if the Morton men, the Conkling men, and Mr. Cameron's Pennsylvania delegation should join the Ohio delegation, Gov. Hayes could be nominated.

War with Mexico.

Great excitement prevails in Texas because of the arrest of Mr. Diamond, an American citizen, in New Laredo, Mexico, by Pueblo Quintano, commander of the Federal forces of Mexico. Quintano demanded money from Diamond, who refused, when he was imprisoned, with the assurance that if money was not forthcoming he would be shot. Diamond sent for the Commercial Agent, who protested against such an outrage, but without effect. He crossed to this side and reported the facts to Major Merriam, commanding the post. Major Merriam, with the United States Commercial Agent, recrossed to New Laredo and interviewed Quintano, who stated that if Diamond's store was broken up and robbed he would not be responsible. Merriam asked Quintano if he stated that officially or as a threat. Quintano replied that he did not want to talk about it. Merriam told Quintano he would have his command in readiness to protect American citizens. Quintano said: "Do as you please." The revolutionary party made a move on New Laredo and attacked Quintano at daybreak, Monday morning, and after fighting two hours were repulsed.

At the request of the Deputy United States Marshal, Major Merriman planted a twelve-pounder on the bank of the river, and the Mexicans opened a hot fire from New Laredo on our guard at the ferry, and they were compelled to withdraw. The fire was then concentrated upon the gunner, whereupon Col. Saxton threw two shells into New Laredo, Mexico, from his twelve pounder, which silenced the Mexican fire on our soldiers and American citizens.

Suspected Murder.

About half-past six o'clock Sunday night Silas H. Cutting, foreman of a section on the Northern Railroad, who lives at the Potter place in Andover, went to his home under the influence of liquor. He had been in the company of Edward Drury all day, separating from him about six P. M. Cutting went to bed, and his wife says she found him lying at the foot of the stairs at five o'clock Monday morning, in an insensible condition and bleeding from wounds in the head; also from the nose and ears. She could not arouse him, so called a man named Corey, who lives a quarter of a mile away. Her excuse for not calling on nearer neighbors was that, being in liquor, she was afraid that the railroad company would discharge him if they heard it. No one but Corey and a man named Prescott knew of the affair until about 10:30 A. M., when one of the neighbors called in to see him and found him bleeding. Surgical aid was then called, but the man died at three P. M., unconscious to the last. His skull was fractured, and when found he had on nothing but his shirt. Nothing is known of the whereabouts of Drury since they separated. It is reported that he called at Cutting's house several times in the evening, and at 10 o'clock went to the hotel for liquor, but was ordered away. It is also reported that he was seen about five o'clock Monday morning by a man, going toward Cilley Village, and that he was walking rapidly, occasionally looking behind him. It is claimed by some that Cutting fell down stairs. His wife says she heard a noise in the night, but thought it was from cats in the shed. She did not sleep with her husband, but in a room down stairs. It is said that from the appearances on the floor, it does not seem probable that such injuries could have resulted from a fall. Some express the opinion that the wounds were inflicted by a club. The deceased was about forty years of age. Drury has no particular occupation, but has worked at odd jobs during the winter. Both men were in the habit of drinking, and Drury was considered ugly when under the influence of liquor.

The Constitutional Convention.

In voting to call a constitutional convention the people of New Hampshire have opened up a subject which should be productive of beneficial results. The legislature will doubtless call the convention to meet in January, and the day of the Presidential election will furnish a convenient opportunity for the choice of members of the convention. Although New Hampshire has had an economical government on the whole, measures may be adopted which will tend to lessen expense and to equalize various branches of the State government.

The plans already proposed include a change from annual to biennial elections, the reduction of the number of representatives in the lower House from 385 to about two-thirds that number, the enlargement of the Senate from twelve to the neighborhood of forty, and other schemes of less importance. Those we have named are improvements urgently needed. Politics cease to be enjoyable when there is no month of the year in which to rest from the strife which partisanship in New Hampshire has made so constant. Biennial elections will be so beneficial that it seems that the common sense of both political parties will tend to the needed reform. The House of Representatives is a mob, in the hands of a score of leaders. When organized each member must instinctively ask: "Oh, why did I leave my wife and home; and why did I leave my baby?" to become a nonentity in a mass meeting. The sessions would be just as short with 250 members as with 385, business would be completed just as readily, and the people would be as well satisfied—while the State would save $300 per day during each session. The Senate should by all means be largely increased. When seven men may control the action of the higher branch of the legislature there is less safety from corrupt influences. The Senate could safely be increased to thrice its present size.

The present difficulties in the way of amending the constitution should be removed, and proposed amendments put before the people by a two-thirds vote of both branches of the legislature could be adopted by a majority of voters voting at any regular or special election.

There is an objectionable law upon the statute books which should be modified. By its conditions, men living in cities who move from one ward to another, even if it be but across the street, lose their right to vote until they have resided six months in their new location. The law should be changed so that such citizens should retain their right to vote in the ward from which they have moved until they have gained a right to vote in the ward of their new residence.

News and Notes.

Florida has 3,000 men who have not voted since the downfall of the Confederacy.

It is stated that a crew composed in part of the winners of the Cambridge crew will go to Philadelphia. It is not probable that Oxford will participate. A crew from Dublin University and the Dublin Boat Club will also go to Philadelphia.

Some 2000 tons of a great rock at Bragg's Bluff, Lookout Mountain, Tenn., fell on Saturday, striking the mountain road at the foot of the bluff. It was dashed to pieces, and hundreds of fragments, many ten feet or more in thickness, were hurled down the mountain side, destroying trees and shaking the earth for a great distance. The rest of the ledge is expected to fall soon.

Saturday morning, W. F. Fields, a Post Office clerk at New Haven, Conn., while duck shooting off shore, lost an oar and was carried out into the Sound. He is supposed to be lost, although some think an unknown schooner bound eastward picked him up.

The Senate has passed the silver bill with amendment.

Only a month now remains before the opening of the Centennial Exhibition.

Mrs. George Collins, of Rumney, attempted suicide by cutting her throat with a butcher knife. Cause insanity.

Schooner J. C. Russ, Capt. Norton, at Providence from Hoboken, reported carrying away fore boom and unshipping fore gaff by jibing in a stiff breeze to assist a young man in a boat, Saturday morning. He had apparently been blown off the land, and was supposed to have been a duck-shooter; he had a handkerchief set on an oar, as a signal of distress, and as the schooner neared him the captain called to him to stand by to jump and never mind his boat. He did jump and caught the schooner's rail, but had the boat's painter fast around his waist and was dragged overboard by the weight of the boat and drowned. The unfortunate man was doubtless Mr. W. W. Fields, a New Haven post office clerk, already reported as having been blown to sea in a boat. His age was nineteen years.

Eliza Jones, a servant girl at Montclair, N. J., recently became insane through attending revival meetings, and last week mounted the reservoir at Cliff Side, took off her clothes and commenced to sing and pray, until on Saturday she was removed to the asylum.

Four disguised burglars entered the house of John Drew in Huntington, Conn., on the morning of the 4th inst., took $50 in money, wantonly destroyed furniture, etc., frequently threatening to kill Mr. Drew, who is now 77 years old, and scaring him by firing pistols over his head.

Political.

The investigation of the charges against the postmaster of St. Louis, that he assessed employes for political purposes, shows the charges unfounded.

The New York World says of Mr. Bristow: "His integrity is admitted, and his shield of honor is so thick that it has turned the hoofs of mules and mollified the bristles of hogs."

Robert Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, is talked of in Illinois for republican candidate for Secretary of State.

The Buffalo (N. Y.) Express, heretofore a strong advocate of Conkling for President, has changed hands and now supports Blaine.

Blaine can at the present moment add to his list of State Virginia. According to the New York Times correspondence, he is "reaping a harvest from seed diligently sown by his own hand; Mr. Conkling is backed by a portion—not the best portion, either—of the office-holders under the United States; while Secretary Bristow, though at the head of the most important and powerful department of the Government, receives considerable support which is in no way stimulated by patronage."

—"Young man," said the revivalist, addressing the swearer, "how hot do you suppose hell is?" The workman recognized his questioner, and placing his arms akimbo, and looking him squarely in the face, said "Well, Mr. Finney, I suppose it's so hot there that if anybody brought you a spoonful of melted iron you'd swear 'twas ice-cream." Mr. Finney had nothing more to say.

PULMOCINE.

TO MY PATIENTS!
DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,
Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious
Dental Practitioner.
DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.
I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.
If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.
N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Improvements.

Most of the growth of the city of late years, has been between Middle and South Streets, and all houses built anywhere in that new section have found ready rent or sale. The pending improvements on Richards Avenue; the proposed construction of a park and a footbridge leading thereto, with a driveway around the South Pond, and the cleansing of the same, will increase the interest and attractions of that southwesterly region. We understand that the executors of Mrs. Cutts' will have not changed their designs as to completing the Avenue with crushed stone, etc., but are only awaiting the result of a further claim for land damages on the part of some of the abuttors.

The location of Miss Morgan's flourishing school on Miller Avenue, and of the large greenhouses on Broad Street, and the proposed location of the Old Ladies' Home on Broad and South streets, will serve still further to interest the public in this westward movement, in which the most of mankind is engaged, the world over. It is a significant fact that what few and sparse gifts of land, etc., have been made in Portsmouth, for the public benefit, have mostly laid in this section; as note Mr. Elwyn's gift of park land, Mrs. Cutts' donation for the Avenue, and now Mr. Myers' gift of a lot for the Old Ladies' Home. Another lot for the same or a similar object, and in the same vicinity,—further up on South Street, opposite Wibird,—was also given conditionally many years ago, but reverted to the heirs of the donor on account of not being built upon within the term of years stipulated—and was sold, and is now valuable as the site of the ice pond and business of the heirs of Mr. Simon Marston.

Originally, Portsmouth residents constructed all their good houses with liberal gardens and grounds, but of late years the tendency has been to huddle all the dwellings together; and while building in-and-in, like close breeding, doubtless has its advantages, yet we think the public interest and advancement would have been more promoted by extending the city proper far more widely, rather than crowd so large a portion of our population within the limits of a single square mile, and pull down or remove so many good houses to build others in their places, or crowd new ones in between others, where before was none too much room for comfort, safety, good health and good looks.

The Eastern Railroad.

The managers of the Eastern Railroad, who have frequently shown their incapacity, go on from bad to worse. The Globe describes the latest faux pas:

The Eastern Railroad seems to have met with its customary hard luck once more, or possibly it may be lack of proper management, in losing all its line freight. During the past few years that road has controlled the greater portion of all the line freight from the West, with the exception of the Hoosac Tunnel line, that being a State affair. It will be remembered that in September last the President of the Eastern Railroad, deeming the line business not very remunerative, and doubtless wishing to change arbitrary rates on freight from the West, sent in to all the lines the resignation of the Eastern Railroad, which was accepted with but one exception. In looking over the field some time after it was found that the Grand Trunk road would have a monopoly of all the Portland, Portsmouth, Great Falls, Newburyport and Lawrence freight, and as a consequence the Eastern and Boston & Maine roads were finally induced to bill through freight over their roads at pro rata rates, with the distinct understanding that there should be no solicitation on the part of the respective agents of the roads for freight; that all freight should go over the line designated by the consignor or consignee, and that all unconsigned freight should be equally divided between the two roads. This state of affairs continued for some time; both roads were doing well, until Mr. W. J. C. Kenney, General Freight Agent of the Boston & Maine road, found that he was losing considerable of his freight, and upon investigation ascertained that the General Freight Agent of the Eastern road had been soliciting freight from consignees, and a large quantity of freight had been diverted from the Boston & Maine to the Eastern. This being a clear violation of the contract, the General Freight Agent of the Boston & Maine, at the monthly meeting of the General Freight Agents, presented a formal application for the line business which the Eastern road had once given up and afterwards fought so hard to get. The resignation of the Eastern Railroad from the Hoosac Tunnel line was accepted, and without a dissenting vote it was decided to give to the Boston & Maine road all the freight for competing points on the two roads that may pass over the following lines: Red, White, Blue, Kansas Southern, International, and Hoosac Tunnel. This action will take from the Eastern Railroad an immense amount of freight traffic, which at the present time they can ill afford to lose. It was a sharp fight for the supremacy, and the matter is probably not yet ended.

Jottings.

The Boston English Opera Company, which gave such general satisfaction in the lecture course last winter, at the request of a large number of citizens will present Wallace's beautiful English opera, "Maritana," at the Temple this (Wednesday) evening. The friends of Col. J. Horace Kent, (and they are numerous in all sections of Rockingham county) are very earnest in pressing him to be a candidate for Sheriff of this county. Col. Kent has been an indefatigable worker in his present position as Special Agent of the Treasury Department, and has brought many a counterfeiter to grief. With his varied experience in this position and as City Marshal of Portsmouth, he has displayed such rare faculties and sagacity as to win the commendation and respect of all his associates and friends. As Sheriff, he would have no superior among his recent predecessors, and we know of no man in the county who has such warm support. Should Col. Kent accede to the wishes of those who are desirous for him to succeed Sheriff Rowe, he will be the most formidable of candidates.

The meeting of the Temperance Reform Club will be held this (Wednesday) evening at Franklin Hall, when an address will be given by Mr. W. E. H. Fentress, and other members of the Club. Seats free. This meeting is held Wednesday instead of Thursday evening, so as not to interfere with the entertainment of the Portsmouth Dramatic Company.

A miniature steamer, twenty inches in length, built and designed by Mr. Alberto C. Fernald, made her trial trip on the river on Tuesday afternoon, and attracted considerable attention. The boiler and engines worked to perfection, driving the little craft through the water at a lively rate, although the river was quite rough for the little "Fire Fly," as she is named.

The Band of Hope will be reorganized at Sons of Temperance Hall, this (Wednesday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. The boys and girls will govern themselves accordingly.

Steamer Faraday was reported off the coast, splicing the break in the Direct Cable, or looking for it, on Tuesday.

Gov. Bedle, of New Jersey, has appointed Col. William H. Hackett of this city a Commissioner of Deeds for the State of New Jersey.

The celebrated Berger family and Sol Smith Russell are advertised to appear here on Friday evening. This concert company has been accorded much praise by the press, in cities where its entertainments have been given, and our people should not neglect the opportunity now offered of enjoying their excellent concert. The Boston Redpath Lyceum Bureau, in announcing the appearance of the company, recently, at Beethoven Hall in that city, said: "It is one of the most delightful drawing-room entertainments ever brought to this city. It comprises the well-known and universally popular Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell, the famous humorist, who is too great a favorite here to need special mention. His character delineations are simply unrivalled, and his reception last night by a large and cultivated audience was most enthusiastic. We can guarantee to the patrons of the Lyceum course an entertainment of the very highest order, in which there is not a single objectionable feature, and which, for artistic merit, we have no hesitation in saying has never been equalled by any like combination."

Kissing the Bride.

The custom of kissing the bride at a wedding is of great antiquity, and while among the most refined classes it has fallen into disuse, it is still insisted on by many people with great vigor. A very amusing story is told of a Kentucky backwoodsman who had, after a long and ardent courtship of the belle of one of the Kentucky cities, won her for a bride. She had, for along time, wavered in her choice, undecided whether to take him or a gentleman of wealth and position in the city, but finally chose the humbler lot in obedience to her heart. The wedding was celebrated in great style, and the manly groom was almost as much admired for his colossal proportions and athletic symmetry as was the bride for her exceeding loveliness. Among the guests was the unsuccessful suitor, who was well aware of the jealousy with which the groom had regarded him, but who had overcome his chagrin at his failure and was sincerely anxious to congratulate the bride. One by one the guests offered their good wishes and hearty kisses, while the groom look on with approval and delight. At length, among the rest, came the rejected lover. The young groom watched him keenly, but without the least animosity in his expression. The unfortunate rival felt the delicacy of his position, and not caring to provoke the husband's ire he did not proffer the salute which was customary. As he was giving place to others after wishing the newly-married pair well, the groom grasped his arm with his iron fingers, and in a low tone said: "She's my wife, and I propose to see that she is treated as well as my wife should be treated. If you don't kiss her I'll break every bone in your body." Rather than quarrel the gentleman kissed the not unwilling bride, and the groom was satisfied.

Depressing Maladies.

Dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness, as well as disorders of the nervous system and the organs of urination, re-act by sympathy upon the brain, frequently causing a degree of mental depression not remotely akin to insanity. The surest way to banish the "blues" thus produced is to use that unfailing antidote to bodily irregularity and gloominess of mind, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. A course of the great corrective tonic promptly removes the maladies above specified, as well as many others, and restores the cheerfulness which is such a characteristic attendant of good health. It likewise imparts a vigor to the constitution which is its surest safeguard against disease, the best guarantee of a long life. The aged and infirm, as well as the sick and convalescent, derive inexpressible comfort and one fit from its use.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR SORE THROAT, PULMOCINE CORDIAL is for sale at the UNION STORE, Market Street. Price 50 cents per bottle.

☞ That yellow tinge of the complexion is a sure indication of bile in the blood. It is effectually removed by using GILBERT'S EXCELSIOR LIVER LOZENGES.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable society of London was sixty years accumulating $35-600,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premiums Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

PULMOCINE

Daily Chronicle.

—The mechanic arts never offered so great inducements to the young men of ability and energy as they do now. Fifty years ago carpenters and mason were mere builders of cheap houses of certain stereotyped shapes and plans; to-day every builder, with any ability as a designer, has more work offered him than he can possibly do. Fifty years ago every blacksmith was a mere mechanic; to-day the skilled worker in metal has daily occasion to handle machinery, and has, consequently, unequalled opportunities for devising improvements, and for reaping the fruit thereof.

At the present time there is a steady need and demand for labor-saving apparatus of every sort, and the inventors thereof, if men of ordinary business sense, are richly rewarded for their ingenuity. Manufacturers of fine machinery of all kinds are seriously crippled by lack of intelligent laborers; the practical details of the mining interests of the country are in the hands of men who have seldom enough intelligence to properly fill their places; our simplest houses are differently built, our farms are seldom worked to their full capacity; able men in all these departments come speedily and promptly into notice, and attain wealth and social position, and yet young men shun all these departments of industry. It is a noteworthy fact that, at the same time, great numbers of rich men are endeavoring to place their sons as apprentices with competent machinists, mining corporations, builders, and mechanics in general. These same rich men are the most trustworthy indicators of the business signs of the times, and young men in general will do well to consider the meaning of their action.

—Boston leads all other cities in payments for postage, the sum amounting to $951,284 gross, or $3.80 each person. New York pays $3.16 and Chicago $3.03. Taking the average of twenty-two cities with the highest postal receipts, and it is found that the citizens pay an annual per capita of $2.01 for postage.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets, $1 930 150 .05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1300; ISSUED, 1867; AGE, 29.

Total premiums paid in 29 years,
less dividends,	$338 91
Average cost per year,	11 62
Cost for 1875,	5.18

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package was ever ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report good health. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have since recommended them to several and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and I truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, consequently suffering much and being unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal of money, without obtaining good relief, and concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. I took them according to the bills, like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to keep them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think the best way to do is for those who have tried them, who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rosindale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

MARK TWAIN'S DUEL.

The only merit I claim for the following narrative is that it is a true story. It has a moral on the end of it, but I claim nothing on that, as it is merely thrown in to curry favor with the religious element.

After I had reported a couple of years on the Virginia City, Nevada, Daily Enterprise, they promoted me to be editor-in-chief, and I lasted just a week by the watch. But I made an uncommonly lively newspaper while I did last, and when I retired I had a duel on my hands and three horse-whippings promised me.

The latter I made no attempt to collect; however, the story concerns only the former. It was the old "flush times" of the silver excitement, when the population was wonderfully wild and mixed; everybody went armed to the teeth, and all slights and insults had to be atoned for with the best article of blood your system could furnish. In the course of my editing I made trouble with a Mr. Lord, the editor of a rival paper. He flew up about some little trifle or other that I said about him—I do not remember now what it was. I suppose I called him a thief, or a body-snatcher, or an idiot, or something like that; I was obliged to make the paper readable, and I couldn't fall in my duty to a whole community of subscribers merely to save the exaggerated sensitiveness of an individual. Mr. Lord was offended, and replied vigorously in his paper. Vigorously means a great deal when it refers to a personal editorial in a frontier newspaper. Duelling was all the fashion among the upper classes in that country, and very few gentlemen would throw away the opportunity of fighting one. To kill one man in a duel caused a man to be even more looked up to than to kill two men in the ordinary way. Well, out there if you abused a man and that man did not like it, you had to call him out and kill him, otherwise you would be disgraced. So I challenged Mr. Lord, and I did hope he would not accept; but I knew perfectly well that he did not want to fight, and so I challenged him in the most violent and implacable manner. And then I sat down and snuffed and snuffed till the answer came. All the boys—the editors—were in the office "helping" me in the dismal business, and telling about duels and discussing the code with a lot of aged ruffians who had experience in such matters, and altogether there was a loving interest taken in the matter that made me unspeakably uncomfortable. The answer came—Mr. Lord declined. Our boys were furious, and so was I on the surface.

I sent him another challenge, and another, and the more he did not want to fight the more bloodthirsty I became. But at last the man's tone began to change. He appeared to be waking up. It was becoming apparent that he was going to fight me after all. I ought to have known how it would be—he was a man who could never be depended upon. Our boys were jubilant. I was not, though I tried hard to be.

It was now time to go out and practice. It was the custom there to fight duels with navy six-shooters at fifteen paces—load and empty till the game for the funeral was secure. We went to a ravine just out of town and borrowed a barn door for a target—borrowed it from a gentleman who was absent—and we stood his barn door up, and stood a rail on the end against the middle of it to represent Lord, and put a squash on top of the rail to represent the head. He was a very tall, lean creature, the poorest sort of material for a duel; nothing but a line shot could fetch him, and even then he might split your bullet. Exaggeration aside, the rail was, of course, a little too thin to represent the body accurately, but the squash was all right. If there was any intellectual difference between the squash and his head it was in favor of the squash.

Well, I practiced and practiced at the barn door and could not hit it; and I practiced at the rail and could not hit that; and I tried for the squash and could not hit that. I would have been entirely disheartened but that occasionally I crippled one of the boys, and that gave me hope.

At last we began to hear pistol shots near by in the next ravine. We knew what that meant! The other party was out practicing too. Then I was in the last degree distressed, for of course they would hear our shots and then send over the ridge, and the spies would find my barn door without a wound or mark, and that would simply be an end to me; for of course the other man would immediately become as bloodthirsty as I was.

Just at that moment a little bird, no larger than a sparrow, flew by and lit in a bush about thirty paces away, and my little second, Steve Gillis, who was a dead shot with a pistol—much better than I was—snatched out his revolver and shot the bird's head off. We all ran to pick up the game and sure enough, just at this moment, some of the other duelists came reconnoitering over the little ridge. They ran to our group to see what the matter was, and when they saw the bird Lord's second said:

"That was a splendid shot. How far off was it?"

Steve said with some indifference:

"Oh, no great distance. About thirty paces."

"Thirty paces! Heavens alive! Who did it?"

"My man—Twain."

"The mischief he did! Can he do it often!"

"Well, yes. He can do it about four times out of five."

I knew the little rascal was lying, but I never said anything. I never told him so. He was not of a disposition to invite confidence of that kind, so I let the matter rest. But it was a comfort to see those people look sick, and see their jaws drop when Steve made that statement. They went off and got Lord and took him home; when we got home, half an hour later, there was a note saying that Mr. Lord peremptorily declined to fight.

We found out afterward that Lord hit his mark thirteen times in eighteen shots—if he had put those thirteen bullets into me it would have narrowed my sphere of usefulness a good deal. True, they could have put pegs in the holes and used me for a hat-rack; but what is a hat-rack to a man who feels he has intellectual powers?

I have written this true incident of my history for one purpose only—to warn the youth of to-day against the practice of dueling, and to plead with them to war against it. I was young and foolish when I challenged the gentleman, and thought it very fine and grand to be a duelist and stand upon the "field of honor." But I am older and more experienced now, and am inflexibly opposed to the dreadful custom. I am glad, indeed, to be able to lift up my voice against it. I think it is a bad, immoral thing. It is every man's duty to do all he can to discourage dueling.

If a man were to challenge me I would go to that man and take him by the hand and lead him to a retired room—and kill him.

Blaine.

The following appears as a double-leaded editorial in the Indianapolis Sentinel of April 11th:

"J. C. Harrison, a prominent banker of this city, is in possession of a secret, the exposure of which will forever blast the prospects of a certain candidate for the Presidency. It is this: An entry appears in the minutes of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, of Dec. 16, 1871, showing that $64,000 of the company's money found its way into the hands of some person who had no right to it. At a meeting of the Board of Directors in 1872, Mr. Harrison, who has been a member of this Board for a number of years, through the influence of Senator Morton, introduced a resolution calling for a committee to investigate and report who received this large sum of money, and all the circumstances attending its disbursement. No sooner had this been done than Mr. Rollins, the Secretary of the Board, quietly went to Mr. Harrison and said: "You must withdraw that resolution. An investigation will involve Mr. Blaine and defeat his re-election. He got the money." The resolution was withdrawn. These facts are known to Mr. Wilson of Iowa, who was present at the time the resolution was introduced and withdrawn, as a member of the Board of Directors. It is proper to say that a lot of worthless Arkansas Railroad bonds were deposited as collateral security for this money. Nobody will be more surprised at the appearance of this article than Mr. Harrison. Mr. Harrison has been asked for a statement of the facts but declines to say more than if brought before a Congressional committee he will tell all he knows about it without concealment."

This story has been in circulation for some time past in private political circles. Mr. Blaine was made acquainted with it, and promptly denied it, stating that it is entirely sensational and unfounded. The story as repeated in Washington circles, was that a draft was paid for Mr. Blaine's benefit by Morton, Bliss & Co., of New York, and was afterwards taken up and paid by E. H. Rollins, Treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad Company. In taking measures recently to correct it Mr. Blaine received the following letters:

NEW YORK, April 6, 1876.

HON. J. G. BLAINE, WASHINGTON, D. C.:

DEAR SIR—In answer to your inquiry we beg to say that no draft, note or check, or other evidence of value, has ever passed through our books in which you were known or supposed to have any interest of any kind, direct or indirect.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
MORTON, BLISS & CO.

Also the following:

OFFICE OF THE U. P. R. R. CO.,
BOSTON, MASS., March 31.

HON. J. G. BLAINE, WASHINGTON, D. C.:

DEAR SIR—In response to your inquiry, I beg leave to state that I have been Treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad Company since April 8th, 1871, and have necessarily known of all disbursements made since that date. During that entire period, up to the present time I am sure that no money has been paid in any way or to any person by the company in which you were interested in any manner whatever. I make this statement in justice to the company, to you and to myself.

(Signed) Very respectfully,
E. H. ROLLINS.

Centennial.

In the Massachusetts Sentinel of April 28, 1790, I find among the marriages: At Portsmouth (N. H.) by the Rev. Dr. Haven, Tobias Lear, Esq., Secretary to the President of the United States to Miss Polly Long, daughter of the late Hon. Peirce Long, Esq.

"Here honored fair shall bloom in manly youth
And Beauty's bosom prove the bed of truth."

I find, also, in the same paper among the deaths: At Philadelphia, the venerable and celebrated philosopher and patriot, his Excellency, Benjamin Franklin, L. L. D., with whose amiable virtues and eminent services the world is too well acquainted to need any attempt of ours at recital.

In Kingston, Rev. Jacob Chapman lately preached a centennial sermon on Mrs. Judith Webster, who recently died after a life of a hundred years and six months. After speaking of her life he spoke of the changes of the community since it began, especially in regard to education and religion.

Near the church in Kingston is the house which was built by Dr. Josiah Bartlett, in 1774, two years before he signed the Declaration of Independence. As he was a member of the Continental Congress in 1776 and the last President and the first Governor of New Hampshire, the old mansion is now full of historic interest.

The house is in an excellent state of preservation, pleasantly situated and has a large number of shade trees, among which are some fine black-walnuts, which he brought from Philadelphia one hundred years ago. The house has always been occupied by his descendants, and now the visitor may meet there his great grandchildren. When we think of the interest he felt in the events and the men of the Revolutionary period, when we think that Washington came here on his visit to Portsmouth, we are glad to find so much bring up the scenes of an hundred years ago.

In Hampton Falls, the house built by Meshach Weare, who was the President of New Hampshire during the Revolution, still remains, though not occupied by his descendants. His daughter told the writer of the troops that came to escort her father to Exeter on his official visits. She also pointed to the room where he slept, when it was known that the British intended to take him a prisoner and carry him on board a ship of war, as it lay off the coast of Hampton, but their plan was frustrated. He went to Albany as one of the commissioners to a treaty with Indians in 1755, and on his return brought home a fine pair of deer horns which were for a long time placed in his front entry, where they hung years after he died.

When LaFayette came to Portsmouth, a young may of nineteen, he called on President Weare, whom he found cutting wood at his door, and was so pleased with his visit that he said "If the Colonies have such Governors, they never can be conquered." The monument erected by the State in a prominent place near the house, and the grave-stones in the old cemetery near by, may still be found by those who are interested in the historical places of this vicinity. G. O.

News and Notes.

The South Carolina republicans have elected fourteen delegates to vote for Senator Morton of Indiana in the Cincinnati convention. Gov. Chamberlain's faction was beaten by a vote of two to one on the organization.

One of the confederate door-keepers of the National House of Representatives, while in a half-drunken condition on the 11th, tried to remove from the members' private gallery the wife of Col. Henry W. Blair, the worthy Congressman from the third district of this State. Col. Blair went to the rescue and striking straight from the shoulder administered a goodly thrashing to the officious ex-rebel, and also put a policeman, who was assisting the door-keeper, hors du combat. Served them right, Colonel.

Hon. William B. Towne, of Milford, committed suicide at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. J. D. Dixwell, on Pond street, West Roxbury, Mass., Monday evening, the 10th, by shooting himself, the ball entering and lodging in the brain, causing death almost immediately. Mr. Towne was President of the Souhegan Bank, of Milford, for a number of years. About a year ago this bank was robbed by parties who at the time escaped, and in fact have never been brought to justice, although a compromise was effected by which a portion of the stolen property was returned. Mr. Towne, as President, acted as receiver and visited Baltimore for that purpose. About two months ago Mr. Towne, being in a somewhat feeble condition, went to Boston and went to the residence of his brother-in-law, where he has at times exhibited symptoms of insanity, although not to such an extent as to create any fears for his personal safety. On Monday evening, however, it appears that he obtained possession of a small pistol with which he succeeded in terminating his existence. As soon as it became known that he had taken his life into his own hands, Dr. Faulkner was summoned, but to no purpose, as the unfortunate man lived but a very short time. The deceased was 63 years of age, and leaves several children, one of whom is a lawyer doing business in Boston.

—"Isn't your husband a little bald?" asked one lady of another, recently. "There isn't a bald hair in his head," was the hasty reply.

—There is economy in travelling on the fast mail trains. You make what you eat go a great deal farther in a given length of time.

—Mr. Gladstone, the distinguished English statesman, said, in a recent address, that hand labor is better paid in England than head labor. Same thing over here, William. A prize-fighter will make more money pounding his fellow-men black and blue, than a goat can earn by butting them clear across the street five or six times a day.—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

—People who sit at their front windows and stare at their neighbors from morning till night will, perhaps, not be deterred by the fact that a South Brooklyn woman in this line of business had her nose frozen fast to the window pane one day last week, and was subsequently obliged to have the tip of it amputated. Nevertheless, the affair cast the radiance of a profound joy over the entire neighborhood.—Brooklyn Argus.

Catarrh is a common disease,—so common that sniffing, spitting, and blowing of the nose, meet us at every turn on the street. Your foot slips in these nasty discharges on the sidewalk and in the public conveyance; and its disagreeable odor, contaminating the breath of the afflicted, renders them offensive to their associates. There is the highest medical authority for stating that with fully one-half, if not two-thirds, of those afflicted with Consumption of the Lungs, the disease commences as Catarrh in the nose or head, the next step being to the throat and bronchial tubes—lastly to the lungs. How important then to give early and prompt attention to a Catarrh! To cure this loathsome disease, correct the system by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which tones it up, cleanses the blood, and heals the diseased glands by a specific influence upon them; and to assist, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche. This is the only way to reach the upper and back cavities where the discharge come from. No danger from this treatment, and it is pleasant to use. The two medicines with instruments are sold by dealers in medecines.

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most successful, medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding tonic, corrective and preventive, are blended some of the most actively invigorating, alterative and blood depurating elements in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known—old rye whiskey. Is it any wonder that easy digestion, regular evacuations, a natural flow of bile, purity of the blood, and cheerfulness of mind, should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are most harmoniously combined and act in perfect union. The faith felt by the medical profession in the restorative efficacy of this medicine, and its power to nullify the influence of malaria, is expressed over the signatures of many eminent physicians, and their expressions of confidence are fully ratified by the people and press.

Use Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It never fails to cure.

Coughs and Colds.—Those who are suffering from Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, &c., should try "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more beneficial and appropriate—this can only be done by the fragrant "Sozodont." For cleansing, beautifying and preserving the teeth, sweetening and purifying the breath it has no equal.

REASONS WHY FARMERS should purchase

The Halladay Wind-Mill!

It is the first reliable self-regulating Wind Mill ever made, and continues to lead the van.

It has stood the test of nearly a quarter of a century, and has gained a reputation as broad as its use extensive.

It is the only wind mill generally adopted on all the railroads.

It is the cheapest wind mill.

The United States Wind Engine and Pump Co. have the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. We are willing to put our mill upon its merits. We ask an investigation of facts and motives. We duly appreciate the patronage and support we have received in the past, and while we solicit a continuance of favors, we shall try to merit them. We are the pioneers in the production of a wind mill adapted to the use of farmers.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,
NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,
TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, any, rather, to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Give 'Em Fair Play.

We are informed that the city authorities propose to procure an indictment of the owners of the South Millpond for maintaining a nuisance, and that the City Solicitor laid the matter before the grand jury on Tuesday. What it will amount to we cannot say; if a nuisance exists there it should be abated at somebody's expense, and quickly; but we cannot see the justice of compelling the owners of the pond to bear the expense of removing a nuisance which they were powerless to prevent, and which would have to-day been the same in kind and nearly the same in degree as it is, had the milldam never been built. The real culprit in the matter is the city, which has allowed the two millponds to be used as receptacles for drainage and waste of all kinds until they are little better than cesspools. The famous cesspool-nuisance at the Creek, which occasioned such powerful scents some years ago and after so much talk was partially abated, arose immediately from the waste matter of the breweries being run into the pond at that point; but the lesson then presented was but poorly learned, for the breweries still run their waste into the pond, privy-vaults and water-closets are drained into it, and even the city sewerage is poured into the same convenient receptacle, so far as it can be. This all tends to the final production of another Creek-cesspool-nuisance on an exaggerated scale, for the filth drained into the pond remains there and would mostly remain there were the milldam removed, as the tide would be very sluggish and would do but little toward removing it. At some time in the future, and not so far in the future as some may imagine, the filth which has for years been accumulating and filling the pond will develope its full strength, and somebody will then have to pay heavily for the city's reckless neglect to keep the pond pure. The case is similar in regard to the South Millpond; if there is a nuisance there the city has made it, in part by not preventing the drainage into it of unwholesome matter by private parties, and in part by the drainage into it of unwholesome matter by the city itself. We cannot see in what respect the owners of the ponds are blamable for their defilement; the city is the real culprit; and we should think the pond owners would have a case against the city for injuring their property and creating a nuisance, much stronger than the city can have against the pond owners for allowing it to be done. Indicting the owners of the South Millpond for maintaining a nuisance seems to us about as just as it would be to punish the wicked frogs for tempting good little boys to play truant from school to stone them.

The Fast services of the South Parish will consist of a vesper service at half past seven, with a sermon by the pastor, and also the observance of the communion in memory of its first institution. All are invited.

Mr. Josiah Jenness, for many years past connected with the Farragut and Atlantic Houses at Rye Beach, died in Rye on the 12th, aged about 79 years. He was an upright, honorable man and good citizen, and throughout his long life enjoyed the confidence and respect of his townsmen and of all others who knew him well enough to know his real worth.

The steamtug Clara Batemen has been thoroughly overhauled and refitted, and is again ready for her Summer's work. She will be commanded by her owner, Capt. Rand, who is well known on the river as a successful pilot and steamboat man, and last season won golden opinions from the many patrons of the Appledore House by his skillful handling of the "Appledore" steamer and his gentlemanly courtesy to the passengers of that boat, he having left the Clara Batemen to take charge of the Appledore during "the season." The Laighton Brothers are again fortunate this year in securing to command their steamer a man who is not only a thoroughly capable and experienced steamboat-skipper but a gentleman as well—Capt. William Robinson, for the last two seasons commander of the steamer "Major." Mr. William Gertin, the skillful machinist and experienced and careful engineer who had charge of the Appledore's engines last year, will occupy the same position this season; and with such officials it is safe to assume that nothing will be neglected which will contribute to the comfort or safety of passengers by the boat. Extensive alterations and improvements are being made about the steamer.

Mr. John W. Gerrish is said to have succeeded in ridding himself of one hundred and fifty pounds of superfluous weight within a year, simply by turning his last tumbler of ale bottom up about a year ago.

A delegation of about one hundred of the Reform Club will visit Dover, to-day, about noon, and will be met at the P. & D. station by the Reform Club of Dover, in a body, and escorted to the City Hall, where very interesting exercises will follow during a good part of the afternoon. A band of music will be in attendance and a very pleasant, entertaining and important season is anticipated.

J. P. Bartlett Esq., the agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York has one of the most useful calendars we have seen. They combine a calendar, blotter, and the cards of the great company with assets of eighty million dollars. A life policy with this company is one of the few securities that has so far no shrinkage to complain of.

The United States Direct Cable has been repaired and telegraphic communication is completely restored.

Police Officer Andrew J. Smith has been indicted for manslaughter by the grand jury,—for accidentally killing William Canty, election day.

To-morrow Night.

The Berger Family, who appear at the Temple Friday evening, are spoken of in the highest terms by the press. They have recently left Providence, where the Daily Star thus speaks of them on the fifth inst. The musical Berger Family and the inimitable comedian, Sol. Smith Russell, appeared at the Opera House last evening and gave one of the best entertainments of the season before a very large audience, considering the terrible weather. The entire programme is novel to the stage. It comes under no recognized dramatic name. It is not variety. It is hardly specialty, but a musical melange, interspersed by a great imitator's exhibition. The music was worthy of a concert hall in every particular, each lady being a fine performer, besides possessing physical beauty of a high order. Anna Teresa Berger's cornet solo is very fine, and Miss Anna Morgan possesses a fine soprano voice, which she displayed to advantage in the favorite, "When the tide comes in." But Sol. Smith Russell is the great attraction. His performances are wonderfully artistic. He never descends to buffoonery, but in perfect style imitates to perfection the foibles of a large class of the community. As "Dorcas Pennyroyal," the belated sister, commonly known as old maid, the make up and facial expression, the graceful efforts to dance the old-time steps, and the bashfulness in telling of love adventures, Mr. Russell fairly outdoes himself and keeps the house in convulsions over the vagaries. The change to "Tommy Boggs," the author of the wonderful composition on the "hoss," fairly astonishes the natives, and the school-boy oratory is given as life itself. Contrasting with this is the imitation of John B. Gough, which everybody recognizes as a fac simile of the great orator. Words fail to express the wonderful powers of this great comedian. At the matinee this afternoon, and at the evening performance, this fine combination will undoubtedly please large audiences.

—Honolulu people say it rains nine days in the week at Hilo, and thirteen months in the year, and once in a great while it rains into the bunghole of a barrel faster than it can flow out at both ends.

—The Toronto Leader relates the following: At the Division Court yesterday, a witness was under examination in the case of an unpaid account. Judge Boyd put the question to him, "What is your occupation?" The witness did not seem to understand the meaning of the word "occupation," and answered with "Eh!" The Judge—"What do you do for a living?" Witness—"Oh, my wife's a dressmaker!"

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $35,600,000. The old Equitable Society of London was forty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

STATE MUTUAL

Life Assurance Co.,

OF WORCESTER, MASS.

ORGANIZED IN 1845.

Assets $1 930 150.05

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is accordingly held by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 1023.

AMOUNT, $1000;	ISSUED, 1847;	AGE, 29.
Total premiums paid in 29 years, less dividends,		$336.91
Average cost per year,		11.62
Cost for 1875,		5.18

The undersigned, having been appointed as Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the novelty and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY Applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of their cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills safely day before yesterday, and have taken two doses for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done me and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Everything I eat, drank, everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth weight in pure gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this phase find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the neck and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I tried everything, spending a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent for one box of Dr. Quain's Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and constipation, and begs me to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. Thus, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefitted. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent its spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, unsidetracked by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows to be honest, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people ready to support its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest measures and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon many of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a sounder and higher platform, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wranglings; will waste no time in replying to the incessant cavils its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most invariable expenditure to procure the fresh and intelligence, the most complete response, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN continues unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Ladies and Gentlemen assured on equal terms.

This Company was organized and has been successfully conducted for over thirty years, under the laws of Massachusetts, and is recommended by the Insurance Commissioners as being one of the very best Life Companies doing business in the State. By its successful and economical management it has made the actual cost (by the payment of large dividends) of a Life Policy very low, as will be seen by the following example, which is taken from many showing as favorable results:

No. 10233.

AMOUNT, $1,000; ISSUED, 1847; AGE, 35.

Total premiums paid in 29 years,	$[illegible]
less dividends.	[illegible]
Average cost per year,	11.62
Cost for 1875,	8.19

The undersigned, having been appointed an Agent for this Company, would respectfully invite the attention of those who realize the importance of Life Assurance as a means of providing for the future, to the advantages offered by the State Mutual Life Assurance Company.

SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1876.

Mr Blaine as a Statesman.

The popular instinct, which is often quicker and sharper than the perception of partisan leaders and pretentious publicists, keenly discerns the strong qualities of Hon. James G. Blaine as the Presidential candidate to lead the republican party to victory in the approaching national contest. His clear comprehension of the national duties and necessities, his thorough appreciation of the vulnerable points of the enemy, and the fearless directness with which he aims his blows, have awakened the popular enthusiasm to a degree that is disturbing the nerves of sleepy conservatives, and exciting the fears of the Confederate politicians of the South, and their democratic allies of the North. His rising popularity has a substantial cause, which timid politicians do not seem to comprehend.

A certain class of individuals, of limited numbers, while admitting that the popular tide is rising in his favor, try to break the force of this fact by asserting that the masses are not capable of correctly estimating him—that he is a sagacious politician, but not a statesman.

Men's standard of statesmanship varies greatly according to temperament and moral and political education. That of some persons, assuming to be judges, is very peculiar. There have been Englishmen who have regarded Sir William Temple a wiser statesman than Lord Chatham. Of the former Macaulay remarks: "We must own that many statesmen who have committed very great faults, appear to us to be deserving more esteem than the faultless Temple. For in truth his faultlessness is chiefly to be ascribed to the dread of all responsibility. He never put himself prominently before the public eye except at conjunctures where he was almost certain to gain and could not possibly lose."

But to all sensible minds the placid, cautious, timid statesmanship of Temple seems diminutive in contrast to the bold measures of cabinet and rugged aggressive parliamentary eloquence of Lord Chatham. Not unfrequently in our political history have these assumptions of superior judgment been made by certain professed teachers of the people. When Daniel Webster, with the massive force of his logic and eloquence, crushed into impalpable dust the errors in political economy and the heresies of Calhoun and Hayne, he was declared to be no statesman, but merely a disturbing agitator, a New England politician not to be followed.

When John Quincy Adams boldly defended the sacred rights of petition in the National House of Representatives, where it had been repeatedly trampled beneath the despotic heel of the Southern and Northern democracy, he was declared to be merely a noisy demagogue who was reopening an unprofitable question and exciting unpleasantness among Southern brethren to the general injury of the country. In the eyes of these good natured quietists, Edward Everett, uttering his polished, elaborate platitudes, which carried with them no lightnings of heated indignation against national injustice, were thought to be more statesmanlike than the bold and scorching words of Charles Sumner on the barbarism of American slavery, and the strong and fearless denunciation of Henry Wilson and Salmon P. Chase against the fugitive slave law. The calm, noble declarations of a "Higher Law," by William H. Seward, were regarded as conclusive evidence of his unfitness for whig leadership, while his bold announcement of the "irrepressible conflict between slavery and freedom" and its endorsement by Abraham Lincoln, in the debate with Stephen A. Douglas, showed these two republicans utterly destitute of statesmanship. Men unaccustomed to the stubborn work of genuine public life, pronounced Millard Fillmore, John Bell, Horatio Seymour and other men of mere platitudes, the most pacific and wise national leaders.

Standing now the most influential member of the republican party of the Union, Mr. Blaine holds a leadership he has fairly won after twenty years of manly, vigorous effort, growing in wisdom and strength with each succeeding year, equal to every occasion on which he is called to play a part. Yet there are those who concede his popularity and the consummate ability and tact with which he confronts, outgenerals and defeats the democratic majority and is leading the republicans to success, yet insist that he is no statesman—that he is only a politician. Very singular ideas these wonderful critics have of statesmanship. What do they really mean by their use of terms? Webster defines a statesman: "A man versed in the arts of government; one eminent for political abilities." Brought to a practical test we doubt if there is another man in the country more thoroughly acquainted with all the forms, methods and workings of the State and national governments of this country than James G. Blaine.

There are men who in action and available power are much less than their written and spoken words. There are others whose speech is less than their deeds. The latter have a reserved force which their words do not measure, but is always made to tell when the hour of effort and trial comes. What Mr. Blaine has accomplished when brought to the test, shows that he does not belong to the former class. He was early in life a political student of remarkable insight and application, then an able and popular journalist with rare opportunities for political culture and experience, repeatedly the Speaker of the Maine House of Representatives, fourteen years a member of Congress, for six years the speaker of the National House of Representatives, with a success equalled by none since Henry Clay sixty years ago occupied the position, and not surpassed by the great Kentuckian himself.

The scope, the power, the success of Mr. Blaine's present leadership of the republican minority, the country now scans for itself and can make up its opinion. With a remarkable memory of all salient facts in the political history of the country, with a knowledge of the men in different sections of the Union surpassed by no living American, with a personal magnetism rarely equalled, he gathers men quickly around him, and holds them with great tenacity. His administrative qualities are of the highest order. With an astonishing capacity for work, all his powers under thorough discipline, with a complete mastery of all necessary details, few men can accomplish so much. A born leader of men, buoyant, resolute, indefatigable, he always proves equal to what is expected of him. If chosen President, his administration would be one of the most able and successful in the history of the government. His would prove a practical, comprehensive, sagacious statesmanship, thus showing how utterly mistaken have been the comments of a special class of critics, that he is a consummate master of political tactics, an able parliamentarian, but no statesman. Fortunate will it be for the country and for the republican party, if he becomes the next National Executive.—Ex-Gov. Dingley in Lewiston Journal.

News and Notes.

The House has concurred in the Senate amendments to the silver currency bill, and the President's signature will make it a law.

An official dispatch from the Governor of Bosnia reports that a battle has taken place near Kjevaes, between the Turkish troops and 1000 insurgents from the Austrian bank of the Save. The insurgents were routed with the loss of three hundred killed and wounded. A portion of the band, pursued by the Turkish troops, recrossed the Save, while others took refuge in the mountains. The Turkish loss was trifling.

The Grand Union, of New York, opposite the Grand Central Depot, one of the most popular and liberally patronized of the New York hotels, is has over 350 elegantly furnished rooms, elevator, steam and all modern improvements. Its close proximity to the depot saves its guests carriage hire and baggage expressage, which is, equal to a day's board. The appointments, service, and cuisine are strictly first class, while the rates of charges are lower than at any other first-class house in the city. All parts of the city are easily reached by cars and stages. Parties visiting New York, or to attend the Centennial, will find this the most convenient hotel in the city to stop at.

W. O. Avery has been sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a fine of $1000.

Gen. John McDonald has been sentenced by Judge Treat of the United States District Court to three years in the penitentiary and $5000 fine.

The Paris correspondent of the Times says a telegram dated Algiers reports a serious engagement between the French troops and insurgents south of Constantine. The latter numbered 4000 infantry and 100 cavalry. The French force was much smaller. The insurgents were completely defeated. About 600 were killed and wounded, including their leader. A large number were taken prisoners. Two French officers were wounded and twenty soldiers killed or wounded.

Senator Hamlin continues to receive the fond attentions of the newspapers. The Utica Observer has embalmed his postage views in verse which will be liable to live a good deal longer than any recollection of the Senator's statesmanship. "As near as we can get at Hamlin's idea of a schedule of postal charges," says the editor, "he would have—a one cent stamp for a circular, a two-cent stamp for a sealed lettair, a ten-cent stamp for a newspapair, and a great big frank for the Senatair. Hump, Hamlin! rip and tear! Go for the friendless newspapair!"

Mr. John Trickey of Boston, a contractor who has furnished timber to the Navy Department, and who, according to testimony of Constructor Varney, examined several weeks ago, was reported to have said that he had paid $3,000 to secure the appointment of Naval Constructor Isaiah Hanscom to be Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, was examined by the House Committee on Naval Affairs, and denied ever having told Varney anything of the kind. In fact, he said that he did not know Varney, and had never had anything to do with him. On cross-examination he admitted that he had used what influence he could command to secure the removal from the head of the Bureau of Construction and Repair of Naval Constructor Lenthal; that his object in doing this was to promote the payment of certain moneys which were due him from the Navy Department, payment of which was prevented or delayed by Lenthal. His influence was exerted through the Senators from Massachusetts and New Hampshire. He had nothing to do with the appointment of Hanscom. It had also been testified that the Government paid higher prices for lumber purchased of Mr. Trickey than those charged private individuals for the same material. This Mr. Trickey denied, and said that the contracts were properly awarded, and that his competitors for furnishing the same material were Mr. Bigler of Newburgh, N. Y., and Mr. Shakespeare of Delaware.

It is a well-known fact in Washington circles that President Grant is in financial embarrassment on account of unfortunate real estate transactions. Recently he sold the great bulk of his real estate in Washington. His last act has been to order the sale of his Long Branch and St. Louis property. He does this, his friends say, because he is resolved to clear off all of his indebtedness, and this is the only way possible for him to do. It shows that he has been much more heavily involved than has been generally supposed.

After the passage of the silver resumption bill, the Government will have four yard-sticks to measure values; the greenback dollar, worth a dollar; the gold dollar, worth 1.13, the silver dollar worth 1.02; the silver halves, quarters, dimes and five cent pieces, worth 93 cents on the dollar.—Terre Haute Express.

Mr. Blaine's Wealth.

[Kennebec Journal.]

"Mr. Blaine is said to be a very rich man! How did he make it? He entered Congress a poor man in 1863." Such is the tenor of a refrain now going from the mouths of the democratic press with sundry modifications and variations. In answer thereto it may be well to say authoritatively that Mr. Blaine is not a very rich man and that he was not a poor man when he entered Congress in 1863. He lives here among his friends and neighbors in the same house he occupied before he entered Congress, and our assessors' list effectually contradicts the silly stories of his large wealth. At the same time Mr. Blaine is very comfortably supplied with this world's goods, and no man in any community has ever used his resources more wisely, more generously, more charitably. At his home these stories pass as the idle wind. It is only in distant States where the facts are unknown that mischief may arise from this circulation of untruths. As a very good answer to these stories we requote the subjoined paragraph from the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Commercial, near which city Mr. Blaine's estate is located. The Commercial says:

"One of the frequent charges made by democratic papers is that Mr. Blaine entered Congress a poor man in 1863, and is now a 'millionaire.' As to his being a millionaire, it is to be presumed the assertion is merely one of those extravagant statements which belong to the literature of political campaigns. But as to his being a 'poor man in 1863,' every one familiar with the coal trade and the value of coal properties in our immediate vicinage on the Monongahela river, knows the assertion to be completely at variance with the fact. Long before 1863, indeed, as far back as the democratic administration of President Buchanan, it was known that Mr. Blaine owned one of the finest coal properties on the Monongahela, which returned a much larger income than a Congressional salary, many years before he was a candidate for Congress. This fact the Alleghany County Registry of Deeds establishes in the most indisputable manner, and we refer to it simply to show how wild and reckless certain papers have grown to be in their charges against conspicuous and influential republicans. It should be stated, moreover, that the business reputation of Mr. Blaine in circles where he is well known, stands very high. Those who are familiar with his attention to details, his industry, his energy, his enterprise and his integrity, find no cause for wonder in the fact that he has become not a millionaire, but a man of independent fortune, destined probably, in the development and advance of his coal property, ultimately to attain to the possession of large wealth."

Political.

Morton, Bliss & Co., on being informed that it was asserted in Washington that Col. Scott on one occasion gave his note for $64,000, and deposited as collateral certain Arkansas bonds, and that later the Union Pacific Railroad Company paid the note and withdrew the bonds from their house, stated that no such transaction ever occurred; that Col. Scott never gave a note of this nature, nor deposited Arkansas bonds. Also when told that Mr. Blaine sold bonds to Scott on account of a friend, the firm stated that it knew nothing as to the matter. Certainly they never had transactions of any kind with Mr. Blaine.

The Virginia republican State convention passed a resolution of preference for James G. Blaine as the nominee of the republicans at Cincinnati. Two delegates were elected from each of the nine Congressional districts, and four from the State at large. A majority of the delegation are claimed for Blaine, and the remainder are divided between Morton and Conkling.

The republican State convention for the election of delegates to the Cincinnati convention will meet at Concord, May 24th.

The Buffalo Blaine Club now claims a membership of 300.

Gen. Winfield S. Hancock is said to be the favorite candidate of the Minnesota democrats for the Presidency.

The election in Jersey City resulted in the election of Charles Seidler, republican, for Mayor, instead of Orestes Cleveland, democrat. Seidler's majority is 300.

Mud doesn't stick to Mr. Blaine any better than it does to Mr. Bristow. The slander peddlers are having a bad season.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Exeter News-Letter, a strong advocate of the nomination of Gen. Bristow, pays the following tribute to Mr. Blaine: "There is probably not a republican in New Hampshire or all New England who believes that Mr. Blaine would fail to make an able, high-minded and statesmanlike executive, who would do honor to the country and advance its character in the eyes of the world."

Congressman Martin L. Townsend says that if the "House of Representatives could nominate a President they would nominate Blaine."

The Buffalo Express denies the statement of its retiring editor, that the management was changed because he could not comply with the wishes of the owners, and support Mr. Blaine for the Presidential nomination instead of Mr. Conkling. It explains that it only favors an unpledged delegation to Cincinnati.

Secretary Bristow's lack of a public record is what is troubling the democratic journals now. They think it would be disgraceful for the country to elect an unknown man to the Presidency. It is a great deal better to have too little record than too much. Mr. Bristow's may be short, but there are no spots on it.—N. Y. Tribune.

Referring to the New York Tribune's estimate that Mr. Blaine will have the New Hampshire delegation at Cincinnati, the Nashua Telegraph says: It is worth something to be assured that the ten eggs to be taken from this State to Cincinnati will hatch out ten chickens for Mr. Blaine, but as at present advised at least half of the ten promise to hatch Bristow chickens.

The democratic journals are not enthusiastic over the proposition to make Judge Davis their candidate for the Presidency. They claim that they have a plenty of good men in their own ranks without again trying the doubtful experiment of going outside the party for a candidate. Nevertheless, the leaders are against them, and Judge Davis clearly has to-day the inside track—whatever he may have three months hence.—N. Y. Tribune.

Instead of yelling right in the face of all reason that Senator Conkling is the only man a New York republican has any right to think of supporting for the Presidency, the Whitehall Chronicle sides with the rebellious gentlemen of the Union League Club, and concludes: "We are forced to the conclusion that the nomination of Secretary Bristow is the most judicious that the republicans can make, and with his nomination victory is morally certain. He could carry the State of New York against any competitor, and although New York is not absolutely necessary to secure a republican success, it is much more prudent to take all precautions to secure its vote."

Unlike the so-called democratic party of this State, the republican party, by its platform meets fully and fairly every question, whether of national or State politics. It lives and moves in the atmosphere of political and religious liberty. It believes in the progress and advancement of man, and looks with undimmed faith to the elevation of the human race. Taking its inspiration from the Declaration of Independence, it announces its belief in the inalienable right of all men "to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," and that the plainest and most essential of all rights is the right of each man to own himself.—Benjamin H. Bristow.

The Cincinnati Commercial says that the only difficulty with Judge Davis is that he died of political old age several years ago.

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most successful, medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding tonic, corrective and preventive, are blended some of the most actively invigorating, alterative and blood depurating elements in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known—old rye whiskey. Is it any wonder that easy digestion, regular evacuations, a natural flow of bile, purity of the blood, and cheerfulness of mind, should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are most harmoniously combined and act in perfect union. The faith felt by the medical profession in the restorative efficacy of this medicine, and its power to nullify the influence of malaria, is expressed over the signatures of many eminent physicians, and their expressions of confidence are fully ratified by the people and press.

Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more beneficial and appropriate—this can only be done by the fragrant "Sozodont." Purchasing, beautifying and preserving the teeth, sweetening and purifying the breath it has no equal.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens o Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the wish of his years of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

Portsmouth Reform Club.

The Temperance Reform Club appears to have become one of our institutions, and has done and is doing a great and good work. This Club, as it happened, is an offshoot of the old Portsmouth Washingtonian Total Abstinence Society—which also still lives, and maintains its regular official organization, preserves its funds, and receives signatures to its pledge, at the office of the Secretary, Mr. A. F. Craig, and the office of Mr. Thorndike.

The Reform Club,—after several attempts in the same direction had failed,—was formed mainly by the persistent and determined efforts of Mrs. A. W. Haven, seconded after a while by Mrs. Thorndike and members of the Women's Temperance League, joining with and working through the meetings of the Washingtonian Society. The first name placed upon the now long roll signed to the iron-clad pledge of the Reform Club, chanced to be that of Hon. Frank W. Miller, a life-long teetotaller, and the son of a teetotaller—the father having for many years contributed largely in various ways to the advancement of the temperance cause generally, and the support and maintenance of the old Society; and the son doubtless having builded far better than he knew, when he inscribed his name at the head of this new scroll of honor.

Then followed in order, as we learn from the record, Mr. Moses Yeaton, Mrs. Haven, Mr. James Sanborn, Miss K. W. Haven; and among the fifty-one names of men and women, both temperate and intemperate, which were enrolled under the temperance reform banner at this first meeting at Sons of Temperance hall we find those of Mr. and Mrs. Thorndike, Messrs. Loyne, Goss, Webber, Craig, W. D. Fernald, and John S. Rand. An interested and public-spirited lady member of the Women's League, Mrs. Davis, presented all who were in attendance and signed the pledge with a button-hole bouquet, at the close of the meeting—and it was remarked, that while this might remind some of the revivalist who held out the attraction of a chromo present to every person who came forward for prayers, still these beautiful flowers of nature were far to be preferred before teddy-blossoms; and the memory of good deeds is indeed fragrant.

The next meeting was held at the Temple, and the twenty names enrolled on that evening are headed by John S. Treat, in a kind of John Hancock chirography, followed by George H. Ham, Amos S. Foster, Joseph Pettigrew and others, both of the temperate and intemperate classes—and it is worthy of note, that there be many both in and out of the Club, who have always voted themselves as "temperate," yet who could not get a single friend or acquaintance to endorse them in that opinion of themselves. "Let him who thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall."

The securing of Mr. Treat for President of the Club, was suggested and carried into effect by Mr. Thorndike, and was a very fortunate and effective step toward success. Rev. Mr. Goss was the only clergyman at first engaged in the work, and he is an officer both in the Reform Club and the Washingtonians; but there are now at least seven of our city pastors enrolled under the Reform banner, and taking part with the Club. The name of Mr. James Janvrin rounded out the first thousand on the list, and already more than one half of the second thousand are secured—fully one-half being actually "reformed" men and women, or at least needing reform from drinking habits.

Who can tell what the end shall be? Let us hope the material and permanent reduction of drunkenness, and its consequent suffering and woe.

The Military Decision.

The following is a copy of the report of the military commission appointed to settle the differences in the Portsmouth Artillery Company:

MANCHESTER, N. H., APRIL 10, 1876.

GEN. IRA CROSS;

General;

The committee appointed by His Excellency Gov. Cheney, to whom were referred the charges and specifications preferred by T. E. O. Marvin, Captain commanding the Portsmouth Artillery Company, against Lieut. David Urch of the same company, having attended to the duty assigned them, would respectfully submit the following report:

The committee met the parties at Portsmouth on Tuesday evening of last week, and after listening to examination and cross-examination of the parties and their witnesses, were of the unanimous opinion that none of the charges preferred by Capt. Marvin were proven.

As the written agreement of the parties referred only to the charges brought by Capt. Marvin the committee did not deem it advisable to investigate in relation to other troubles existing in the company, as any conclusion they might reach would not be binding on the parties.

The committee proposed that a new agreement be made enabling them to make a full investigation of all the troubles existing in the company. The proposal was accepted by Lieut. Urch, but declined by Capt. Marvin. From the testimony submitted, the committee find that the conduct of Capt. Marvin toward Lieut. Urch and members of the company has been unnecessarily arbitrary and overbearing, and meets the approval of but a very small minority of the company.

We find that the company is composed of young men of intelligence and of high standing in the community, and feel assured that they are ready to cheerfully obey all reasonable commands of their officers and are anxious (as they certainly are competent) to make their company attain and maintain a rank second to none other in the State.

The committee are convinced that, unless harmony be speedily restored by mutual concessions the existence of the company can be of but little value to the State and should be in some way reorganized or disbanded.

All which is respectfully submitted.

Yours Respectfully
WM. R. PATTEN,
JOHN J. DILLON,
J. M. CLOUGH.

APPROVED. IRA CROSS, Adjt. Gen'l.

Grand Jury Returns.

The Grand Jury has found true bills against the following-named persons:

William Quinn, assault with intent to kill; Daniel Kane and Clarence Foote, larceny; Joseph C. Henry, larceny; Andrew J. Smith, manslaughter; Thomas E. O. Marvin, negligently keeping gunpowder. All of this city.

William Coombs, three counts—for larceny, adultery, and escaping from custody of sheriff; Alice Hurley, fornication and liquor selling; William Coombs and Alice Hurley, keeping disorderly house; Charles Clark, rescuing prisoner. All of Salem.

Lydia F. Parker, liquor selling; John B. Mansir, liquor selling; Edgar Beckman, assault; Henry Beckman, obstructing railroad track; John T. Philbrick, attempted incendiarism. All of Seabrook.

Moses Moulton, liquor selling; William Long, liquor selling; Nellie Foster, disorderly house. All of Newton.

George W. Robinson, George Robinson, both of Candia, liquor selling.

Joseph Wood, of New York, forgery.

Charles Bean, of Raymond, assault.

John H. Smith, of Chester, four counts for liquor selling.

Chandler Messer, of Windham, larceny.

John A. Messer, of Lawrence, Mass., letting building to be used for liquor selling.

Charles H. Vinal, Charles Williams and George Hansen, of Manchester, pocket-picking.

J. B. Cherry, of Boston, illegal practice as a physician.

Jottings.

Monthly service of praise at the Bow Mission, Sunday, at 4:15 P. M., it being Easter Sunday. Pieces appropriate to the occasion will be rendered by the select choir. "The Ninety and Nine," "Sowing the Seed," "Where are the Nine?" also a new temperance piece for the reformed men will be sung during the service. Friends are requested to bring their bibles. Monthly collection at the close of the service, for the benefit of the Mission.

We hear—and from good authority—that there is to be a Veteran Military Association organized in this city, and judging from the former displays of public spirit by those having the matter in charge there is not the least doubt of its success. It is proposed (and wisely too, we think,) that no one under the age of twenty-five years shall be admitted a member of the organization.

"Perley" telegraphs from Washington to the Boston Journal that Charles H. Smith, who went to Washington as private secretary of Hon. Frank Jones, and who was retated into the place of Journal Clerk of the House, so long held by the veteran John M. Barchay, is said to have engaged in a little private speculation of his own by sending circulars to those who will be benefited by the equalization of bounties, asking to be appointed their attorney, and promising to use his efforts to secure the passage of the law which is to bring this about. Mr. Smith is evidently not acquainted with the law which prohibits officers of Congress from acting as claim agents.

There was some lively foot ball practice at the Plains, Fast Day, by a score or two of players. A base ball match between a picked nine and the Centennial club was won by the former, score 26 to 21.

The stevedore gangs at the Concord Railroad wharf are on a strike against a reduction of wages, the price of discharging coal having been reduced five cents on a ton—from thirty cents to twenty-five. Of the thirty cents per ton paid under the old rate ten cents went for hoisting and twenty to the shovellers and stagemen.

On Monday evening the St. Mary's Benevolent Association will give a grand Easter Ball and Promenade Concert in Franklin Hall, with music by Harlow's brass and string bands. See advertisement.

Another grand rally of the Temperance Reform Club will take place at the Temple, to-morrow evening at 7 1-2 o'clock. Dr. Babcock, an eloquent speaker from Philadelphia, will address the meeting. In order to quiet the fears of nervous and timid persons, the special police have been instructed to admit no more persons to the gallery than can be seated. The doors will be open at 6:30, and the usual fee of five cents will be collected.

The Temperance organization of youths, known as the Band of Hope, will meet at Sons of Temperance Hall, this afternoon at three o'clock. Officers will be elected and instruction given in singing by the musical director, Mr. Jeff C. Tilton, who has volunteered his services for this purpose.

The Reform Club excursion to Dover on Fast Day was a great success. The train consisted of six cars well filled, more than 300 persons availing themselves of the opportunity to visit our sister city. They were met at the depot by the Dover Club and a band, which escorted them to the City Hall, where a rousing mass meeting was held. The reformers returned home at six o'clock and held a spirited meeting in the evening at their headquarters. They are doing an incalculable amount of good and their numbers are largely augmented every week, there being now over 1500 names on the roll.

Mr. Samuel Lamprey, the veteran teacher of dancing, will commence a school for young ladies, misses and masters, at Congress Hall, this (Saturday) afternoon at 3 o'clock, to continue on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons for a period of twenty-four lessons. Terms, $10 for the course. The latest style of "Boston" and "diagonal" waltzes will be taught.

We hope one of the public exercises of the coming Fourth of July will be the planting of a Centennial tree.

The Portsmouth Dramatic Company gave a very pleasing entertainment to a large audience at the Temple on Fast Night, in aid of the Knights of Pythias. This company is composed of public spirited ladies and gentlemen who are ever ready to give their services for the advancement of any good cause. Their occasional appearances have prompted the wish among their friends that they may appear in a benefit for themselves, with an attractive programme that would induce those who have been aided by their efforts to fill Temple Hall.

If your business is dull, advertise in this paper. The time to advertise is when you have plenty of time on your hands, and few customers to deal with.

Hampton.

The Shore House at Hampton Beach has been sold to S. A. Sackett, of Stoughton, Mass., for $6000. Mr. Sackett is making extensive alterations and repairs and will open early in the season.

Parties from Manchester have purchased several lots of land at the Beach and will erect five or six houses this season.

Rev. J. S. Batchelder, of Boston, has been engaged to supply the pulpit of the Congregational church the coming year at a salary of $1100. Mr. Batchelder is a native of Hampton, and a gentleman of fine culture and attainments.

The Academy is in a flourishing condition under the charge of Prof. Cheney.

Ancient bibles being in order, Mr. Joseph Philbrick still holds on to one bequeathed to him, printed in London in 1583. It is strongly bound, and in good condition. Mr. Philbrick is a firm believer in its teachings, and declines to part with it at any price.

There are one hundred and ten persons in Hampton 60 years of age and upwards, and twenty persons of 80 years and over.

L.

Important to persons visiting New York or the Centennial. The Grand Union Hotel, New York, opposite the Grand Central Depot, has over 350 elegantly furnished rooms. Elevator, steam and all improvements. European plan. Carriage hire is saved, as baggage is taken to and from the depot free. Guests can live better for less money at the Grand Union than at any other first-class hotel. Stages and cars pass the Hotel constantly to all parts of the city, and to the Philadelphia depot.

Income from premiums and interest	20,490,938 66
Receipts for interest over death claims and endowments due and not due, or paid in advance in 1876	283,914 88

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $23,500,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $55,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and papers for Patents, made on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

It is necessary for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved to inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend his intention to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package there became no more to be ordered for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden—Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I laid nearly two weeks, when I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have spent much time and money, I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told may what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought it couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything and could not get relief. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in dollars; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pains in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did me great good, and concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Gospel Banner, and thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My kidneys are entirely cured, and the change is marvellous. I think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I have told her to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must be a blessing to mankind, and will be indicated to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fail to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year just ended has passed through a period of great depression, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into the coming Presidential campaign. The industry there are also many questions that will tax the long deferred revival.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banner. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and condemn the reverse wherever it neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, who the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and is earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its general course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of the old policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have this within two or three years gratifully forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already elevated it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE asks a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most laborious exertions to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

CHEAPEST AND BEST! $2

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large steel plate engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift.

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 13 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments, stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any other in the world.

THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual variety of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest of all.

Amending the Constitution.

The people have voted, by 29,078 yeas to 10,869 nays, in favor of revising the constitution. Before the legislature meets and the party conflicts of the session commence, it would be well for thoughtful men of both parties, who desire that the next attempt to revise our constiution may prove successful, to consider and discuss the question, what action the legislature ought to take.

The following queries suggest themselves:

I

Is it desirable that the constitutional convention shall have its powers limited by the act of the legislature calling it, so that it will propose only amendments on certain specified subjects?

II.

If it is so desirable, has the legislature a right thus to limit the powers of the convention; and would the convention regard the limitations, and act only to the extent prescribed by the legislature?

III.

If the plan of limiting the convention is preferable, would it be practicable and wise to make the convention merely formal, to sit only a day or two, and to confine its action merely to providing a method of making future amendments, namely, by the passage of such amendments by two successive legislatures, and their submission to a vote of the people?

IV.

Or would it be best to include within the specified subjects, (1) the increase of the Senate, and (2) the decrease of the House of Representatives?

The writer has not a positive opinion on any of the queries suggested, but desires to call forth a discussion on them.

The danger in having an unlimited convention is evident to those who remember the ill-fated convention of 1851, and the overwhelming defeat of all its 15 propositions by the varying votes of 6,282 to 14,456 yeas, to 24,342 to 32,687 nays. Thousands of voters wrote an emphatic NO across the whole face of the ballots, and draped them in a wide mourning border of black. So unpopular was the convention and its work, that on a re-submission to the people of the two propositions abolishing the religious test and the property qualification, only the latter was adopted, by a small majority; and the former was retained, and still disfigures the constitution, not by reason of the religious bigotry of our people, but because of the unpopularity of the convention the remembrances of which still lingered in the hearts of the voters.

It is difficult positively to determine the reason for the unpopularity of the convention. It contained the ablest men of the democratic party, viz: Franklin Pierce, its President (then about to become a successful candidate for the Presidency of the United States,) Levi Woodbury, Charles G. Atherton, Richard H. Ayer, John H. Steele, Cyrus Barton, Asa P. Cate, Nath'l G. Upham, Benning W. Jenness, Charles Lane, Bradbury Bartlett, Aaron Whittemore, Abner B. Kelley, Hiram Barker, Samuel Swasey, John L. Putnam, John H. White, Wm. Weeks, Dyer H. Sanborn, Hazen Bedel, Samuel Jones, Jonathan Eastman, Geo. W. M. Pitman, Samuel Quimby, and Andrew Wallace. The old Whig party also sent many of its best leaders, viz: Ichabod Bartlett, Ichabod Goodwin, Wm. Plumer, Jr., Levi Chamberlain, Wm. Haile, Gilman Marston, Andrew Peirce, Thomas E. Sawyer, Asa Freeman, James Bell, Geo. W. Nesmith, Edmund Parker, Simeon B. Little, John Kelley, George Y. Sawyer, Daniel Abbott, Isaac Spalding, Enos Stevens, James Batchelder, Charles W. Brewster, John B. Wentworth, Robert Kimball, Abiathar G. Britton, Joseph Sawyer, and Robert McGaw.

Not only did the convention contain able men, but it framed a constitution in more respects worthy of acceptance, and, with the proceeding and debates of the convention, certainly deserving careful consideration by the next convention.

The expense of the convention tended to make it unpopular, and the consideration of expense may be one reason for not now calling an unlimited convention. But a stronger opposition to the work of the convention grew out of the manner of its reduction of the House of Representatives. This provided that "every town or place entitled to town privileges, having 175 ratable polls of 21 years of age and upward, who shall have resided in this State six months or more immediately preceding the election, paupers and foreigners not naturalized excepted," might elect one representative; 750 ratable polls, two representatives; 1,550 ratable polls, three representatives; 2,350 ratable polls, four representatives—making 1,000 ratable polls the mean increasing number for every additional representative after the third. Town and places not having 175 ratable polls were to elect a representative such portion of the time as the number of their ratable polls bore to 175; or, if conveniently located, upon application to the legislature, could be classed for the election of a representative, such classed towns not to contain less than 175 ratable polls. The effect of this was to give to 144 smaller towns with 27,000 ratable polls, 156 representatives, and to 80 larger towns, with 46,000 ratable polls, only 57 representatives.

This point—the reduction of the House of Representatives—is the great stumbling block in the way of an unlimited conventon, or of a limited convention authorized to deal with this question. Indeed, with this out of the way or satisfactorily settled, the people might favor and pay the expense and approve the work of an unlimited convention.

There is a growing belief that the members of the House must be reduced;—390 members legislating for our little State seems an absurdity, particularly when contrasted with only 12 members in the Senate.

On the other hand, there are the familiar arguments that a large body cannot be readily corrupted; that town representation has the advantage of giving every locality a hearing, and that, after all, the legislature is a wise and comparatively inexpensive school for the instruction, in affairs concerning taxation, education, and other governmental subjects, of the rising men of the various localities.

There seems to be no way of avoiding the consideration of the reduction of the House (except by the plan suggested in query III), and if the reduction is to be attempted by the convention, it might perhaps as well make a complete revision of the constitution. Are the people prepared for such a convention?

II.

As to the right of the legislature to limit the convention, the constitution itself is silent; and its right may be considered doubtful. Are there any precedents? But is it not probable that the convention would be voluntarily governed by the legislative limitations, and not undertake to go beyond them.

III.

The plan of making the convention merely formal, and allowing it to frame and propose one article only, namely, a method of making future amendments, found favor with the legislature of 1862, which provided for taking the sense of the people upon calling a convention, and also enacted,—

"2. That it is the sense of the legislature that such convention to revise the constitution, if the qualified voters of the State elect to call the same as aforesaid, should limit its action to the single duty of making provision for altering the constitution so as to provide for a different method of making future amendments."

But in 1863 the people voted against even such a convention, casting only 1044 votes for it and only 12,428 against it. That they voted down the convention because it was to be limited is not probable, and they have now, in 1876, voted for a convention without any suggestion that it is to be limited by the legislature.

The legislature of 1862 proceeded upon the idea of the unpopularity of a convention; that the people as in 1852 might refuse, because disliking some, to accept any of the propositions of the convention, not even a provision for making future amendments, leaving the whole subject as it was left after 1852; while, if an inexpensive convention should only provide a method of making future amendments, it was thought that the people might adopt that method, thus opening a way to securing at some time some amendment to our anomalous constitution.

This limitation may possibly now be prudent and the people would undoubtedly adopt an amendment providing a new way of making future amendments. It is also fair to presume that the people, having voted for the convention by such a decided majority, would not, even if the convention were to be unlimited, blindly vote down all the amendments proposed, including the one for future amendments, simply because they might dislike and reject some—among which would probably be any plan for reducing the House and electing the members by districts.

But if a repetition of the reckless, unreasoning rejection of the constitution of 1851 is to be expected, including even a method of making future amendments, it would be better to pursue the path of safety, make the convention nominal, and limited to submitting such new mode of making amendments. By this plan, in a short time, some of the most inconvenient provisions of our constitution—such as allowing one member to call the yeas and nays, and the holding the State election in March,—could be changed; while if an unlimited convention should be held and its work be again totally rejected, he would be a bold public man who would propose another convention within half a century.

It is to be borne in mind, in determining whether an unlimited convention should be held, or whether a new method of making future amendments will alone accomplish substantially all that it is safe to attempt, that amendments made by the action of successive legislatures will be necessarily piecemeal work, covering only a few specific points (as do the amendments of the constitution of the United States, proposed and adopted by the several States,) while the essential frame work of the constitution will remain unchanged. If our constitution needs a complete revision and reconstruction, an unlimited convention must be held. Amendment by detached propositions will not answer. Is there such a need?

IV.

The fourth query has been considered above. If the convention undertake to deal with the reduction of the House so that the danger of overwhelming rejection is to be encountered, probably the convention, if it will not sit too long nor involve too great expense, might as well be allowed to make a complete revision, which would of course, as before, be submitted in separate propositions so far as practicable.

W. E. CHANDLER.

Concord, April 4, 1876.

among others one in cipher, which was regarded as very suspicious from the number of arbitrary words which it appeared to contain. A key and an explanation was insisted upon, when the following terrible case of official corruption, clearly involving high crimes and misdemeanors came to light:

"CAMDEN, NEW JERSEY.

Marine Disasters.

The Cape Ann Advertiser says great anxiety is manifested for the safety of the schooner Katy, which left Port Mulgrave, Nova Scotia, on Sunday, the 2d inst., bound for Boston, since which time no tidings of her have been heard. She had on board sixty-three passengers, among whom were several women and children, and nearly all were bound for Gloucester, where the men were to engage in the fisheries. It is feared that she foundered during the gale of the 4th inst and all on board perished. There is a bare possibility that the crew may have been rescued.

Fishing schooner Kearsarge, Capt. Burchell, of Gloucester, has been absent upward of four weeks on a trip to Georges Banks. She was reported as having left the Banks on Monday, the 3d inst, the day before the last heavy gale, in company with other vessels which have arrived. It is feared that she foundered with all on board. She carried a crew of ten men.

Fishing schooner Henrietta Greenleaf of Gloucester, Capt. Wm. H. Greenleaf, sailed from that port on the 6th inst. with a crew of fifteen men, all told, for the Grand Banks. On Saturday morning, the 8th, at 3 o'clock, the vessel was south of LaHave Banks, under full sail, with a light breeze, when a heavy squall struck and hove her down. The vessel capsized and sank almost immediately. So sudden was the accident that four of her crew, who were below, had no time to escape, and were drowned. The captain and part of the crew, who were also below, managed to reach the deck. They immediately cut the lashings of the dories, the captain and five men getting into one boat, and five men into another, all with scarce any clothing on. The captain's dory drifted about at the mercy of the waves—the crew having neither food nor water till 12:30 A. M. on Monday, the 10th inst., when it was picked up by the American schooner Lizzie K. Clark. The Henrietta Greenleaf was a new vessel of 91 tons register, and was on her first voyage. She was valued at $10,000.

Political.

The worthy Secretary Bristow is the best nominated man for the Presidency in the State of New Hampshire. The Nashua Telegraph does it about three times a week. Bro. Moore is getting decidedly unanimous.

The Senatorial question begins to assume importance in New Hampshire, it being less than two months before it will have to be settled. There is little doubt that if the choice were left to the mass of the republican voters of the State, Hon. E. H. Rollins would distance all his competitors. He has served three terms in Congress, and has "saved New Hampshire to the republicans" several times. The people like his spunk and his power, and are waiting to say so. Mr. Rollins was one of the republican leaders in the early days when the party was establishing itself, and he has now a first-rate reputation for legislative as well as executive ability.—Lowell Courier.

News and Notes.

The statue of President Lincoln, erected by the colored people of the country in Lincoln Square, Washington, was unveiled on Friday. The first contribution to the statue fund was made the morning after the assassination, by Charlotte Scott, a colored washerwoman, of Marietta, O., who gave $5. The original cost of the monument was $17,000, and the other incidental expenses were all paid by subscriptions by the colored people. The last Congress appropriated $3000 for a pedestal, and the statue was allowed to pass the custom house free of duty. The statue, which is of bronze, is of colossal size, being twelve feet high, resting upon a pedestal ten feet high. It represents Lincoln standing erect with the Proclamation of Emancipation in his left hand, while his right is outstretched over the kneeling figure of a slave, from whose limbs the shackles have just been freed. Upon the base of the monument is the word "Emancipation." President Grant uncovered the statue, and Frederick Douglass made an address. The ceremonies included a procession, and the reading of the Emancipation Proclamation by Frederick Douglass. Both branches of Congress adjourned to attend the ceremonies. There was an immense throng of colored people in attendance.

The forthcoming celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, which is to take place in the great square facing Independence Hall, Philadelphia, where the famous document was signed, is to be a grand affair, and not at all connected with the international exhibition, the grounds for which are four miles distant. Among the ceremonies to take place at Independence Hall will be the presentation of brief biographical sketches, each not to exceed two pages of foolscap paper, of the distinguished men of the Revolution, including statesmen, naval and military officers and others who took a prominent part in it. The literary men of the country have been invited to write the sketches referred to and present them on the anniversary of the memorable day. We learn that nearly two hundred gentlemen, embracing those most distinguished among American scholars and writers, have accepted the invitation to prepare the sketches, and that they will present them in person. George Bancroft is to preside on the occasion, and will call the roll. As each name is called, the party will advance to the President's chair and deliver his written sketch. At first it was the intention to have these sketches read, but the number is so large that there will be no time except for the announcement of the paper by Mr. Bancroft.

The platform upon which it rests is 50 feet in diameter and composed of polished iron plates, resting upon brick foundations that extend far down into the earth. The height from the floor to the top of the walking-beams is 39 feet. Mr. George H. Corliss is the inventor, patentee, builder and owner, having had it erected for the double purpose of exhibition and furnishing motive power, which will be supplied gratuitously, but only for the purpose of exhibiting machinery in operation, no machinery being allowed to run longer than is necessary for that purpose, except by permission from the Chief of the Bureau. Of the eight lines of shafting, seven will have a speed of 120 revolutions per minute and one of 240. The huge machine was started on the evening of April 10th, and worked smoothly and noiselessly.

Catarrh is a common disease,—so common that snuffing, spitting, and blowing of the nose, meet us at every turn on the street. Your foot slips in these nasty discharges on the sidewalk and in the public conveyance; and its disagreeable odor, contaminating the breath of the afflicted, renders them offensive to their associates. There is the highest medical authority for stating that with fully one-half, if not two-thirds, of those afflicted with Consumption of the Lungs, the disease commences as Catarrh in the nose or head, the next step being to the throat and bronchial tubes—lastly to the lungs. How important then to give early and strong attention to a Catarrh! To cure this loathsome disease, correct the system by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which tones it up, cleanses the blood, and heals the diseased glands by a specific influence upon them; and to assist, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche. This is the only way to reach the upper and back cavities where the discharge come from. No danger from this treatment, and it is pleasant to use. The two medicines with instruments are sold by dealers in medecines.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, may, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

The Bergers.

The Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell made their first appearance here Friday evening, and their performances were of such high order as to warrant them a much larger audience next Friday evening, when they will return with a change of programme. That of Friday evening last was a fine one and every selection was heartily applauded. Their playing as a band was very fine and as melodious as a church organ. The singing of Miss Anna Morgan was noted for its beauty of expression, her voice being one of rare compass. The music of the bells was rendered with a precision in which all the performers appeared perfectly at home in the difficult roles assigned them. The cornet and violoncello solos were a very delightful part of the entertainment, and Sol Smith Russell—well, if you did not see and hear him, take our advice and secure reserved seats for next Friday evening, and you had better be in haste about it, too, if you care for good ones. Sol is just "immense." His drollery is delightful and partakes of the delicious. His facial expression is simply wonderful, and as he is possessed of an inimitable fund of humor he is a host in himself. His personation of "Rhein Wein Charlie" was a happy hit and threw the audience into convulsions of laughter. There is nothing stale in his repertoire, neither is there anything strained in his performances. As "Dorcas Pennyroyal," an advanced maiden lady who had been courted, as "Tommy Boggs" delivering a composition on the "hoss," and as old "Deacon Whatshisname" opposing in "town meeting" the building of a new "skule house," Mr. Russell had full scope for the display of his wondrous powers of imitation, of which the audience would not have tired had he continued till daylight. One of his closing imitations was of Gough, and was a good temperance lecture.

The following is a biographical sketch of the Berger Family:

The musical organization so long and favorably known as the "Berger Family," consists of six children of Henry F. and Anna Berger, the former a French political exile, who, with his wife, a German lady of rank, emigrated to America thirty years ago, and settled in Baltimore, Md., where all their children were born. Shortly after his arrival in the United States, Mr. Berger established himself in business as a builder of church organs, and several of the finest instruments in the country are of his manufacture, notably among which is the magnificent organ in the Catholic Cathedral at Philadelphia, a very large one at Halifax, Nova Scotia, and others at Tiffin, Ohio, and at Toronto, Ont. It was while residing at this latter place that Mr. Berger died, in the year 1865. His widow survives him, and has always travelled with her children, accompanying them in all their journeyings, and although as a matter of course the general public see but little of the mother, her influence is apparent in everything that pertains to her children. These children are named respectively, Frederick, born in 1849; Louisa, 1851; Anna, 1853; Henry, 1854; Henrietta, 1855; and Bernhart, 1857. The entire family received a thorough musical education under Prof. Henry Thiele, of Philadelphia, in which city Fred, Louisa, Anna and Henry made their first appearance upon the stage, in April, 1862, at a concert given for the purpose of bringing them before the public. For about a year following their debut they gave concerts through the West, under the style of the Berger Children. During the season of 1863-4, mere children as they were they constituted the entire orchestra of the Royal Lyceum, Toronto, Ont. In July, 1864, they joined a juvenile organization called the "Carter Zouave Troupe," with whom they remained two years, and at the expiration of that time they formed a combination with Wm. H. Peak, Jr., under the style of the "Peak and Berger Families." They remained as the principal attraction of that company for three years, during which time the two youngest children, Henrietta and Bernhart, made their debut in Buffalo, N. Y., in April, 1868. In September, 1869, the Bergers severed their connection with the Peaks, and organized a troupe of their own, since which time they have been performing with a success which has never been equaled by any similar organization, and they have established a reputation for giving the most original and attractive entertainment ever presented in their peculiar line. During the Summer of 1870, the family purchased an elegant residence at Jackson, Mich., and it is here that their Summer vacations are passed. Sol Smith Russell, the humorist, who has been so long connected with the Company, was married to Louisa Berger, at Detroit, Mich., September 11, 1869; his wife dying in the Spring of 1872.

Officer Smith's Case.

Eds. Chronicle:—In looking over the list of indictments in your Saturday morning's issue, I saw that Officer Smith has been indicted by the grand jury for manslaughter. What action is the City Government going to take in the matter? Will the municipal authorities leave Smith (who is a poor man) to himself defray the expenses of his defence? or will they (as it seems to me they are in duty bound to do) afford him all possible aid in protecting himself, and at the same time protect the city?—for the officer was on duty as a preserver of the peace, by order and under direction of the city government, at the time of the Canty homicide? I argue, as a law-abiding citizen, and I believe my opinion is that of most well-meaning men in this community,—that it is the duty of the city to take charge of Officer Smith's defence, to the end that it may be as thorough and energetic as possible; for if he is convicted, from lack of proper support on the part of the city, what safeguard will any officer have when it becomes his duty to make an arrest? Suppose, for instance, an officer should hear the cry of murder, and hurrying to the place from whence the sound came should find a well-known desperado beating a defenceless woman,—what could he do in such a case? All he could do would be to stand aloof and mildly remonstrate,—to say, "Oh, don't; I would not do that if I were you,"—for no officer would dare risk an attack on the ruffian even to save the woman's life. "Why not?" do you ask? Because in such a case the officer would know that if he interfered the ruffian would attack him in return, and probably kill him unless he defended himself; and if he did defend himself and in so doing accidentally caused the ruffian's death, he would have to stand the consequences alone, unaided by the government under whose orders he was acting. I hope, for the honor of the city and the safety of law-abiding citizens, that the Mayor will promptly call the Councils together, and that the government will decide to render Officer Smith all the aid in its power; if it does not, and he is convicted, the police force may as well be disbanded, and the roughs and bullies allowed to have full swing in theory, as they would have in fact.

Jottings.

Lieutenant-Commander E. M. Shepard will be detached from ordnance duty at the Bellevue Depot, Washington, on the 8th May next, and is ordered to the navy-yard, to report, May 18.

On Friday evening one of the fine span of horses which for some time past have travelled on the pole of the Eldredge Brewing Company's heavy team, died from some unknown cause. The animal was apparently quite well at three o'clock, but was dead at five.

Next Thursday evening the officers of the reform club are to inaugurate the holding of three temperance rallies here at the same time—one at the South ward-room, conducted by Vice President James Marden, another at the Creek school-house by Vice President Samuel Taylor, and one at Mechanics hall by President John S. Treat.

Grand Promenade Concert and Ball of the St. Mary's Benevolent Society at Franklin Hall this evening. This will probably be the last ball of the season, which, with the remembrance of the well-managed ball given by the same parties a few months since, will induce many to attend. A good order of dances has been gotten up, and there is apparently nothing to hinder the enjoyment of the occasion by all who choose to go.

The House of Representatives has adopted a resolution ordering a committee to investigate the conduct of Charles H. Smith of Newmarket, journal clerk of the House, who has been acting as bounty claim agent.

W. C. Robinson begs leave to call the attention of those who have not already put themselves under the protection of Life Assurance, and those who wish to have more insurance on their lives, to the State Mutual Life Assurance Co. of Worcester, Mass., for which he is agent. This Company during a business career of thirty years has fulfilled all the principles of Life Assurance and has made its cost as low as any other Company. The sagacious Franklin said: "A policy of Life Assurance is the cheapest and safest mode of making a sure provision for one's family." The directors report the business of 1875 as being one of the most prosperous in its history. It offers as security a record of thirty years' successful business to the satisfaction of the assured, $116 of assets to every $100 of liability, and expenses only 12 per cent. of income. The Company is purely mutual, the policy holders having the rights of stockholders may control its management, and it is recommended by the Insurance Commission of Massachusetts as being "one of the very best life companies doing business." The maxim that "delay is dangerous" is particularly so in this case, for a person is as liable to be taken in at one moment as another and no company will insure a sick person.

We have just received Verne's last famous story, "The Mysterious Island—Dropped from the Clouds!" It is an immensely interesting book, by the celebrated author of "20,000 Leagues under the Seas!" "Tour of the World in 80 days!" etc., and gives the exciting adventures of five Union prisoners who, during our late great war, escaped from Richmond, Va., in a captured balloon! They were driven by a wild hurricane across the entire continent, and fell upon an uninhabited island in the Pacific ocean. Here they lived several years, unable to escape. Finally a vessel appeared, but proved to be a pirate ship, and instead of rescuing, endeavored to murder them. During the combat a mysterious agent destroyed their vessel! The castaways had frequent exciting adventures with wild animals, and also met with many very mysterious incidents that were apparently supernatural. Their ingenious contrivances to better their condition are highly interesting. In short, it is Verne's best book, and that is the highest possible commendation. The ordinary price of "Dropped from the Clouds" is $2, but the copy before us, "The Lakeside Library" edition, handsomely illustrated, is sent prepared for only 12 cents! It is also sold by all newsdealers. If you want a genuine treat, get it. Address, Donnelley, Loyd & Co., Pubs., Chicago, Illinois.

On Sunday, Dr. Osorio reported a case of small pox at No. 2 Parker street, and reported it to City Physician Sherburne. The victim is Mrs. Charles Wood, who had recently been employed in cleansing a house at Rye in which one or more cases of small pox had occurred. Dr. Sherburne had the family, consisting of Mrs. Wood and three daughters, removed to Pest island, Sunday evening. The case is a severe one of confluent small pox, and as a physician who was called on Friday did not discover its true nature there is great danger of its spreading among her acquaintances, many of whom called to see her before the eruptions told the nature of the disease. Mrs. Wood had the small pox several years ago.

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most successful, medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding tonic, corrective and preventive, are blended some of the most actively invigorating, alterative and blood depurating elements in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known—old rye whiskey. Is it any wonder that easy digestion, regular evacuations, a natural flow of bile, purity of the blood, and cheerfulness of mind, should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are most harmoniously combined and act in perfect union. The faith felt by the medical profession in the restorative efficacy of this medicine, and its power to nullify the influence of malaria, is expressed over the signatures of many eminent physicians, and their expressions of confidence are fully ratified by the people and press.

Use Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It never fails to cure.

Coughs and Colds.—Those who are suffering from Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, &c., should try "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more beneficial and appropriate—this can only be done by the fragrant "Sozodont." For cleansing, beautifying and preserving the teeth, sweetening and purifying the breath it has no equal.

Spalding's Glue is up to the sticking point.

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9542 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Early Potatoes.

By taking a little extra trouble, farmers and gardeners may have well-grown new potatoes on their tables two or three weeks in advance of the usual time for them. And a man who is not willing to take a good deal of extra pains in matters like this, lacks his share of the real gardening instinct, which began with Adam. When we arrive at that period of leisure which all busy men look forward to, and which Horace Greeley said he should employ in "going a-fishing," we shall take more pride in the first lettuce, peas, strawberries, potatoes and tomatoes, and the whole catalogue of garden luxuries, than in any other sublunary thing. As matters stand we would rather beat a nice neighborhood of gardeners in these things than to be—well, say secretary of war, or a leader of Washington society.

But we started to speak of advancing the early potato crop. Those who have tried it know that little is gained by planting potatoes, or anything else, in the "cold, cold ground" during our always backward spring times. Potatoes will often lie for a month in the ground without sprouting so much as their companions that were left in the cellar. But we have often flanked the weather in this wise: Some three weeks before the earliest planting time, select a few of your fairest and best Early Rose—those that show signs of sprouting, if any there be—and cut them in pieces having but one eye on each. Take any shallow box—like a grape box—and sprinkle in a layer of moist earth or sand; then put in a layer of the potatoes, an inch or two apart, with the eyes up. Cover them with two or three inches of dirt, and put on another layer of potatoes, covering with dirt as before. A hundred or two "sets" can be started in this way with very little trouble. Put the box in the corner of the kitchen back of the stove, or any warm place, and sprinkle it with water occasionally. By the time the earth is warm, dry, and ready for planting, your potatoes will be nicely sprouted, and will also have thrown out a fine net work of tender roots.

For the early patch, we think it economy to prepare the ground in trenches—mellowing it up finely, and putting in plenty of fertilizers, of which nothing is so good for potatoes as wood ashes, used with barnyard or ben manure, and a little lime, on some soils. It will require a little pains, of course, to remove the "sets" from the box without breaking the sprouts; but it can be done, even when they have grown so as to show the green leaf on the end. When single eyes are used, they may be placed, if you are cramped for room, eight or even seven inches apart in the trench. Cover the sprouts carefully, not being afraid to use your hands, and give them a good top-dressing of compost. They will grow right on without interruption, and should be hoed frequently, the row system facilitating the hilling. By this method you can not only secure potatoes several weeks earlier, but you get ahead of the bugs, which is to be an item this year, even in New England. —Golden Rule.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms (from no charge in advance of patent) to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the patentability of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are bestowed upon inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse." EDMUND BURKE, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have been down to my bed. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package had done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please send $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for some for me." All who have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried almost everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can say anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it back if I could do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have tried almost everything and a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer on as I did. I was happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent for one box of your Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as any man. Some friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will cost me a fortune. I tell them it is the combination of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money were no object; I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indebted to my friend. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. H. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Pains Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rockdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL

is a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Cordial he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-brying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the course of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE—

Buchman's Pulmonic Cordial.

The Pulmonic Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fail to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke earnest discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the support of many new ones. No other journal can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of 1856 and 1860. It will be the champion all through the American conflict, and it will replace the previous Democratic principles and policies under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was then fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and honest principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of our worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms long preached by it. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent votes have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe and desire a trustworthy visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1872 and 1873 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest exclusiveness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the fresh news, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments, stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for elegance. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

TERMS (Always in Advance) $2.00 A YEAR.

The Presidency and the South.

Morton has lost ground lately, and it is hard to say why. The straddle-bug platform of the Indiana republicans, and the failure of Morton to push through his Mississippi investigation as originally introduced, may have something to do with it. A few months ago he was altogether the strongest candidate in the South, Grant excepted, and it is pretty well understood now, even by our immensely intellectual colored brethren, that Grant is out of the list.

Blaine has walked into Morton fearfully, and it is a question now which is the stronger in the Southern States. I should say their chances are about even. But the tide seems to be setting toward Blaine, as between him and Morton. Georgia I had counted for Morton, but on going there a month ago I found Blaine ahead.

Hendricks gains ground steadily. The reason of this is more negative than otherwise. The falling of others helps him along. He maintains a discreet silence on the currency question; or, when he talks on that interesting theme he leaves the impression that he has been silent. He pleases the hard-money wing and the soft-money wing, and the larger wing, which represents those who don't know what they are for or how to bring it about. Happy Hendricks! Complacent democracy! Eternal fitness of things generally.

Hendricks' Southern tour helped him. He did not say anything in particular that anybody in particular of his party could take exceptions to. As a tight-rope performer without a balancing pole, he is a success. And it is well so as a matter of policy, for were he to take a decided stand on the currency question, one way or the other, he would most likely put himself out of range of the convention ballots. So he remains on the fence, the best place anyway for candidates these days "when it is so confounded muddy on each side."—H. V. Redfield.

Deacon Parker on Draw Poker.

Deacon Parker, of Arkansas, known throughout the South and Southwest for his moving eloquence and his very remarkable game of poker, is sojourning in this city. He expresses himself with much warmth on the subject of the recent resolution of the Virginia House of Delegates for the removal from office of a County Court Judge for the apparently frivolous and absurd reason that he occasionally indulged in a little game of draw. The Deacon holds that no Christian gentleman is really fitted to adorn the higher circles of polite society who is unfamiliar with the rules that govern this classical game. He is well aware that there has always existed in the Old Dominion a strong preference for euchre and seven-up; in fact, that several of her most eminent statesmen, and a large majority of both the Senate and the House of Delegates had, from long and constant practice, attained to great perfection in the art of cleaning out their friends and acquaintances by means of these pleasant social games. But all this was no reason why the people of Virginia at large should, through their representatives in Richmond assembled, be made to stultify themselves by declaring the game of poker, under any circumstances, inconsistent with the judicial dignity of a County Court Judge.

Perhaps, however, when we get all the details relating to this legislation the facts may, in a measure, exonerate the delegates from this seemingly deliberate attack upon the rights of the people, and the time-honored privileges of the bench. Deacon Parker hinted that the tragic end of Col. Randolph Slaughter, who lost his life last Summer, at the hands of Gen. Brown, through an unpleasantness resulting from a frankly avowed difference of opinion between those two gentlemen, as regards the proper mode of playing draw-poker, might really have been at the bottom of the unconstitutional resolution passed by the Virginia House of Delegates.

The Deacon explained, that among the innovations that have of late years been introduced by the devotees of this popular game, the practice of playing it with packs of cards containing more than four aces is in some places looked upon with great favor. As many as six aces have been found in one pack. These revolutionary practices were strongly condemned by the Deacon, who thought them likely to lead to much confusion; and they were the immediate cause of the trouble that led to the sudden demise of the late lamented Slaughter at the Springs of Virginia in August last.

It seems that General Brown and the Colonel sat down for a little game of draw, one sultry afternoon. Brown forgot to mention that there were six aces in the pack, and Slaughter fancied he was playing with one of the old-fashioned four-ace packs. The result was a series of miscalculations on the part of Slaughter, which finally ended in his being entirely cleaned out. Just at the end of the game he became aware of the existence of an unusual number of aces, and thereat he reproached Brown in language more vigorous than polite. In fact he used such words as swindling and cheating.

Language like this was more than Major General Brown could bear. With great presence of mind he produced his bowie knife and carefully inserted about six inches of the blade into Slaughter's person. This closed an unpleasant conversation, and effectually ended the difficulty. The next day Slaughter was planted in a cheerful little graveyard near the Springs.

Some of Colonel Slaughter's friends held a meeting to examine into this very peculiar case. General Brown having been cited, appeared, and testified that he, more than any one else (with the single exception of Slaughter, probably) regretted the melancholy termination of this misunderstanding; but that Slaughter's language had been more than indiscreet. He had actually and without the slightest qualification accused General Brown of cheating at cards. This no man could say to his face and live. He asked the gentlemen of the committee whether, under the circumstances, he had any other course open to him. Before going to extremities he had endeavored to explain to Colonel Slaughter that, so far as regards the actual winning, it was of no moment how many aces there were in the pack, as each player had an equal chance of getting four or five aces every deal. But Slaughter would not listen to reason, and while the committee exonerated General Brown on the ground that the provocation was very great, they mildly marked their disapproval of the act by deliberately putting themselves on record as being the opinion that he had been over-hasty in his action.

Deacon Parker believes this untoward event to have led to the passage of the recent resolution by the Virginia House of Delegates against judicial poker.—N. Y. Sun.

News and Notes.

It is understood that charges have been preferred against General Custer by General Terry, which will lead to a court martial against Custer.

Eleven years ago Charlotte Scott, a colored washerwoman of Marietta, O., gave the first $5 and started the subscription for the Lincoln monument. The additions to her mite made $20,000, and the monument it purchased was unveiled Friday.

A shell from the wreck of the Merrimac exploded at the Portsmouth, Va., Navy yard, Saturday, killing two negroes and severely wounding several others.

Henry Blanchard, Esq., of Boston, was in Exeter, Saturday, making arrangements for the survey from the State line of Massachusetts through Exeter to Dover, for the continuation of the Boston, Lawrence and Haverhill Narrow Gauge Railroad, which is now being rapidly pushed forward. The corporation from Haverhill to Dover will be chartered as the Boston and Dover Air Line Railroad. A responsible railroad contractor, of New York, has offered to build the road from Boston to Dover, and equip it, for $986,000, and give bonds in the sum of $200,000 as a forfeiture for the non-fulfilment of the contract. The road will probably strike New Hampshire near the central portion of the town of South Hampton, running through Kensington, Exeter, the westerly part of Stratham, Newmarket, the central part of Durham, and touch Dover at a convenient point yet to be determined.

The entire business interest of the late A. T. Stewart has been transferred by Mrs. Stewart to Judge Hilton for the sum of $1,000,000. The firm hereafter will be known as Hilton & Libby. The assignment of Mrs. Cornelia M. Stewart was executed on Friday, and the articles of agreement of the reorganized firm were also completed same day. Both Hilton and Libby declare there will be no change in the manner of conducting the business.

He is 124 years old, lives in Clermont county, Ohio, and his name is Etienne Gauldinot.

The Athletics played their opening game in Philadelphia, Saturday, with the Centennials, whom they defeated by a score of eight to four.

A firm of seed dealers in Detroit, having a large number of catalogues to send through the mails, took them over the river to Canada and mailed them to various parts of the United States, saving $3,170 by the operation.

A circular was recently received at the Post Office in Henniker, from the American Tract Society, addressed to Rev. Walter Harris, D. D., the first minister of the Congregational church in that place, who has been dead over thirty years.

The annual examination of the State Reform School will occur Wednesday, April 26th.

A lady was recently examining some infants' apparel in a dry goods store in Great Falls, and evidently at loss to make up her mind as to the proper selection, when the clerk thought to assist her by inquiring: "Is your baby a boy or a girl?" The lady flushed hotly but replied with ingenuous frankness: "I don't know yet." She was suffered to make her selection without further interruption.

The Manchester Reform Club has adopted and its members generally are to wear badges of blue ribbon, on which are pictured a pair of clasped hands enclosed in the words, "Manchester Reform Club." Below is the motto, "Stick," and above, the words, "It is more glorious to rise again than never to have fallen."

A counterfeit five cent piece is in circulation which is worthless only because not made at the Government mint. Some of the counterfeits were recently sent to the Superintendent of the Mint in Philadelphia by the Treasurer for the purpose of making inquiries and to test their value. The Superintendent says the counterfeits have been assayed and found to contain copper and nickel in the legal proportion, that the coins are of proper weight, size and finish, and just as valuable as the good coin. The only way to detect the spurious coins is by the imperfect impression of the legend "In God we trust."

The "board bill" of one Hallett Kilbourne must be very interesting to economical democrats. Kilbourne was a contumacious witness before one of the "investigating" committees. If he knew anything about the matter under inquiry, he refused to divulge, and was "chucked into" the District jail. The House caterer was directed to furnish his meals, there being no appropriation for the support of Congressional prisoners. In a little over two weeks, Kilbourne had rolled up a bill of $355,40 for meals and $127 for wines. When the chairman of the committee got hold of it, he rushed into the House, and attempted to get the rides suspended and pass a resolution putting Kilbourne on prison fare, but the House just then had too good an appreciation of the joke to gratify the chairman, and Kilbourne kept right on eating his tenderloin steaks at $2.00, stewed terrapin at $2.50, Philadelphia squabs at $1.50, cold turkey, spring chickens, salad, French green peas, etc., etc., at an average of $25.00 a day. There are a plenty of men who feel a supreme contempt for most of these investigating committees, and would like to be locked up in the District jail therefor. We could furnish one victim from Lake Village.—Lake Village Times.

Political.

Sam Bowles: Charles Francis Adams: O. C. Moore: Benjamin H. Bristow.

Texas is still another State which Morton checks off for himself. Blaine stands second in the appreciation of that delegation.

Morton and Conkling have been fighting about the North Carolina delegation, but it appears that that bone belongs to another dog. They have heard of Blaine, Bristow and Hayes down that way.

The Virginia delegation, it is finally and definitely said, to the Cincinnati convention are largely for Blaine, four of the twenty-two delegates being opposed to him.

With a simultaneousness that is remarkable, Western papers are publishing lovely letters about Conkling, dated at Washington.

Supposing Benj. F. Wade of Ohio should be the great Unknown!

On the whole, the chances that Mr. Blaine will be the nominee of the convention are to-day stronger than ever.—Cleveland Leader.

General Hayes, of Ohio, appears to be advancing unobtrusively but distinctly into the category of republican Presidential candidates. In the United States a politician is a man who devotes his leisure to the calculation of party and personal chances, and his activities to labors for their realization. He has always appeared to wait patiently until he was wanted, which is perhaps as good proof as could be desired. If it is only such qualities as are proper to a good magistrate that are wanted by the republican party in a candidate, that party might try a hundred times and not find a better man than General Hayes.

A correspondent of the New York Times, on a late visit to Richmond, interviewed "Uncle Pomp," a well-known character of the city, on the Presidential question, and found the old man's faith strong in the republican party, while being non-committal as to candidates. He said: "All I wants is a 'publican man as won't take away freedom. Some ob de boys is talkin' 'bout Marse Morton. Some on em heerd as how Marse Conkling wor a good man, and a heap is goin' for Marse Blaine, but dey don't care much so dey gets a 'publican; dat's all what most on 'em care on."

It was Bristow's good fortune to be in a place where his courage found exercise. There are other men in the country who would have fought as stout a fight. The notion that there are not, is disgraceful and pusillanimous. All this prating about there being only one man worthy the nomination is puerile, cowardly and unrepublican.—Cincinnati Times.

"Van" telegraphs from Washington to the Springfield Republican: "Mr. Blaine's friends here are disposed to boast over his success with the Virginia delegates to Cincinnati, and it is clear to the politicians that neither Morton nor Conkling has any chance whatever. Blaine leads them tremendously, and he has not a fear of them."

The Sugar Maple.

The Massachusetts Ploughman says: We doubt if we can do our readers a better service in this centennial year than to give all the facts we can in regard to the comparative merits of the various kinds of forest trees, and to urge them to renewed activity in planting and transplanting trees. Whether regarded as a permanent improvement or as an investment for future profit, the greater cultivation of fruit and forest trees is to be commended, but especially this year, when we ought to take a new departure. How many of our descendants will look upon the graceful forms and grateful shade of trees about the place, and tell with pride how their fathers or their grandfathers planted out those trees in 1876!

Let us bear this idea in mind, and act upon it as if it meant business, this very Spring and before it is too late. Among the great variety of trees from which a selection is to be made, we cannot forget the graceful and useful sugar maple. Mr. Sargent, in his valuable paper on trees, in the secretary's report just issued from the press, says, "The sugar maple (Acer saccharinum) nowhere becomes a finer tree than in the western portions of Massachusetts; and when we consider the value of its wood in the arts, and for fuel, the value of the sap when converted into sugar, its rapid growth, long life, immunity from the attacks of insects, and its beauty and fitness for street and ornamental planting, it must be acknowledged that no tree deserves more general cultivation in this State." The wood of the sugar maple, which is hard, close-grained and smooth, is largely used in furniture making, cooperage, and in making shoe lasts, for which it is preferred to that of any other tree. Two million five hundred thousand pairs of lasts are consumed annually in Massachusetts alone; and if we can judge of the future of this business by the past history, it will, before many years, consume all the sugar-maple lumber the country can produce. For fuel, the wood of this tree is generally considered superior to that of any other, with the exception of hickory. Mr. Bull estimates its value at only sixty, hickory being a hundred, and places before it in heat-giving qualities, no less than twenty-two species of North American trees and shrubs.

The destruction of the sugar maple has been so general in this State, that sugar making, which formerly held an important place in Massachusetts industry, has, during the last thirty years, diminished fully one-half, and that, too, in the face of an enormously increased natural production, and of prices which have considerable more than doubled during the last forty years.

There are, especially in the Western part of the State, many unproductive pastures, now almost worthless, which would, if converted into sugar orchards, yield in a few years a handsome income.

In regard to the age at which it is profitable to commence drawing the sap for sugar, authorities differ; but a tree twenty-five years old will yield, on an average, ten pounds of sugar, and will continue to be productive to this extent for fifty or sixty years longer. One hundred and sixty trees being allowed to the acre, the sugar crop, for an orchard of that size, would yield, at present prices, $273 annually; and it must be remembered that owing to the season of the year at which sugar is made, no operation of the farm can be carried on with so small an outlay for labor. The trees, uninjured by the drawing off the sap, would increase in value for a hundred years, and at any age, find a ready sale, either for fuel or for use in the arts. Its adaptability to all soils, except where stagnant water stands, the rapidity of its growth, its general thriftiness and undoubted beauty at all seasons of the year, render the sugar maple the most valuable of all the North American trees for street and roadside planting, and it should be more generally used instead of the American elm, which has been planted for this purpose in Massachusetts almost to the exclusion of other trees, although rarely thriving in such dry, dusty situations.

ALEX. FROTHINGHAM & CO.,

Bankers and Brokers, No. 12 Wall St., make for customers desirable investments of large or small amounts in stocks of a legitimate character, which frequently pay from five to twenty times the amount invested every thirty days. There is every indication that the fluctuations of the stock market will be very wide during the coming month, and those who invest at once will reap the largest profit. Stocks bought and carried as long as desired on deposit of three to five per cent. Circulars and weekly reports sent free. sodtAp77

Catarrh is a common disease,—so common that snuffing, spitting, and blowing of the nose, meet us at every turn on the street. Your foot slips in these nasty discharges on the sidewalk and in the public conveyance; and its disagreeable odor, contaminating the breath of the afflicted, renders them offensive to their associates. There is the highest medical authority for stating that with fully one-half, if not two-thirds, of those afflicted with Consumption of the Lungs, the disease commences as Catarrh in the nose or head, the next step being to the throat and bronchial tubes—lastly to the lungs. How important then to give early and prompt attention to a Catarrh! To cure this loathsome disease, correct the system by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which tones it up, cleanses the blood, and heals the diseased glands by a specific influence upon them; and to assist, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche. This is the only way to reach the upper and back cavities where the discharge come from. No danger from this treatment, and it is pleasant to use. The two medicines with instruments are sold by dealers in medecines.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, nay, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to each of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. P. S.

—Says a writer on canaries:—In this way I answer the question, "how I had such luck with the birds?" Simply by allowing the birds to attend affairs, and by letting them understand that their mistress would never harm them. Also by accustoming them to plenty of light and air and company, rather than, as recommended in books, keeping the cage in a dark room, for fear of frightening the birds. Make but just half the fuss directed in bird books over the matter, and you will have, doubtless, better success in raising birds. Never give them sugar, but all the red pepper they will eat. It is the best thing for them. And if your bird feels hoarse at any time put a piece of fat salt pork in the cage and see how the little fellow will enjoy it. Give him flaxseed once in a while, and if he appears dumpy occasionally give a diet of bread and water, with red pepper sprinkled in. Open the cage door, and give your pets freedom of the room; soon they will come at your call, and fly to meet you whenever your voice is heard. I had one who came regularly to my desk as I sat writing each day, and disputed with fluttering wing and open beak my humble right to the inkstand. He would take his bath as I held the cup in my hand and coolly dry himself on my head. Another would fly down or up stairs to me whenever I called him, and many a time, when I have been out, he has welcomed my return by flying down the stairs, and singing at the top of his voice all the while, until at last, perched on my shoulders, he would accompany me to my room.

—A Boston bank sent some business paper to the West for collection, and it was returned protested, with the following response to notary: "Tell 'em I'm busted," a concise if not elegant way of telling a story that has become quite familiar these days.

—Barnum says he could pay all the municipal expenses of Philadelphia, give every poor family a barrel of flour, and lay up half a million, if all the drink money spent in that city in one year were paid over to him.

—Why is a store that don't advertise like Enoch Arden? Because it sees no law from day to day."

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For the last twelve years passthave been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, but thought I took my last dose, I thy several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they are worth ten dollars for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up my small articles from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer out my days in pain. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to Boston last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well now, and feel as well as ever. My Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will last. I have been entirely cured from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine for Kidney Complaint, but would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be indeed to pay for them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health and Strength at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the hurrying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. The course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great labors to be performed, and important reforms to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the Slatc schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will be a year of deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of purposes or conventions—it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving full, fair news it endeavors to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as will lighten the hard times compel private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces of the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it aimed to the people substantially its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

Our result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that large portion themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced the parties to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor to their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the liberal expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

Officer Smith's Case.

Messrs. Editors; When the coroner's jury gave as their verdict that officer Andrew J. Smith was guilty of manslaughter in causing the death of William Canty, you said you were "surprised." The grand jury have recently found a "true bill" against him, and now I (like many others) am "surprised" also,—for I could see nothing in the evidence offered in the coroner's inquest to justify even censure of the officer. With moral suasion a policeman has nothing to do; he represents the law, which is force. The law does not say, "you ought not to do this," but "you shall not do it;" and the policeman is an agent for enforcing the law. We take a man, put on him a uniform or badge to tell good and bad alike what he is, make him swear to do certain duties, and arm him with a club (in many cities with a revolver also) that he may be enabled to overcome any opposition he may meet with in executing his duty; but he is only a man after all, and depends for his efficiency on the moral support of the public, whose will (as expressed in the law) he is appointed to carry out. Smith had Canty in custody; the prisoner resisted the officer, and the latter used his club to enforce his authority. The only question which arises in my mind in connection with this case is, "Was Smith justified in using any force to take his prisoner to the station house?" If he was not, then the appointment of a police force is a ridiculous farce; if he was justified in using any force at all, he was certainly justified in using all the force necessary. If an officer may properly use forcible means to restrain a lawbreaker, it must of course be at the lawbreaker's risk, not at the officer's; and in case the result of the use of such means should be serious, it seems to me the officer should be assumed to have acted properly until the contrary is proved. In this case we have nothing to do with the general characters of the two men, though both I believe were good. Canty is said to have been an industrious, saving man, who employed his vast strength in honest labor and was ordinarily a good citizen; but at the time the unfortunate man lost his life he was not a good citizen, but a menace to every peaceable person he might happen to meet. Smith also is said to be a peaceable man and good citizen; and at the time he struck the blows which resulted in Canty's death he was but carrying out his plain duty as a sworn preserver of the public peace, and until it is plainly shown that he used more force than was necessary to enable him to do that duty he should be held blameless for the results. No evidence was adduced on the inquest to show that he struck a blow in anger, or after the prisoner's resistance ceased,—that he used any more force than he had to do to maintain his authority; and as a man who obeys the law, and expects to be protected at all times and in all cases by the police, and at all hazards to their lives if need be, I maintain that the blows he struck were properly at the peril of the man who was breaking the law and not at the peril of the officer who was enforcing it. Looking at this matter as I do,—and as I believe a large majority of law-observing citizens do also,—I can but wonder that the city government seems to be leaving its servant, officer Smith, unsupported, instead of taking charge of his defence and maintaining his blamelessness until the contrary has been incontestibly proved. P.

Jottings.

The regular Monday morning levee was held at the Police Court Room before Judge Page. The first on the list was Mary Lynch, for being drunk; she pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the County House at Brentwood for thirty days, and to pay costs. Barney Caglan, Charles Smith John Gorman, George Nixon and John Booker, pleaded guilty to the charge of being professional tramps and beggars, and were sentenced to the County Farm for sixty days and to pay costs, amounting to $6.90 each.

The stevedores who struck on Friday for their old pay, thirty cents per ton for hoisting coal, have consented to resume work at twenty-five cents.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association will be held at their hall on Friday evening, 21st inst., for the election of officers and other important business. There should be interest enough in this valuable institution to revive and sustain the debates formerly so useful to the participants at least, in the early days of the P. M. L. A., when Dr. Fuller, C. C. Harvey, Mr. Barnabee, and others, so well sustained the same.

The first specimens of the May flower, so called—trailing arbutus—that we have seen, were gathered at Newington on Friday.

The Easter floral decorations at the Unitarian and Episcopal Churches, on Sunday last, were quite extensive and elaborate; and at the Catholic Church also very neat and tasteful, though less profuse. The music at each was appropriate and well rendered; and the vesper service at the Unitarian, especially, was thronged, to listen to the interesting exercises of song, praise and prayer.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will take place this, (Tuesday) evening. Subjects of public interest will be presented, and the attendance of every member is desired.

The funeral services of Mr. Josiah Jenness, at the Atlantic House in Rye, on Friday afternoon, were largely attended by the townsmen and friends of the deceased. Rev. Mr. Goss of this city, and Rev. Mr. Aldrich of Rye, officiated; and the body was conveyed to the old family burial ground at Breakfast Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Jenness had lived together as husband and wife for fifty-four years; and for many years had made their home at the Atlantic and Farragut Houses, with their daughter, Mrs. J. C. Philbrick—and doubtless the devoted care and exertions of the old couple contributed their full share to the prosperity and success of this popular hostelry—in the capacity of purchaser of supplies for which, Mr. Jenness was well and favorably known to our traders for many years.

A reward of $250 is offered for the conviction and punishment of the objectionable person or persons who set fire to and destroyed the dwelling and outbuildings of Mary P. Hodgdon, at Newington, on the night of April 1st. See advertisement.

Rockingham County.

The new House of Correction at the County Farm, in Brentwood, is just completed; and is a neat and substantial building, mostly of brick and iron, and heated by steam pipes from the boiler house which does all the heating, etc., for the institution.

The largest number of inmates at the Farm at any one time during the winter has been 320; present number about 245; average for the year about 220—all which figures are considerably larger than ever before, and of course the cost of their support must increase in proportion.

The Superintendent of the Farm, Mr. Pollard, has commenced to lay the stone foundation for the new extension of the Insane Asylum,—a much-needed improvement.

The great increase in the number and cost of County paupers, and the unexpectedly heavy expenses of the Courts during the year, taken with the adjustment of several old disputed claims against the County, which aggregated quite an amount from the treasury—it would seem must render an increase of the County debt inevitable, in spite of the heavy County taxes, and notwithstanding the best efforts of the Commissioners to the contrary.

But with the constant increase of cost and accommodations at the County Farm, the pauper expenses of all the towns ought to grow smaller by degrees and beautifully less; and so they do, doubtless, for most of the towns, which have sold their town farms, as no longer needed or useful; but Portsmouth, although not keeping more than three or four town paupers there, yet retains and maintains its extensive and expensive farm, at nearly as much cost as formerly when there were numerous aged and other paupers not provided for by the County. It is becoming a question, whether the income of this rich and productive farm—if it is to be retained at all,—ought not to be sufficient, with good management, to support the very few paupers for which the city is liable.

U. S. Centennial Commission.

International Exhibition, 1876, Philadelphia, Historical Department.

The Historical Department of the International Exhibition of 1876 has been established, in order to commemorate and illustrate the pre-revolutionary history of the country.

Such historical review, appealing objectively to the eye, is an essential element in the proper celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the National Independence.

A portion of the Art Building has been set apart to mark and illustrate the colonial epochs. Distinct compartments will be allotted to the thirteen original States; while "the Mother Country" will also assume her appropriate position.

The walls will be devoted to historical paintings of events and to portraits of individuals, while cases of plate-glass will be provided for the reception of such objects of interest as serve to give reality to the portraiture. In order to perfect the plan, it is indispensable that every epoch in the progress of each colony, from its first settlement to its assumption of independence, should be chronologically presented.

Historical, Antiquarian and Professional Societies, Collegiate Institutions and Public Libraries are cordially invited to collate and transmit a list of the local events which they possess the materials to illustrate, and a catalogue of such materials.

A. T. GOSHORN,
Director-General.
FRANK M. ETTING,
Chief of Historical Dep't.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7, 1876.

To Col. Frank W. Miller:

DEAR SIR—I enclose a circular of the "Historical Department" with your name inserted as Centennial Historian for New Hampshire. What we desire to have is an objective illustration of the State History during colonial times; pictures of the notables to hang against the walls and objects of use and ornament, associated with the originals of the portraits and illustrating the life of the time, to enclose in glass cases.

It is essential to secure the co-operation of the local societies and of all throughout the State who can secure for us these relics. In each State we desire to have a special correspondent who will stir up the local antiquaries to assist the Department here in fully representing his particular State.

The cost of transportation here and return to the owners at the close of the Exhibition will be defrayed in all cases by the Department, but a list of the articles to be sent should be forwarded at an early day.

Very respectfully,
FRANK M. ETTING,
Chief of Department.

Parties interested in the cause, as stated, and willing to contribute portraits or other historical articles to the Exhibition, are invited to communicate at once with Frank W. Miller, Portsmouth, Charles H. Bell, Exeter, B. F. Prescott, Concord, or Frank M. Etting, Philadelphia; and every citizen is urged to do what they can to render the display of the New Hampshire Department worthy the history of the old Granite State.

[Newspapers in New Hampshire willing to promote the above object, are requested to publish this article.]

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most successful, medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding tonic, corrective and preventive, are blended some of the most actively invigorating, alterative and blood depurating elements in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known—old rye whiskey. Is it any wonder that easy digestion, regular evacuations, a natural flow of bile, purity of the blood, and cheerfulness of mind, should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are most harmoniously combined and act in perfect union. The faith felt by the medical profession in the restorative efficacy of this medicine, and its power to nullify the influence of malaria, is expressed over the signatures of many eminent physicians, and their expressions of confidence are fully ratified by the people and press.

Use Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It never fails to cure.

Coughs and Colds.—Those who are suffering from Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, &c., should try "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more beneficial and appropriate—this can only be done by the fragrant "SOZODONT." For cleansing, beautifying and preserving the teeth, sweetening and purifying the breath it has no equal.

Spalding's Glue is up to the sticking point.

☞ That yellow tinge of the complexion is a sure indication of bile in the blood. It is effectually removed by using GILBERT'S EXCELSIOR LIVER LOZENGES.

Income from premiums and interest	20,400,938 66
Receipts for interest over death claims and endowments due and not due, or paid in advance in 1875	223,914 88

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9842 policies, insuring nearly $33,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $30,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 20 years, and the CASH Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for Insurance as this.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and on the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

A VOYAGE ON AN ICE-CAKE.

You boys imagine that going to sea is a very nice thing. You sit with your legs dangling off the wharf warm afternoons and smell the pineapples and oranges, and watch the vessels coming up the harbor with sails spread, and think there is no life like a sailor's. It's natural enough, too. I used to have the same feelings. I fancied when I was a boy that when vessels left the harbor they went where they liked, sailing along the coast and among the islands, and that the sailors could go ashore when they pleased, and were happy as happy could be. Boys have queer notions. They never think of the danger and suffering and cruelty on board a ship, of which any sailor, if he chooses, can tell them. I can remember just how things used to look to me in those days. The water seemed so smooth and pleasant; just as if it were made to sail on. I used to play around the wharves and get into the boats and imagine myself quite a sailor. I've had my day since then on ship-board, and could tell you stories that would cure you of wanting to go to sea, if boys could ever be cured by stories. But they can't, and perhaps the best way is, after all, to let everybody learn by experience.

I've never told you about my first voyage. It was a short one and came very near being my last. I was only twelve years old then, and it is nigh forty years ago but I remember it as well as if it were this forenoon.

It was in the Spring of the year, and Yarmouth harbor had been frozen over, for the winter had been colder than usual. There had been a week of warm weather, with a slight rain, and the ice had got considerably broken. Every tide great cakes were carried down the channel and out to sea. One afternoon your father, who was two years younger, started with me to see the breakup in the upper harbor. On the way we went past the widow Wilson's, and little Benny was playing in the yard with his sled. When he found out where we were going, he was wild to go with us. He did not have to ask leave, as his mother was away; so he followed us along in great glee, dragging his sled with him, although the ground was nearly bare. When we got to the head of the harbor, the tide was just beginning to ebb, and the ice was in motion. We stood on one of the wharves for a long time watching the great blocks heaving and crushing and sailing slowly along toward the channel, and so out to sea. About sunset it began to rain, and the wind came up. It was a long distance home round the bend of the harbor, though our house was in plain view. If it had only been clear water, and we had had our boat, it would have taken but a short time to reach our wharf.

"We might get on the ice," said your father.

The idea had never struck me. I noticed that every block struck the shore just below our house, and then eddied off into the channel again. It would be capital. We could have such a nice ride, and have it to tell of afterward. There was a ladder reaching down the side of the wharf, and we climbed down and stood on a timber waiting for a big piece. Pretty soon one came. The end just touched the wharf and swung round sideways, where we were, just as if it had been done on purpose, and we jumped on. It was about twenty feet long, and a little more than half as wide, and just in the middle was a stout pole, standing up like a mast, which had been frozen in. It seemed almost like a ship, and we played we were sailors, and shouted and sang, and had a splendid time. We didn't get along as fast as we had thought, however, and before we reached the place where we intended to land, it was dark, and the rain was falling in torrents. We could just see the shore, and the lights, as they began to come out in the village; and we could see, too, that for two or three rods from the shore, the water was filled with small pieces of ice—too small to bear our weight, yet large enough to prevent our raft from coming close in. For a minute or two we remained stationary, and we were in hopes that your grandfather would see us and bring something to help us ashore. Then the huge cake began to drift again. We shouted, but no answer came back. Then your father and Benny began crying; but, although I was afraid we should be carried out to sea, I tried to keep my heart up. I was in hopes we could make them hear at the cove, or that the lighthouse keeper at the Cape might see us. I did not realize the full danger we were in. I knew it was rough off the Cape, and I knew, too, the ice might break; but I had such strong faith that we should be rescued that it didn't affect me much.

When we got opposite the light we could see the keeper trimming the lamp. He heard us and shouted back. We were not a dozen rods apart. I called out our names, and begged him to help us. He tried to launch his boat, but the ice was piled in heaps by the landing, and all his endeavors were in vain. Then he shouted that he would raise an alarm and send boats; but I knew that he had four long, long miles to go on foot before that could be done, and by that time we might be out of sight. They could never find us in the darkness, and the waves would wash us off the moment we got into the open bay. I did not dare to give way before the little boys, but I felt sure that we should never see home again.

The water began to grow rougher, and it was not long before we had to cling to the pole to keep on the ice. We could not see each other plainly, it was so dark, and the water broke over us every moment. The sound of the fog bell off the Cape grew fainter and at last ceased altogether. Then I knew we were lost. Your father was a brave little fellow—braver and better than I. After he had been still a long while he began saying the Lord's prayer aloud. He told afterward that he wasn't a bit afraid after that. He knew that God would save us. But poor little Benny Wilson! Every sob went to my heart like a knife. I knew his mother would be well nigh distracted when she found out that he was gone. He sat on his sled, with one hand tight hold of mine, and the other clinging to the pole. He was only six years old, and a weakly little chap, at that. I have wondered many times since then how he lived through that night.

After a while it stopped raining and lightened up so that we could see a little, but it was worse than the darkness. I did not dare to look at the water—it was enough to feel it. So I clung to little Benny, who had cried himself to sleep, and shut my eyes. Your father sat still grasping the pole with both hands, but never speaking. The strangest thing was that we were not washed off. Every wave that came, I felt sure that we were gone; but the ice seemed to lift up with it, and though we were constantly drenched, we managed to keep our places. It seemed as if the night would never go. I tried to make believe I was dreaming, and that I was at home abed in my little room; and for a minute it would seem true. Then a wave would come, or little Benny would cry out, and the dreadful reality would come back to me.

Morning came at last, and our courage rose with the sun. I stood up and took a survey, but there was a thick fog, and I could see neither land nor vessel. I knew they would send out boats from Yarmouth, and I had been praying that they might find us. Once I fancied I heard people calling, and I shouted and listened till I was completely exhausted. Then I gave up and shrank down again. What with the cold and fright, and hunger, little Benny had fallen into a sort of stupor. I had tied one end of my woollen comforter around his waist, and the other to the pole to keep him from rolling off, for the water was growing rougher, and I was afraid I might let go of him. The fog thickened very fast, and at last we could hardly more than see the end of our raft. All at once your father started up, and almost shouted—

"There's a vessel coming! Hark!"

My heart beat so loud that at first I could hear nothing else. Then, a moment after, the creaking of blocks and the sound of voices came through the fog, seemingly within a few yards. I never thought I could shout as loud as I did the next second. An answer came back so near that it almost startled me. They thought, we found afterward, that they were running into another vessel.

"We're lost!" I cried out. "We are on a cake of ice—three boys!"

"Great heavens!" we heard the captain say. Then came the order, "Down with the boats!"

They struck the water in nearly the same minute the order was given, and then we heard the stroke of oars.

"Where away?" came the voice again.

"Here!" we both shouted.

A minute after we saw the dark side of the boat as she broke through the fog and slid alongside the ice. I shall never forget the astonishment of the men when they got sight of us, nor their exclamations of wonder and sympathy as they lifted us into the boat and pushed for the vessel, which was not a dozen lengths away. The captain was a rough looking sort of man and I was a little afraid of him, but when he heard our story, the tears ran down his cheeks like rain.

"Go down into the cabin and get something to eat, and dry your clothes," he said; and turning to the mate, who had gone aft, he cried, "Put her away for Yarmouth."

The owner was on board, and was standing by.

"That won't do," said he. "The boys are safe, and you can send them back from Boston," for it seems the vessel was bound to that port.

The captain's eyes flashed as he answered: "You're the owner here, but I'm the captain. This schooner goes into Yarmouth Harbor to-night if she sinks at the wharf. I've got two youngsters down on the Cape about the size of them boys, and I'm goin' to do just what I'd want anybody else to do if they could change places."

"You know what the consequences will be."

"No, I don't. And it wouldn't make any difference if I did. I'm able to take 'em, and, moreover, I'm willing. Head her no'th by east."

It would take up too much time to tell you how they all tried to make us comfortable. We were put into bunks while our clothes were drying, having had a hearty meal first, and it was not long before we were asleep. When I awoke I found the captain standing by me.

"Jump up, my lad," said he, "you're almost home. We're off the Cape now, and by five o'clock you'll be in your father's house."

Your father and Benny were all dressed and were wild with delight.

"I'm going to see my mother! I'm going to see my mother!" Benny kept saying, as one of the sailors was buttoning his jacket and lacing up his shoes.

We were scrambled on deck. It seemed such a time getting from Bunker's Island up to the channel. Long before we got to the wharf, people had espied us through their glasses and the word had spread. It seemed as if half the town was at the wharf, and you may be sure your grandmother and Benny's mother were not in the rear.

You can imagine the rest as well as I could tell it. It's a part of the story I always skip. I will only say that Captain Crowell, who brought us home, and who was discharged at Boston, was offered the command of one of the finest brigs that ever sailed out of Yarmouth, and went down in her in a storm off the West Indies, ten years afterward.

News and Notes.

Towboat Dictator ran into a bridge at Hannibal, Mo., on Monday; the steamer sank and nine men were drowned.

Fifteen tramps, discovered in an empty grain car of a westward bound train on the Erie Railroad at Lackawaxen, Pa., were ejected. One of them gave the information that they were on their way to a Grand Convention of the Tramp Society, and stated that over two hundred delegates had passed over the road the day and night previous.

Official dispatches from England, Saturday, are conclusive that the British government has declined giving up Winslow for the present, the demand being made that, unlike Lawrence, he must be tried only for the crime on which he may be surrendered. As Winslow is to be tried in the State Court in Massachusetts, if tried at all, it is not quite clear that the government can give such assurance, even if it were exactly the proper thing to do so. There is doubtless some other reason than this pretence, why Great Britain rejects a plain treaty obligation.

A new schedule has been made by Admiral Rowan in the Brooklyn Navy Yard in consequence of orders from Washington, by which the wages of mechanics are cut down fifty cents a day, and those of laborers twelve cents.

Those who are best informed as to the affairs of the District Ring are strongly of the opinion that an indictment will be found against Boss Shepherd for complicity in the safe burglary conspiracy.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Times says: Yesterday the President summoned Babcock to the White House. The ex-Private Secretary came, accompanied by his wife, and the two had a long interview with the President. Babcock told his story substantially as he had testified before the Committee, but the President listened with ill-concealed distrust and incredulity. His manner toward Babcock was extremely cold and formal. Not even the presence of Mrs. Babcock, who has always been an object of almost paternal affection to the President, could soften his manner or touch his heart. Babcock went away with a white face and despairing eyes. It was a sign of the desperation of his case when he brought this sweet-faced, soft-voiced little woman with him, to add the mute pleadings of her beauty and her anguish to his own despairing explanations and supplications. There was something in the scene that was peculiarly dramatic.

Mrs. Rhoda Dow died in Seabrook, Sunday. She was in her 94th year, and the oldest resident in the place.

A mad dog bit several people and a number of dogs, in Worcester on Sunday. He was killed.

An unoccupied dwelling at Lake Village, owned by Mary Rollins, was burned Monday night. Loss $400; no insurance.

About a month since Daniel McCruly, of Tiffin, Ohio, moved to Kansas, 900 miles distant, taking a shepherd dog with him. The day after his arrival the dog disappeared. On Wednesday he turned up at Tiffin, well though foot-sore, having evidently walked the whole distance.

Messrs. Blaine and Randolph Tucker had a lively debate in the House on Monday, the latter declaring that the State of Virginia has a right to search the mails and dictate to a citizen what he may receive. A motion to bring recusant witness Kilbourne before the House was the prime cause of the debate. On it, the democrats were equally divided, 73 voting for it and 73 against. The motion was adopted, 165 to 75. It is said the judiciary committee, whose report was voted down on this occasion, is likely to be discharged by vote of the House.

The body of an unknown man was found floating in the Merrimack river on Saturday afternoon at Hooksett. The flesh was nearly all gone from the head and arms, one hand having been torn away, and some parts of the body were missing. The only clothing was an old checked woolen shirt, partially covering the chest, boots upon the feet and the remnants of a pair of pants Nothing on the body or from its appearance could be recognized, as the flesh of the face was mostly gone, also several of the teeth. The authorities deemed an inquest unnecessary, and the body was buried. The body had been in the water a long time. Who the unfortunate man was is but a matter of conjecture, as no one is known to be missing in the locality for more than a year. Something more than a year ago an Englishman, a mule spinner at Suncook, was reported as drowned at Hooksett, but the river was dragged and no body found, from which fact some think this may be his body, although it seems incredible that it should have so long remained concealed.

—"My boy, tell us what you know about 'rattan?'" said the committeeman. "It is sometimes called the 'Calamus Rottang;' comes from Penang, Samarang, and Padang, and is used by the master in this school too dang often."

—The New York Herald keeps calling for cheap cabs, as if it supposes that we are living in a cab age.—St. Louis Times.

—"What's going on?" said a well-known bore to Douglas Jerrold. "I am," was the reply, and on he went.

—Mr. Buckle states that human nature has changed very little in the last three thousand years, but we do not remember any record of a Roman Senator trying to account to his wife for a light deposit of pearl powder on the left shoulder of his toga on the ground that he had been playing checkers in a grist mill.—Norwich Bulletin.

—A Cincinnatian, who had purchased an oil painting at a private sale, called in an artist to consult him as to how he should hang it. The artist looked at it long and curiously: and then said: "I wouldn't hang it, if I were you." "Wouldn't hang it? Why not?" "Because the sentiment of the age is rather against capital punishment. I would commute its sentence to solitary imprisonment for life!"

PULMOCINE.

Catarrh is a common disease.—so common that sniffing, spitting, and blowing of the nose, meet us at every turn on the street. Your foot slips in these nasty discharges on the sidewalk and in the public conveyance; and its disagreeable odor, contaminating the breath of the afflicted, renders them offensive to their associates. There is the highest medical authority for stating that with fully one-half, if not two-thirds, of those afflicted with Consumption of the Lungs, the disease commences as Catarrh in the nose or head, the next step being to the throat and bronchial tubes—lastly to the lungs. How important then to give early and prompt attention to a Catarrh? To cure this loathsome disease, correct the system by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which tones it up, cleanses the blood, and heals the diseased glands by a specific influence upon them; and to assist, use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche. This is the only way to reach the upper and back cavities where the discharge come from. No danger from this treatment, and it is pleasant to use. The two medicines with instruments are sold by dealers in medecines.

TO MY PATIENTS!

DR. ALBION M. DUDLEY,

NOW OF SALEM, MASS.,

TO SUCCEED ME MARCH 13th,

Will be fully entitled to the respect and confidence of the citizens of Portsmouth. I can unreservedly recommend him, not only as a gentleman in the true meaning of the term, but as a well read, skillful and conscientious

Dental Practitioner.

DR. DUDLEY already has a fine and rapidly increasing practice in Salem, and consents to come here on trial for a year, (to be in Portsmouth three days of each week, and three days in Salem), at my earnest solicitation, backed by the free gift of my practice.

I could have sold my practice with a recommendation, for a large sum, but feeling the kindness and confidence with which I have been treated, I have chosen, say, felt it impossible to do otherwise than sink private consideration of profit for the good of my patients.

If DR. DUDLEY is appreciated at his true worth by the people of Portsmouth, he can, through the confidence extended to him, be made to relinquish his practice in Salem, and settle here permanently. That such may be the result of his year of trial here is the devout wish of his friend and the friend of Portsmouth. A. P. STEVENS.

N. B.—I shall take great pleasure in presenting Dr. D. to such of my patients as my limited time here will permit, and also to make engagements for him with any who may wish suggestion or advice from me. A. F. S.

The NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE will be sent free to any address until after the PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION on the receipt of one dollar in advance.

Bring in Your Votes.

Following the example of the Keene Sentinel, we invite our republican readers in New Hampshire to send in to this office their votes of preference for a Presidential candidate, and the voters' names. On the 1st day of May we will announce the result.

Jottings.

Mrs. Charles A. Woods, the woman who was carried to the pest house on Sunday, sick with small-pox, died on Tuesday afternoon and was buried the same night.

At the annual meeting of St. John's Parish, Monday, the following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: Wardens, John Christie, Christopher C. Jackson; Vestrymen, Lyman D. Spalding, William F. Parrot, Albert R. Hatch, John R. Reding, A. E. Watson, Washington Freeman, Robert C. Peirce, Robert C. Jarvis; Treasurer, John R. Reding; Clerk, Francis M. Hatch; Auditors, James P. Parrott, Robert C. Peirce. Mr. E. A. Tilton has been engaged as organist. The rector proposes to teach a class of boys as choristers. Judging by the music of the class on Sunday afternoon after but few rehearsals, this measure will be a most popular one.

Mr. Edward A. Joy, for several years a resident of this city, and one of the firm of Joy & Tilton, died of consumption on Monday at Portland, to which city he removed two years ago to engage in the sewing-machine business there. Mr. Joy was a hearty, robust man, one of the last persons who would have been deemed subject to the fell disease which attacked him. His first difficulty arose from an abscess which formed on the lungs and finally caused his death. He was a genial and faithful friend whose every acquaintance had a kindly respect for him. His decease will be a heavy blow to his family and relatives.

The Berger Family and Sol Smith Russell Concert Troupe is meeting with good success. The troupe will be in Maine during the early part of May, extending their tour into Canada. They are to be in Montreal the week commencing May 15, and will probably bring their season to a close on or about May 10. This company will then have made a season of forty-two weeks, and travelled in sixteen different States. Their season has been an exceptionally profitable one, the season's profits footing up something over $20,000. The company will pass their vacation at their home in Jackson, Mich., where they will re-organize for their next tour, which will commence on August 7. During the early part of the season they will perform in the Western States, extending their visits as far as California and Oregon, but will return during the winter and probably revisit Boston and the New England cities. Mr. Sol Smith Russell remains with the company next season and the troupe will be materially strengthened by the addition of other talent.

The paper collar trade has grown to immense proportions in the last ten years, and the Warwick and Elmwood collars led the list last year with sales of twenty-five millions. These goods are known almost universally, and sell on their own merits. Dealers and consumers are referred to the card of Emerson Leland & Co., Boston, in our paper to-day. They are sole agents for this and other desirable neck wear, for New England, and fill all orders promptly.

Shortly after noon of Tuesday, fire was discovered on the roof of the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad depot. An alarm was sounded by a locomotive whistle, the firemen rallied two quickly, and the building was saved, the three steamers being located in the school-house yard on Hanover street, and throwing immense volumes of water from the reservoir. It is thought the fire caught from the sparks from a locomotive.

Rev. James Noyes is to succeed Rev. N. M. Bailey as pastor of the Methodist church in this city.

The Piscataqua Association of Congregational Ministers held a quarterly meeting in this city on Tuesday. A bountiful collation was provided at the chapel on Middle street by the ladies of the North Parish.

The Woman's Temperance League, finding the Young People's Union Rooms too small for their increasing numbers, are in search of larger accommodations.

Mr. Thomas J. Parsons, of Rye, came to this city at half-past ten o'clock, Tuesday forenoon, with a horse and wagon, and before 11 o'clock the team was stolen. Officer "Curt." Marden was sent out to hunt it up, and at about three o'clock found it in Exeter, in possession of William Hennessey, who had offered the team for sale on the road.

Political.

The conviction is growing upon the democratic journals that Mr. Bristow is a weak, incompetent man. It is so sad.

The Buffalo Blaine Club held a banquet last Thursday evening, and decided to send a delegation of 100 men to the Cincinnati Convention. The membership is now said to number 400.

The official vote of Merrimac county elects Mr. James F. Langmaid for county treasurer by 87 majority. He is the father of Josie Langmaid.

Were Bristow to die, what an aching void there would be in Nashua!

The republican convention for the first (Maine) district for the choice of delegates to the Cincinnati convention will meet at Saco, April 25th.

Newburyport elected, Monday, Charles T. Smith, republican, Alderman for Ward Two, ever Isaac Poor, democrat, by 79 majority.

The sentiment among the leading members of the democratic party in Maine is said to be strongly in favor of Hon Wm. P. Haines, of Biddeford, as the gubernatorial candidate.

As a means of preserving your character, it is good to be in the second rank of Presidential candidates.

"Just here is Bristow's strong point. His father was an old-time Kentucky abolitionist, and the son was brought up on such political diet that constituted him a born republican when that party was organized. He has never been a democrat, therefore cannot Johnsonize, and so far as Tylerizing is concerned his principles are too well established to admit of his being swayed therefrom by politicans of any school. Four of the best of his school years, when the character of the man was being formed, were spent in the North—at college in Washington county, Pennsylvania—and he has proved, in the field and in the Cabinet, that he is a man of incorruptible integrity and unquestioned capacity."

Training Prize Fighters.

Howell Gardner, the reformed prize fighter, in a lecture tells how a man is trained for the ring as follows:

When a man is matched to fight, the first thing he is put under medical treatment and his system is got into good order. Then after that a rigid system of diet is prescribed for him, in which mutton is a principal feature, and all he eats is with the view of building up good, solid, healthy muscle for him. Then they make him wear a pair of shoes weighing about three pounds—the heavier the better for him—to exercise in. They get him up early in the morning, give him a walk of about three miles as hard as he can go and back. They then fetch him in and go at him with the gloves and spar him as long as they can stand; and then they put him at a swinging bag of sawdust or tan, and let him go at that as hard as he can bang, striking it and dodging it, and following it up as it swings from him, and so bringing into constant active play every muscle of the body. Then they strip him and rub him with coarse towels, rub him as hard as they can, until every drop of perspiration has been rubbed off, and he's perfectly dry and in a healthy glow. Then he lays off and rests about an hour, after which he eats his breakfast. For breakfast he will have a cup of tea, a good beefsteak, not raw, but cooked rare, just so that the blood will follow the knife.

Sometimes they will give him a glass of good ale—Scotch ale—poured right on top of the steak. But they never let him use any coffee, nor any tobacco, and no liquor, except it may be a glass of ale once in a while. But especially no coffee and no tobacco. Why, a good trainer will not even let his man sit in a room or car where other people are smoking. After breakfast he'll take a walk around, easy at first, and after a while they will get him to running, and jumping forward and backward; and he will take the dumb bells—small, light ones—and practice hitting with them. For this business a man has to hit straight out from the shoulder, and as soon as his arms begin to drop he has to stop. When he comes in again he is once more rubbed down with coarse towels; and so they go on with him, exercising and feeding him on mutton and beef, rubbing him down often, keeping sometimes two or even three men at work on him, one taking hold when another is tired out, until, when he is ready to go into the ring, there is not an ounce of superfluous fat or flesh on him, the blood rises almost to the surface of the skin, he has an eye like a hawk, and the elasticity of a mountain goat, and from head to foot he's as fine and smooth as silk. That's a man in perfect physical training.

Of course such work reduces a man's weight, but in good hands he doesn't lose anything that he is not better without. My brother has been worked down from 200 pounds to 150 through such exercises. I had almost omitted to say that another good thing in training is going to bed early. The man who is in training must retire at eight or nine o'clock in the evening. So the result is achieved of bringing a man, by the time he is ready to enter the ring, into as near the condition of a perfect piece of machinery as is possible. And all for the brutal purpose of being hammered or hammering somebody else out of the semblance of manhood.

—An Indianapolis father was awakened by what he thought was a burglar. He emptied all the chambers of his six-shooter at the intruder, and when the noise of the firing ceased, he heard a well-known voice quietly ask, "Wazzer mazzer, fazzer; wazzer doin' ?"

—Somebody gave Paddy McGrath a pickled egg. Paddy bit it in two, opened his mouth, made a face and said: "He mo sowl, I'll go before ony Jedge or jury in the wurreld an' take me oath that the bin that led that egg had the dyspipsy or heartburn."

Hints for a Universal Language.

A young man much given to the use of slang of the day called on the prosecuting attorney at San Francisco, and announced that he wanted a warrant for the arrest of a saloon keeper who had assaulted him, and this is the way he made his want known:

"Look a here, I want a warrant for a fellar!"

"What did he do to you?" asked the attorney.

"He fired me out."

"Fired you out!' What do you mean by that?"

"Oh! well, he stood me on my head."

"Do you mean to say that he stood you on your head; how did he do it?"

"He didn't exactly do that, but he elevated me. Kinder raised me and slid me off on my ear."

"What did he do that for?"

"Why, I asked him for a drink, and when I told him to chalk it in his head, and that when I came round again I'd kick it out, he told me to pull down my vest. I told him to comb his hair, and he just then boosted me."

He obtained a warrant for assault and battery.

—Norman M'Leod was once preaching in a district in Ayshire, where the reading of a sermon is regarded as the greatest fault of which the minister can be guilty. When the congregation dispersed, an old woman, overflowing with enthusiasm, addressed her neighbor: "Did ye ever hear anything sae grand? Wasna that a sermon?" But all her expressions of admiration being met by a stolid glance, she shouted, "Speak, woman! wasna that a sermon?" "Oh, ay," replied her friend, sulkily, "but he read it." "Read it?" said the other, with indignant emphasis, "I wadna hae cared if he had whustled it."

A Rare Medicinal Combination.

Perhaps the rarest, certainly the most successful, medicinal combination extant is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In this commanding tonic, corrective and preventive, are blended some of the most actively invigorating, alterative and blood depurating elements in the vegetable kingdom. These are held in solution and powerfully aided by the best diffusive stimulant known—old rye whiskey. Is it any wonder that easy digestion, regular evacuations, a natural flow of bile, purity of the blood, and cheerfulness of mind, should be vigorously promoted by a preparation in which such admirable ingredients are most harmoniously combined and act in perfect union. The faith felt by the medical profession in the restorative efficacy of this medicine, and its power to nullify the influence of malaria, is expressed over the signatures of many eminent physicians, and their expressions of confidence are fully ratified by the people and press.

Use Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It never fails to cure.

Coughs and Colds.—Those who are suffering from Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, &c., should try "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more beneficial and appropriate—this can only be done by the fragrant "Sozodont." For cleansing, beautifying and preserving the teeth, sweetening and purifying the breath it has no equal.

Receipts for interest over death claims and endowments due and not due, or paid in advance in 1875	283,914 89

Notwithstanding the unprecedented depression of business the past year, it has issued 9542 policies, insuring nearly $35,000,000. The old Equitable Society of London was sixty years accumulating $35,000,000. The Mutual Life has accumulated nearly $80,000,000 in thirty-three years. Particular attention is called to the substantial and safe investments of this company. No Premium Notes or other questionable securities received or held.

Insurance in this Company COSTS LESS as its DIVIDENDS are LARGER than those of any other Company.

Dividends declared and paid in cash at the end of first year, and annually thereafter.

Its securities are BETTER—its expenses SMALLER than any other.

Many of its Policies nearly doubled in amount during the past 30 years, and the Cash Dividends in many cases, are more than the Annual Premiums, so that in a few years Policies become self-sustaining. No other Life Company in this country, of the world, has shown such results, or presents such advantages for insurance as this.

DENNIS SHEA,

MANUFACTURER OF

Hydraulic Cement Stone Pipe, And Cement Lined Water Pipe.

26 WATER STREET, ... PORTSMOUTH,
NEAR GAS WORKS, ... DOVER,

Attention is called to the following letter from David Cummings & Co., Shoe Manufacturers of South Berwick, Me.:

SOUTH BERWICK, ME., Nov. 20, 1874.

MR. DENNIS SHEA, Sir: The Water Cement Pipe you laid for us over three years ago has proved perfectly satisfactory to us in every respect, and although a part of it froze up last Winter, we didn't see any injury done. The Pipe was laid by you in a thorough manner, and we believe it to be the Best Water Pipe known, and if we ever have any more small sewer lay the same, and you are to do the job if alive and well. Yours, D. CUMMINGS & CO.

FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

MANCHESTER, N. H.

Organized 1870.

Cash Assets	$429,661.21
Paid-up Capital	250,000.00

This Company was organized by the leading business men of New Hampshire, and emphatically possesses the elements of solidity, success and permanency. The names of the officers and directors are familiar as household words, and a voucher for the prudent management and integrity of the corporation. With one-quarter of a million dollars paid up capital, small risks widely scattered, the safer classes of risks only issued, and the highest ratio of assets to liabilities, ($4.28 for each dollar of liability,) this Company offers the very best indemnity against loss or damage by fire.

Every honest claim has been promptly adjusted and cheerfully paid. No company stands the test of the numerous fires with better credit.
